ADDENDA ET CORRIGENDA 428

PREFACE.

It is now over three years since the death of Dr Cameron, of Brodick, and it is also over half that period since the Editors announced that his literary remains were in course of publication. The first part of these years was fully occupied in sorting the amorphous mass of papers that were left—it being no light task to bring the nameless disjecta membra together, in preparing them for publication, and, further, in procuring the wherewithal to publish them. The character and contents of this first volume will explain the slowness of its publication; the mechanical difficulties of the printing, which have been so successfully and intelligently coped with by the individuals concerned in that work, the extreme care necessary in the proof-reading, and the writing of a biography, may be mentioned side by side with the fact that the Editors are both men busily engaged in the duties of their respective callings. The second volume, in the case of which some of the difficulties of the other do not occur, is expected to appear early in the coming publishing season.

Dr Cameron's papers contained little beyond the raw materials of his studies: the transcript of the Edinburgh and other Gaelic MSS. formed by far the largest portion of them, and only in a few cases were these translated and edited, when such was necessary. In fact, the mind which could interpret these laboriously gathered facts of Gaelic literature, antiquities, and philology, was unfortunately but too little represented in the vast mass of papers that were left. His sense of accuracy in these matters was fatal to much output; for example, when he made a mistake—even a slight literal mistake—in a sheet of transcript, that sheet was at once thrown aside; and a goodly pile of the papers was composed of such “broken fragments.” Nor was he always satisfied with one transcription. Several of the poems in the Dean of Lismore's Book were transcribed over and over again, or they were read over and corrections or suggestions were entered on a transcription already made. These peculiarities have been retained in our issue of the poems from that book ; as Dr Cameron himself had not decided on—or, if he did, had not indicated—the reading which he preferred, we felt compelled to give his text as it stood, so far as this was possible in print.

We shall now briefly indicate all that Dr Cameron's papers contained. First, there were the contents of the present volume, save the last hundred pages, all more or less bearing on Ossianic poetry. He had further transcribed other Ossianic collections, which are, however, in print. Campbell's Leabhar Na Féinne is not an accurate book considered literatim, and Dr Cameron was impelled to transcribe one or two of his collections. In this way, he transcribed Fletcher's Collection (2500 lines), Macpherson's Staffa Collection, and the late M'Donald of Ferintosh's Collection. The latter he published in full in the 13th Volume of the Transactions of the Gaelic Society of Inverness. Jerome Stone's Collection he also transcribed, but this will be found under Professor Mackinnon's careful editing in the 14th Volume of the same Society's Transactions. A great part of M'Nicol's Collection—1063 lines—is also among his papers. Further, he wrote out a full copy of Ewen Macleachlan's transcript of the Dean of Lismore's Book ; and there are many minor poems and pieces that need not be detailed which he transcribed from their original sources. Besides this, there were the contents of the second volume, of which we shall speak presently.

The present work may be called a complete corpus of Ossianic poetry, for it contains at least one version of almost all the ballads in Campbell's Leabhar Na Féinne, besides having some poems peculiar to itself. In addition to pure Ossianic materials, there are several other poems from the Dean of Lismore's Book, while the Edinburgh MS. XLVIII. is printed nearly, and MS. LXII. altogether, in full. All the Ossianic poetry in the Dean's Book is given in this volume. The Book was published, though not in full, by Dr Macleachlan in 1862. Of this really wonderful piece of pioneer work, Dr Cameron had, however, a mean opinion, which he did not even shrink from putting into print, for in a note at page 175 of his Scottish Celtic Review, he says:—"The transcript of the Dean of Lismore's version of this ballad now published is free of many of the inaccuracies of previous transcripts." As will be seen, Dr Cameron has left modern versions of a few of these ballads of the Dean's, and translations of four of them into English. Of the 54 pieces here produced, only 6 are printed for the first time; these will be found from page 106 to the end. The rest are in Dr Maclauchlan's edition. A few poems transcribed from various Edinburgh MSS. are thereafter printed, which were no doubt intended to elucidate the darkness of the Dean's text. In this way, we meet with two excellent versions of the ballad of the "Heads," which tells of the revenge taken by Conall Cernach for Cuchulinn's death.

The Edinburgh Gaelic MS. XLVIII., which comes next, is, like the Dean's Book, in the Advocates' Library. It is a paper manuscript of the 17th century, written by one of the M'Vurieh's, the hereditary bards of Clanranald. Although it contains only two Ossianic poems, it was felt that its place was in the first volume, especially as it contains a version of the really beautiful poem beginning, "Se la gus an de," the Dean's, "Sai la guss in dei." This important MS. was never published before; nor was MS. LXII., which follows it. This MS. belongs to the last century, and is in various writings. It forms one of Turner's collection of MSS., and its contents are sufficiently diversified—proverbs, English and Gaelic poems, an epitaph and a recipe, and two or three Ossianic ballads. Then follows the Rev. Alexander Campbell's (Skye) Collection of Ossianic ballads made about the year 1797. It is here printed for the first time, for Campbell of Islay did not get it in time for his Leabhar Na Féinne. Its intrinsic value is not great, but it is interesting as showing how Macphersonic poetry was manufactured last century in the fierce fight over the authenticity of "Ossian." Then there follows a series of highly important collections of Ossianic poetry never before published, and indeed regarded by Campbell of Islay as entirely lost. One of the best and most accurate collections ever sent to the Highland Society of Scotland at the beginning of the century was Peter Macfarlane's Collection, which is here printed from the copy in the Maclagan MSS. Thereafter come Ossianic ballads from the Maclagan MSS. Mr Maclagan was minister of Blair-Athole, and died in 1805. His Collection, sent to the Highland Society, has been lost, but the materials from which he worked it were kept in his family, who kindly lent them to be utilised here, to make good the loss of the original. Mr Maclagan gave several of his collected ballads to Macpherson when he was on his tour of collection for his "Ossian;" Macpherson's letters to Maclagan are published in the Highland Society's Report, and in them he acknowledges and criticises the two ballads of Duan a' Ghairbh and Teanntachd Mhor na Féinne, both of which he distantly made use of for his "Fingal." The Collection made by the Rev. Mr Sage of Kildonan is important merely as being a Sutherland recension of the general stock of ballads. It is published from one of Dr Cameron's own MS. Collections—an MS. which would appear to have belonged once to Dr Stewart of Luss. It is a copy of the original Sage Collection, and the transcriber here, and in the other transcribed collections, makes editorial remarks and suggestions, which are all reproduced. Dr Cameron published Mr Sage's "Muireartach" in the Scottish Celtic Review for 1885. Sir George Mackenzie of Coul also transmitted a Collection of Ossianic ballads to the Highland Society, and the original cannot be found. Fortunately the loss can now be repaired from the copy in the MS. above mentioned as containing the Sage Collection. The importance of this Collection consists in the ballad descriptive of Cuchulinn's Chariot, of which only one other version really exists. The Maclagan, Sage, and Mackenzie Collections were made much use of by Dr Donald Smith in that extraordinary tour de force known as Appendix XV. to the Highland Society's Report, where he reproduces Gaelic for much of Macpherson's English "Fingal," from lines scattered through divers ballads, torn from their context and impressed into quite other surroundings. A comparison between the ballads here produced and his work will not tend to lessen our admiration for his ingenuity, though it may not heighten our regard for the honesty of the whole performance. Our volume ends with corrections on Campbell's Leabhar na Féinne, from Dr Cameron's transcript of the McNicol MSS.

The Second Volume will be of a more diversified character than the present, for texts and transcripts will be supplemented by literature and philology. The Fernaig MS. will hold the first place; this is a collection of original and other songs made by Duncan Macrae in Kintail at the end of the 17th century—just two hundred years ago. It was only lately discovered, and has not been printed before. Next to the Dean of Lismore's Book, it is the most important document we possess in the history of Scottish Gaelic; it is, like the Dean's work, written phonetically and in native Gaelic. Then will come an important collection of poetry made by Turner at the beginning of the century, and preserved in the Advocates' Library, where it is marked XIV. Dr Cameron himself thought very highly of this collection, and it will now for the first time see the light. The story of Deirdre will also be given, as it appears in the Edinburgh MS. LVI., belonging to the 17th or 18th century; this is the fullest form of the story. The account in the famous Glenmasain MS. will also be given. A translation into English will accompany the story. The early history of the Macdonalds will be given from the Clanranald manuscript, written by M'Vurich, the seanachie, towards the end of the 17th century. Proverbs not appearing in Sheriff Nicolson's book, and a collection of Dr Cameron's translation of some English hymns and poems will follow. Then some essays and papers will come, dealing with topography (two papers), Gaelic books and Gaelic speech (two papers, one in Gaelic and one in English), and one or two philological essays. Thereafter will appear several philological analyses of old Gaelic passages, such as the Legend of Deer, Deirdre's Lament for Alba, &c. And, finally, will be given a full lexicon of all the Gaelic etymologies which Dr Cameron has left, published or unpublished.

The Etymological Dictionary of Gaelic, which Dr Cameron was engaged upon, and of which such high expectations have been expressed to the Editors, was unfortunately never completed. It deals with considerably under a third of the Gaelic vocabulary, and Dr Cameron had added nothing to it since about the year 1878: nearly all the etymological work that he did after that date appeared in the Scottish Celtic Review, while his work previous to the Dictionary, and embodied therein, appeared in the first three volumes of the Gael (years 1872-74). Dr Cameron's etymological work up to the last covers scarcely a third part of what would be necessary for a complete Etymological Dictionary. In the circumstances all etymologies that he has at any time and anywhere—published or unpublished—offered, will be brought together in alphabetic order under the heading of a "Glossary of Gaelic Etymology," at the end of the Second Volume as already mentioned, and the sources of the derivation will be indicated in such a way that the old derivations offered in the Gael will be differentiated from the newer and better work in the Scottish Celtic Review. Where the derivations seem to be behind the requirements of modern research, as in the case of many derivations which appear in the Gael, an addendum will be made by the Editors in each case which will give what is now believed to be the correct etymology. The idea of publishing a separate Etymological Dictionary, completing and incorporating Dr Cameron's etymological work, has been abandoned, and that work will appear independently in all respects.

The Editors—and in what we are about to say all lovers of the language and heroic literature of the Gael will agree—cannot close this preface without expressing their deep debt of gratitude to those through whose kindness it has been possible to publish these volumes. To Sir William Mackinnon, Bart., Balinakill, in especial, and to R. Kidston, Esq., Ferniegair, is due the appearance of these volumes; on the initiative of the former, and by the influence of both, the proprietors of the Lamlash Iron Kirk, as detailed in the Memoir which follows, devoted more than the half of the money realised by its sale to the publication of Dr Cameron's literary remains. Nor need the people of Lamlash, though at first disinclined to purchase the church, which was afterwards re-sold, feel regret that they have indirectly done a double and graceful duty in enabling these two volumes to appear as a monument to Dr Cameron's memory, and as the best contribution yet made to the study of the antiquities and literature of their native Gaelic tongue. Thanks are also due to the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland for permitting the publication of the transcripts made from their manuscripts in the Advocates' Library.

MEMOIR OF DR CAMERON.

CHAPTER I.

EARLY DAYS.

BADENOCH is one of the most interior and elevated districts in Scotland ; it lies on the northern watershed of the Grampians, and forms a long valley with many abutting glens, which is bounded on the north by the lofty Monadh-lia range, and stands some eight hundred feet above sea level. No place can more truly answer Scott's description of general Scottish scenery ; it is a “ Land of brown heath and shaggy wood,

Land of the mountain and the flood.”

Indeed, the local etymologists maintain that the name means the Land of Wood-clumps, nor does the scientist in language detract from the descriptive accuracy of Scott's lines as applied to Badenoch by resolving the name, doubtless with accuracy, into the Land of Floods. Mountains and Alpine grandeur, however, are its most prominent characteristics.

A land, too, of storms, with a short stormy history. The first historical references to Badenoch occur in the thirteenth century, when it formed the strong place of the princely family of Cumming. John Comyn, Lord of Badenoch, for three generations—father, son, and grandson—stood forward as the most formidable rivals of the Baliols and Bruces for the throne of Scotland. A century later, Alexander Stewart, King Robert's son, earned by his sanguinary embroilments with prelates and peers the ominous title of Wolf of Badenoch ; but he died in the odour of sanctity, leaving the Badenoch clans in a state of turmoil which the enigmatic fight at the North Inch of Perth (1396) does not seem to have done much to calm. Then the Gordons, Earls of Huntly, after a time of trouble, succeeded to the lordship about the middle of the fifteenth century (1451); and they ruled the native Clan Chattan with policy and prudence, which met with fair success. The various rebellions in favour of the Stuarts saw Badenoch loyal to the Royal cause. Macpherson, younger of Cluny, with three hundred of Clan Chattan, joined Montrose in 1644, and in the two risings of the eighteenth century Badenoch was art and part. Indeed, there is a fond belief that had the hardy Macphersons, the finest troops in Prince Charlie's army, been not too late for Culloden Field, that day would have been another Bannockburn for the Stuart cause :

"Another sight had seen that morn,
From Fate's dark book a leaf been torn,
Culloden had been Bannockbourne."

The inhabitants of Badenoch, previous to the Saxon immigration that has marked the last generation or two, were a comparatively homogeneous race of Celtic descent. Clan Chattan names were, and as yet are, predominant, such as Macpherson, Mackintosh, Cattanach, and Shaw, with off-shoots of the same like Macbain, Gow, and Clark. Intrusions of long standing from neighbouring clans existed in the case of the Camerons and Macdonalds from Lochaber, the Grants from Strathspey, and the Macintyres in Glentromie, besides some Stewarts and other sporadic clan names. A more distant family name, hailing from Celtic Ayrshire originally, was that of Kennedy, long established in Badenoch; and the Border name of Bell had intruded itself for some time. In physique the people of Badenoch were a stalwart race, a darker haired edition of Tacitus' large-limbed and ruddy Caledonians, whose true descendants they were in physical and mental respects, and more especially in their martial character. Badenoch, at the end of last century and the beginning of this, had produced almost numberless officers for the British Army, not to speak of private soldiers and others in minor positions of military trust. Almost every second tacksman in the first quarter of this century in Badenoch was an officer, and the name

"Captain Macpherson" recurred with a frequency that must have been sorely trying to the postal arrangements of the time.

The people lived on the produce and products of their own district. Oats, barley, rye, and, when introduced, potatoes, formed the staple of cultivation. The Highland or black cattle was their mainstay; and these, with horses, sheep, and goats, were reared in fair abundance and exported to be sold for payment of rent and the providing of luxuries. The chief trades were those of blacksmith, weaver, shoemaker, and tailor; for the black houses which formed the only abodes of the people did not much require the skill of mason and carpenter, though these did exist. Badenoch was in fact an Alpine Arcadia, tempered with the visitations of raiding and war in earlier times, and of famine and epidemics at all times. Illicit distilling of whiskey was, as might naturally be expected, carried on pretty extensively in the mountain fastnesses of Badenoch; and stirring incidents by moor and corrie are yet related of grandsires, often men of undoubted piety, who were engaged in this traffic, risky as it was, but rarely, if ever, regarded as morally wrong.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century Badenoch could boast of having the only school existent between Speymouth and Lorne: it was established at Ruthven village, the then capital of the district. The reverend authors of the "Survey of the Province of Moray," published in 1798, record that few of the older people could read, and that the population was characterised by "moderation in religious opinions" (Kingussie) or by being "rather ignorant of the principles of religion" (Alvie); they were hospitable but given to dram-drinking, brave but quarrelsome, and so forth. Waves of religious awakening, long in movement in the Lowlands, were slowly penetrating the Highland glens, and Badenoch too felt them. As a consequence, there arose a number of earnest men who by word and example taught the people Christian truth and practice. The efforts of these good men were ably seconded and guided in Badenoch for the greater part of the first quarter of this century by the Rev. John Robertson, minister of Kingussie, who in his character "was a happy union of great intellect, fervent and rational piety, unswerving fidelity in his Master's cause, and zeal tempered by wisdom and controlled by discriminating prudence." The result of this was that the moderatism and lack of evangelical zeal which marked the clergy elsewhere, and developed separatist tendencies in the earnest and devout men of their congregations, thus raising these to a separate caste known as "the Men," did not exist in Badenoch, and ministers, office-bearers, and people worked harmoniously together for good. But the old semi-pagan, semi-Christian ideas died hard, as one amusing case may illustrate. The head of a certain household failed badly in answering the questions put by the minister, prior to granting baptism, but brought the matter to a sudden conclusion by offering his examiner, as a substitute for religious knowledge, the best cart of peats he ever got in his life!

The old Celtic Paganism survived the several centuries of Roman Catholic and Protestant religious domination in the form of superstitious beliefs and practices; and its mythology became the hero and folk tales current among the people, those "idle, hurtful, lying, secular stories" about the De Danans, the Milesians, and the Feinne, which Bishop Carsewell complains of in 1567 as being the literary and intellectual pabulum of the time, instead of the "faithful words of God and the perfect way of truth." Superstition in Badenoch lost its hold sooner almost than in any other place in the North: at the beginning of this century it was decidedly in the background of belief and practice, despite the rude shock which the popular imagination received over the Loss of Gaick—Call Ghàig—that epoch-dating event, when on the last Christmas of last century, Captain Macpherson of Ballachroan and four others were choked to death by an avalanche of snow which carried away their bothie and one of their number. The Captain was a noted press-ganger, and his death was attributed to compacts which he had made with his Satanic majesty according to the fashion usual in folk tales.

The history of Badenoch as a land of literary talent dates from 1758, when James Macpherson published his poem of "The Highlander." This gifted man was then schoolmaster at Ruthven and also a student of Divinity. Under inducements from Home and Blair, he published, in 1760, "Fragments of Ancient Poetry," and soon thereafter there appeared his "Ossian" in two consecutive volumes, which purported to be a translation from the Gaelic. The work became immediately popular, and Macpherson's fame soon spread over the civilised world. His contemporary and friend, Lachlan Macpherson of Strathmashie, was a Gaelic poet of no mean calibre; and towards the end of the century Mrs Grant of Laggan made Badenoch classic ground by her "Letters from the Mountains" and other works in prose and verse. The theme of the Loss of Gaick was sung of by Duncan Gow, and in still more beautiful poetry by Malcolm Macintyre, better known all over the Highlands as Calum Dubh nam Protai gearan. Calum composed several poems, and he takes a good position among the minor bards of the Gael. Religious poetry finds, at the beginning of the century, a most fitting exponent in Mrs Clark, better known as Bean Torradhamh, whose lyrics are full of Christian fervour and alive with touches that denote deep experience of a soul in communion with God.

Such, then, were the surroundings alike of place, people, and culture wherein were cast the early days of the subject of this brief memoir. Within three miles east of Kingussie, not far from the foot of the Grampian range of mountains at Torrcroy, Alexander Cameron was born on the 14th of July, 1827.

The spot is still pointed out in a sequestered nook, from which there is a fine and far view of the fertile valley of the rapid River Spey, which here moderates its speed and winds slowly through many miles of meadow. It is worthy of note that scarcely two miles distant is Ruthven, where James Macpherson, already alluded to, taught his little school in his earlier and less famous years. Thus the boyhood of the renowned "Translator," and of the famous Celtic Philologist, was passed amidst the same scenes, and both were destined to make and leave their mark in Gaelic literature and Celtic scholarship according to the respective bent of their genius. If there is much in a name there is also something in certain places—an indefinable influence or inspiration which seizes and sharpens the mind and seems to revivify the past. Witness Wordsworth visiting and revisiting Yarrow, and Dr Johnson's encomium on Iona and Marathon.

"There are in our existence spots of time,
That with distinct pre-eminence retain
A renovating virtue."

John Cameron, the father of Alexander, and Grace Cattanach, his mother, were both very shrewd, far-seeing, and industrious people, who had to make the best of somewhat narrow and difficult circumstances. I had the good fortune, lately, to meet Isabella Macpherson, Drumguish, who is at present within two years of being a centenarian. She expressed great admiration for John and Grace Cameron, whom she knew well—adding, that the former was disposed to view things in a calmer manner than the latter, who was invariably full of vigour and activity. The early years of Alexander were passed in the ordinary way in the playful companionship of his younger and only brother, John, but even then it was noticed that the bent of his mind was of a serious and inquiring character. His parents, while the family were yet young, removed to Drumguish, where they resided for the rest of their lives. The attachment which Mr Cameron formed and always felt for this place appears from a story he was fond of telling about a Drumguish native who had been over a great part of the world and who used to remark, “After all, I have seen no prettier spot than our own black hillocks here.”

While still young, Alexander went to reside with a maternal maiden aunt—May Cattanach—at Kingussie, to be near the school; and it would seem from repeated statements of his that this good woman had as much as anyone to do in the forming of his future character and career. She was one of the most pious and upright women of her time, and her memory is still fragrant throughout the whole district. She was exceedingly kind to her charge, and, doubtless, early directed his thoughts to the things that are unseen and eternal. She was one of the most unassuming of Christians, and would have been most surprised if anyone were to regard her save as one of the most unworthy. And yet that was one among many proofs that she was rich in faith and an heir of the kingdom of heaven. Under such good influence, and with such a bright example brought daily to bear upon him, he began to turn his thoughts to serious subjects.

But he was not without interest in mundane matters, for one of his earliest recollections was the crowning of Queen Victoria—the glad event having been associated in his memory with the unusual appearance of the Royal Mail, which displayed a great deal of bunting and many flags in honour of the occasion. At that time in the quiet village of Kingussie, the passing of the "Big Coach" was the great event of each day, when home-going or school-going, or perchance occasionally truant-going children, unobserved by the guard—and if he were a kindly man sometimes not unobserved—used to stealthily climb on the step behind, and for a mile or two quietly cling to it—a feat that made a boy proud and envied for many a day. How changed the scene has become since then! Trains by the dozen hurry through the place now, and hundreds of tourists locate themselves in every available corner for the summer and autumn months.

It is hardly necessary here to do more than merely advert to the "Ten Years' Conflict" that culminated in the Disruption of the Church of Scotland in 1843, and in the founding of the Free Church. It was a time of profound anxiety and upheaval throughout the land, and not less so in the Highlands. The Headship of Christ over His Church and over the nations, that is to say, spiritual independence combined and co-ordinate with national recognition of Christ as Governor among the nations, was the great underlying principle that created the fervour and called forth the faithfulness that caused the Disruption. Badenoch felt the force of this far-reaching movement, and responded thereto as pastor and people left the Church of their fathers, which they dearly loved, because loyalty and duty demanded the sacrifice. The sudden severance of life-long ties, and the loss of this world's goods, must have been poignantly painful, but the reward—immediate in their own hearts, and prospective on earth and in heaven—was amply sufficient to sustain them in every difficulty and disappointment. Nor were their hope and faith in vain, as the event proved.

May Cattanach and her favourite ward and pupil took a lively interest in the proceedings, and cast in their lot with the Church of Scotland, free. Perhaps this struggle through which Mr Cameron passed at scarce sixteen to some extent accounts for his firm attitude in dealing with ecclesiastical questions to the very end of his life. Be that as it may, it was shortly after this that he was observed to be a keen listener and an appreciative hearer of the powerful addresses delivered by the famous Apostle of the North—Dr John Macdonald of Ferintosh. And, not satisfied with all that he heard at Kingussie from the great preacher, he was accustomed, when comforts and conveniences were not so common as now-a-days, to follow him to Rothiemurchus and elsewhere—the outward and widely-noted beginning of that seeking after God which did not cease until breath failed and the seeker passed through the gates into the city to find and eternally enjoy the beatific vision.

It is slightly difficult to fix the dates of his attendance at school, or discuss the merits and influence of his respective teachers, although the writer has heard him once and again refer to this interesting part of his past career. Mr Rutherford, a well-known and widely respected teacher at Kingussie, would appear to have been his first master. But he was for a short time in attendance at Insh School, under Mr Patrick Grant, who was better known afterwards as a successful teacher for many years at Baldow, Alvie. Probably it was at Insh that he got his first smattering of Latin, where several not unknown scholars afterwards pored over their rudiments and formed friendships which the fleeting years have only consolidated. He then returned to his former teacher, who was, like most of the old dominies, a somewhat strict disciplinarian, but who seems to have taken kindly to his promising pupil and to have encouraged him in every possible manner. Like many others similarly situated at that time, Mr Rutherford, while teaching others, was himself acquiring knowledge, and had in view to study, or was actually studying, for the ministry. He was thus, naturally, more interested in, and perhaps more fitted to teach and help, boys of parts in their efforts to better themselves. Eventually he attained his goal, and became parish minister of Rothiemurchus. It was to him that the thirty lost poems of Mrs Clark, of Torra-dhamh, already alluded to, are believed to have been entrusted, but what became of them is unfortunately unknown.

Mr Cameron had by this time made such progress as to be deemed fit to conduct a side school at Glenfeshie, when, as he thought himself, he was hardly fit to teach, but rather required to be taught—an estimate of his own attainments which remained with him to the end. There are not a few of his old pupils still living who have testified to the unusual amount of painstaking labour he bestowed upon them—many of whom were far older and taller than their teacher. It was the general habit then for lads—and others beyond their 'teens—to work manually in summer and attend school during the quiet winter months. His short term of teaching in this then somewhat solitary, though well-copied glen, earned for him a reputation for thoroughness in work and good discipline that has not yet ceased to be talked about.

Relieved from his winter task, he returned to Kingussie School, now under the able guidance of Mr David Bruce—a native of Kirriemuir, the birthplace of many distinguished men, and likely to be immortalised under its new name of "Thruns." Mr Bruce was a very good classical scholar and a splendid teacher, who succeeded in imparting to his pupils somewhat of his own enthusiasm. Under him Mr Cameron made great progress in Latin and got on well with Greek, and the good grounding thus given accounts for much of his subsequent success, and for part of his indomitable perseverance in confronting and solving difficulties. He was also indebted to Mr Nimmo and to Mr Henderson, who relieved the principal teacher while prosecuting his own University or Hall studies. The former and himself used to meet and study after school hours, and they became fast friends; and the latter used to encourage him to proceed with his literary pursuits whatever obstacles might obstruct his path. But without doubt Mr Bruce exercised most influence over him, and the intimacy early formed was continued, as a subsequent correspondence proves. And perhaps the best possible portrait of the teacher, and a not uninteresting glimpse of his environment at Kingussie, as well as instructive side-lights on a later period in his pupil's career, can be got by the perusal of the four following letters from his own pen. A deep undertone of sadness, bordering on melancholy, mainly due to ill-health, pervades the otherwise bright and cheerful character revealed in these unpremeditated utterances, which are worthy of preservation for intrinsic merit and interest, in addition to being, so far as I know, the only remaining memorials of a man whose worth and gifts, had health been his, would have secured for him a place—not the lowest—in the literary galaxy that arose from and sheds lustre on "Thruns." At the date of the letters, Mr Cameron was pursuing his studies at the Edinburgh University.

“Kingussie, 5th May, 1854.

“DEAR SIR,—I was agreeably relieved from my uncertainty as to your whereabouts by the receipt of a letter yesterday. I had previously sent off a letter to Edinburgh, having lost all patience, which perhaps may have been forwarded to you from thence.

“I supposed you had found some employment for the summer in that quarter, not thinking that you had after all gone to the Western Isles. I daresay Islay is a rather more agreeable place of residence than Skye, and the preaching will be more pleasant when not combined with the teaching, which at best is but drudgery. I wish I could get a person to whom I could hand over the school and join you in your retreat, but I fear the matter cannot be well managed at present. If no unforeseen event do not prevent it, I shall try to gratify my long-cherished wish to visit the Hebrides in the autumn—at least it will afford some gratification the dreaming over the pleasures that I will enjoy there, to say nothing of the restored health, which certainly needs some renovation. You will have fine opportunity of study—nature and books—long walks, and an open-air closet in sight of the rolling sea. But I must not envy you; there is work for you in addition to these.

“My own life here is still as dull, as irksome as ever—nothing to keep the spirits from flagging—no comforts, no hope. For the last fortnight I have been again very far from well—the side and chest, and other symptoms highly developed—and the cough still remains constant. I am able to keep the school on; the work is now lighter, but I never enjoy one agreeable moment—one quite free from pain.

“The letter arrived before the parcel, which your aunt delivered in the evening. Perhaps it was too heavy for Alick, who is but a tender boy, or you may have enclosed it in that addressed to your mother. I delivered the parcel at the bank, but the lady was at Ballachroan, so I could not give it into her own hand. The other I entrusted to Miss M’K.

“Macaulay I am well satisfied with, but he is not a profound writer, though he possesses the art of making his matter interesting. How different from Coleridge’s glances, which can pierce through millstones. Heine is but a trifle; but I should like the whole of the poems of that writer, who is a great favourite, could I get a bargain. I am very ill-off at present, having no means of getting catalogues or knowing what books are to be had. I expected Poetoe Gnomici along with the Anacreon, but I supposed you overlooked it. The Oxford Herodotus I should have liked but for its price ; but I think it was more prudent in me to get rather an additional Tauchnitz or two and be content with inferior paper. Was it in boards ? If not, it would require to be bound before it could be used much. I was thinking since of getting De Quincey—second vol.—and the Landor, there being scarcely another choice at present, and to live here at all I must have books ; but I am at a loss as to how to get them. Could you recommend me to your friend, or order for me—the deduction on foreign books seems tempting.

“The Athenæum is rather dull, but there seems no substitute but the Critic. The Critic was offered at half-price to all the clergy I know, direct from the office, and it is twitted with it in the last Athenæum. The Critic is flimsy, but it contains extracts from the new books, and a greater amount of literary gossip—including Continental, which the Ath- does not deal in. The Revue is dear. But enough of books at present.

“I can hardly venture on the country news, for I hear very little, and reports are not always faithful. Nothing but Australia—Peter Ferguson among the number. Miss Grant is still in the country ; she arrived in Kingussie yesterday from Lynwilg, but I have not been blessed with an angel glimpse. Perhaps you saw Ann in Edinburgh ; she is receiving a month’s polish before the voyage. I heard the Catechist, &c., were again in Ross-shire laying snares for the Rev. D. Campbell—he seems very difficult to take. If you make haste you may yet be in time for Kingussie Church, for it does not appear likely to be filled soon. My stock seems scantly than I thought it, for I can recollect no new particulars at present. I never stir abroad to get news, and my own thoughts are chiefly occupied with books, when cold or rain or other evil does not prevent all thinking.

“Have you made any additions to your book store ? This winter I have got next to nothing, and now I would fain buy if I knew what, or how they could be conveniently and cheaply procured. It will be better that the Athenæum, if we continue it, come to me first, as I suppose it will make little difference to you, but a good deal to me. Do tell what your posts are, how long a letter takes to reach you, and on what day it were better to post. I shall be delighted to write once a week ; but I am afraid my letters will be found rather barren. I shall expect to hear from you soon, and as I want both time and matter to fill another sheet at present, I shall make my next one the longer. I shall be able then, I hope, to give my impressions of Miss Gr——, and shall meantime keep my ears open for all sort of news. Miss M——, though anything but a favourite, has a tongue which very few indeed can match. I am in constant admiration of its wonderful pliability, but as horned cattle pay for the superfluous bone by wanting the upper teeth, so that lady pays for the development of her tongue by the total want of a heart. Write soon.—Yours truly,

DAVID BRUCE."

"Kingussie, 1st July, 1854.

"DEAR SIR,—I received this morning your letter. I had all but given up hopes of again hearing from you, as it was reported you intended coming immediately to Badenoch, and your silence seemed to confirm it. The arrival of the newspapers somewhat shook my belief, and now your letter sets me to inquire how such a report could have arisen. The winds and waves seem of all things the most capricious and least to be depended on—it does seem strange that my letters, written with a week's interval between them, should arrive together; but stranger still that you should not have received the two Athenaeums I sent off at the same time with the last letter. I hope you have got them before this, but the letter and they ought to have been received at the same time.

"I am glad to find that you are in such good health, for I was inclined to fear, knowing that you would not quit Islay unless there should be a serious break down; but too much of that absurd affair—I mean the report. My own health is still indifferent—I can scarcely say whether I am better or worse. I cough less, but the pains in the side and chest, shoulder, &c., have rather increased in intensity. The weather this week has been cold, and I have suffered much from rheumatism. Happy you who are blessed with a mild climate; and as for the dullness, I suppose this anomalous season, it prevails everywhere. I do not altogether let my spirits sink, uncomfortably as I am situated. Surely you ought to think better of a disciple of Carlyle, one at least who admires his Stoical preachments, though one can only approximate to the putting of them in practice. I am glad you have got the Johnson (of course I have it); it is Carlyle all over, and is considered one of his best papers. I think Johnson is greatly over-estimated, as well as the book which records his sayings and doings, viz., Boswell; and I can only account for the extraordinary value put upon it by supposing Carlyle to have formed a liking to it in his youth; and as it is suggestive enough, to have derived some of those ideas from it which he knows how to make the most of. You must have noticed that Carlyle's is not a very rich mind in new thoughts, ideas, whatever the case may be with images—that his forms but a scanty stock, and that he deals greatly in self-repetition. There is little in the article on Johnson which is not to be found in the Sartor, except some vivid descriptions, and these Carlyle is a master of. I would advise you to get the article on Burns, I think it much superior to the Johnson. I should like Carlyle's Miscel. infinitely, but I will not be able to get at them at present. In the meantime I shall be satisfied with Lamb, which I hope you have ordered. I was disappointed in your not having mentioned it in your letter. My reason for troubling you was that I was not pleased with Mr Macdonald's, and was afraid he would keep me waiting months, and yet I may gain nothing in point of time by writing to you. The distance between us is so great, and though I request you particularly to say ay or no, you neglect, and I am left at a loss. Do let me know as soon as possible if you have ordered Lamb's Works (12s, Bohn), containing his letters and final memorials, and advertised in the Athen. for June 24th. Along with Macaulay, I should like De Quincey's Autobiogr. Sketches, vol. II. (I have the first). I do not think it is over the weight, and forms a readable book. I am intent on buying German books, but am at a loss how to get them from London. The P.O. does not suit for large books any more than for small ones, like Trübner's Classics. But enough of book buying. I have been driven to my Greek of late, and been making great effort to admire. You may judge from that how hard up I am for something fresh.

"You were amused with the parasol, but I see nothing wonderful in a young lady's making the best possible use of it. In the case I mentioned, the gentleman was in delicate health and might have been injured by the rain; and perhaps the story may be apocryphal after all. I had it from a lady whose youngest son had tackled her by asking "Is Miss H. and Mr M. papa and mama?" He had observed them returning from a walk protected from a shower by the same parasol. They were in the country at the time, and it was summer, and in setting out, rain had not been expected. I hear of no more marriages in this quarter. The Miss Grants have sailed—at least, I suppose so, for I have not seen the father since the important day. I am sorry for Dody, for they scarcely allowed her time to know her own mind. I was sorry to hear of the death of your cousin at Strone; it was very sudden; he was taken ill at the market, and died next day. At least, I suppose it to be your cousin, as the young man's parents attend Mr G.'s Church. The great Australian Robertson is also reported to be dead—in real truth he was dead long ago, for such life as he led was no life. People still keep moving in that direction—Australia is still in favour. I hear that a deputation has gone off to take home the great Mr Campbell, but have learnt no particulars.

"I have been interrupted by a visit from the Insh Enlightener. He is welcome, because I have so seldom an opportunity of opening my mouth with anything like freedom; but really he is too far back. It becomes quite painful to hear the notions of books and literary matters he gives vent to. He had had my Carlyle's Johnson on loan, and he is quite delighted with the funny things C. says. He is of opinion that it is a very diverting book, and that reading such nonsense makes good pastime. Only think—C., who makes of literature so serious a matter, and to whom the great charge laid by lovers of amusement is that he makes too great demands on his readers—that he is obscure, unintelligible—viewed only as a diverting writer. Do you think my friend understood him in the least, for all the Carlylean doctrines are implied (in), and may be evolved from, that article? But it is the same with all books in this man's hands, yet I have allowed him to carry off "Tristram Shandy," notwithstanding my fears he may make a bad use of it in more senses than one. He has prevented my scrawl being sent off to-night, and brought me no news to help make up for it, but wind and tide being so uncertain it may make no difference. Don't forget Lamb at least. I have not yet got a list of the University Library. I see the cheap edition of Waverley is out, but I am not particular about that. The Classics I wish much. If the postage for Lamb do not exceed 1s I should like it by post; but perhaps these minute directions are rather troublesome. I do so long for something new, you will excuse me. I saw the prospectus of Stewart's works, but they did not excite any strong wish to possess them. Hamilton's Notes on the Dissertation, if as copious as on Reid, must be curious. Many of Stewart's blunders are rather of a glaring sort: while Hamilton's acquaintance with the history of philosophy, even in its obscurest departments, is unmatched at least in this country. Write soon.—Yours sincerely,

"Kingussie, 24th July, 1854.

"MY DEAR SIR,—I received both your letters with the 'Witness' yesterday, though they bore the post-mark of the 22nd. How it came about that I did not receive them on Saturday perhaps Miss M'K. could explain. She knew I was impatient for a letter, and perhaps wished to annoy a little. I sent a boy to the Post-Office on Saturday to inquire, and the way to punish me was to deliver them on the morning of the Sunday, with the information that they had had occasion to send. Your explanation as to the posts and the marks on the back of the letters, leave little doubt as to how the matter really stood, which I regret the more because I am prevented from returning an early answer to your letters. The present scrawl, though I send it off to-night, will scarcely reach you sooner than if posted on Saturday next—at least it is a doubtful point. Those winds and waves are unmanageable things.

“As to the report of your return to Badenoch, I learned on subsequent enquiry that there was no good foundation for it, and I would not have given credence to it for a moment had not your silence of a month’s continuance seemed to confirm it. My other intelligence of your cousin’s death is only too true. The young man intended to have gone to Australia, but was taken ill on the day of the market, and died after a day’s illness. The father is still hale and vigorous. He was present at church at the Sacramental services, and Mr Grant having to speak of him I mentioned the son’s death, which he confirmed. The old man was present at twelve battles, and came off without a scratch. How few are able to tell the same tale! Certainly he was a favourite of fortune; and as he was are all fighters more or less in some sense or other. I hope you will get as safely through your life-battles. I am sure you would not take it as a compliment to be left with the baggage.

“I have dined thrice at the Manse on these occasions. It is wonderful, but I cannot say “no” when I have no reason to give that I like to put forward. I suppose it will take me a week to digest these dinners, which were very good, and which I got over without my cough being in a considerable degree ruffled. I have even got a couple of invitations, from Mr Rutherford and Grant of Cromdale—the first may be sincere—but I am not very anxious to comply with either. I would rather Islay, which I must still look upon as rather uncertain. I expected to have been able to give the play early, but that house of mine is such a tormenting business, and I must try to have a meeting brought about and something definite come to before I can leave for anywhere. I cannot pass a winter with the —, anything rather than that, and there is no other lodging to be had. I am altogether in a perplexity, and do not know what plan to fall on, or what is best to do. That cursed house has been a source of infinite torment to me, more particularly the last twelve months, and I do not see how it is to end. I had given over quite the thought of being next winter in Kingussie, and now that I am again vexing myself about making provision for it, I suppose I must be considerably better in health than I was. The side, &c., are still troublesome, but I do feel better generally. I hope I shall be able to get things in order so as to pass a few happy weeks with you in Islay, but it can only be in September.

“I am ashamed at putting you to so much bother about the books, and yet I am very much pleased that you have taken the trouble upon you. I am afraid Mr J. will not get the Classics at the price, but I will be satisfied with Lamb, &c. I suppose I am not to expect them till next week, and yet I will be longing.

“Mrs Grant has not yet returned; she is in Edinburgh under Dr Simpson’s care. Perhaps had she been at home I would not have dined so often there. The Catechist's son is not in Kingussie, and the great Mr Campbell, who had offered his services for five months, is reported to have got sick. There is rather a scarcity of preachers of your body apparently. Mr A. Gordon was expected to have preached at Kingussie a fortnight ago. The congregation was met, Miss M^cP. had arrived, there was the silence of expectation, but the quickest ear could not catch the sound of clerical boots approaching. People got impatient at last, the bellman, who was sent out to reconnoitre, brought back the mournful intelligence that Mr G. was not in Kingussie, neither at Mr Grant's nor elsewhere, and there was no help for it but to go home. Miss M^cP. walked down with the banker to his house, and ordered her carriage to be brought there—it seemed she was ashamed to be seen in the act of retreat; and when people came to ask each other what reason they had to expect Mr G., it turned out there was none. The Catechist had said that in such a dearth of preachers he must have A. G. up before them, but he had never written to him on the subject. Mr A. had happened to be in the village some days before, and it was considered to be an undoubted matter that he would come to have his gifts tested on the Sunday, so the bells were rung and the guests were met, but the bridegroom failed. I suppose Mr G., who remembers the Catechist's questions at the Presbytery, rather shrinks from his testing powers. No wonder the young men hesitate to come before those who know the marks—not of the beast, but of the spirit. I am afraid they are too hard—the horns of a calf when beginning to bud are not very perceptible. Excuse this nonsense, but attribute it to a lack of news.

“I forgot the Duke of Athole has been for some days at the Inn with 25 dogs and I don't know how many men. The head keeper would have been prized in ancient times when the wisdom was meted by the length of the beard—his is two feet long—rather uncomfortable at times, you would think, but he plaits it when it is likely to be too much in the way. The Duke's craze is the murder of others, and to gratify this propensity he maintains all these dogs and masters the energies of all these men—better be a bookworm. He has not succeeded in killing any in this quarter, though one was seen on Saturday. One might blush for the grandees of their country and the way they show their sense of the duties incumbent upon them.

“I suppose the books I am to receive will be sufficient at this time. During the vacation I could not use them, and how to store what I have is one of my perplexities. After the vacation I will be inclined to buy a few more, and then I shall feel so glad, &c., but I hope we will be able to arrange that in Islay. I will write again on Saturday. I hope you got all the Athenæums.

[Signature omitted. Letter written across on the last page.—
J. K.]”

“Kingussie, 30th December, 1854.

“MY DEAR SIR,—I received your letter this morning, which I had been expecting for several days. I was sorry to learn that you had been ill, but I hope the holidays will restore you quite to your former state of health. You have, indeed, too much work on your hand; the preparation for so many classes will tell in time, even though the season of the year did not bring coughs and colds along with it. I, too, have been ill all the week, but feel somewhat better to-day. I have less fever, and a smart cough has taken form. That I would not mind much, were it not for the accompanying pain in the side and chest, the difficulty of breathing in a frosty atmosphere, and the deadening effect of the cold. Indeed, all is gloomy and cheerless about me, and there is no possibility of viewing things in their brighter aspect, when there is no bright side. While I remain in Kingussie I never expect to feel contented or happy. I have, however, shaken off one encumbrance from my back, or rather been obliged to suffer it drop off. I am no longer Registrar. It entails some sacrifice, but something like tranquility, freedom from annoyance, on which my health so much depends, must be purchased at any price. If I had had but one trusty friend on whom I could rely in Kingussie—but a Registrar obliged to use other people’s feet and ears, and with enemies not disinclined to bother him, with no house of his own, his lodgings inconvenient, even were he in good health, could not be very pleasantly situated, even though the pay should more than counterbalance the labour.

“But to quit disagreeables, your account of the book sales made my very mouth water. I hope you will send the catalogue if possible, that I, too, may have a nibble at such tempting bait. My choice of books would, however, be different from yours, though some of your purchases seem valuable in their way. I should have bought Coleridge’s Lay Sermons, if I had fallen in with a cheap copy. I suppose it is M——n’s “Lamb” you have got for me, from their being no deduction from Bohn’s price, in that case, it is cheap. I think it will be as well to defer the sending of it for a week or two, till it be seen what turn my health is likely to take, or whether the roads are to be blocked up or no! (Is not that a well-constructed climax)? I am sorely in want of the slips, however, and if they be allowed to travel through the post in company with De Quincey I shall feel obliged by your sending them. I shall be glad to take the Greek Testament. I was in negotiation with a Kirriemuir acquaintance settled in Edinburgh, a Mr Paterson, for a similar vol., but we did not conclude the bargain. Perhaps you may have met Mr P. He teaches writing and arithmetic, and had at one time, at least, a schoolroom in the same house with Mr Macdonald. He is very amiable, but a little whimsical in certain matters—medicine for one.

“I should like Alick to read Sallust along with either Virgil or Ovid. The latter, perhaps, would be most convenient for me in the meantime, as I have John Macrae reading Latin also, and he might be able in that case to go on with the other boy, which would be for the advantage of both, and a relief to me. I shall mention the Greek to Alick, but I am afraid he has enough on his hands. Would you write him a few admonitions, to be studious, &c. His imperfect knowledge of English is against him.

“I hear no news and perhaps as well for me. I might almost as well be in a cell of a penitentiary worked on the solitary and silent system. The Badenoch gents have been liberal to the Fund; but I have not yet found out how many soldiers from Badenoch serve in the Crimea, or whether their widows and orphans are likely to be bardensome. Rev. Mr Grant gave £3 3s besides flannels, &c., furnished by his wife. I gave 2s 6d. I might have given more, but for several reasons I limited myself to that sum. Besides I have not yet been able to see what Britain had to do interfering in the quarrel, or to satisfy myself that Turkey deserves to be supported.

“The Rev. Mr Campbell has been labouring for the last three weeks in Kingussie. I hope he finds the Kingussie winter agree with him; for if he has suffered as much from the cold as I have he will give up all thoughts of settling permanently there.

“My own reading at present is chiefly Greek. I have read 8 or 10 books of Homer and some plays carefully and making good use of the Lexicon. But it is in general rather heartless work, and prompted more by a desire to keep myself occupied than by any ulterior views. Have you seen Donaldson's Grammar of Modern Greek, and what is its character? If good for anything I should like to have it, as it professes to give a view of modern Greek literature—and only costs 2s. I am sorry your enquiries after German lit-paper were unsuccessful. I have seen the Lit-Blatt in the Waterloo Newsrooms, but I suppose there is no chance of getting it from there. Have Edmondson & Douglas anything good among their second-hand books, but usually the good things are at once carried off?

“I have now all but filled my paper, but I scarcely think you will have patience sufficient to read it to its close—the cure, however, is in your own hands. Write soon.—Yours sincerely,

DAVID BRUCE.

“P.S.—I send a sort of list of books which I made out lately, but it is not very complete even as far as it goes, and I fear you will be able to make but little use of it.”

The list is "a never ending one," and includes the chief works of Shakespeare, Southey, Ben Johnson, Landor, Coleridge, Carlyle, Pope, Thomson, Chatterton, Johnson, Swift, Bunyan, Hooker, Brown (Sir T.), Dunbar, Burns, Milton, Cowper, Hallam, Taylor; also, Goethe, Lessing, Rosenkranz, and Plutarch, Herodotus, Thucydides, Aristotle, &c.

In parting with this episode in Mr Cameron's career, a word may be added in reference to the subsequent but brief course of Mr Bruce's life. Whether due to intense longing for a larger sphere of usefulness and better opportunity of mental improvement, or, as is more likely, to impaired health—of which there is ample indication in the above letters—and to the constant exercise of the sword proving too much for the worn scabbard, Mr Bruce shortly after this date felt the labour and tension of teaching more trying and irksome than profitable. He felt keenly the necessity, but fully realised the wisdom, of retiring from all duty, which he did in the autumn of 1856. And it was not long afterwards when the mind once so full of activity and promise succumbed to the unequal strain, and the imprisoned vital spark found final release from the rough and tumble of this work-a-day world.

CHAPTER II.

STUDENT DAYS.

It is very remarkable how oftentimes the man and the hour arrive at the right moment, or the opportunity offers and being seized success is assured. This is the tide in the affairs of men which taken at the flood leads on to fortune.

One day as Mr Cameron was returning from school, with his small collection of books under his arm, he was met on the meadow below Ruthven by Professor Bannerman, who may have heard some one speak of the precocious youth, or who may have remarked something striking and interesting in the frank open countenance. At anyrate, he entered into conversation with him, and asked if he would like to become a minister. The instant reply was, "Yes, but circumstances render it impossible." Dr Bannerman indicated a way of overcoming obstacles that loomed large in the distance, and from that day the ministry became the aim and ambition of the young man, who had already made no little progress in his studies. It is a trite observation that on small events hang great and incalculable issues. This casual colloquy proved the turning point of the career awaiting the future able preacher and distinguished Celtic philologist.

When Alexander Cameron entered the University of Edinburgh, he was about twenty years of age, but he was not so well equipped for the studious and arduous task awaiting him as many of his compeers. He had not passed through the regular training of a secondary school, and had never attempted any composition in English—his first essay having been written for one of the professors. And yet in all his classes he took a very high place, in several he gained eminent distinction, and in Logic he stood second. He indicated possession of indomitable energy and great determination to succeed in any object taken in hand. He was known to give up contemplated attendance on certain classes in order to attain a foremost place in others. He got on exceedingly well in Mathematics, and frequently solved problems that none else in the class succeeded in sending in correct solutions for. And some of these he used to give as pastime posers to mathematically-inclined students of recent times. Towards the close of his student period at the University, his mind was occupied mainly with Logic and Philosophy, for distinction in which he obtained first-class prizes and special praise from his professors. As proof of the progress made by one whose acquaintance with essay-writing dates from his college days, it is worthy of note to find that Professor Macdougall presents him with a prize "as a token of high appreciation of his spirit and ability as a voluntary and very successful essayist in the Moral Philosophy Class, University of Edinburgh, session 1853-4." Professor Kelland awards Potts' Euclid "to Alexander Cameron as a prize in the First Class of Mathematics, 1850." Professor Fraser presented "Brown's Philosophy" to him "as a memorial of distinction in Logic and Metaphysics at New College, Edinburgh, 1848." When afterwards Mr Cameron became a candidate for the Celtic chair in the University of Edinburgh, Professor Fraser, in recommending him, said:—"The Rev. Alexander Cameron was known to me as a meritorious student during his undergraduate course, distinguished in particular in Logic and in Moral Philosophy."

During this period, as is customary with students, he formed life-long friendships—some of his college contemporaries being Professor Veitch; the late Sheriff Clark, Glasgow; Sheriff Nicolson; Dr Oliver, Dennistoun; the late Rev. A. Urquhart, Glasgow; Rev. E. Gordon; Rev. N. Dewar, Kingussie; Rev. J. Geddes, Glasgow; the late Rev. J. Baillie, Gairloch; the late Rev. Mr Rose, Poolewe; the Rev. Hugh Macmillan, D.D., LL.D., Greenock, &c. Frequently in later life he was wont to refer to the positions and career of all who, in his time, held prominent places at college, and to compare the promise of youth with the performance, or reverse, of after life.

One minister from Badenoch has said that he, when a young man, cordially hated Mr Cameron, because he was always instanced and insisted upon as an example to imitate, and to spur on to greater effort and diligence. On this point the Rev. Alex. Urquhart, Glasgow, one of the most popular and best beloved of Highland ministers, said at a later date:—"I have known the Rev. Alex. Cameron, F.C. Minister, Brodick, from his boyhood—at school and during his university course—and never ceased to admire his studious habits, earnest purpose, and indomitable perseverance in the face of many difficulties and much discomfort.”

It was a common thing for students who were not possessed of independent means to occupy their time during the summer holiday teaching, and sometimes, as is still frequently the case, the student remained at his post during winter—thereby missing a session. Mr Cameron, towards the end of 1851, went to Thurso to teach, where he continued until well on in 1853, performing most conscientiously and successfully all the duties devolving upon him; but some were of opinion that his discipline was, if anything, somewhat too strict. Yet, there are many at this date occupying influential positions who acknowledge great indebtedness to his thoroughness in teaching, and the enthusiasm with which he inspired them. He also took part in the instruction of children at the Sabbath School, conducted a Bible class, and delivered occasional addresses, which were very much appreciated by the older people, as testified in casual correspondence. Mr David Mowat writes from Thurso, under date Dec. 6th, 1853:—“We received your very welcome letter, and were happy to know by it that you were well—as this leaves us all well at present. We were talking much and long that we did not hear from you for such a length of time. I would not wish that we were so forgetful of your good company while you were with us, for I am sure there is not a day passes but what your name is always spoken of by us, nor, I hope, time will never efface your remembrance amongst us.”

Divergence of opinion still obtains as to the desirability of young students attempting any stated religious service, and at that date the prevailing opinion was more pronounced against the plan than at present. And, probably, in fairness to probationers or licentiates, restrictive limits should be assigned. But in the case of a young man like Mr Cameron, it could not fail in being beneficial educationally as well as monetarily.

During the summer and autumn of 1854, Mr Cameron was stationed as missionary at Portnahaven, in Islay. Here his services were very acceptable to the people, as the sequel will show. Many traced the beginnings of their spiritual life and experiences to the impression made by his carefully prepared and able addresses. The attachment to the missionary then and thus formed continued for many years—indeed, to the end of life. This is how he speaks of the people of Islay in a letter of later date, which connects this with his future sphere, addressed to an old and intimate friend :—

“Renton, by Dumbarton, April 20th, 1855.

“MY DEAR FRIEND,—I have now been in Renton for four successive Sabbaths, and it seems that I am engaged to remain in the place during the summer. I shall now endeavour to inform you how this arrangement came about.

“I was expecting all the winter that my former station in Islay should be my summer destination. All over the winter I thought, wrote, and spoke as if this were a settled point. The people of Portnahaven were expecting me back, and the Committee were expecting that I should go. I was not privately engaged for Islay, but there was an understanding between every party concerned that I should return thither as soon as I should be free from the labours of the Session. I experienced so much kindness, and I may add encouragement, from the people of Portnahaven last summer that I was longing very earnestly to return to them again. Indeed, my regard for Islay is at this moment scarcely less strong than my regard for Insh and the scenes of my boyhood.

“I was longing the more to return to Islay because the Highland Committee found it impossible to send another in my place when I returned to Edinburgh before the beginning of last session. The station has been since supplied by Mr Ross, the teacher, a pious and intelligent man, whose services ought to be more acceptable to the people than those of perhaps any probationer or student-catechist the Committee could send. You are well aware, however, that the majority of hearers everywhere prefer one whom they may, whether legitimately or not, daub with the name, and clothe with the authority and functions, not to speak of the importance of ‘the minister,’ to a layman, however great his Christian experience and however profound his views of divine truth. It would be too much to say that the people of Portnahaven are exempt from this prejudice, and hence they must be thinking that they have been neglected entirely last winter, and indeed, as far as the Committee are concerned, neglected they have been, more than they had been ever before, I believe, since the Disruption.

“Apart from the destitution of Portnahaven, I was myself anxious enough to shake myself free from the toil and labours of the session—labours which I found more than ordinarily severe.

By this time, indeed, my energies were quite prostrate, and some were hinting that the sooner I would betake myself to the country the better for me. Accordingly, about two weeks before the end of the session, I called upon Mr Macleuchlan to communicate to him my intention of returning to Islay on the following Monday, if in the interval I could get the arrangements for my departure completed. I then hardly expected that I could leave so early. It happened that I was appointed President, at the beginning of the session, of one of the societies formed among the students for their mutual improvement, and the society appointed me to take a leading part in a debate on the following Friday, and to deliver what is called the Valedictory Address on the Friday following that one. To meet these engagements it would be necessary for me to remain in town until the end of the session."

The above extract paves the way for the introduction of Renton, where Mr Cameron arrived for the first time in February, 1855, and where he was destined to pass a large part of his active life. Perhaps it is best to quote further from the same letter, as the subject-matter is very interesting, although the minutiae are somewhat too detailed :—

"I shall now pass to Renton. I think the first mention which I ever heard made of Renton was by yourself, when you told me some years ago of Donald Duff's appearance, when appointed Catechist to this place, before the Presbytery of Dumbarton. The next time I heard anything of the place was about this time last year. When the Kingussie people declined to send for Mr Charles Ross, now in Aberdeen, he accepted an invitation from the people of Renton, and he was leaving them about this time last year. Mr Neil Dewar, an intimate acquaintance of mine, succeeded him for a few Sabbaths, and it was from him that I heard next of Renton, and since that time my mind had some kind of vague indefinable leaning towards the place. One of the Renton people was in Islay last summer, and he was speaking to me about going to the place. Indeed, he promised that they would send for me for a Sabbath during the winter. But the winter passed away without any word ever coming to me from Renton, and two weeks before the end of the session I had very little thought that this very Renton was to be my summer destination."

Mr Charles Corbett next preached at Renton and gave satisfaction, but was not fixed upon finally. Then Mr Christopher Munro—afterwards at Strathy, where he was long and highly appreciated—preached at Renton—and it is not without interest to give a fellow-student's estimate of him :—

"In the evening Mr Munro and myself had a long walk together, in the course of which we spoke about Renton. I told him that I should like very well to accompany him as a hearer. For a long time before I expressed to Mr Baillie (now of Gairloch) my anxious desire to hear Mr Munro speak upon the truth, for he is universally allowed to be distinguished for his piety above most, if not all, his fellow students. He objected to my accompanying him, but he told me that the people of Renton were wishing to hear some young men from among whom they might choose one for the summer, and, if I should like, he would mention me to them. I told him I would not go as a candidate, but that I would have no objection to going for a day. He told me that he would not go to the place himself although he should be asked—that his mind was made up to go to a station in Skye, to which the Committee were proposing to send him. That station is Kilmuir. Mr Munro was in the parish as a teacher about two years ago, and his services were so much appreciated by the people that they made application for his services as catechist during this summer. The station is to be sanctioned at the ensuing General Assembly, and Mr Munro being now through his studies, will be licensed by that time; and I understand that the people of Kilmuir are looking forward to getting him settled altogether among them. Mr Munro himself, however, is not greatly in love with the idea of settling down in Skye. His health is rather delicate, and the climate of Skye is too moist for agreeing well with his constitution; and hence he is resolving not to remain in Skye if he can help it. What should prevent the people of either Kingussie, Abernethy, or Duthil from improving this hint? If I had to choose a minister for myself from among all the probationers and students with whom I am acquainted, Mr Munro would be my choice. He drank tea one evening with Mr Baillie and myself, and Mr Baillie, who is not easily pleased, was so much taken up with him that he wished me to write you about him as one who might suit Kingussie.

. . . . "Were it not for Mr Christopher Munro I would not, in all probability, have seen the Vale of Leven (in which beautiful valley Renton is situated) this summer. So you see how much depends on the character of those who certify your merits. Mr Munro returned to Edinburgh on the Monday, and soon after he informed me that he was asked to apply to me for going to Renton next Sabbath. I told him as before that I would go that Sabbath, but not as a candidate—that my mind in reference to Islay was unchanged. After Mr Munro got my consent for the Sabbath in question, he wrote to Renton intimating that they might expect me on the Saturday, and that, after considering their proposal about his staying with them, if they would be pleased with his poor services he would go to them for a time, unless they would make up their minds to keep Mr Cameron.

“Mr Munro and myself had a walk together on Tuesday evening. He then informed me that since his return from Renton he had been considering their proposal about going to them for a time—that he knew the Skye people would be trying to keep him altogether if he went there—that he considered the climate as too damp for his constitution, and, especially, that in the meantime he would not have a comfortable lodging-place in Kilmuir—considering all these things he was inclined to embrace the invitation from the Renton people. At the same time he saw obstacles in the way of his going to Renton. I advised him to go to Renton. At the same time, however, I sympathised so much with his difficulties that I proposed his going with myself to Islay for a few weeks until he would be licensed; for if he were licensed, he would not go either to Renton or to Islay.”

Notwithstanding a severe illness, brought on by a chill caught while talking protractedly to his friend, Mr Cameron, on Friday, read a discourse to Professor Bannerman, presided at the Students' Society meeting in the evening, and set out for Renton on Saturday. And this is how he describes his experience on the following day :—

“21st. On Sabbath I could only compare myself to an ox unaccustomed to the yoke—it has been so long since I addressed a congregation before, although I had been from time to time during the winter addressing meetings. I got through the forenoon exercises pretty comfortably; but I became unwell when in the midst of the evening service, and had to stop for two or three minutes while two verses of a Psalm were being sung. After the singing I continued the subject, and I found myself then quite at ease. That was the first time since I opened my mouth in public that I was obliged to stop in the middle of a discourse from any cause whatever. It is rather curious that the same thing happened to Donald Duff on his first appearance in Renton. Two of the people paid me every attention, accompanied me to my lodgings, and insisted on my staying in the place the following day, when one of them offered to accompany me to some of the objects of interest in the neighbourhood. I complied, and on Monday evening a few of them gathered in a private house, where I had an opportunity of addressing them for some time from a portion of the 14th of John's Gospel.

“I received a good deal of information on the Monday regarding the station and its past history. I need not, however, dwell upon these matters; for if you may feel any curiosity regarding them, Donald Duff can give you more information than I can afford time to write you. I may mention, however, that they have had no regular supply since Mr James Grant left them for Alvie and Rothiemurchus. Since that time they have been shifting for themselves as best they could. . . .

"I have also a habit of speaking out my mind more plainly than one courting the favour of such men as —— ought to do. The truth is, I never cared very much about him as a preacher, and hence it is impossible for me to feel for him that profound reverence and respect which I entertain for such men as Mr Kennedy of Dingwall. In presence of such men as the latter I feel abashed, but before such men as the former I am apt to speak and act in a manner calculated to leave upon their minds the impression that I am a young man who is very ready to go out of his own place. The feeling to which I have referred you can easily appreciate. Before Donald Cattanach, Joseph Mackay, John Sutherland, and many other worthy Christians I have often felt as if I could wish to lie down at their feet : but before some of the stars of less magnitude." . . . I may have often spoken so as to make them carry away the impression regarding me that I would be the better of getting my wings clipped. This suggests to my mind a thought which I should wish to impress upon you, although you are older and more experienced than I am. Solomon says:—"Foolishness is bound in the heart of a child, but the rod of correction shall drive it far from him." The old Christian often thinks that it is his duty to use the rod of correction to drive foolishness from the heart of the young Christian. The rod of correction, however, belongs to wiser and steadier hands—to the hands of the child's father. The aged Christian ought to reprove and counsel the young Christian, but the reproof and counsel ought to be administered in gentleness and love. The aged Christian ought to remember that he too was once a foolish child, knowing but little of himself and less of others."

A passing remark regarding the persons mentioned in this letter may be permitted. Rev. James Grant was ordained and inducted at Alvie and Rothiemurchus soon after this date. He was a very remarkable man, who combined in his preaching the quaintness and directness of the old puritans with the fervour and power of his own period. He was somewhat of a hermit, and he devoted all his spare hours studiously and successfully to astronomy. Professor Grant of Glasgow University frequently spoke highly of his astronomical attainments and curious researches, despite his being sadly handicapped by the lack of requisite instruments for observation. His valuable papers, by which he set great store, passed into the hands of his nephew, Rev. Mr Grant, now in Australia ; but the hope of seeing them published has been already unduly deferred. Mr Grant was a great pedestrian, and would have none of the modern enervating travelling facilities. His most memorable characteristic was his profound piety.

A little later, Rev. N. Dewar was settled at Kingussie, where he still labours, and is well-known as a Gaelic scholar and translator of the Bible.

The name and fame of Dr Kennedy of Dingwall is fresh and fragrant in all the churches and needs no encomium of mine, though I have had great reason to acknowledge and commemorate his unrivalled hospitality, unfailing kindness, and unapproached power and influence as a persuasive and sublime preacher and born leader of men.

I have already alluded briefly to the institution of "the men," or those wont to address Friday Fellowship Meetings, mainly in the North. Such speakers to the "question" or subject-matter of Christian experience, as distinguished from hollow or hypocritical profession, were frequently men of deep insight into human hearts, familiar with the alternating gloom and sunshine of a believer's life, and widely versed in the truths and teaching of the Word of God.

Donald Cattanaich, who is but lately deceased, was one of the most highly respected and earnestly looked-for speakers on a fellowship day. His knowledge and command of Scripture, as well as apt quotation and appropriate application, was simply marvellous, and his natural gift of tender and effective eloquence was entrancing. Like Ezekiel, he was unto the people "as a very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice," and to those of deepest discernment his pathetic and powerful words were as balm to a wounded spirit. Perhaps none who ever heard him at his best, or came under his sympathetic sway, could in a life-time forget the fact—the mysterious and inexplicable charm. And seldom did he end an address without rendering his audience sorry that he had not continued longer.

Donald Duff was a man of great ability and intellectual grasp and grip. Few men could so clearly and logically set forth the doctrines of Scripture in their bearing upon the consciences of men and the edifying of the Church of Christ. He was well-fitted and equipped by long experience and close meditation upon the deep things of the Spirit of God to deal with hard and knotty problems, on which he invariably threw a flood of light. Many a troubled soul found rest and consolation in listening to his wise and weighty words. On a question day he was generally called last—an acknowledgment of his unquestioned power and penetration, which sometimes might be mistaken for critical severity but which, I have no doubt, were the genuine outcome of a luminous mind and of a conscientious discharge of duty. It is frequently impossible to handle truth accurately and adequately without giving unintended offence. His eloquence, which at the outset might be unremarked, was the product not so much of voice as of heart movement—the sustained result of continuous conviction and glowing motion due to the progress of a great and far-reaching argument that touched and traced the duty and destiny of the hearer.

From the letter last quoted, we find that Mr Cameron's missionary work began at Renton, in February, 1855. He found much work before him in the Vale of Leven, many difficulties to overcome, and not always all the sympathy that might be expected; but he could count on many fast and faithful friends, whose presence and support cheered and encouraged his heart. His influence was not confined to his immediate surroundings but extended to others in a correspondence which formed the medium of communicating counsel and consolation. To one in whom all his interest centred, and for whose welfare he had the utmost regard, he writes:—

“Renton, August 9th, 1855.—I hope that you will bear up under your affliction. The Lord may sanctify to you this dispensation, and then you will be able to say that it was good for you to be afflicted. Read and study those portions of the Word of God that treat of the suitableness of the Saviour to your own case, and of the freeness and fulness of the gospel offer. Remember that Christ is offered to you by the Father, by Himself, and by the Holy Spirit. The moment you receive Christ as He is freely offered to you, your sins will be pardoned, and your person will be accepted of God in Christ. What a glorious promise, ‘I, even

I, am He that blotteth out your sins, for mine own name's sake (Isa. xliii. 25). The moment you embrace Christ, the God against whom you have sinned will freely pardon all your sins. But why not embrace Christ when He is freely offered to you by His Father? In the gospel offer, the Father makes you a gift of His Son—His only begotten Son. Are you to refuse that Gift, and, by refusing it, to dishonour the Giver, and ensure the eternal destruction of your own soul? Cast yourself as a poor sinner upon Christ. Believe Him to be yours—yours in the offer, because He is the gift of the Father to sinners of the whole human race—yea, to every sinner out of hell who hears the word; and therefore to you as one of them.”

“August 10th.— . . . Think much of the word ‘my,’ for it is faith’s favourite word. My Lord and my God, said Thomas, when his faith was in exercise. My is the appropriating word. See how often the Psalmist uses it in speaking of God. See Psalm 18 and Psalm 42, and many others. It is by appropriating Christ, by taking Him to yourself, that you are united to Him. He is always waiting to be gracious—waiting until you will accept Him. What a match! the Prince of Glory and the heir of hell! What a wonder that it is the heir of hell that objects to the match, and that the Prince of Glory is always ready—waiting, as it were, to espouse her. . . . It is from the assurance that Christ is yours and that you are His that comfort will flow to your soul, or, I should rather say, the comfort flows from Christ Himself, but the assurance of your interest in Him is the occasion of its flowing. Your comfort and your joy arises, not from the mere fact that Christ is an all-sufficient Saviour, but from the additional fact that this all-sufficient Saviour is yours—your own personal Saviour. Rest not satisfied, therefore, until you can say that your beloved is yours and that you are His. Seek to be every day more and more assured of that great truth. Remember, however, that your assurance must proceed, not from your feelings, but from your embracing Christ every day anew as your Saviour. The feeling of joy and peace is the consequence of the assurance, not the cause of it.”

“August 27th.— . . . Faith in Christ is the best support in trouble. We read of Moses, in Heb. xi. 27, that he endured as seeing Him who is invisible. It was believing the promise that sustained him in the time of his affliction. . . .

“But, you will say, how am I to know that the promise is mine—that God has said to me, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee? If the promise be not yours, it is because Christ is not yours; and if Christ is not yours, it is because you, notwithstanding your need of Him, and his suitableness to your case, will not have Him when he is freely offered to you in the gospel. But if you have received Christ, as I believe you have, the promise is yours in Christ. The promise may not be coming home with power to your heart at all times ; but that does not affect the truth of the promise, or of your right to it in Christ, for it is in Christ that the promises are yea and amen. You experience the promise coming home to you at times with such force and power that you feel perfectly persuaded that that promise is yours ; while perhaps a few minutes after, you experience sin prevailing over you, unbelief obtains in your experience the upper hand, and you can no longer say that the promise is yours—you cannot even say that it was ever yours : for, although you once believed it to be yours, you have no longer that persuasion, but, on the contrary, you are afraid that your former experience was a presumption and a delusion. That, I think, is the way you feel, and it is the way which every Christian felt before you.

“I wish you, however, to reflect upon what I have now written, and which I believe to be your experience. If you examine it, you will soon discover the cause of the spiritual ailment—your want of evidence of Christ and His promises being yours—of which you complain. Sometimes you feel persuaded that Christ and the promise in Him are yours ; sometimes you feel the promise coming home with such force to your mind, and at that time you have no doubt of your interest in Christ, and of the everlasting arms being round about you. Then you have some measure of joy and peace. If you will now examine your case, as here stated, you will easily see that your prosperous time is when faith is the master of the house ; in other words, when you are taking hold by faith of Christ in the promise. Your joy and peace flow from your assurance of Christ being yours, and of your sins being pardoned by His righteousness being imputed to you. True joy and peace can be experienced only when the soul is exercising faith upon God in the promise—see Rom. xv. 13, where the Apostle speaks of ‘joy and peace’ in believing. To be perpetually enjoying joy and peace, the soul must be always exercising faith upon the person of Christ ; in other words, must be always receiving Christ and His blessings to itself—a state to which no believer attains on earth, because of the remains of sin in the soul. Our joy and peace, as I mentioned in a former letter, is in proportion to the strength of our assurance of Christ and His benefits being ours. . . .

“Your doubts arise from unbelief. When your faith is not exercised upon Christ in the promise you lose sight of your evidence, and then you have not the firm assurance and persuasion that Christ is yours which you have when you are in the act of appropriating Him as He is offered. You look into your own heart, and you find it a cage of unclean birds—you find it full of every unclean thing. You then immediately conclude that you are not in Christ, otherwise these things could not be so. We are very liable to reason in this way ; but it is a very fallacious way of reasoning. Why is it that the believer experiences the strength of sin more than any other, more than those who live under its power? The reason is very obvious. The believer resists sin—he strives against it, and hence it is that he knows from experience the strength of sin more than those who live habitually under its dominion. Sin is like a strong current or stream. When you glide down the stream you are not conscious of its strength ; but the moment you set yourself against the stream you become sensible of its strength. You now see more of the filth and abomination of sin, and it will become, in consequence, more burdensome and hateful to you. But you very likely discover love to sin in your heart ; but are you not conscious of hating your love to sin? How do you say that vain thoughts almost kill you, if they were not a trouble to you? Do you not find that you loathe yourself, that you are ashamed of yourself because you cherish sin so much in your heart? These are some of the marks of discipleship.

“ You mistake the meaning of the passage, ‘ Sin shall not have dominion over you, for you are not under the law, but under grace.’ The experience of sin is very different from the dominion of sin. The more you will advance in grace, and in conformity to the image of Christ, the more you will experience the strength of sin in your heart. You will never have experienced the working of sin in the heart as powerful as when you will be ripest for glory. . . .

“ I have to tell you many things ; but I do not know in what state you are, and perhaps it would be improper to refer to ordinary subjects. I may mention, however, that my friend Mr Sutherland from Edinburgh and myself sailed up Loch Lomond last Thursday. When coming back we left the boat at Tarbet—a place about mid-way up the Loch, and went across to another loch, down which we sailed to Kilmuir, Dunoon, Greenock, and other places and then returned home. If you look in the Atlas you will find that there is but a short distance between Loch Long and Loch Lomond. It was down the former Loch that we came. I spent ten shillings on the excursion, and I am now beginning to see the foolishness of spending so much in the pursuit of pleasure. I could not help going to the Loch, however ; for I required to show every attention to my friend, and I received a good deal of instruction as well as of amusement from the trip.

“ When sailing up Loch Lomond we made the acquaintance of three American ladies—one of them a very interesting creature. It was for her sake that the other two ladies were travelling ; for one of them was her aunt, and the other her friend. She was evidently in very good circumstances, and was as lively and intelligent a young creature as I ever met with. But the saddest is to tell : she is evidently far gone in a decline—a thing of which she is quite sensible, although she says that her health has improved since she left America a few weeks ago. She is travelling from one place to another in pursuit of health—or, in other words, she is fleeing from death, while the grim tyrant seems as eager in pursuit. I felt very much interested in her (the three were Free Church), and would fain, if I had an opportunity, lead her to the physician that is in Gilead and to the balm that is there. . . .

“Last Sabbath I spoke in the forenoon from Isaiah ii. 8 ; and in the afternoon from Psalm xiv. 12, ‘Mine iniquities have taken hold upon me, so that I am not able to look up.’ I had no evening service, because there was a sermon in the neighbourhood for a collection in aid of the funds of the Public School in the village and I did not wish to be the means of keeping any of the people from attending there. One Mr Watson from L—, a Free Churchman, officiated. His remarks were very good ; only that he mistook the real meaning of his text, ‘Why stand ye here all the day idle?’ His grand mistake was taking for granted that the text applied to those in the vineyard, instead of those out of it. . . .”

“29th September.— . . . You say that sin has power over you. You should rather say that it has power in you. I hope—I believe—it has no power over you, because I believe that you have embraced the Lord Jesus Christ as your Saviour. It may, however, have power in you—that is, you may feel its powerful workings in your soul, leading your soul into bondage ; but that feeling is very different from your soul being under the dominion of sin. . . .

“No one can ever feel the strength of sin who never warred against its power. What wars against sin—what hates, and what will ultimately destroy sin entirely, is the love of Christ in the soul. That holy flame—yea, though it were but a mere spark—will gradually consume every particle of sin in the soul.”

“6th November.— . . . O, how cruel is death ! To me and to your other friends it is cruel—to you it will be a messenger of peace sent forth to bring you home to the bosom of your Father and your God. Fear not, He will be with you ; be not dismayed, for He will be your God—yea, is your God. He will strengthen you, He will help you, He will uphold you by the right hand of his righteousness. In the distance Death seems formidable. To our weak and doubting minds it often presents itself armed with terrors ; but these vanish on nearer approach. To the believer it has no sting, for Christ Jesus deprived it of the sting. It is not as Christ had to meet death that, I trust, you and I shall have to meet it. He met it in all its terrors and armed with its sting. That sting was thrust into the holy soul of the blessed Jesus; and hence it will never be thrust into any of His people. We may say that Death spent all his power—the power which sin gave to it—in accomplishing the death of Immanuel, so that it has no more power to spend against believers. The exhaustion of its strength was the death of death, and hence the death of Christ was the death of death. What a glorious truth! How comfortable and consoling to the poor trembling Christian in prospect of death! There was never death like the death of Him who loved us and gave Himself for us. It was a death of great bodily pain and of intense mental agony. It was a death of shame and ignominy—an accursed death. He died bearing the iniquities of His people, and pressed down in His soul under the burden of conscious guilt—guilt which He did not contract, but which, in His love and mercy, He voluntarily took upon Himself—for the chastisement of His people's peace—may I not say of your peace and my peace?—was laid upon Him, that by His stripes we might be healed. The Lord laid upon Him the iniquities of us all. What a burden! A burden too weighty for the whole world to sustain was laid upon His blessed shoulders, that our shoulders might be freed from the burden. He died without any evidence or comfortable sense in His soul of His Father's love to Him; for His Father had withdrawn from His soul in the hour of His deepest sufferings the light of His countenance—which desertion constrained the Son to exclaim, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?'

"You complain of darkness and forsaking, and of not experiencing God's love in your soul. Christ experienced greater darkness and forsaking, and the comfortable assurance of His Father's love was denied Him that his love might be throughout eternity filling the hearts of His people. In His divine nature He knew that His Father loved Him, for He knew the whole mind of God; but in His human nature that comfortable assurance was at this time withheld from Him; and notwithstanding all this He trusted in God and committed His soul into His Father's hand. . . . And yet His Father loved Him at the very moment that He was forsaking Him by hiding His face from Him, the very moment when, as justice demanded, He was pouring the floods of His wrath into His soul. In the same way God loves His people, even when he smites and chastises them, and when they have no sense of His love in their souls. Is it not so with you often? Remember then that Christ at the right hand of the Majesty on High still retains a fellow feeling with you in that very thing. . . .

"O it is out of ourselves to Christ that we must go for love to warm and melt our cold frozen souls. His love must be poured into our souls; but the fire that will kindle love in us must come from God himself. It is not in us until He by His blessed spirit kindles it there. And after it is kindled it will soon go out, as far as our experience is concerned, unless God Himself by His Spirit will keep continually blowing at it. Look for new supplies of love to the source of love—that God who is love—and not to your own poor heart. The emptier your soul is kept the better, for that emptiness will give you a message to the fulness that is in Christ. . . . Remember it is only by looking upon Christ that the believer's face will shine.

"I am glad that I can see you so soon; but how much greater would our joy be if we were meeting in perfect health? Is this world not indeed the vale of tears? Think how many a bitter tear has ever been shed upon it—how many oppressive groans have been uttered by the millions of creatures who have lived upon its surface—and then think of sin which has been the cause of all those tears and groans. They are happy who have been landed safely on the shores of that world where there is neither sorrow nor sighing. If there be any condition that I would envy it is that of the young Christian who is brought away early from the evil that is in the world. The heavenly husbandman—the Father—has especial care of the young and tender branches, and many of them are so dear in His sight that He will rather bring them home into His own bosom than expose them to the storms, tempests, and injuries to which they would be liable if left in the vineyard below. There is no safe anchorage for the believer's soul but in the haven of glory. That hope which is the anchor of the believer's soul owes its security to its entering within the veil whither the forerunner has entered. Let the Lord Jesus, who lives within the veil and who intercedes there for His people, be the pole-star of your faith and hope, and then although He were to call you through the swellings of Jordan what would you have to fear? Everything is a blessing which brings the believer nearer his home. In this sense death itself is a blessing—death is a blessing since Christ by His death deprived it of its sting. . . . Glory be to God that such is the blessed consummation of the believer's hopes."

Here is how Mr Cameron contemplates a change of life on the part of his landlord, and the consequent necessity of a change of abode on his own part:—

"Three members of our Committee are after calling this minute. I was afraid when so many made their appearance that some unpleasant matter was to be communicated. Their business, however, has not been very disagreeable, though it is a little annoying. It seems that I must leave my present lodgings ; for my landlord has taken a marrying fit, which is agreeable enough to him although annoying to me. . . . The parlour and bedroom are as comfortable and elegant as any apartments of their size could be, and hence I am very sorry leaving them. O for contentment ! Contentment is the very essence of happiness."

It was a time of struggle for the station, but it survived, and Mr Cameron's efforts in building up a congregation were early appreciated ; for we find that a handsome presentation was made to him on the 26th October, 1855. He speaks of it thus :—

"I am sure you will be glad to hear of the presentation. The whole of Owen's Works, and six sovereigns besides, form a very valuable gift. Indeed, the purse which contains the money would be a nice gift itself. If the Lord would pour out His spirit upon us, all would be well ; but without the Spirit we will only be hardened. I had to make a speech when the books and the money were given me ; but I am sorry that it was a failure, partly from want of preparation. You see there is always something to mortify us and to keep us humble."

He began at this period to collect curious and rare books—some of them Gaelic—and made large purchases at sales, so much so that the story is still told that his landlady was in terror, and actually complained, that not only would the rooms give way, but that the house itself would soon come down unless a stop was put to the book-hunting and storing. This was merely the commencement of what proved a life-long pursuit and pleasure.

The last, and pathetic, reference to May Cattnach, his aunt, is interesting, and indicates mindfulness of one another to the end. Her death occurred when he was at Edinburgh, attending his last session in Divinity. How frequently people are permitted, Moses-like, to come in sight of what they most desire, and then required to depart this life without seeing their hopes realised :—

"21 Nelson Street, Jany. 10th, 1856.—I heard from I—— of my aunt's death. I shall feel very curious and sad, if I shall be spared to go home, when she will not be before me. I am glad that I went home in the end of autumn, and that I saw her before her death. I have been much indebted to her."

The Gaelic congregation of Paisley seem to have set their heart, and fixed their eye early on Mr Cameron, who writes, under date February 21st, from Alexandria :—

“There was a deputation from the Gaelic congregation, Paisley, in Renton last Sabbath. Their minister is going to leave them, and that was the reason which brought them down to hear me. I did not know they were in the congregation until they spoke to me after we dismissed. They wished me to go a Sabbath to Paisley, but I do not know whether I shall go or not. I have been spoken to about going to Helmsdale, in Sutherland ; but there is no place in the world to which my mind is inclining. I wish to follow the guidance of Providence. I shrink as often as I think of the awful responsibility of the ministerial office.”

A little later he adds—

“The Gaelic congregation of Paisley have spoken to me repeatedly about accepting a call from them when I am licensed ; but I do not know what to do, whether to take it or not.”

The account given by himself of his last Presbyterian examination, prior to being licensed, is somewhat instructive as a kind of precursor or prophecy of his after ecclesiastical experiences :—

“March 9th.—When I wrote you last I had very little expectation that I could be licensed for more than six months, because I was too late in applying for being taken on trials. I could not get on before November, unless either the Edinburgh Presbytery would agree to hold a special meeting on my account—a thing which I could never ask them to do—or the Dumbarton Presbytery would bring my case before the General Assembly, a thing which would involve considerable trouble and expense. The Edinburgh Presbytery met on the 27th February, and unless they would meet again on or before the 6th March, I could not be recommended by them to the Synod. I went to the meeting on the 27th, and, although I did not ask them to meet again on or before the 6th March, when the Clerk stated my case, they agreed to meet on the Tuesday following—that is, the 4th March—to examine me, and recommend me to the Synod. It was exceedingly kind of them ; but I think I see the hand of the Lord in the matter. I was examined by Dr Candlish and two other ministers for two hours and a-half on Monday, the 3rd, which made the examination before the Presbytery merely a nominal one. The examination, and the preparation of my discourses for the Professors, kept me for some time very busy. I was working, I may say, day and night. I passed without any difficulty, and I am happy to tell you that I shall have no more examinations before I am licensed. I shall require to give in some discourses to the Presbytery, but I shall have no more examinations."

The Renton people meanwhile were not forgetful of their own interests, as the following further extract shows :—

"A deputation from this congregation are after coming in to get me to agree to remain here at least another quarter. I have promised them to remain with them for other three months, and by the end of that time it is now, of course, impossible to say what may happen."

The following extracts reveal, on the one hand, unfailing sympathy and tenderness, and on the other deep-rooted humility, with no confidence in abilities or attainments :—

"April 9th.—God has brought you in His great mercy to a saving knowledge of His Son Jesus Christ, and if He is now to take you home to Himself, the change will be unspeakably better for you than if He were to leave you many years in this dreary wilderness, in which there is no happiness to be enjoyed but what comes from God Himself. The comfort of believers on earth flows from seeing Christ by faith ; but in heaven they shall see Him face to face, and sin can no more come between them and the smiles of their Beloved. It is meet to be drinking in the love of God on earth out of the cup of the promise : but Oh ! it will be unspeakably sweeter to be drinking out of the fountain than out of the purest of the streams. . . . It is true that the Lord in His holy and wise providence has made the furnace, in which He has placed you to purify you by revealing to you more and more of the evil of your own heart, and more and more of the unspeakable preciousness of His Son, very hot. Your sufferings have been great, but the Lord has hitherto sustained you, and He will do so to the end ; and hot though the furnace be, the trial is not of such long continuance, as it would be if He were pleased to leave you long exposed to the trials and temptations of the wilderness. A short though stormy passage to the heavenly country is far preferable to a long and dreary journey such as Israel, on account of their sin, had in the wilderness.

"May 16th.—I am very much afraid that I have not the necessary qualifications for the great work of preaching the gospel. I have been very much distressed with the thought this day, that I do not know whether any one got good through me. See how long I have been preaching ! I know of a few cases of individuals becoming seriously inclined through the instrumentality of my discourses ; but I do not know of a single individual that I have been the means of leading to the Saviour, and of espousing to the glorious Husband of the Church. I would not mind, however, if I thought the Lord wished me to be engaged in this work."

Referring to the cases of two anxious young men, he says :—

"These, however, are cases of conviction, and although it rejoices me to hear of them, it would rejoice me much more to hear of cases of decided conversion I sometimes think that I have need of being further enlightened as to the way of bringing sinners to Christ—indeed, that I have yet to learn the art of winning souls is what I am much afraid of."

A preacher may expect, as part of the afflictions incident to his office, to be subjected to occasional misconception, misconstruction, and consequent annoyance. Mr Cameron did not escape this kind of aggrieved criticism :—

"June 5th.—I consider it a sign for good that my preaching is stirring up the enmity of the carnal mind against me, as is manifest in the case of the ——. They thought that I was preaching last Sabbath against them when I was bringing forward no truth but what was plainly according to the divisions of my discourse. The Sabbath before that I was speaking in the afternoon from the words, 'If any man be in Christ he is a new creature,' &c., and in speaking of some false kinds of conversion I said that I wished to be kept from the kind of preaching which brought the terrors of the law to bear upon the affections or feelings, and which did not enlighten the understanding. I said also that there was another kind of preaching very dangerous, which drew a picture of the external sufferings of the Saviour—that is, the sufferings of his body—before the imagination ; for that, although such a picture would excite the feelings that it would never melt the heart, or that it would not be saving knowledge. I am sure I said the same things scores of times before ; but it seems that — never thought about the subject before, for he has been telling some of the people that this is erroneous doctrine."

Regarding his twenty-ninth birthday (14th July) he writes :—

"It is a long time to live without having done much for Christ. How much had been done by MacCheyne before he arrived at my age ; and how much had been done by Andrew Gray, of Glasgow, before he was 22, the year at which he died."

Unpunctual attention to correspondence is ingeniously accounted for thus :—

"August 12.—I feel that I owe you an apology for being so long without writing you. For some time I fancied that I had written to let you know that Mr A—— would go to see my father and yourself; but I suspect that I did not write, although I had been thinking so long about writing that I had persuaded myself that I had actually written."

Mr Cameron's well-known hospitality dates from an early period, for, under the above date, we find :—

"I have a pious student from Glasgow living with me at present. 'He will stay for some time.'"

It will no doubt interest many to insert here Mr Cameron's account and impressions of his first visit to Arran, where he met Mr Davidson, the minister he afterwards succeeded, and also had long talks with the most learned and best known of his Professors—Rabbi Duncan :—

"Renton, September 2nd.—In my last I promised to give you, in my next communication, an account of my journey to Arran. I shall now endeavour to do so very briefly. I left this place, as I have already told you, on Thursday morning in a steamer which sails between Glasgow and Arran, and which calls at Rothesay on its way. At Rothesay, Mr Macleod from Rogart, came into the boat, according to previous arrangement. When we arrived at Brodick, a small village in the island of Arran, we did not know where to find lodgings. The place was crammed with strangers. We had gone to no fewer than fourteen houses, in none of which we could find accommodation. I happened to meet a fellow-student on the road, who was living down there with his widowed mother and sister. Mr Macleod was acquainted with his mother many years before in the Isle of Skye, where his father owned at one time a small estate. They made a shift in order to provide us with a bed for the night in their own lodgings; but as Mr Macleod and myself could have only one bed between us I resolved to make some further search for a bed for myself, and I was soon successful in getting a small bedroom, for which I paid 1s 6d for the night. My landlady was an old pious woman, I was led to know. The little room in my father's house would bring 12s or 15s in the week in Arran. Such a place I never saw. The Duke of Hamilton, who is the proprietor of the island, will not let the people build houses for strangers. Nearly all the present dwellings are mere huts, and yet they fetch enormous rents, the accommodation is so very scarce, and so many strangers resort to the island in summer, on account of the salubrity of the climate. . . .

"On Friday we called at Mr Davidson's, the Free Church minister at Brodick. . . . I staid only a few minutes. He and his daughters were, however, very kind to me, and made me take some luncheon. I then left to go by steamer to Lamlash, another village a few miles further away on the coast than Brodick. I did not stay any time at Lamlash, but walked to a place called Whiting Bay, four miles farther away, and where I knew Dr Duncan, from Edinburgh, to be staying. When I gained Dr Duncan's, I found him very busy learning Gaelic. You know he is one of the Professors in the New College. He is staying in Arran during the summer for the benefit of his health. After asking me some questions about Gaelic grammar, and giving me something to eat, the doctor went out with me to search for a bed, and we were no time in finding one. Whiting Bay is very throng, but not nearly so crammed as Brodick. I spent the whole of the afternoon of Friday and the forenoon of Saturday with the Doctor, talking at one time about Gaelic, and at another about theology and Christian experience. I admire the doctor above almost every other man. He is simple as a child, and yet is most profound. I would never tire sitting at his feet, when he begins to speak about any department of theology."

In the same letter we find the following allusion to the progress of matters at Renton. A congregational meeting was called, at which Mr Macrae, Greenock, and Mr Anderson, Rothesay, were present :—

"At the meeting Mr Macrae preached a short sermon and then addressed the people on the desirableness of getting a church for themselves. Mr Anderson then addressed them shortly, and a committee was appointed to collect subscriptions. Mr Campbell, Tulliechewen, sent a conveyance to bring Mr Macrae and Mr Anderson to his Castle to remain there all night, and that he might learn from them the object of the meeting. Mr Campbell promised to give them £100 if the people themselves contribute £300. I have no doubt of the people contributing more than £300 from among themselves and others in the district who may be disposed to help them; for the manager gives £50, and my landlord gives other £50—so that all we require is £200—and a considerable portion of that sum is already subscribed."

He also adds—

"I have given a final refusal to Paisley. . . . I am very sorry indeed that they waited so long for me, without looking out for some other person, since they are disappointed at last. I am not, however, to blame for their waiting, for I never gave them any ground to hope that I would accept a call from them, and I frequently urged them to look out for another, as I could not see that I was suitable for the place. When the people here have commenced to move in the direction of getting a church for themselves, it would never do for me to leave them; for my leaving them at present would discourage them in their undertaking."

Mr Cameron was duly licensed by the Free Presbytery of Edinburgh on Thursday, 20th November, 1856; and the proceedings are best described in his own words:—

"Renton, November 24th.—I have been so busy for the last two weeks that I had no time to write even a short note. I was two nights so busy with my discourses for the Presbytery that I had not gone to bed at all. I had gone to Edinburgh on the 12th of this month, and after sitting all day in the Presbytery House I did not get even one of my discourses read; for they had been so much occupied with other things that they could not afford time to hear me read. I went back again last Thursday, and that day they had not much business to transact, so that I got all my discourses read at the one meeting, and was then licensed; so that after ten long years—years which, however, I did not consider long while they were passing—I am finished with my studies, although in one sense they may be said to be only commencing. When I look back across these ten years what memories they recall!

"I would not have got all my discourses read on Thursday were it not for Mr Macrae, Greenock, who spoke to Dr Candlish and to Sir Henry Moncrieff urging them to get me through that day that I might preach for him in Greenock on Sabbath. But although I should not get through that day I would get through on the 4th or 5th of next month at the latest. I have been for some time under promise to give Mr Macrae a few Sabbaths as soon as I should be licensed. I accordingly preached my first sermon—if I may call it my first sermon when I have been preaching now for so many months—on Sabbath—that is, yesterday—in the Gaelic Church, Greenock."

CHAPTER III.

RENTON—THE MISSION STATION.

THE onerous work of forming a new congregation in the Vale of Leven was carried on in the face of many obstacles, and not without considerable opposition. Mr Cameron writes, under December 9th, 1856 :—

“We had the meeting of Presbytery last Wednesday, when our case was again discussed. There was no objection made to our building a place of worship ; but we were refused permission to preach English in the afternoon. Against that restriction we appealed to the Synod, so that the matter cannot be decided until April next, for the Synod will not meet before that time. Only two ministers in the Presbytery were for giving us the English ; the rest were either against us or did not vote.”

The Gaelic congregation at Greenock—whose minister at this date was the famous and able evangelist, Rev. John Macrae, better known in the Highlands as Mac Rath Mòr—made some approaches to Mr Cameron with a view to his becoming colleague and successor. And it is clear from the following remark that the senior minister did not disapprove of the proposal :—“My health is not improving of late. I have serious thoughts in connection with that subject, and would like to have a confidential conversation with you.” This is how Mr Cameron writes regarding the matter :—

“Renton, January 10th, 1857.—The report to which I refer is that the office-bearers of the Gaelic congregation are anxious that I should become colleague and successor to Mr Macrae, who is no longer able to discharge the whole duties of the charge. The thing, however, may not come to any definite result. They were wishing to get me for three or four months from the time that I had been officiating there, but I could not do that on account of my connection with this station ; for I cannot leave this place altogether before April at the soonest. Again, although the people would be unanimous in their desire of getting me, I cannot say that I could undertake a charge of such weight and responsibility, for I am told that it is the most important Gaelic charge in the Church. I was told a few days ago that the people would be quite unanimous in calling me; but of course I do not know, nor can anyone know with certainty at present. I have had two letters asking me to preach in a vacant charge in the Island of Arran; but I declined going on each occasion, and I suppose my last note will be considered as a final refusal." [He never forgets his excellent correspondent's afflicted lot and need of sympathy.] "Let the word itself be your source of consolation, or rather Christ in the word. It is sweet to be getting an occasional crumb of the children's bread from the Master's table. Every crumb received here is an earnest of the everlasting banquet at which you will yet sit with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven."

He was requested to visit Caithness and to preach at Pulteneytown, Wick, which invitation he accepted.

"February 16th.—There was a large attendance yesterday both forenoon and afternoon. In the afternoon it was calculated that there would be about 800 present. They were hearing very attentively. I preached both forenoon and afternoon from the same verse, Song of Solomon vii. 10, 'I am my beloved's, and his desire is towards me.'"

The appeal made to the Synod on behalf of the Renton congregation for permission to have an English service was successful.

"April 23rd.—Our case came before the Synod on Wednesday forenoon, when the decision of the Presbytery was unanimously reversed, so that we have gained a victory at this stage. The Presbytery has protested and appealed to the General Assembly; but their case is now hopeless, and, therefore, I think they will fall from their appeal before the Assembly sits. It is not likely that the Assembly will overturn a unanimous decision of the Synod of Glasgow and Ayr. You are aware that the case is about our having leave to preach English in the afternoon of Sabbath, which the Presbytery refused us. I pleaded the case for the congregation at the bar of the Synod. My speech occupied forty minutes in its delivery. I was not pleased with it myself; but several others spoke of it in very flattering terms. The speech on the opposite side was by a Mr —, and it is allowed by those on the same side with him that he made the next thing to a fool of himself by the way in which he spoke. His whole speech was one tirade of abuse against the Highlanders, and no argument whatever."

At this date and juncture Mr Cameron began to keep a diary; but, like many others who similarly started well, he did not persistently persevere, and blanks of weeks, months, and years soon appear. Although at first acquaintance it might not be suspected, he possessed great store of unconscious humour, which sometimes, at fitting moments and amid suitable surroundings, found full scope. In his lively moods there were few more hearty or congenial conversationalists. No doubt, when one is accustomed to be much alone, the free use of speech and ready repartee may somewhat falter. From this view-point silence is scarcely always golden. A few extracts will suffice to illustrate these points :—

“Sabbath, May 3rd, 1857.—The discourse too long. Must study conciseness. How often in regard to this matter have I said, ‘I shall be wise,’ but that has hitherto been far from me. My mind considerably burdened with anxieties. May the Lord save me from wicked men who seem to be angry at me for no other causes than that I rebuked their sin. Lord preserve me likewise from that woman Mrs —, to whom Thou knowest I have given no cause for hating me. From being the next thing to an idolator, if not altogether one, she has turned, it seems, to be a mean but bitter enemy, for no other reason apparently than that she fancied, or took it into her head, that I think more of Mrs D.’s humble and unpretending piety than of her own flaming profession, although I am not aware of having ever instituted any comparison between them. Upon Thee, O Lord, I cast myself; save me from her tongue. ‘I am thine; save thou me.’ I was never, however, in more need of the rod, although I think I would prefer another to a woman’s tongue.”

As the events are attempted to be arranged chronologically, there may appear to be some lack of continuity and consecutiveness; but the gain in variety and vivacity may counterbalance the loss: and I shall consequently have to quote alternately from the diary and from the correspondence. Ecclesiastical affairs and affairs of the heart are found side by side; but they are by no means always synonymous :—

“C.¹ May 15th.—I am kept very busy. Our case is to be taken to the General Assembly by the parties in the Presbytery opposed to us. I trust we shall be successful; but it will be a great trial for me to appear and speak there. I have not yet begun to prepare my speech, but I know the subject well, and that is a great matter.”

¹ For facility of reference letter C. = Correspondence, and D. = Diary. The C. or D. is not repeated if the quotations are continuously from the one source.

"Poor Lord Byron loved, when he was very young, a lady who did not return his love, but who sometime after married another. This disappointment was the cause of the miserable life which he afterwards led. His case is one of the many sad illustrations of the fact that one can truly love only once."

The difficulty of attaining to acquiescence in one's lot is thus described :—

"O ! to be able to say, the Lord's will be done ; but that is a high attainment—higher than many know who talk much and loudly about resignation. It is difficult to be thoroughly resigned to the will of God. I know it ; I feel it. It is easy to speak of resignation until our own gourd is smitten."

His views on economy are thus expressed :—

"D. June 10th.—I must economise. It is only in the matter of books that I am extravagant. Must resolve to purchase no more, or, at least, very few. My expenditure in other respects, except perhaps travelling, very moderate indeed—not niggardly, however."

Broken resolutions relative to early rising have formed a prolific theme of poignant regrets, both before and since the days of Dr Samuel Johnson.

"Read more of Hedley Vicar's Life. Would that I could imitate him in his desire and endeavour to be useful to his fellow-men ! Why not ? I want zeal. Must stir myself up. This will never do. Must try to rise in the morning, to study more of next Sabbath's discourse. Can I carry out this resolution ? Lord, help me to do so. Nearly one o'clock A.M."

"D. June 11th.—Did not rise this morning earlier than usual, notwithstanding last night's resolution. Shall try to-morrow, if spared."

To return to the Renton Station Case. The Assembly left it undecided until the August Commission, but meanwhile referred it to the Presbytery to see whether the congregation could be accommodated in the church already erected in the village. It was a time of much anxiety to Mr Cameron.

"I failed to state the case of this congregation in the Assembly so well as I did before the Synod, and that is preying upon my mind."

"C. July 7th.—"But after the Presbytery met on 24th June, we saw that there is little chance of any arrangement being effected that will benefit this congregation."

The Presbytery appointed a Committee to carry out the Assembly's instructions.

"Since the appointment of that Committee, I have lost heart, for I am afraid that what I have been labouring for so long time to accomplish, shall fall to the ground, and that instead of leaving this congregation in possession of a suitable place of worship, which they might call their own, I shall have to leave them scattered hither and thither."

"D. If an arrangement can be effected by which the two congregations can be suitably accommodated in the one building, so as to avoid the necessity of erecting another, that arrangement ought by all means, for the good of the cause generally, to be carried out, even should particular interests to some small degree suffer. How great is the value of firmness in resolution as well as in action! A man whom you can find exactly where you left him is the man to be depended upon in an emergency."

"C. July 18th.—"I have not been very well for some time back. The anxiety connected with the movement in our congregation, and the opposition it is encountering, are telling upon my health. . . . Ah! how I long to go North, to see all my friends, and to get a few weeks' rest! I have great need of escaping from this scene of strife. The idea of it makes me miserable, and yet I cannot think of leaving this poor congregation in its present state."

"C. July 25th.—On Saturday I saw Mr Campbell, Tullichewen, for some time. He is most anxious that the Highlanders may be accommodated in the Renton Free Church, of which he is an elder. His fellow-office-bearers are anxious to bring about the same result; but, considering the opposition of the Presbytery—or, at all events, of part of the Presbytery—I do not expect that that result is attainable."

"C. November 16th, Renton.—To-morrow morning, D.V., I leave this for Edinburgh, to defend our case at the bar of the Commission, on Wednesday—probably in the evening. It is a great trial to stand up to speak before so many people, but I trust I shall be strengthened and guided. I feel very anxious. . . . I am not thoroughly prepared. The difficulty will be in condensing my materials so that the hearers will not be wearied, and in presenting them in the clearest and most impressive way, so as to convince the hearers, who are to be the judges, that what you ask is reasonable and right. If we lose, the loss to this poor station will be incalculable."

The case was gained, and the following congratulatory letter from Mac Rath Mòr is noteworthy:—

“Free Manse of Lochs, 27th November, 1857.

“My Dear Sir,—I was at Stornoway this week attending the Presbytery, and was indeed glad that your case, in which I took a deep interest from the first, was brought to a right termination. You have now the ball, so to speak, at your feet ; and it now only remains that you go to work with prudence and energy. The Party wishing for a change may propose what they choose to you, but unless such a proposal is both reasonable and practicable, you should not entertain it for a moment, nor pause for an instant in your onward progress. I congratulate you on being chiefly instrumental in laying a solid foundation for a Gaelic congregation at Renton ; and now that the foundation is laid, let a superstructure be raised worthy of the struggle which is happily brought to an end. The good hand of the Lord is what should be recognised in the whole matter. I suppose you will now take up the first instalment of the subscriptions without delay.

“You may let —— fall into oblivion. . . . In your present position, it will be easier for you to forgive him than for him to forgive you. The defeated offender is always stiff to deal with. However contrary to our notions of right and wrong, yet so it is.

“I am sorry to say that Mrs Macrae is not improving. She seems to be losing ground in the same proportion as I gain it. All the rest of us are quite well.

“What a panic in the commercial world ! Are all these commotions and earthquakes at home and abroad foreshadows of the great things promised ? It is certain that the times are not ordinary. But I must stop before I commit myself.—Yours sincerely,

“JOHN MACRAE.”

This is how Mr Cameron alludes to the successful termination of the anxious and protracted struggle :—

“C. 19th December.—You would have seen from the newspapers that we have gained our case. The English was introduced on the Sabbath before last by Mr Alexander, of Duntocher, our tried friend in the Presbytery all along. Last Sabbath we had Gaelic from 11½ to 1, and English from 1 to 2½. The house was full on each occasion.”

“I long for an opportunity of spending a few weeks in Badenoch. I do not know that I shall remain here beyond the end of this quarter. I am not yet quite determined as to what I shall do. As our case is settled, it is easier for me to leave ; but some of the people say that if I leave, the church will not go on. I would like to see the foundation stone laid before I would go to any other place.”

Although Mr Cameron's attention was fully engrossed with affairs at Renton, he was not forgotten elsewhere, for we find—

“C. July 7th.—When in Rothesay, I saw a paragraph in a newspaper which stated that I was elected, on the previous week, by the Pulteneytown congregation, by a majority of 86. No other one was proposed, but a motion was made for delay. . . . They know that I shall not accept a divided call, and that it is more than I can tell whether I should accept a unanimous call from a congregation that does not require Gaelic every Sabbath.”

Friendship and fellowship formed constitutive elements in his character.

“C. July 18th.—I do not know that I have ever told you of a friendship that I have recently formed. I refer to that of Mr G., a fellow-student. He is one of the finest young men that I have ever met with, and for some time back I have been a good deal in his society. He is with me at present.”

He held humble views of himself as a preacher at the very time that competent judges hailed him as one of the most promising and effective among the rising young men.

“C. July 25.—Since my return from the North, I think I have lost ground as a preacher. I find it, at all events, much more difficult to preach now than I did some time ago. I compare myself to Samson when shorn of his locks. I cannot go out to shake myself as I did on former times. I believe I know what this is owing to. My mind has of late been so much harassed with other things that it does not possess its former vigour and buoyancy.” Aprpos of this, D., June 10th.—“O Lord, impress myself with the truth that others may be impressed. The secret of my want of success in preaching lies, I suspect, in my want of spirituality. It is those who sow in tears who will reap in joy in the Lord's own time.”

And yet from the depths of such distress, and out of the abundance of the heart, he comforts his distressed correspondent.

“Whatever your experience may now be, at the time you said ‘I shall die trusting in Him,’ you were as firmly persuaded of the truth of what you were saying as you were of your own existence, and if so, that proves that it was a genuine expression of faith. It is possible that the words ‘I believe,’ or ‘I shall die trusting in Him,’ were scarcely out of your lips when you had to cry, ‘Help thou mine unbelief,’ but that does not affect the genuineness of your faith—it only proves the remaining sinfulness and corruption of your heart.”

Here is a very sensible view of differences of opinion not unknown in the Church and in the world at the present day—

“Mr E. is strongly opposed to the side taken by Mr A. What a pity that godly men differ so much! It grieves me much to witness the coldness between these men. I believe they both err in some things and are both right in other things connected with that case. May the Lord bring them to see eye to eye.”

“C. September 11th.—I have now more longing for studying the Bible, and the trials of the months that are now past have, I am confident, been blessed to my soul.”

Referring to his book-buying mania, he acknowledges a certain amount of “recklessness in that way,” but immediately adds, “yet some excuse may be offered for my conduct seeing that I shall never more have such an opportunity of buying useful books if I go to reside in the country.”

There is allusion made to one feature of his character which, I daresay, would readily escape the notice of his ecclesiastical opponents.

“D. Drank tea at Mr R.’s. Some conversation about the proposed church accommodation. A delightful family. They could not but regard me as a very forward individual. How is it that I appear so forward when suffering from exceptional shyness? Is it not owing to an unnatural effort to escape from my conscious diffidence—an effort which leads me to the opposite extreme before I am aware of it, and then, upon discovering that I have been speaking or acting out of my ordinary and natural manner, I feel pained.”

We come now to the year 1858, and find Mr Cameron still labouring at Renton, consolidating the congregation and collecting funds to erect a new church. With the advance of knowledge many cherished opinions inevitably undergo modification, while all that is good ought assuredly to be conserved.

“Yet I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widen’d with the process of the suns.”

There must come release from some influences and deliverance from the dominance of some views that may be very popular but scarcely scientific—at least somewhat unsafe if unduly emphasised.

“C. 7th January.—I have been dreaming much about him (a friend) of late, and, although I have little faith in dreams, I have so much of my early prejudices still clinging to me that they cause me uneasiness."

To the same three years earlier he writes :—

"It is your anxiety that gives you these unpleasant dreams. I am troubled with them myself, and it was only last night that I had a very unpleasant one. Remember, however, that whatever comes not from the Lord is not for our edification, and we ought not to attend to it. Again, the Lord speaks to His people only by His Spirit, and the Spirit speaks only in the Word. He speaks, of course, in His providence and through His works ; but it is the Word that casts light on these things. It is to the surer Word of prophecy that we must come to know the Lord's will regarding it."

The writer heard Mr Cameron repeatedly tell the following anecdote, which deals with the less serious aspect of the above subject. One morning a beggar called at the manse for alms, and the servant—a good and kindly woman—gave him at once all the meal in the house. She had none left wherewith to make porridge, and she mentioned the incident to the minister, who simply asked—"Why did you give all away?" To which the reply was—"A Scripture came to my mind to do so." "And why," was the further and final query, "did you not also get a Scripture for my porridge?"

His conviction as to the necessity of writing, though not of reading, his sermons, is given in the same letter :—

"I am at present studying very hard and writing a great deal, although I do not remember when, before this evening, I had written a letter. The last, so far as I remember, was to yourself, now more than a fortnight ago. I am now endeavouring to write my sermons at full length—a thing which all preachers ought to do, for the sake of their hearers and of themselves."

"C. January 16th.—We are making arrangements for beginning our church early in the spring, and while these arrangements are in progress, it will be very difficult for me to go to any other place."

Spiritual progress and prosperity profoundly and constantly concern him.

"Backsliding does not consist so much in the committal of outward sins as in a dead insensible frame of mind ; and it is that frame of mind from which our outward sins proceed. Ah, if I could get out of that frame of mind into a livelier and holier frame, I think I would be happy. The way out is thus set forth. Have your eye steadily fixed on the promise. You may be in darkness, but don't let the word go. Think upon it, and it is while thinking upon it that the light of faith and peace will gleam into the soul."

The illness of Mr Cameron's faithful and furnace-ried correspondent has for a considerable period assumed a serious form :—

"C. 19th January.—You will bring none of your sinful dross into Heaven, and hence the reason why the purifying fire is made so hot ; but He is able with the trial to make a way of escape. They who are clothed in white before the throne, and have the palms of victory in their hands, are those who come out of great tribulation. O, remember the blood of Christ, in which their robes have been washed ! . . . I have many trials that others have not, but I have none that I do not require. By them the Lord is preparing me, either to follow you soon, or else to be in some measure useful to His poor Church in the world, if He intends to spare me. I would not, however, exchange my lot with all its crooks for the easier lot of others whose ' hearts are as fat as grease,' Ps. cxix. 70. It is better to be cast into the hottest furnace of affliction than that our souls should lose their edge."

"C. 20th January.—Remember what you once wrote me ; that you would die trusting in Christ. Honour Him by trusting Him, and He will honour you by sustaining you. ' Those that honour Me will I honour,' is the promise. . . . May the Son of man by His Spirit be with you in the furnace. Rest assured that you are daily and hourly upon my mind."

"C. 23rd January.—At this moment I do not know well how you are. From your father's letter, I understood that you were suffering much ; but your real state I do not know. When I am writing these words you may be no more. And . . . the hour that releases your soul from the tabernacle which suffers so much will be a triumphant hour for you, although a sad one to those who love you, and whom, for a season, you leave behind. The separation, however, will be only for a season—a short season ; and then those who loved each other in the Lord will meet again, when there will be neither sin nor suffering. . . . While your day of warfare continues, seek to have the blessed Captain of Salvation in your eye. He too had to die, and what a death !"

It is pathetic to find in the same letter a reference to a more mundane matter which, in a measure, relieves the intensity of feeling awakened by impending gloom caught from imminent proximity to the shadow of the tomb. "O love, if thou wert all and nought beyond, O earth!" "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most pitiable."

"I have this day received a private letter from Kilmartin informing me that I have been unanimously chosen to be their minister, and that they are to be before the first meeting of Presbytery praying for a moderation in a call. I do not know what to say about the matter. I must seek to be guided by Him who is able to give light to show the way in which we ought to walk. It is a small charge, but that is so far a desirable element. I do not wish a large charge. . . . O, that I may receive the Holy Spirit! I have this evening got new light, perhaps not new light, but clearer light upon the subject of the indwelling of the Spirit in the souls of believers. The Spirit Himself dwells in them. He not only bestows grace upon them, but he Himself takes up His abode within them, and having done so He continually communicates His grace unto them in the measure which He knows will be for their good. . . . Earnestly desiring that the everlasting arms may continually encompass you, and believing that they shall, I remain. . . ."

Perhaps nothing can better exhibit and illustrate the preaching and practice of Mr Cameron as a probationer endeavouring to establish a congregation at Renton than the following letter, which shows him at his busiest and best:—

"C. January 26th.—I have to preach on Thursday evening (at Rothesay). I have chosen for my text Jer. iii. 14th, 'Return unto me ye backsliding children, I am married unto you.'¹ Pray that the Lord may enable me to speak unto the people a word in season. The service commences at six o'clock, and at that time be praying. God can hear you in Badenoch and give me an answer in Rothesay at one and the same time. I shall tell you my heads that you may be thinking over the subject yourself, if you are not so very weak that you cannot think upon anything.

I. Backsliding—(1) Its nature; (2) its causes; (3) its process, or how it progresses from a small beginning; (4) its sad consequences—deadness, unfruitfulness, want of comfort, and at length, it may be, reproach to the cause of Christ, and some of the evil consequences or fruits of backsliding in heart from God.

"II. The exhortation to return unto God. To return is the duty of the soul, but it is the Spirit alone that enables us to return—'Turn thou me and I shall be turned.'

¹Correct quotation is, "Turn, O backsliding children, saith the Lord; for I, &c."—ED.

“III. The motives to return. ‘I am married unto you, and I will take you one of a city and two of a family, and I will bring you to Zion.’ (1) The glory and beauty of Him to whom they are married—thy Maker is thy Husband; (2) the relation in which they stand to Him; they are married unto Him; and Christ’s spouse ought not to play the harlot with any other lovers; (3) all the goodness and love vouchsafed to them; (4) the remembrance of their former character and misdeeds; (5) the nature of God; for, although He is a God of love, He is also a jealous God, and He is very much displeased with the sin of having other gods. What a powerful motive to induce us to walk in the fear of God, and to return from all our backslidings is contained in the words, ‘I am married unto you!’ And consider that other motive (ver. xxii.), ‘I will heal your backslidings.’

“After I was over with my work last Sabbath, a man came to the door asking me to go to see a poor woman, one of our hearers, who was apparently dying. I was very tired, and, therefore, felt in my mind unwilling to go; but I never refuse to go to see a sick person at any time, and therefore I went. I knew the woman a little before but not intimately. She came here in summer from the Island of Tyree, with a married sister. She has been long poorly in health; but she used to be out on the Sabbath pretty often. A few months ago a brother she had here became ill, and when going to see her brother I used to see her. I found out then that it was her illness that was keeping her at home whenever she staid at home on the Sabbath. She was, however, very quiet—and did not speak much—and therefore I did not think very much about her. A few weeks ago, one of the hearers, a pious woman who was a hearer of old Mr Kennedy, spoke to me about this woman that I was called to see last Sabbath night. Mrs Dingwall, the woman from the north, was noticing the other at the hearing, and was thinking that there was something about her which was not about the rest; but she did not know who she was or where she lived. I had forgotten what Mrs Dingwall had said until I saw the other woman last Sabbath. When I went in the first thing she said was that she was dying, and that she was without God and without hope. I remained in the house nearly two hours, during which time I got some things out of her which led me to conclude that she is a sincere and humble, though much tried Christian. She complained much of her deadness, and that though she had been long following the means, she had not got anything, and several other things of the same kind; which showed that she was speaking more from what she was then experiencing than from what was her real state in the sight of God. Her bitter complaints with regard to her deadness, her unfruitfulness, and her emptiness I could not but regard as marks of the divine life in her soul. Again, in answer to questions, she would own that she had more desire for the society of the Lord's people than for any other society—that it was her desire that Christ might be hers, although she could not say that he was actually hers. Altogether I thought I saw more of Christ's image in her than in any that I have seen for many a day; and while reading the chapter and engaging in prayer, I felt my feelings so overpowered that I could not help weeping. She seemed so humble and so self-denied, although she considered herself the very reverse of that, that I felt ashamed and confounded. I thought of the Sabbaths that that poor child of God had sat under me without probably getting a crumb for her poor soul. I would be aiming at high things—high doctrines, and so forth—and here was a poor, humble and needy soul, who probably could not understand high doctrines, but who desired a crumb of the children's bread. After returning to the house I could not help weeping. I felt humbled and ashamed. Pain and suffering cannot wring a tear from me, although tears would often relieve my heart, but to hear or to see instances of the power of grace overpowers my affections, as if I were a little child. I was yesterday seeing her twice, and each time I thought that my cold and hard heart was the better of going. I could not but feel as if the Lord were in that little chamber. She told me yesterday a good deal about how things first began with her. She told me that the Gospel used to impress her more than the law did; and she was afraid because she was not brought through great distress of mind and deep conviction that she had not experienced a real work. She was for a long time uneasy, and knew that she needed a Saviour, before one Sabbath that the minister was preaching from the text, 'He shall gather the lambs with His arms, and carry them in His bosom; and shall gently lead those that are with young,' when she experienced some melting of the heart. She afterwards had many experiences of the same kind, although she said these were not so often when hearing that minister as when hearing others who would be touching her case. She said that the minister would be so high, and would not come down to the little things that she would have, and that remark stung me to the quick. I thought with myself, that is just my way. Altogether, I trust the Lord will bless to my soul the instruction which He has been giving me from the sickbed of that poor woman. It is the most precious, at all events, the sweetest that I have met with this summer. It has taught me, in some measure, how rude, and ignorant, and brutish I am; and how easily God, by His foolish and weak things, can confound our great and wise things. She was saying yesterday that she thought if the Lord would set her house in order, she would be willing that the pins of her tabernacle would be loosed; 'and yet,' she said, 'there is a clinging in the heart to life' . . . What a person I have been, to have such a woman as this in my hearing, and living a few yards from me, all the summer, without knowing of her! But she was so modest and diffident that she would not speak, and had it not been for her trouble, it is probable that I should not discover her worth at all."

Word reaches him that his correspondent is not better but weaker, and he concludes with the fervent wish—"May the Lord strengthen you, and enable you to endure until His will concerning you be accomplished!"

It is worthy of remark that the preceding letter is throughout a literal translation from the Gaelic—retaining all its idioms—of the conversation reported.

The shadows are thickening on this side Jordan in the case of the much loved and devoted friend, or more than a friend, who a few week's later entered into rest, but the glimpses of light and glory from the further side make plain the past and present, and reconcile many heartrending contentings—the patient sufferer with the trying farewell, and the loving ones that remain with the will of the Supreme.

"C. February 13th.—I thought that I would have seen you before this time; but it seems we can never get things exactly as we wish."

"C. February 15th.—You would conclude from my last, that there would be little chance, owing to your weak state, of you and me ever meeting in this world. . . . May the Lord take you in His arms. May He divide the waters before you. May He in every respect conform you to Christ's blessed image. Remember the promise, that He will never leave you, nor forsake you. May God—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—be your everlasting stay!"

The last letter of this touching, tender, and consolatory correspondence closes thus:—

"C. February 20th.—. . . How can I, with my ignorance and deadness, say anything to suit your case? Oh! that the Lord would teach me to speak a word in season to weary souls, which is one of the most important functions of the Christian ministry. Think of the Word as often as you can, especially those words that were precious to you during the beginning of your trouble. You may find some drops of honey still in the jaw bones by which you thought you were enabled before to slay some of the enemies of your soul—in those passages of Scripture that were wont to give you comfort. Remember . . . that God's covenant standeth fast. Our experience may change, and the Lord for wise ends may vary his dealings towards us; but the covenant, being based upon God's unchangeableness, can never be modified. When He once becomes our God, He becomes our God for ever and ever. Remember that sweet passage, 'I am the Lord thy God.' Seek always to be looking more to Christ in the word, and less to your own poor experience. He is the fountain of life and comfort, but you are deadness. He is the chief among ten thousand, but you are vile and sinful. You have no righteousness of your own; but he has righteousness with which divine justice is fully satisfied. In Him, you who have nothing have righteousness and strength. The Lord, your Redeemer, will give you grace and glory, and He will withhold no good thing from you. Your present affliction you will yet see to be for your good, should you not see it until you are in glory."

In the Life of Dr Robertson of Irvine there is an amusing story told regarding a poor peripatetic probationer who had long wooed vacancies unsuccessfully, and who, in a weary, yet reflective mood, thought he could get some comfort from comparing himself with his hostess, Miss Robertson. "You and I are like one another; you never got a husband and I never got a church." "How many calls have you had?" was the prompt reply. "Ah! none," was the reluctant response. "Then, don't you be evening yourself with me, sir," effectively ended the colloquy.

The reverse of this was Mr Cameron's experience. A cordial call was presented to him by the people of Kilmartin. Mr P. Sinclair apprises him of the fact, thus:—

"Kilmartin, 30th April, 1858.—The Presbytery met at the Free Church here yesterday, when an opportunity was given to the people to sign the call in your favour. There are already upwards of 180 names to it, and many have not yet had an opportunity to sign it. I am safe in saying that a more cordial call was never given to a Free Church minister. We earnestly hope that nothing will prevent your accepting it."

This is the reply, delayed unduly but excusably during an intervening period of deep bereavement and intense sorrow. It also illustrates how he obeyed the injunction, "in honour preferring one another."

“Renton, June, 1858.—Having been from home for several days I did not receive your letter asking me this week to Kilmartin until I returned yesterday afternoon, and I was not able to write you sooner.

“It would give me great pleasure to go to Kilmartin on this occasion, especially as Mr Kennedy is to be there, were it not that I must be here on the Sabbath. There are certain reasons that render that necessary. I was away last Sabbath, and must be away again on the 13th. I do not see, moreover, that my going to Kilmartin could be profitable to anyone except myself; for I could scarcely consent to take one of the services out of Mr Kennedy’s hands. I would have gone, however, most gladly as a hearer, were it not for the difficulty of being away on the Sabbath in the circumstances to which I have alluded.

“I did not reply to your previous note simply because I did not know how to do so. I was not then seeing my way either to accept or reject the call. Kilmartin, I must own, presented to my mind many inducements to make choice of it—for a season at least—as my field of labour. I have at the same time difficulties in the way of my leaving this place for any other place, and special difficulties in the way of my leaving it for Kilmartin. And thus my mind was long in an undetermined state, although I was honestly and sincerely desiring, if I was not deceiving myself, to know what was the path of duty.” So he elected to remain in Renton.

About the same time a movement on his behalf was started at Duthil, near Grantown, an account of which is given in a letter from Rev. Mr Mackay—afterwards the well-known and highly respected Dr George Mackay, of Inverness, who was one of the foremost preachers of this century in the Highlands.

“Inverness, 23rd June, 1858.—Therefore I write you as one in whom you have some confidence to say that I am authorised to state that there is a prospect of unanimity in giving a call to you, if any encouragement can be given to do so. Duncan Cameron [better known as the smith of Aviemore, an excellent and able man, and a good speaker at the Friday Fellowship Meetings], explicitly said so, and desired me to write you to that effect. I did not like to speak to others without communicating with yourself first; but I asked him very distinctly if he was sure that he was correct in his views as to the minds of the people. He declared he had no doubt whatever.” The requisite encouragement does not seem to have been forthcoming, and so the matter dropped.

The Paisley people seem to have persevered in the face of discouragement and denial, for we find the following letter from Rev. A. R. Findlay :—

“Houston Free Manse, 1st December, 1858.—I am instructed by the Free Presbytery of Paisley to inform you that a call to you from the Free Gaelic Church of Paisley, signed by 124 office-bearers and members, and a concurrence in the call, signed by 137 adherents, was laid on the table this day, and sustained. The Presbytery agreed to meet specially on Wednesday, the 15th, at 11 o'clock A.M. in the usual place of meeting, when they expect that either personally or by letter you will state your acceptance or non-acceptance of said call.”

This cordial call to Paisley he found it necessary, on account of his arduous mission work at Renton, to regretfully decline. And in after years he spoke affectionately and gratefully of the kindness of the Paisley people.

But he preferred to remain at his post in the Vale of Leven.

Yet another opportunity was afforded him, and, indeed, pressure was brought to bear upon him to go to the Colonies. He writes under date 19th September, 1859, in reference to this matter :—

“I may mention that Dr Bonar is urging me strongly to go out to Lower Canada for a few years. I don't think, however, that I shall go at present, but if I shall be long spared I shall visit America, although I do not think that I shall ever remain in it permanently.”

This resolution was never carried into effect. In the same letter he indicates the approach of his definite settlement and continuance in his present sphere :—

“The congregation at Renton are taking the usual steps in the matter of their call. The moderation is to take place on Thursday first (22nd September). It is likely that I shall accept it, but I feel that the matter is one of great difficulty. The responsibilities of the ministerial office are tremendous, and how few take that to heart as they ought.”

It was not without much anxiety and exertion on the part of preacher and people that affairs had come to be in their present satisfactory position. Writing on July 18th, 1859, Mr Cameron says :—

“We began to build our church in September, and we applied for sanction to the last General Assembly. The church was opened for public worship on the 22nd of May. Mr Macrae, late of Greenock, preached in the forenoon and Dr Roxburgh, Glasgow, in the afternoon and evening. The collection at the forenoon diet—that is the Gaelic diet—was about £30, and at the other two diets, £12, which made about £42 in all. The church is very neat and is exceedingly well finished. Our application for sanction was unanimously granted by the General Assembly. Our Sustentation Fund contributions will amount, I expect, to £200. The income of the minister will be about £160, and house-rent until a manse can be built.”

Mr Cameron's services were highly and widely appreciated at this early date in his career, and many predicted for him a successful future. He was invited to exchange pulpits with Mr Aird of Creich—the now venerable and highly popular Dr Aird, on whom his Church conferred its highest honour in 1888 by appointing him Moderator. It will not be uninteresting to know the incidents of a journey to the north on the occasion of the proposed exchange. The date is, Free Manse of Creich, Monday, 19th September, 1859:—

“I left this place on Monday morning a little before five o'clock, and walked to Alness, a distance of twenty-one miles, where I arrived at ten o'clock forenoon. But when I arrived there I found that the coach had passed to Inverness about half an hour before my arrival. I could therefore do nothing but either walk to Inverness, or else wait for the mail which would pass sometime through the night, and which would be too late to enable me to get forward comfortably from Inverness on Tuesday morning. I therefore crossed the Ferry at Alness to the Black Isle, walked on to Kessock Ferry, a distance of fifteen miles, crossed that ferry, and walked to Inverness, so that I walked on Monday altogether between thirty-eight and thirty-nine miles, not counting the ferries. I remained at Inverness that night, and on Tuesday morning I left by the railway at twenty minutes before seven o'clock for Glasgow, where I arrived about 7.30 in the evening.”

And now for the return journey, which is equally difficult—

“I was obliged to leave Glasgow on Friday forenoon. I went first to Edinburgh and thence to Aberdeen, where I arrived late that evening. I left Aberdeen on Saturday forenoon at eleven o'clock for Inverness, where I arrived a little after seven o'clock in the evening. I left Inverness a few minutes after eight o'clock by the mail coach, by which I came to a place called Novar, which is eight miles on this side of Dingwall, and exactly twenty miles from this place by the hill road. The coach was there at half past 11 o'clock at night. I did not like to go round the way of Tain by the mail, as in that case I would be travelling by a public conveyance up to 5 o'clock on Sabbath morning. I therefore left the mail at Novar and walked to this place across the hill. There was good moonlight and the road is very good, although there are many steep braes; but on the hill it is as dreary as on Drumochter, for you meet only one house for a distance of between 11 and 12 miles—and what was still worse, I had a good deal of rain on the hill. However, I walked on and entered this house immediately after the clock struck five in the morning. Now, when you consider that I was travelling without stopping, except during Friday night at Aberdeen, from half-past ten o'clock on Friday forenoon, first by the train and then by the coach, you can understand that I was sufficiently exhausted when, after walking the last twenty miles on foot, I entered the Manse of Creich. I went to bed at 6 in the morning and slept until 9. I then got up, and at 11.30 I had to be engaged in the Sabbath service. They begin here the Gaelic service at 11.30 and the English at 2. I never felt it more difficult to engage in my Sabbath duties, considering the state of both my body and my mind, and also that I would have the heaviest [greatest] men in this part of the country, such as Gustavus Munro (Hàvy Munro he is generally called) and Hugh Graham for my hearers; I suppose you would have heard Donald Duff speaking of them. I had, however, much cause of thankfulness; I seldom preached with more satisfaction to myself, although it might not have been the same to others. All the time that I was engaged I felt no fatigue, and to-day I feel as fresh as ever."

On the same date Rev. Mr Dewar, Kingussie, writes in reference to the Renton call:—

"I am very glad to hear of the doings of the Highlanders of the Vale of Leven. They deserve to get a minister, and I hope they shall soon have the man of their choice. I do not see how you can refuse their call. Think what the consequence may be if you do so. At the present moment they are full of zeal and hope; their efforts are at long last about to be crowned with success; they are, I presume, unanimous in the choice of a minister, and I suppose the prospect of getting that particular individual stimulated them all along. But let them be disappointed, and their zeal will receive a check, their first ardour will be damped, then they will try one after another of the most eminent ministers in the Highlands till they find that a hopeless game, then they will try to choose a probationer, then they will get divided, and then the old story of fighting with one another and with the Presbytery till they lose all heart. All this might not happen, but it is at least probable it might ; it has often happened, especially in Highland congregations in towns, and that which has been is that which shall be. But I hope the Renton congregation will be spared the trial."

This augury proved correct. Mr Cameron, after much deliberation and some hesitation, accepted the call of the congregation, for whose best interests he had laboured so strenuously and successfully. The usual steps preliminary to a settlement having been passed through, he was ordained minister of the Gaelic Church, Renton, on the 17th November, 1859.

CHAPTER IV.

MINISTRY IN RENTON.

It may prove instructive to get a glimpse of the surroundings and ascertain some of the historical incidents and recent reminiscences of this "local habitation." And for such a sketch I am indebted to an able and learned lecture delivered by Mr John Macleod Dalquhurn, to the Renton Literary Association. He says :—

"Those who have spent their early years in a small country village, amidst the works of nature and beautiful scenery, and have had the advantage of seeing nature under its various aspects, and have seen the old, low-roofed, thatched houses, the small dingy shops, with their half-doors, and the stone seats in the streets disappearing, along with many old customs and ways of living, cannot but view the place of those early associations with feelings of peculiar interest and affection. Besides, it is both acceptable and profitable to us to possess a knowledge of the events and circumstances which have produced the social system and institutions under which our happiness has been produced and protected. Cicero, the Roman philosopher, has truly said, 'For a man to be ignorant of what happened before him is to be always a child.' . . . In early times the people of all ranks lived so friendly together that the villagers were, in a manner, all next-door neighbours. This village, like many other villages, had names given to certain of its inhabitants, founded on some peculiarity of their character, and married women were addressed by their maiden name. The village had its 'King Hale,' its 'Duke,' and its 'Bishop,' all as familiarly known to the old natives as the cross on the Main Street. During last century and well into the present, spinning and weaving as opposed to the present factory system were carried on by farmers and cottars. The spindles and spinning wheel occupied a prominent place in domestic life, and the two last handlooms in use—Duncan M'Laren's in the Back Street, and James Paul's in the Main Street, are still remembered. Joseph Irving gives some account of the early dwellers in the district. Early charters tell of grants of free forestry and fishing in the Leven as gifts to religious houses. The district was generally known as the 'Lennox' or 'Levenach,' and the once powerful house of Lennox dates as far back as 1072. This tract of country was given by Malcolm III. to Arkil, the son of Egfrith, in consideration of the noble stand he had made against the Conqueror, and as some recompense for the loss of his possessions. In 1587 James IV. visited Matthew, the Earl of Lennox, at his castle at Balloch. After the Restoration, the lands of Bonhill passed to the Smolletts of Dumbartonshire. The founder of this house was Sir James Smollett, the novelist's grandfather, who is said to have been a skilful lawyer and a sagacious politician. Archibald, the fourth son of Sir James, married Barbara Cunningham, and occupied Dalquhurn House on the family estate. Tobias, the novelist, was the youngest son of this union. It is somewhat pathetic to be told that the author of 'Regicide,' 'Roderick Random,' and 'Humphrey Clinker,' should have passed his life in a continual struggle for existence. At Cardross, in the vicinity of Renton, from 1790 to 1801, Rev. Mr Macaulay, the grandfather of Lord Macaulay, the celebrated historian, was minister. Commercial prosperity and intellectual power are often found associated, and it is interesting to find that the firm of Walter Stirling & Sons, begun as a bleachwork, and become a lucrative business as a print-work, should be closely connected with Scottish scholarship. William Stirling died in 1777 at the age of 60, seven years after he had settled in the Valley of the Leven. His daughter Elizabeth was the mother of Sir William Hamilton, the distinguished philosopher, and of Thomas Hamilton, the author of 'Cyril Thornton.' Rev. James Oliphant, rendered historic by Robert Burns, was appointed to the parish of Dumbarton in 1773, and belonged to the Evangelical party. To check religious heresy at its fountain head, he prepared a Catechism, doctrinal and historical, of divine truth for the use of schools and families. It attained much popularity, and reached an issue of 20,000. With the view of giving him annoyance, a man was employed to go through Dumbarton with copies of the 'Young Communicants' Catechism,' crying as he went along, 'The whole works of the Rev. James Oliphant, presentee to this parish, for the small charge of twopence.'

"Previous to 1793, there is no record of any public school being in the place, the children being taught either by private teachers or their parents. In those days the school books were not heavy to carry. For the most part they were the Bible, the Shorter Catechism, a slate and a copy book. The usual school curriculum was the A B C on the first page of the Catechism, then the abs, ibs, and so forth; then came 'The Chief End of Man,' next the New Testament and the Bible, and this ended the education of a large number of scholars. For a number of years old John Maclaren, called by the natives 'John Highlandman,' carried on a school in Back Street most successfully. He was well known to all the villagers, and when the children were dismissed from the school he walked behind them with a small cane in his hand like a herd on their way home ; no general at the head of his army felt prouder of his soldiers than this old teacher did walking along with his drove of scholars. He taught his children with great kindness, and was much loved by them and their parents. At that time the severity of discipline in use in our schools was far too general, and often thoughtlessly applied. Flogging and buffeting were unmercifully employed. This reacted again on the nature of the boys, who in turn domineered over each other.

“Old customs and superstitious beliefs, similar to those of other countries, prevailed here, such as reading cups, forecasts from dreams, and spacing fortunes. The three most important events in life were attended with many curious customs. At birth there was the danger of being carried away by the fairies or being injured by the influence of an evil eye ; and many charms were used as a protection and preventive, particularly before baptism. The woman who carried the child to church to be baptised must be a lucky person. She carried with her a parcel of bread and cheese to be given to the first person she met, as a gift from the baby. Forecasts were made of the future of the child from the character of the person who received the gift. As to marriage, it was regarded as unlucky to enter wedlock in May—marry in May and rue for aye. If the day proved bright and cheerful it betokened a happy life, if dull and rainy the contrary result. The solemn event of death had also its quota of superstitions, omens, and warnings. The ticking of a watch or any noise about a sick person's bed, or the howling of a dog in the direction of a sick person's house, were considered sure signs of approaching death. There was a prevalent belief in the district that the rowan tree or mountain ash possessed a wonderful influence against all evil machinations. We find these trees still growing near houses, particularly farm-houses, as they were considered a protection both to the cattle and to the process of churning. Deaf and dumb persons were considered able to foretell future events.”

Into the life of this important, if limited, sphere of labour Mr Cameron entered heartily and hopefully. He became well known and appreciated in the whole neighbourhood. His sermons were carefully prepared and fully written out, but not read. It may, doubtless, be a special gift to be able to address audiences extempore, but one can hardly fail to realise that the spoken word seems to tell most effectively, as being an utterance direct from heart to heart, and as deriving part of its power from the presence and position of the people influenced. His congregational work was in no way arrested but rather helped and brightened by occasional visits to other and remoter districts at Communion seasons. We shall best realise this by reference to his diary of date Saturday 14th July, 1860 :—

“This is my birthday. How little I have done for the glory of God and for the good of souls during the thirty-three years of my life now past ! May the Lord enable me to improve whatever portion of time He may be pleased yet to allot to me. Returned home after an absence of ten days in Kintyre where I was assisting Mr Macpherson, of Killean, at his communion. Left home for Killean the previous week ; and here I may give a brief account of my visit. On Tuesday, 3rd inst., went to Rothesay by the ‘Iona’ with I. and A. A. was on way to visit his aunt in Glenquoich. Having spent a happy day returned with I. to Glasgow in the afternoon by the same steamer. After arriving in Glasgow got Mr D. Gray to supply my place in Renton on Sabbath. Staid on Tuesday evening in Mrs Diamond’s, to be near the steamer in the morning.

“On Wednesday, the 4th, left for Killean by the ‘Iona,’ which brought me to Tarbert. Was suffering from severe headache when I landed at Tarbert. Rested for two or three hours at Mr Campbell’s, from whom, as well as from Mrs C., I met with much kindness. Left in the afternoon for Killean. Was met by Mr Macpherson with his gig about three miles beyond Tarbert. When we came to Clachan we rested for some time, were hospitably entertained by the gardener and his wife, and were constrained to address a few people who came to the house for that purpose. The duty devolved upon me. Spoke for some time from Ezek. xxxiii. 11. Much worse in consequence of travelling in an open conveyance after being somewhat heated by speaking at the meeting at Clachan. Arrived at Killean after eleven o’clock at night. Felt very unwell. My throat much affected.

“Thursday 5th.—Very unwell. So hoarse as to be able to speak with great difficulty. Officiated, nevertheless, three times—in the forenoon, in Gaelic, from Isa. i. 18 ; in the afternoon, in English, from Jer. l. 5 ; in the evening, in Gaelic, from the parable of the ten virgins. A good congregation in the forenoon. A considerable number left at the close of the Gaelic service, so that there were many fewer during the English service. That the result of habit more than of not being able to understand the English language. Most of the young people can understand and speak English quite well. There was a good attendance in the evening, although it was much inferior to the forenoon attendance. Those who came from a distance to the forenoon service had returned home ; but some attended in the evening who did not attend, owing to want of dress or other causes, during the day. In the evening nearly all present were in their working dress. The service was called a meeting, although the exercise was much the same as an ordinary lecture. James Currie, a fine young man belonging to Killean, engaged in prayer before we dismissed. His prayer was simple, solemn, and very appropriate. From all that I have seen of him during my recent visit, I am inclined to regard him as the most extraordinary young man I have ever met with. With very much common sense he seems to possess clear views of Gospel truth and deep religious feeling. His mind is much exercised and is in consequence kept low, of which he is much the better. He possesses fine natural talents, but is withal very modest and diffident. If the Lord will spare him I trust he will be the means of doing good. It looks as if he had been raised up for that end, for he is far before every other one of whatever age that I have met with in that district.

“During all the Thursday services a deep solemnity pervaded the people. I believe that the Spirit of the Lord has been working in that district, and that whatever may be the ultimate result in regard to some, others will derive from the recent awakening lasting benefit. Many things to blame there may have been as there have always been in connection with similar movements ; but good has been done in spite of all these things.

“On Friday very unwell with the cold. No service this day in the south and west at communion seasons. The Friday meeting much missed by those accustomed to it. Some conversation with Elizabeth, Mr Macpherson’s sister, who has gone to reside with him, and who has been unwell ever since she went there.

“Mr Campbell, Tarbert, arrived in the afternoon. On Saturday still unwell, but able to preach the English service in the schoolhouse. Very few present. Subject, Ezek. xxxvi. 26.

“Sabbath.—Still unwell. A very deep cough. Found necessary to apply a mustard poultice to my chest a little before twelve o’clock, so that I was prevented from going to church until near two o’clock. Preached after the Tables from Zech. xiii. 8, 9. Considerable liberty in declaring the truth. O to feel humbly thankful for every measure of liberty which we may enjoy in speaking of divine things !

“Some conversation in the evening about the awakening. Mr Macpherson knew that I did not approve out and out of the movement. I suppose he must have heard in Lochgilphead. Availed myself of the opportunity which our conversation on the Sabbath evening afforded me to state my own views as prudently as I could. Endeavoured to show that mine differed, not so widely as might be supposed, from his own. Stated what I approved of and what I disapproved of. Disapproved much of endeavouring to produce excitement and causing people to cry out ; and stated that it would be much better if the people could keep altogether from crying out ; although I did not wonder at all at many when they came to believe their lost state crying out. My main object in making these and other statements to the same effect, was to convince him, if possible, of the danger resulting from creating excitement among the people by working upon their feelings. All that I said, however, produced no effect ; for he was very firm in his own view, which I greatly regret.

“On Monday unwell, but better—the cough still continuing. Preached the English service in the church. More present. Subject, Song of Solomon vii. 10. In the evening crossed from Killean to Gigha in an open boat. Distance seven miles from the point which we left to the point at which we landed. James Currie and Mrs Mackay accompanied me in the same boat, and some others in another boat. The sea was smooth as glass. The meeting was held at the house of a farmer on the other side of the island from that on which we landed. Some forty or fifty persons present. Found that no proper intimation had been given, and that the place of meeting was not convenient. Chose Matth. xvi. 26 as my subject—the preciousness of the soul, and the awfulness of its loss. The people listened most attentively. One girl much impressed. J. Currie and myself remained all night at the farmer’s house, where we were very kindly entertained. Mrs Mackay and the rest from Killean returned home.

“Tuesday, 10th.—Very unwell last night and this morning, but better by 10 o’clock. Left Gigha for Kilberry about that time in the same boat that brought me to Gigha. It belonged to a young man from Kilberry who was at Killean at the Communion, and who, along with two Killean men, who were going to Kilberry to work, accompanied us to Gigha, that they might take James and myself to Kilberry. The day very fine, and the sea very smooth. Arrived at Kilberry about 2 o’clock—distance from the point from which we set out to that at which we landed about 11 miles. A good meeting in the evening in the Schoolhouse, which serves for both church and schoolhouse. English service first—subject, Lamentations iii. 24. Experienced much comfort in speaking. The people much impressed. Continued this service too long, quite unconsciously—about two hours. Gaelic service immediately afterwards—short, only about one hour. Very happy during both services. Believed that the Lord was present. No excitement, but deep solemnity. Gaelic subject, 1 Tim. i. 15. Mr John Clark is labouring here as a catechist. Met here the Misses M’Kinley from Rothesay. Mr Macarthur’s friends stayed all night with Mr Barnhill, whom, with Mrs Barnhill, I had met at Killean at the Communion, and from whom we now met with much kindness at their own house.

“On Wednesday morning we breakfasted with Mrs Shaw, a young lady married to a farmer there. Mr Shaw was not at breakfast, having left earlier for his fank, where they were busy sheep-shearing. Mrs Shaw a most interesting and gentle creature. Miss Maclean, daughter of Mr Maclean, Glenorchy, was staying there. Mrs Shaw, Miss Maclean, and another lady—an aunt of Mrs Shaw—had walked to the sermon the previous evening, a distance of four or five miles, or more. Mr Barnhill sent James and myself this forenoon across to Clachan, where it was arranged there should be a service about 1 o'clock. Mrs Shaw and Miss Maclean accompanied us, but returned immediately with Mr Barnhill, as the day began to threaten rain. Found the people waiting for us at Clachan, having been a little behind our time in getting forward. Addressed them from Hosea ii. 19. Much comfort in speaking to them, but was very exhausted before I got there. The people exceedingly attentive. Most of those present were grown-up men, and the tears were falling down the cheeks of some of them. Tea was prepared for us in the house of the gardener, where Mr Macpherson and myself stayed for some time that day week. Met with much kindness.

“Left Clachan about five o'clock P.M. to cross the hill to Skipness, a distance of — miles over a very bad road. One man, a tailor, accompanied us, while another sent a horse with us a considerable part of the way. Arrived at the house of a Mr Stewart, a farmer, exactly at eight. Was very much worn out, having walked the whole way, that poor James, who is not strong, might have the benefit of the horse. Much discouraged by finding only one other family, Stewart's father-in-law's family, present, besides the family of the house in which the meeting was held. All were Established Church people. Were told that the meeting was not properly intimated. One thing, however, was very apparent—the anxiety to hear the Word does not exist on this side as it exists on the other side. Addressed the few assembled from the Parable of the Supper, Luke xiv. Those present very attentive. Who can tell but that the Lord may bless the truth to some one present? Great, unspeakably great, is the value of one soul; and if one soul were won, that evening's labour would certainly not be in vain. Left after the meeting with Mr M'Q. in his dog-cart. Mr M'Q. is Mr S.'s father-in-law. Mr M'Q. and some of his family belong to the Established Church, to which the whole family at one time adhered, but some of them having come under concern, joined the Free Church—to which I believe the whole family would now adhere had they a Free Church to go to. This family an instance of the influence for good which children often exert upon parents.

“Thursday, 12th.—Never met with more kindness than in that house. The family wished us to hold a meeting there before leaving for Carradale, where it was arranged we should have a meeting in the evening. Consented, and the family and a few others met at 12 o’clock. Addressed them from the parable of the Sower. Dwelt much upon false appearances, and how they gradually die away. Ascertained afterwards, through James, that one of the girls in the house has been much exercised for some time back. Considered the state of her mind hopeful. Was led through the influence of some companions who were anxious at the time of the awakening in Greenock, and who seemed to have got peace, to believe that she herself also had found peace, but that peace she had subsequently lost—which was well for her. May the Lord lead her to find peace in Christ! Thought that I felt a little of the presence of the Lord at one time during the meeting. Mr M’Q. sent his dog-cart with us to a place within two miles or so of Carradale, or rather of the place where we were to meet there.

“James was expecting a good meeting at Carradale, but in this he was disappointed and much dejected. There are a few Free Church families there, but with the exception of Mr M’Q.’s son, who goes every Sabbath across the hill to Mr Macpherson’s Church, they do not seem very zealous. There are also some Independents who would join the Free Church if there were an acceptable preacher there. The Free Church ought not to lose sight of the place or of her own adherents there, and a faithful and judicious preacher might be the means of doing good. Addressed the few people who had assembled from the parable of the Prodigal Son. After the meeting parted with James Currie, who went to Mr M’Q.’s son’s house. Felt regret in parting with him; he is very promising. After this I went to the Inn, an Independent who was at the meeting kindly carrying my bag and refusing to take anything for doing it. The people at the Inn had gone to bed, and the house was quite full, so that I had some difficulty in finding accommodation. A bed was, however, prepared for me, in which I slept soundly, and the charge for bed and breakfast was exceedingly moderate—only 2s 3d.

“When I found so much difficulty in getting accommodation at the Inn, I regretted much that I had not gone along with James to Mr M’Q.’s, although it would be far out of the way of the steamer in the morning. Was pressed to go, and was promised to be sent to the steamer in time in the morning. All things considered, however, what I did was better; and thus ended my visit to Kintyre—a visit which, upon the whole, was very pleasant, and to myself, I trust, not without profit. Seldom experienced so much pleasure in preaching as during that visit. May it be for the Lord's glory and for good to souls. Amen."

At home, amid the manifold labours of consolidating and extending a newly-formed charge, Mr Cameron was surrounded by not a few young men and women whose interests and prospects he had deeply at heart. He frequently delivered addresses to their associations, and indicated to them main lines of improvement, as the following sentences show :—

"Now, to reading you must add reflection upon what you read. Reflection is to intellectual food what digestion is to natural food. What you eat will do you no good unless you digest it, and what you read will not improve your mind unless you reflect upon it. You should write as much and as often as possible. To write enables you to take stock of your mental furniture. Many people fancy they know a great deal who really know very little. Now, writing your ideas is like counting down your money. It enables you to know what you really have. I am afraid that writing would reduce many whose credit is very good, and who figure well before the public, to a state of intellectual bankruptcy. Writing your ideas will likewise enable you to mark the progress of your minds by comparing your present thinking with your thinking at former periods of your life. Writing also teaches you accuracy. Some of you will remember Bacon's aphorism: Reading maketh a full man, speaking or conference a ready man, and writing an exact or accurate man. . . .

"Having said so much about the cultivation of the intellect or understanding, I must say a few things about the improvement of the heart. The instrument in improving the heart is moral truth, but moral truth alone, and without the renewing grace of the Holy Spirit, will avail but little. Precepts and example, by fortifying the conscience, often preserve the young pure from many temptations, but a character built on mere morality is like a beautiful waxen image. Its form is perfect, but it has no life. Grace is the life which quickens the heart, and thus lays a true and solid foundation for moral improvement. Men, to do good, you must first be good, for a heart purified by faith, and animated by love to God, is the only source of true obedience."

He was himself accustomed to carry these wise precepts into practice by committing to writing a series of meditations and reflections on subjects that fascinated or fixed his thought. Here is one :—

“Godly fear very different from slavish fear. The child fears the parent’s frown, because he loves that parent. The slave fears the master’s rod because he recognises the master’s authority and power, and has no sense of his love. The child of God is often troubled with slavish fear, when he has a more vivid sense of God’s authority, power, and justice, than of His saving love. We ought to seek to have a proper apprehension of the divine character as it is revealed as a whole—not of this attribute to the neglect of that other attribute, but of all the attributes.

“Does the opinion of our fellow men weigh with us more than what God says, in the regulation of our conduct? Are we more afraid of offending some friend whom we highly regard, than of offending a righteous, holy, and merciful God? What Joseph feared was to sin against God. A sanctified conscience has regard to the word and authority of God. It gives law—even the divine law, written in the Word and impressed on the new heart—to the soul, and it commands obedience to that law; but the spring of obedience is love—not blind passion, not ecstatic emotion—but a living principle, or rather the exercise of the living principle, implanted in the soul in regeneration, and which is stirred into activity by the revelation of the glory of Christ in the Word. Love to God is the outgoing towards God on the perception of His excellence and of His mercy to me, of that native affection of a renewed soul. Love, or the capacity of love, is a native affection of the soul; but this affection is impure, and is set upon earthly objects and turned against God, its legitimate object, until the soul is regenerated, after which a new bias is given to all the faculties and capacities of the soul. Love, therefore, is not a new capacity or affection, properly speaking, but the native capacity or affection renewed. What is the proper seat of love and of godly fear in the soul? It is the heart. ‘Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart.’ ‘I will put my fear in their heart that they shall not depart from me.’ But is not loving an exercise of the will? Love, properly speaking, is an affection, but an affection deeply seated in the heart. And still it may be called an exercise of the will, for the will is the great motive power. This would lead us to the intricate question of the identity of our desires and volitions.”

Here is an analysis of a hypocrite :—

“The hypocrite uses truth as a means for elevating himself. He says something smart—perhaps something good. He lays great stress upon it to attract your attention to it. But do not suppose that he wishes your attention to terminate upon the thing or the truth. He only wants you to attend to it that you may be induced to admire him for saying it. To the truth in itself he has no liking, except so far as it may be instrumental in gaining influence for him. If he admires it, depend upon it, it is not because of any intrinsic beauty he sees in it, but because he sees himself in it or associates himself with it or its author. The hypocrite sobs and sighs, and looks on either side of him to see if he be admired for his brokenness of heart. This is conceit in the borrowed garb of Christian meekness, and, depend upon it, the trick will be discovered."

Further, we find a somewhat sharp criticism of the tendency in some old men to disparage youth:—

"From experience, especially experience in blundering, one may have learned to know what a blunder is, but the same experience should have taught him to be charitable while faithfully correcting faults. I know some who in the season of their youthful zeal and indiscretion were running their heads continually against posts, who are the loudest in blaming youth for blundering, and, in their zeal, do not often stay to enquire whether the blundering which stirs their bile, may not be more apparent than real. Again, there are some who regard every young person imprudent who ventures to differ from their views and actings. In fact, when you are anxious to find fault with any young person, but cannot find proper grounds, the safest way is to say that he is imprudent, for then you have a good chance of being believed, since it is not at all improbable that a young man may be imprudent. This charge is not only the most credible, it is also the most injurious to him. And this heavy penalty one may pay for possessing the manliness necessary to express dissent from some party whom accident perhaps rather than worth may have elevated to a position which gives to his sayings and doings a temporary importance which their intrinsic character could have never obtained for them. Others, again, esteem that to be caution which preserves its possessor from offending everybody. It is proper, of course, to avoid offending, so far as that can be done in consistence with higher duties. Let our caution be that of him who, weighing well both motives and consequences, is eager to grasp the first reasonable opportunity for action. The wise man is neither he who continually meditates in close retirement, nor he who is so much engaged in action that he has little time and less relish for reflection, but he who walks abroad into the world with his eyes and ears open for observation, and who then retires to his chamber to arrange and classify the results. These remarks will enable us to appreciate Dr Johnson's observation who, when some one had asked him to take a walk into the fields, declined, but added:—'Let us walk down Cheapside, where we can see men.'"

There is this remark about punctuality :—

“Another subject which I must study practically as well as theoretically. Two divisions—1st, its advantages, and 2nd, how to form the habit—the baneful fruits of procrastination !”

Appreciation of the wise is put thus :—

“In the company of superiors in wisdom and attainment one should study to reflect their light by appreciating their good sayings rather than to shine ourselves. The way in which Wordsworth’s sister shone was by her true appreciation of his compositions. She drank in his music, and that encouraged him to sing.”

We find finally this touching and true reflection under date February 16th, 1861 :—

“Whoever succeeds in extracting the gall and bitterness which sorrows and disappointments have mingled with our feelings, will be sure to become an object of our affection.”

The following account and estimate of Mr Cameron’s work at Renton was kindly sent by one of his old parishioners, Mr John Maccallum, now of Uxbridge :—

“He was a very zealous worker in the interests of his own congregation at Renton, which was his first charge. The efforts made and the means used by him to cause Highlanders to attend church on the Sabbath day were sometimes very original. In the Vale of Leven there were a large number of Highlanders who were not exactly model church-goers, and Mr Cameron seemed to think that the injunction ‘compel them to come in’ had special reference to these northerners. A fair proportion of these were natives of the Isle of Skye, one of whose besetting sins on the Sabbath was Cailleing or visiting in each others’ houses and lodgings and relating stories of adventures which never happened in Skye. Mr Cameron seemed to be well aware of their failing, and the success with which he dealt with them was marvellous ; he made it a very regular practice to call on them during the week, and exact promises of attendance at church on the Sabbath. These Highlanders, believing generally in the Scriptures, and particularly in that part which says ‘The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak,’ made very fair promises of attendance, which they very frequently failed to fulfil. Though sometimes baffled in this method, Mr Cameron was not easily turned aside from his purpose, and he used to leave the manse sometime before the hour for worship, and shame the young Highlanders out of their houses into the church, many amusing incidents resulting from these visitations.

"The young Highlanders soon learned that being in bed was no defence, so they often contrived to be out of their lodgings and on a visit to their cronies before eleven o'clock. This plan, while it enabled them to evade Mr Cameron in some cases, at other times landed them in the lion's den, as he sometimes caught them in groups. On one particular occasion a number of the Murachadhs and Toramaids were assembled in one house, from which they could see Mr Cameron on his way to church, and were startled when they discovered that he was making tracks for their rendezvous. There were so many of them, that to have remained where they were might have tempted him to hold the service there; to escape into the road was impossible, as they would have met him, so they made their escape into a small building in the garden, where they thought they were safe, but were doomed to disappointment, as Mr Cameron, perceiving the flank movement, walked quietly in and bearded them in their supposed safe retreat. In dealing with those who were irregular in their attendance, Mr Cameron was very faithful, and he would have been a crafty Highlander or Lowlander who could have formed an excuse for non-attendance for which Mr Cameron had not an immediate answer. A Highlander having made the commonplace excuse that last Sunday was a very showery day, was asked, 'What is a shower of rain in comparison with a shower of fire and brimstone?' Mr Cameron's congregation was scattered over a large radius, but even those who lived furthest away need never make the excuse of distance. One householder who lived about two miles from the church was visited in his own house by Mr Cameron, and after being driven from one excuse to another for prolonged non-attendance, he said at last that he had not a good pair of boots; whereupon Mr Cameron bent forward, caught him by the leg, straightened it out, and exclaimed, 'Peter, I myself have been going to church all winter with a far worse pair than you have on at this moment.' During a part of the year the English service followed the Gaelic without any interval except a break of about a minute or so. This break was to allow that part of the congregation who only understood English to come in, but Mr Cameron would not admit that the Highlanders present in the forenoon had any excuse for going out. A number of them often marched out when the Gaelic service was over, and Mr Cameron frequently stood up and expostulated with them. I do not remember him naming any one, but it was almost like saying 'That red-haired man in the third seat from the front.'

"The amount of work and the number of agencies in connection with the church, to which Mr Cameron gave personal attention for a number of years, was very great; he preached forenoon and afternoon, superintended the Sabbath School, and preached again in the evening. His duties as superintendent of the Sabbath School were, I am convinced, rather onerous. He did not seem cut out for that office, but he bestowed much labour on it, and had a most flourishing Sabbath School, which was attended by a large number of children from other congregations. Many a time I have seen his patience sorely tried, and I believe his temper was oftener fretful there than anywhere else. Successful, however, he undoubtedly was. Once a week he held a teachers' meeting, at which he expounded the lesson for the Sabbath, and this, no doubt, was a factor in the success of the school. At one period of his ministry in Renton he got dragged into a controversy with a section of the Baptists, who, by means of sensational meetings, were leading away some of his young people. Mr Cameron was not a man who did things by halves, so he prepared two discourses, which he delivered in his own church on two consecutive Sabbaths. Each of these services lasted two hours and three-quarters, and so fascinating were they that all who heard them declared they felt them the shortest sermons he had ever preached. Many of the foundation texts of the Baptists were stated in such new, clear, startling, and thoroughly logical aspects, that the positions laid down by him were quite unanswerable. They were not answered then, and I have never heard them answered since. He took the bull by the horns, stopped his career, and was not much troubled by the Baptists after that.

"Mr Cameron could not be exactly called popular, and many who did not know him held the opinion that he was narrow and too reserved. It is true he did not often take part in the more popular religious movements; but he afforded his congregation many opportunities of hearing able preachers both inside and outside of the Free Church. At Assembly times he was constantly bringing strange ministers, not always Highlanders, to preach to his congregation. In his own locality the ministers of the United Presbyterian Church often occupied his pulpit, and Professor Bruce, who was then minister at Cardross, was a not infrequent preacher in Renton Free Gaelic Church. The diversity of ministers which he annually brought to the congregational and Sabbath School Soiree was seldom to be seen elsewhere. Among them may be mentioned MacNab of Glasgow, with his humorous—though almost apochryphal—stories of the Highlands; Sprott, of Queen's Park U.P. Church, with his breadth of thought and inspiring style; Hamilton, the reformed Presbyterian whose excellent discourses were always well sprinkled with Latin quotations; Professor Bruce, with his banterings of the U.P.'s, which were certainly not dry as dust; Alexander of Duntocher with his inimitable comic story telling, and Macaulay of Old Kilpatrick with his thunderings against organs and monkeys ; and Dr Halley of Dumbarton with his stories of burghers and anti-burghers—all made up a treat the equal of which was seldom to be found elsewhere. A feature of Mr Cameron's management of the Renton congregation was the manner in which he worked the Sustentation Fund. This he always maintained at a high figure considering the standing of the congregation.

"In some things Mr Cameron brought an immense amount of method to bear, while in others he was somewhat irregular. He would give the precentor a list of the Psalms to be sung during the Gaelic and English services, and while there was every probability that the most of these Psalms would be sung, there was no guarantee as to the order in which they would come. Absent-mindedness, or absorption in one particular thing, sometimes made him miss an appointment, and one slip of this kind was sometimes related at his cost. He was advertised to preach on the evening of a Fast-Day in the Free Gaelic Church, Greenock, to which he proceeded by rail to Helensburgh, intending to cross the Clyde by steamer to Greenock. Having some time to spare at Helensburgh, he called on a lady friend, who invited him to look at her garden. Either Mr Cameron's watch stopped or his interest in horticulture deepened, with the result that when he prepared to depart he found that the last steamer for the day had left. There was still some time on hand before he was due to preach, so he took train at once for Dumbarton, a distance of eight miles, and crossed the Clyde at the Langbank Ferry ; but the tide being low, the boat could not get within a hundred yards of the landing stage. Over this hundred yards of salt water and mud Mr Cameron soon skipped, took train for Greenock, and reached the Free Gaelic Church when a substitute was about half-way through with his discourse. Mr Cameron's personal appearance on that occasion was somewhat akin to Pliable's when he got out of the Slough on the wrong side.

"There were some matters against which Mr Cameron was prejudiced, and he knew this himself. When he was satisfied that his opposition was due to prejudice, he would withdraw it. One case of this kind occurred in connection with the psalmody of his congregation. His precentor had taken considerable pains in training a choir, and it was resolved to ask Mr Cameron's permission for this choir to lead the singing in the church. Contrary to the precentor's expectation Mr Cameron gave permission, stating, however, that he had a very strong prejudice against choirs, but no objection on principle. The career of the choir, however, was short and sweet, as, after officiating two Sabbaths, one of the elders objected—on principle, and Mr Cameron requested the disciples o St Asaph to disband.

“A visitor to Mr Cameron’s manse could not fail to be struck with his splendid library, but a considerable portion of it was not very orderly, in fact, it reminded one of a remark made about Carlyle’s library, that an earthquake might turn it upside down, but it could not add to its confusion. At the first election of a School Board for his parish he was returned at the head of the poll, I believe. It would hardly be fair to say that this was due to the Highlanders plumping for him. His powerful grasp of business affairs inspired the general public with confidence, and he always stood high in School Board suffrages, both in Renton and Arran. His excellence as a teacher of Gaelic and his high position as a philologist brought him into contact with many people eminent in literature ; but it is questionable whether it tended greatly to his general practical usefulness. A man cannot be victorious all along the line, and I believe his success in philology was attained partly at the expense of his success as a preacher and pastor. The first dozen years of his ministry were marked by much ardour and zeal in congregational work, undistracted by abstruse studies. Had he continued in this channel the gain would have been to the common Highlander ; it may, however, be that his success on more learned ground may bear a more lasting fruit.”

Mr Cameron’s correspondence during the first ten years of his ordained ministry amply shows how highly appreciated and how constantly in demand his preaching powers were. He was frequently called upon to officiate in Lowland or English charges, and the expressions of thanks and gratitude clearly convey the impression that his labours were not in vain. It was at this time that he found some leisure to acquire books and lay the foundations of the future solid structure of Celtic learning and lore which he patiently and painstakingly reared.

The years 1869-70 were largely occupied by a tedious and somewhat serious controversy in the Church Courts, which originated in the refusal of the Renton Gaelic Kirk-Session to give a certificate of membership to one who was alleged to have preferred an unproved charge against certain parties in the congregation. The actual merits of the case appear never to have been arrived at. Questions of procedure were endlessly under discussion, and as a study in ecclesiastical law the case is very intricate and interesting. The position taken up by Mr Cameron may be gathered from the following statements prepared by him during the progress of the conflict :—

"The Kirk-Session have agreed to obey the Presbytery's citation, certainly not because we think the Presbytery did right in citing us, but because we did not wish to show, even in appearance, any disrespect to the Presbytery, even when we are convinced that the Presbytery have acted irregularly and unconstitutionally. But although in appearing, as we now do, at your bar we have obeyed your citation, we cannot at present enter upon the merits of this case. This we regret, but I hope I shall succeed in showing the Presbytery that the blame is not ours. We have no misgiving in regard to the merits, and, therefore, we are not afraid to enter upon them at the proper time. So certain do we regard our ground, so far as the merits are concerned, that we are prepared to take the case, if necessary, to the General Assembly.

"It is with the utmost reluctance that I have brought this case to the Synod. The Presbytery, however, have shut me up to this course. Had the Presbytery decided in Nov. as they did in March to send this matter to 'the Kirk Session to be dealt with according to the laws of the Church,' I would have acquiesced, although, as I stated at the time, I might have objected on the ground of informality. I suggested at the last meeting a course, of which some of my brethren approved, and which would have saved the Synod from the necessity of entering into the case. The course suggested, however, was not adopted, and therefore I have been obliged to come here. And now I must throw myself on the indulgence of the Synod. I have the whole Presbytery opposed to me, although some of the members, from the views held by them in regard to the points raised by my complaints, ought to be along with me. And further, the Presbytery, or those members of it who have taken the lead in this case, have had, I have reason to believe, the benefit of advice, of the practical value of which I have had myself at one time experience; while at every turn in the case I have had to rely upon my own slender resources. I have had, I am happy to say, the unanimous support of my Kirk-Session and the entire sympathy of my congregation, but my office-bearers have had no more experience than myself of cases of this kind. It was brought up on a reference from the Presbytery of Dumbarton to the Assembly of 1870, but was dismissed because 'the only ground on which the Presbytery in the circumstances could have referred this case would be that they had found inextricable difficulties in obtempering the Synod's judgment,' which was 'to remit to the Presbytery of Dumbarton to instruct the petitioner to make application to the Session for her certificate, and instruct the Kirk-Session to deal with the application according to the laws of the Church.'

On account of complications arising from Presbyterial possession and retention of Renton Gaelic Kirk-Session records, and from divergence of opinion as to the duty and interests of said session, this complicated case dragged its weary length along before Presbytery and Synod for more than two years after the above date ; when it seems to have taken end by a certificate having been granted to the petitioner by one of the Superior Courts of the Church. At all events, at Renton, 26th August, 1872 :—

“The Kirk-Session, anxious that the matter in dispute between them and the Presbytery should be settled in the spirit of the decision of the Synod, agree to furnish the Presbytery, ex gratia, with extract minutes to show that the documents referred to in the petition of the Kirk-Session had been inserted in their minutes at the proper time and in the proper place.”

A much more important controversy, known as the Union negotiations, and affecting the respective interests and relative existence and constitution of two Churches—the Free and the United Presbyterian—was at its height about this period. It has been remarked that the discussions thus carried on with great ability and energy, from 1863 to 1873, might well be called a second Ten Years’ Conflict. The questions of the Headship of Christ over the nations represented practically in the principle and fact of a national recognition and support of religion ; and of Voluntaryism or the sole dependence of the Church for support on freewill offerings, and the disavowal of the duty of the State to establish or endow any Church, were prominent in all the debates. Mr Cameron took a deep interest and played an important part in this crisis. He ranked very high in the counsels of the party opposed to an incorporating union of Churches constitutionally divergent. His intimate acquaintance with Church law, and his accurate knowledge of the old Acts that declare the constitution and secure the liberties of the Presbyterian Churches, stood him in good stead. His logical and acute mind often detected flaws and faults in arguments and propositions that seemed at first glance fair and sound. Some of the leaders with whom he was associated frequently consulted him, and submitted proposals of moment to his judgment and criticism. In an able speech before his Presbytery, in 1869, he indicates and reviews the history of the question of Establishment and the principle involved. The following quotations will sufficiently show his standpoint :—

"I agree with Dr Cunningham that the Confession teaches that it is the duty of the Magistrate in certain circumstances, that is when necessary and expedient, not only to establish, but also to endow the Church of Christ—in other words, that endowment is one of the ways in which the Magistrate is bound, when occasion requires it, to do homage to the truth and to advance the interests of the Kingdom of Christ. No ingenuity will ever succeed in distorting the plain meaning of the words of the Confession so as to make it appear that the doctrine of Church establishments is not there. The doctrine is there as clearly as the sun is in the heavens ; but the Confession does not say what particular Church, or Churches, ought to be established. That belongs to the practical application of the doctrine, and must be decided inferentially, after you have examined not only the constitution and character of particular Churches, but also all the circumstances that must be taken into account in deciding the question of present duty."

"The statements of the Confession must be interpreted in the sense in which they have all along been understood by the Church—that is in the historical sense, or in the sense in which the framers understood them, until the Church herself authoritatively puts another interpretation upon them."

The doctrine of a Scriptural alliance between the Church and the State, he shows to be embedded in the statements of the Confession, as where the Magistrate is to take order that all the ordinances of God are to be duly settled, administered, and observed among the people ; to be proved from the Scripture proofs attached to these statements ; to be held by the best exponents of the Church's constitution ; and to be undoubtedly found in the meaning and use of the word "settled," as given in Act of Assembly, 1647, and in Act of Parliament, 1690, by which the Confession was ratified and the Presbyterian Church Government "settled," that is, established in Scotland.

Regarding the doctrine of spiritual independence laid down in the Claim of Right of 1842, he says :—

"That independence, which Christ has conferred upon His Church, States can neither give nor take away. It is a right which she derives immediately from her living Head, and of which she cannot be deprived. The independence which the Church then claimed, and for which during the Ten Years' Conflict she contended, was not the right of self-government but liberty, as an Established Church, to exercise the right of self-government. . . .

This Claim of Right is the noblest testimony in existence to the doctrine of Church Establishments, while at the same time it is a standing monument of the Church's faithfulness to Christ, her King and Head, whose Crown-rights she refused to sacrifice even for the advantages of State alliance and support."

The doctrine of National Establishments is thus defined:—

"I observe that there is no security either for the independence of the Church, on the one hand, or for the independence of the State, on the other, except by their respective spheres being well defined, and by each keeping rigidly within its own sphere. But how is this to be secured? There is no third power to which the aggrieved can appeal, and which can control the aggressor. There is a rule—the Word of God—which defines their respective spheres and their relation to each other. But who is to enforce it? It is evident, therefore, that the boundary line between their respective spheres and their relation to each other must be agreed upon by those powers themselves acting together in friendly alliance, and agreeing to take the Scriptures as the rule which determines their mutual relation, and to which the last appeal is to be made, when cases of collision arise." Hence the necessity of a mutual contract. "Spiritual independence includes a right of jurisdiction as well as of administration in spiritual things—a right authoritatively and finally to decide, without any appeal but to Christ and His Word, all purely ecclesiastical questions." "But the Church can have no security for the enjoyment and free exercise of her spiritual independence, in its primary sense, except on the condition of her right to it as Christ's kingdom being recognised by the State. The truth is that Voluntaryism and Erastianism are not really two opposite errors, but two opposite phases of one and the same error." "The State's only defence against domination lies in the recognition of this doctrine, and the State can best fulfil the ends of its existence by actually carrying out this doctrine, at least so far as to recognise and co-operate with the Church of Christ in the furtherance of the cause of truth and righteousness."

During the same controversy, and probably about the same period, Mr Cameron delivered a very able address on the vital doctrine of Atonement before his Synod. He copiously illustrated his theme by abundant quotations both from the men whose views he criticised, and from the men whose views he supported. Only a very brief and general outline of his position can be given here:—

“I shall endeavour, first, to state the theory of the Atonement which goes under the name of the General Reference Theory. This theory, which seeks to hold a middle position between Calvinism and Arminianism, appears to have been originated by John Cameron, Professor of Divinity at Saumer, who held that ‘while the elect are, by an effectual and irrevocable calling, saved through the death of Christ, Christ died for all men, with the intention that they might be invited and called to repentance; and that when so invited and called, it arises from themselves alone and the hardness of their heart repelling the means of salvation, that they are not saved.’ This theory is, in a softer and less offensive form, that which, in our own day, teaches that Christ’s death has given such satisfaction to divine justice for all men indiscriminately as has removed the legal barriers that stood in the way of the salvation of all men, and has, therefore, brought all men into what is called a salvable state. It will be seen that so far as satisfaction to divine justice strictly considered is concerned, this theory does not materially differ from that of Universal Atonement. It was supported by Cameron’s disciples, Anyraut, Testard, Daille, and others; and it was opposed by such theologians as Rivet, Spanheim, and Des Marets, and in our own country by Dr Owen. There were early indications of a tendency towards this doctrine in the Secession Church in this country; but those tendencies were resisted, and the doctrine obtained no footing until it was espoused by the two Professors of the United Associate Synod—Drs Balmer and Brown.” “According to this theory the order of the divine decrees was, first, a decree providing that that remedy should be applied to some—the elect.”

“Second. But is this view of the atonement erroneous? I trust there are not two opinions in this Court upon that subject. Professor Macgregor, in a very able paper which he read before the Paisley Presbytery some two or three years ago, characterised it as Uncalvinistic, but not as anti-Calvinistic. I think a mind even less logical than his would have little difficulty in proving that it is essentially anti-Calvinistic; for there is really no half-way house, so far as the doctrine of the Atonement is concerned, between the Calvinistic view of a Definite Atonement and the Arminian view of a Universal Atonement.” “It is unnecessary to state that this view was condemned by Dr Cunningham and Dr James Buchanan. In former times it was supported by Baxter, but it was opposed by the greatest of British theologians, Dr Owen.”

“Let me now briefly state what appears to me to be the necessary consequences of this theory:—

"1. It appears to me to destroy the proper substitutionary character of the death of Christ, for that death secures salvation for the elect, not because He was their proper substitute in His sufferings, but because in virtue of the decree of election a provision which does not immediately result from the Atonement has been made for bringing them to avail themselves by faith of the common satisfaction. The Atonement is not thus a proper vicarious sacrifice, but a means which enables God so to manifest His displeasure against sin as to render it 'consistent with the perfections of the divine nature and the principles of the divine government' to pardon sin. It thus affects the very nature of divine justice.

"2. The work of the Spirit in the application of salvation is not, according to this theory, the immediate fruit of the atonement.

"3. It affects the efficacy of the atonement itself. It is not a perfect but an incomplete salvation which the death of Christ, on this theory, secures. In point of fact, the efficacy of the atonement determines its extent (see Candlish p. 228 and p. 214).

"4. It really affects the character of the gospel offer. It is as a foundation for the universality of the gospel offer that this theory is adopted; but it has in reality the very opposite effect (see Candlish p. 221).

"5. It affects the principle on which faith is held to justify and save the sinner (Candlish p. 214).

"6. It does not meet the felt want of the awakened sinner (Candlish p. 215).

"7. The theory is essentially Arminian. It is a contrivance for relieving the conscience before the sinner has been led to despair of his own resources. The salvation which it provides is essentially salvation by works—salvation by the covenant of works. It is a salvation conditioned and contingent on something on the part of the sinner, call it faith, &c. (Candlish p. 226).

"8. It is based on an erroneous view of God's justice.

"Third. But I come now to ask is the theory which I have stated the doctrine of the United Presbyterian Church? It is not only tolerated in that Church, but is also held by some of the most distinguished ministers in her communion, who openly avow it, glory in it, and tell you that on any other theory of the atonement they could not give a free offer of salvation to sinners. Again and again this doctrine was indicated by the United Associated Synod, not only when Dr Brown was acquitted of the charges of unsound doctrine brought against him by Dr Marshall, but also on other occasions, as when that Synod, in 1843, after hearing the statements of the professors already alluded to, homologated their doctrine (Life of Brown p. 237). It is true that the U.A. Synod no longer exists as a separate denomination, for it now forms part of the U.P. Church ; but many of the men who formed that Synod and who took an active part in defending Dr Brown and his views are still living, and are at this moment leading ministers in the U.P. Church. And they have the candour to tell you that they have not changed their views, which they held and taught in the U.A. Synod. Yea, more, the United Church has formally sanctioned the same views."

He then adduces the statement of Dr Wood, of Dunfries, in the General Assembly, that several distinguished ministers of the U.P. Church stated in the Union Committee that Christ satisfied divine justice for all men without exception. He next appeals to a reply by Dr Robson to a member of Presbytery who said he regarded Dr Balmer's views as heretical. 'In saying so you arraign the whole Synod.' Then follow the views to much the same effect of Drs Brown, Eadie, and Cairns. Replying to Dr Buchanan's eloquent reference to the services rendered by the Secession to the cause of true religion when much spiritual darkness prevailed in the Church of Scotland, Mr Cameron remarks :—

"That is all quite true, but it has no bearing whatever on the doctrinal difficulty in the way of union with the descendants of those men who had done so much in their day in holding forth the light of divine truth in this land. It is not because the ministers of the U.P. Church are the descendants of the Erskines that I object to unite with them, but because they have departed from the principles and doctrinal views of the Erskines."

Through the whole period of his ministry at Renton, Mr Cameron's hands were full of work. Having built a church, he had next to build a manse. A lovely spot on the hillside above the village, and overlooking the Vale of Leven, was chosen for a site. From any knoll near, on a clear day, the classic Loch Lomond, with its famous islets, can be seen. A very comfortable, though not a very large house, was here erected. It often occurs in the experience of some men that they expend much time and toil on what their successors are destined to enjoy. It was so in this instance. After the manse had been cleared of debt, and when new book-cases were being fitted up to contain the tons of books that had to be housed somehow, a call came from the Isle of Arran, where further work in this and other directions awaited the willing toiler.

As has been incidentally noticed, after the passing of the Education Act of 1872, at the first election of School Board members, Mr Cameron was returned at the top of the poll. He devoted a great deal of his time and energy to the furtherance of education, and was specially anxious, as we shall see later on, to help in every possible way the youth and students from the Highlands.

The best summary of this part of his life is found in the parting address given to his much loved and sorrowing flock before he left them for Arran in 1874 :—

“The position in which we now stand is a very solemn one. This is the last occasion on which from this place I shall address you, and on which you shall hear my voice as your minister. Other opportunities, I trust, I shall have of addressing to you the message of salvation, but it shall not be in the capacity of the watchman solemnly commissioned to watch over your souls. This naturally leads our thoughts backwards into the past, as well as forward into the future. Let us glance at the past. It is now twenty years, all except a few months, since I came to labour among you in this locality. I have, therefore, spent among you what may be regarded as the best years of my life. The world has undergone many changes since—more, perhaps, than during any previous twenty years of its history, but to these I shall not make even a passing allusion. In the Church also changes have occurred. And in that branch of it in connection with which we are worshipping, changes have occurred which, in the opinion of many, affect not only its hereditary position and testimony, but also its very constitution. On these matters, however, I shall not at present dwell. Among ourselves many changes have occurred during that period. We then met for worship in the lower school-room. The two regular services were in Gaelic, for it was between two and three years thereafter before we succeeded, after a long and keen contest with the Presbytery of the bounds, in getting permission to have an English service during the ordinary hours of public worship. Then this church was built in 1858, and in 1859 the General Assembly sanctioned the forming of the station into a ministerial charge, and in November of the same year I was ordained as your minister. The relation, therefore, of pastor and flock has subsisted between us now nearly fifteen years. Of those who worshipped in the schoolhouse twenty years ago, not many are now among us. Several of them are dead, and several have left the district and gone to other places. Of the office-bearers appointed in 1859 only one is now alive, and the changes which our small communion roll has undergone strikingly illustrates the truth that here we have no continuing city.

“When I look back across the years that I have been in connection with this congregation, I find much that is fitted to awaken feelings of thankfulness to God as well as much that is fitted to fill me with shame and humility in His holy presence. In regard to causes of thankfulness, I may mention the following:—

“1. My bodily health, although I have frequently had severe colds and bronchial attacks which unfitted me partially for my work, has always been such that I have never been even for a single Sabbath necessarily laid aside from duty. For one Sabbath—and, so far as I can remember, for only one—have I kept the house since I began to preach, and on that one occasion I would have been here, had not the friend who took my place insisted—knowing that I was unwell—on my staying at home. I have been often here when I could have wished, so far as my feelings of fitness were concerned, that I had been very far away; but I do not remember that I ever felt so wretched here as I felt on that Sabbath away from the sanctuary.

“2. In respect of worldly support, I do not think I ever complained that my income was too small, and I do not now complain. Your own poverty prevented you from supplementing the amount which I annually received from the Church funds; but I know that my office-bearers were more anxious about my comfort than I was myself. So far as this matter is concerned I can honestly say with the Apostle that I sought not yours, but you.

“3. The peace and harmony which have ever prevailed in the congregation since the first day I came among you is to me a source of heartfelt thankfulness. We have had to contend with many difficulties, and we have had to arrange and settle many matters during the last twenty years, which might have led to serious difference of opinion and even strife and division among us, but with the good hand of the Lord upon us the utmost harmony and cordiality have hitherto prevailed at all our meetings, whether in the Kirk-Session or in the Managing Committee of the congregation. My earnest desire and prayer to God is that this unity of mind and feeling may prevail among you after I am separated from you. It is easy to generate bad feelings, and bad feelings generally lead to strife and division, which are always disastrous to congregations.

“4. The measure of outward prosperity which the congregation enjoys is another cause of satisfaction and thankfulness. When we were applying for sanction many felt a difficulty in regard to granting it, because of the fluctuating character of the Gaelic population of the district, and some even predicted that if such a thing as a change in the management in one of the neighbouring Public Works were to occur, the congregation would be sure to disappear. It is cause of thankfulness that, although we have lost many of our adherents and most earnest supporters, by death and other causes, the condition of the congregation is better at the present moment than it had been at any previous time since it was formed. The large and increasing number of young people connected with it show that it is striking its roots into the native soil, and is becoming every day less dependent upon the more fluctuating than upon the general population of the district. The present arrangement in regard to the English services provides for the younger portion of the congregation who do not understand Gaelic, and for such of the natives of the district as are connected with it, the same opportunities of hearing the Word of God on the Sabbath day which are provided in the other congregations in the neighbourhood : while the convenience of the Gaelic people is studied more than when there was only one English service, and a long and wearisome interval. I do trust, therefore, that the present arrangement will be continued in future during the summer months, for I am convinced that it is the most suitable that can be devised with such resources as you have at present, and I would earnestly and affectionately urge the young people to avail themselves of it, and to be regular in their attendance on the forenoon English service. In connection with the outward prosperity of the congregation, and as a cause of thankfulness, I should mention also that the church and manse, which from first to last cost upwards of £2000, are entirely free of debt.

“But it is not with unmingled satisfaction that I look back upon the past, for I can discover much that is fitted to fill me with shame and humility in the sight of God. I have often the feeling--sometimes I might say the painful and crushing conviction--that my ministry, my dear friends, among you has been, considered as to its spiritual and moral effects, a comparatively barren and fruitless ministry. It is well that we are not ourselves the best judges of our success or want of success in the service of Christ. In this respect as well as in other respects, it is true that God's thoughts are not our thoughts, neither are our ways His ways, for as the heavens are higher than the earth so are His ways higher than our ways, and His thoughts than our thoughts. The Saviour Himself had to say that He had laboured in vain, and that He had spent His strength for nought and in vain, but at the same time He could confidently say --‘Yet surely my judgment is with the Lord, and my work with my God.’ I may have been to some extent of use in the way of instructing and helping those among you who have tasted that the Lord is gracious, and who required instruction and edification ; but as to the great end of the Christian ministry—the conversion of sinners unto God—I cannot speak of great results. On the contrary, I know that many among you who have heard the word from my lips are still unsaved. I know that some of you, notwithstanding public warnings and private admonitions, still continue in the practice of sins, which, you know full well, will ruin your souls unless you return and repent. I now solemnly beseech you, on the last occasion on which as your minister I shall ever address you from this pulpit, to seek the Lord while He is to be found, to call upon Him while He is near.”

CHAPTER V.

PASTORATE AT BRODICK.

ARRAN is divided into two parishes—Kilbride and Kilmory. The former comprises most of the east side, including Holy Island, and extending from Lochrauza to Dippin Head. Its utmost length is about 20 miles ; its utmost breadth is 6 miles ; and its area is 38,985 acres. Its population in 1801 was 2183, and in 1881, 2176, of whom 971 were Gaelic-speaking. By far the largest proprietor is the Duke of Hamilton, under whose uniformly kind sway the people live happily. Brodick, on account of its central situation, though, like Edinburgh, not on account of the number of population, claims to be the capital of Arran. It was here with such surroundings that a new sphere was presented to the energies and gifts of Mr Cameron, who was inducted as colleague and successor to the well-known and highly respected Rev. P. Davidson on 3rd Sept., 1874. On this auspicious occasion there were present many representatives of several denominations, indicative alike of regard for the newly-inducted pastor and of the general sympathy the settlement evoked. It proved also predictive of the good feeling and mutual appreciation that existed in after years between the accomplished preacher and the vast variety of visitors from all quarters that frequent this very popular summer resort. A good deal of hard work lay before him. Lamlash and Corrie claimed a share in his services, and received attention to the full amount of their claim. In addition to three services on Sabbath and the superintendence of the Sabbath School, two and sometimes three prayer meetings were held in different parts of this wide district during the week. Bible classes were likewise set agoing, and the young people attended admirably. Diets of catechising were regularly held at convenient centres during the winter months—an “exercise” recommended by long established usage and the example of many worthy predecessors, and calculated to keep fresh in the memories of the people not only the Shorter Catechism, but the whole of the Westminster theology. He endeavoured to visit all the families of his flock once a year at least and sometimes much oftener, but I am afraid, like most ministers, he did not wholly escape criticism on this ground. Wherever anyone was sick he called very frequently at whatever cost of personal inconvenience to himself, and dealt very tenderly with the suffering and dying, as well as gently comforted the bereaved and sorrowful. It is said of Dr Guthrie that he remarked on his death-bed that if he had realised what it was to lie dying he would have dealt far more tenderly than he had been able to do with those near the end of life.

Although pressed with pastoral work, Mr Cameron succeeded in finding time to take a deep interest and a very active part in educational matters. He unhesitatingly advocated the retention and teaching of the Bible and Shorter Catechism in schools as an indispensable part of all adequate training of youth. He took a special delight in examining children in religious knowledge, and did all in his power to secure prizes for them. But the Government Inspector has now almost entirely superseded the time-honoured annual ministerial visitation and examination of schools.

It will readily be admitted that Mr Cameron took a fair share in the discussions incident to Church Courts, but it is not so well known that he took an important part in all Presbyterian business and more solemn duties. He acted for a time as clerk to the Presbytery of Kintyre, and was, if anything, too minute and accurate. The following address to a newly-ordained pastor will indicate his high ideal of the duties incumbent upon those who break the bread of life to men :—

“I have now to address to you a few words in connection with the interesting position in which you now stand. You have now been solemnly set apart to the work of the ministry—the most responsible and at the same time the most honourable work in which anyone can be engaged. ‘We are unto God,’ says the apostle, ‘a sweet savour of Christ in them that are saved and in them that perish. To the one we are the savour of death unto death, and to the other the savour of life unto life.’ Need we be astonished that he added, ‘and who is sufficient for these things?’

“My brother, you have now been appointed to an office for which you are not sufficient—for which no one in the world is sufficient—for which the might and wisdom and zeal of angels are not sufficient, and, therefore, that in that office you may be found a worker that will not need to be ashamed, it is necessary to tell you that your sufficiency, like that of the apostle, must be of God. He alone can give you success. I have no intention of addressing you a lecture on pastoral theology, although hints as to the division of your time, for example—what proportion of it should be devoted to study and what proportion to pastoral work—would not be out of place, but might be useful to one beginning his ministry. I would not, however, discharge the duty laid upon me, nor would I be faithful to you, were I not to address to you a few simple exhortations bearing upon the position in which you now stand, and the office to which you have been set apart.

“1. Be much in private, praying to God for grace to enable you to fulfil your ministry. This exhortation is so common-place that it is apt to be regarded as unnecessary; and yet I dare not pass it over, but, on the contrary, I give it the first place. The apostles appointed deacons in the Church to attend to its outward and secular affairs, that they might give themselves continually to prayer and to the preaching of the Word. Prayer and preaching must go together. Without being frequent in prayer you need not expect to be successful in preaching. If you be not given to secret prayer, your ministry, you may depend upon it, will be fruitless. Speaking generally, a praying minister is easily known. He is full of life—his preaching possesses heavenly unction—and many other things will show that he is much with God. Earnest and believing prayer moves heaven itself. Jacob wrestled with God, and as a prince he had power with God and prevailed. You likewise will have power with God, and will prevail to bring down spiritual blessing upon yourself, upon your people, and upon the district in which you are to labour, if you will be a wrestler with God.

“2. Cherish habitually a holy frame of mind. This is the duty of all Christians, but without it a minister of God's Word need not expect to be successful. Thorough preparation for the Sabbath by the study of the word is very good—is indeed absolutely necessary—and ought not to be remitted even for a single Sabbath; but all your preparation will be of little avail to render you an edifying preacher to God's people, if you neglect to give your utmost diligence to cherish habitually a frame of mind suitable unto the work in which you are to be engaged. The means to be used for cherishing a right frame of mind I need not occupy your time in setting before you, for no one can know anything of the life of God in the soul who does not from experience know by what means that life is to be sustained in vigorous and healthy exercise.

"3. In regard to the preaching of the Word, let me earnestly guard you against being a mere professional sermon-maker. I do so, because this is a growing evil in our day. The faithful minister of Christ seeks to preach the truth upon which his own soul lives—the truth which he loves. The mere professional man preaches because that is his business. His sermons come from his head rather than from his heart, and, therefore, they do not reach the hearts of the hearers. They may instruct them—they may increase their knowledge—but they do not edify their souls. The article may be very good of its kind—it may show great natural gifts and resources—but it is not relished by the discerning Christian whose spiritual instincts inform him that the truth which the preacher sets forth, perhaps with eloquence and earnestness, does not come out of the treasures of a mind richly furnished with grace. He plainly sees that it has been prepared like any other article of merchandise to serve a purpose—perhaps for popular effect. To him it is lifeless and uninteresting, for it is artificial. No art in its composition, no earnestness in its delivery, no affected unction can render it edifying to his soul—hungry for the bread of life.

"4. Preach the truth of God. Avoid ingenious speculations. God will acknowledge only His own truth. Let Christ and Him crucified be the burden of your preaching. Give prominence in your teaching to the doctrines of grace. There never was a time when there was greater need for exhibiting fully and faithfully and fearlessly the truth of God in our preaching; for many keep it in the background, as if they were ashamed to own it, while many openly oppose it. It is unnecessary to tell you that you need not expect your ministry to be a fruitful one unless you honour the truth of God; for, assuredly, if you do not, God will not honour you in your work. Be distinct and explicit in declaring what the truth is. Do not be afraid that in so doing you may offend some of your hearers. Faithfulness to Christ and to His truth and to the souls of those whom you have undertaken to instruct in the truth is your first duty. From the very outset of your ministry plant your foot firmly on the truth as set forth in the Confession of Faith and in the Larger and Shorter Catechisms. Do not be afraid of being called an exclusive preacher, if you be not more exclusive than God's Word is. I press this upon you. With all my soul and heart I urge it upon you, for I believe that your ministry and mine will be unsuccessful—will be worse than unsuccessful—will prove a delusion and a snare to souls, unless we give due prominence in our preaching to the cardinal truths of the gospel, such as the sovereignty of God in choosing sinners unto salvation, the vicarious sufferings of the Mediator, man's utter inability to save himself, either in whole or in part, the necessity of the Spirit's work in quickening and sanctifying the soul, the obligation which rests upon the Christian to lead a life of holiness in the world. Let no one be in doubt as to the value which you attach to these truths, and the esteem in which you hold them.

"5. Be not one-sided in your preaching. You cannot, of course, cram all the doctrines of the gospel into every sermon you preach, but that is not necessary in order to give full justice to every truth and full opportunity to your hearers to learn the truth as a whole.

"6. In all your preaching be plain and pointed—explicit and direct. Be faithful to the consciences of your hearers. Ever realise the preciousness of their souls. Let your great aim be to bring them to Christ. Be not, therefore, afraid to tell them the truth. Warn the careless of their danger. Seek to lead those anxious in regard to their personal salvation to Christ in whom alone salvation is to be found—to be found freely by the chief of sinners. Strengthen the weak hands and confirm the feeble knees. Say to them that are of a fearful heart, 'Be strong, fear not. Behold your God will come with vengeance, even your God with a recompense; he will come and save you.' Let your preaching be discriminating, and for that end seek the wisdom which will enable you to distinguish between the precious and the vile, and to give to the saint his own, and to the hypocrite and sinner their own. Insist much upon personal holiness—holiness of heart and holiness of practice, on the part of your hearers, that God may be glorified by the fruit which they may bring forth in the world. And, in this respect, seek that you may be yourself an ensample unto your flock.

"7. Forsake not, either in preaching or in worship, the good old ways in which our fathers walked, and in which they were owned and blessed of God. You hear much said now-a-days about presenting to the people the truth under new forms or aspects suited to what is called the growing intelligence of our time; but, for my part, I prefer the old aspects of the truth to the so-called modern aspects of it. Indeed, when I closely examine these modern aspects of the truth, I am often at a loss to discover the good old truth under them. The truth needs no pompous and affected style to recommend it. It disdains the conceited phraseology of philosophy. It relies upon its own native lustre—its own intrinsic glory; and, indeed, one is tempted to conclude that he who thinks that to please modern taste the old time-honoured truths must be cast into new moulds and uttered in new forms of expression, must have little confidence in the native power of the truth or in his own acquaintance with it, and that, therefore, to cover his own weakness and deficiencies, he affects originality by means of a copious use of new forms of expression which are but wretched substitutes for those which the Church, after great care and deliberation, has adopted, and which our excellent Shorter Catechism has rendered familiar to every child in the land.

“Finally, my brother, I commend you to God, to whose service you have this day publicly devoted yourself and have been solemnly consecrated. May the Holy Spirit fill you with all grace so that you may prove a worker that will not need to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. Cast all your care in connection with your work upon your Master and He will care for you. He will make His grace sufficient for you, and His strength perfect in your weakness. Be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus, and then whatever difficulties you may have to encounter—whatever trials you may have to endure—however arduous may be the duties you will be called upon to perform—in all the variety of your circumstances and experiences, He will help and deliver you, until at length you shall have been enabled by His grace to fulfil the ministry which you have this day received of the Lord.”

The Re-union of the Presbyterians of Scotland, on the basis of the Confession of Faith and of the old statutes, was a matter on which his heart was set, and he fervently hoped that the Patronage Act of 1874 could be so improved as wholly to meet and adequately recognise the position and protest of the Free Church of Scotland in 1843. He took an active part in all the discussions and conferences bearing upon this question, and intensely regretted what he regarded as a departure or resiling from the Presbyterian principle of State-acknowledgment and support of religion on the part of the majority of the representatives of the Free Church as demonstrated by voice and vote in different assemblies. In the Assembly of 1875, he stated that he held that the Disruption became a necessity after the decision of the House of Lords in the Auchterarder case. Supposing there had not been another decision by the civil courts encroaching upon the domain of the Church, it was impossible for the evangelical party to remain in the Church after that decision, without sacrificing both the rights of the Christian people and the jurisdiction of the Church. The Stewarton decision did not touch so sacred a matter as the Auchterarder one. Sir H. Moncrieff had candidly admitted that the Patronage Act would have satisfied the non-intrusionist leaders in 1842, but it would not have satisfied them after January, 1843. He thought it should, for they never had any idea of getting such an Act, which had completely eliminated the Erastian element contained in the previous statutes, and, therefore, the Church was now thrown back upon the statutes which formed the bulwark of her liberties. He then adduced the testimony of Mr H. Moncrieff of East Kilbride in April, 1843, who, in moving to overture the Assembly for the repeal of the Veto Act, said he attached much more importance to the principle of non-intrusion than to anything else, for if he could get an Act which would protect that one principle he was not for breaking up the Church. The recent legislation had swept away the whole foundation of the decisions against the Church, and the principle of spiritual independence was not sacrificed by the Church not being able, proprio motu, to change the constitution of her own judicatories without consulting the other party.

Writing to a friend three years later, he says :—

“The recent lectures of Dr Kennedy, and more especially his speech last week in the Free Synod of Ross, seem to me sufficiently clear and explicit. When you find a man of his strong views in regard to the present condition of the Established Church—especially in the North—declaring publicly that, were he to get the modification of the Constitution which he regards as necessary to meet his principles, he would feel bound for the sake of his country and for the sake of national religion, to sacrifice his private feelings to his conviction that it would then become his duty, as a Free Churchman, to enter into alliance with the State, it seems to me that you and your friends are bound to do all in your power to satisfy him and those who agree with him.” He then indicates what is desiderated from the Legislature. “On the difficult subject of spiritual independence (excepting the matter of the Stewarton decision) we want nothing more than what you believe and what I believe the Established Church at present possesses. The Duke of Argyll has admitted that if there be any doubt as to the Church having been thrown back by the Patronage Act on the old statutes, it is but reasonable that the doubt should be removed. This can be done without any new definition of spiritual independence—without, in fact, anything of the nature of an abstract resolution on the subject. A clause in the preamble of an Act to the following effect, which merely states an undoubted fact, with a sufficient repealing clause, would suffice :—

“Whereas the government and supreme and exclusive jurisdiction of the Church of Scotland in all matters spiritual (causes ecclesiastical) as founded on the Word of God and set forth in the Confession of Faith (chaps. xxv. 6, and xxx. 1 and 2) have been recognised, ratified, and confirmed by divers Acts of Parliament, and, in particular, by the Act 1592, entitled 'Ratification of the Liberties of the True Kirk,' and by the Act 1690, entitled 'Act Ratifying the Confession of Faith and Settling the Presbyterian form of Church Government :

"And whereas by the Act 37 and 38 Vic. c. 82, entitled 'Church Patronage (Scotland) Act,' the Acts of Anne c. 12 and of Vic. c. 6 and c. 7, and also all other statutes or parts of statutes inconsistent with the provisions of said Act of 37 and 38 Vic. c. 82 were repealed, and the right of congregations to elect their own ministers, and of the Courts of the Church to decide finally and conclusively upon the appointment, admission, and settlement of ministers, was recognised and declared :

["And whereas it is desirable that the right of the Courts of the Church of Scotland to decide finally and conclusively upon all other matters that come within the province of the Church as recognised and ratified by the aforesaid statutes of 1592 and 1690 should be re-affirmed :]

"And whereas the Act 7 and 8 Vic. c. 44 is productive of much inconvenience in the erection of parishes, and is a barrier in the way of the union of Presbyterians in Scotland who approve of the standards of the Church of Scotland :

"Be it enacted . . . as follows :—

"I. This Act may be quoted as the New Parishes (Scotland) Act.

"II. It is hereby declared that the right to erect parishes quoad sacra, and to invest the ministers of said office, including ruling in the Courts of the Church, belongs to the Church of Scotland in the exercise of her supreme and exclusive jurisdiction as recognised, ratified, and confirmed by the aforesaid statutes of 1592 and 1690.

"III. The Act 7 and 8 Vict. c. 44 shall be repealed from and after the passing of this Act : and also all Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act : and also all Acts and laws inconsistent with the aforesaid supreme and exclusive jurisdiction of the Church of Scotland in all matters spiritual as recognised, ratified, and confirmed by the aforesaid statutes of 1592 and 1690, and, in particular, the Acts Rescissory 1661 c. 15 and 62 c. 1-2."

In regard to the Bill prepared by Sir A. Gordon and Mr F. Mackintosh, to make further provisions in regard to the Church of Scotland; to facilitate reunion therewith of other Presbyterian Churches in Scotland; and submitted to the House of Commons in 1879, Mr Cameron writes in reply to a newspaper criticism as follows :—

“In your leading article on Sir A. Gordon’s Bill, you gave as an illustration of the great powers proposed to be conferred upon the General Assembly that it could ‘expel the Burgh Elders who represent the ratepayers at large.’ The General Assembly, proprio motu, admitted the Burgh Elders. It does not, therefore, seem a greater exercise of power to reject them, if it see cause, although there is not much probability of its destroying an element of representation created by its own exclusive action. Further, why should not the General Assembly, which admitted as members Professors of Theology who had no charges, and Burgh Elders who, as you hold, represent the ratepayers, not have power to admit ministers of chapels, if it see cause? In reference to the possible admission of ‘lay assessors,’ it is sufficient to remark that that would be un-Presbyterian.”

When another attempt was made in 1886 to pass a Bill to declare the Constitution of the Church of Scotland, Mr Cameron was energetic in his advocacy of the proposal presented with such ability and cogent reasoning to Parliament by Mr Finlay, and afterwards associated with his name. The important representative Conference of Free Church office-bearers opposed to Disestablishment and Disendowment, held in Tron Free Church, Edinburgh, on 16th February, 1886, and presided over by Mr (now Sir) William Mackinnon, Bart. of Balinakill, approved of Mr Finlay’s Bill, “which is to remove obstacles to the reunion of Scottish Presbyterianism,” and considered that, if passed into law, it would afford “a sufficient basis for cordial conference with a view to reunion among all who hold by the principles of the Reformed Church of Scotland.”

The final form which this great and comprehensive, and necessarily difficult question took in the mind of Mr Cameron may be gathered from the subjoined propositions of which he approved:—

“1. Legislation which would declare the Constitution of the Church of Scotland to be such as is set forth in the Caim, Declaration, and Protest adopted by the General Assembly of 1842; such legislation to be accompanied by a measure which would render adequate justice to all the practical interests involved.

“2. That it is necessary for such legislation that it secure the following points:—

“(1) A clear declaration as to the divine source of the Church’s jurisdiction.

“(2) The repeal of all statutory enactments at present encroaching upon the Church’s jurisdiction in spiritual matters.

“(3) The restriction of the action of the Civil Courts to the civil effects only of ecclesiastical jurisdictions.

“3. That it is at the same time most desirable,

“(1) That such legislation should contain an express reference to the aforesaid Claim, Declaration, and Protest.

“(2) That such legislation should in some manner effectually recognise the just claim of the Free Church to participate in the civil benefits of the ecclesiastical establishment.

“4. That the Bill introduced into last Parliament by Mr Finlay would, with suitable amendments, secure the above provisions.

“5. That a Committee be appointed to confer with Mr Finlay, and also, if thought desirable, with any representatives of the Established Church in regard to the various heads of these resolutions.”

It would almost appear that Mr Cameron was destined to have on hand questions of law and liberty wherever he went—matters of moment, or the reverse, in regard to which some of his brethren and himself were hardly able to see eye to eye. When he left Renton he was promised—informally, perhaps—that a new manse should be built for him at Brodick. The first step towards the realisation of this desirable object was taken in 1881, when a large and very successful bazaar—the first held in the Island of Arran, and opened by the Duchess of Hamilton—realised over £1100. It is admitted that no small part of the success was due to the high estimate formed far and near of the genially popular pastor and widely known Celtic scholar, for whose comfort the proceeds were intended. The late author of “John Halifax, Gentleman” (Mrs Craik), who opened the bazaar on the fourth day, pictured in prospect the erection of a fine home for a hospitable and good man. As sometimes happen, differences of opinion arose on this occasion, which rapidly developed somewhat later, when the report, amplified by rumour, got abroad that the Deacons’ Court had decided to devote the interest, if not a small part of the principal sum so obtained, under ample guarantee, to the building of a private house for the minister. The only foundation for this damaging story was, as the Deacons' Court records attest, a request by the minister that, as His Grace the Duke of Hamilton had offered him a site out of personal regard, the deacons, if they deemed it right, might permit him the use of the interest, and, if necessary, of a small additional sum to be collected by himself, for a few years. Three weeks later, apart altogether from outside pressure, or, indeed, knowledge of the proposal, he made a statement to the Court to the effect that he had thought the matter over, and deemed it undesirable that his private affairs should be in any way mixed up with their public proceedings. And yet how much obloquy and unmerited remark he had endured for this comparatively trivial incident ! It even formed an element in the Lamdash case, of which it is difficult to give a condensed and consecutive account.

Several influences at work resulted in a petition for the erection of Lamdash into a mission station coming before the Presbytery of Kintyre, on 20th January, 1885. Mr Cameron's attitude towards it is best given in his own words. On the part of the petitioners,

“There was shown no desire to have a separate mission station at Lamdash, and, therefore, no difference of opinion existed, until after I had expressed, in January, 1883, my decided disapproval of a proposal by members of Whitingbay Free Church, and some others, to place services which I had commenced at Lamdash some months previously, and which were admitted by all to have been giving entire satisfaction, both to the native population and to the summer visitors, under the charge of the Free Church minister of Whitingbay and myself conjointly. But joint-moderatorships never work well, when, as in this case, it would be giving the minister of another congregation equal rights with myself within a district which had always formed part of the charge of Kilbride. It is true that I was of opinion that, in the interest of the Free Church itself, Lamdash should continue to form part of the charge of Kilbride ; but, at the same time, I was willing that the new church, which my office-bearers and myself were preparing to erect, should be available, when finished, for special services for such as might not be satisfied with the services already regularly held at Lamdash in connection with the Free Church, and who might consider it too far to walk to Brodick or Whitingbay. This ought sufficiently to meet the case of any who might be 'persuaded that their comfort and edification could not be satisfactorily provided for' by the Free Church services regularly held within comparatively easy distance of all the people at Brodick, Lamlash, or Whitingbay.

"The statement that while the question of the erection of a station was in dependence, I closed an arrangement for the site behind the Established Church, is entirely erroneous. Between the time in January when, as stated in the preceding paragraph of the petition, the question was carried to the Presbytery for decision, and the time when three of the petitioners went to Mr Murray, the factor, about a site, I had no communication of any kind, directly or indirectly, with anyone connected with the management of the Arran estate.

"The statement that I closed an arrangement for the site referred to, 'without the knowledge of the petitioners,' seems to imply that, in negotiating about a site for Lamlash, I was acting upon my own responsibility and without the knowledge of parties who ought to have been consulted in the matter. Now, the fact is that at every step in these negotiations, from first to last, I regularly consulted my office-bearers, who were the parties entitled to be consulted in such matters. All the meetings of the Deacons' Court, at which these matters were discussed, were publicly announced both at Brodick and at Lamlash. It is not quite correct to say that the site accepted is 'behind the Established Church.' It would be more accurate to say that it is behind the Whitehouse, the grounds of which it overlooks.

"In support of the prayer of the petition above referred to, two reasons were urged: (1) That I was not proceeding with the erection of a church at Lamlash, although I had undertaken to provide one; and (2) That if Lamlash were separated from Kilbride, the contributions of the Lamlash people to the Sustentation Fund of the Free Church, would be available for the support of the station. The Presbytery, without any reference to the merits of the case, and without citing the Kirk-Session of Kilbride to appear for their interests, granted the prayer of the petition by a majority of five to two votes. Against this decision Mr Inglis, the elder from Kilbride, and myself dissented, and complained to the Free Synod of Argyle.

"The case came before the Synod on 22nd April. The main argument stated in support of the decision of the Presbytery was the importance of Lamlash as a favourite resort for summer visitors. The Synod, after hearing parties, 'sustained the dissent and complaint, but in respect that the petitioners laid no statistics before the Presbytery relative to the population and financial capabilities of the district intended to be erected into a station, and that the Kirk-Session of Kilbride was not cited to appear at the Presbytery for its interests, remit the case back to the Presbytery and instruct them, if they see cause, to proceed in the matter according to the laws of the Church.' In this decision, Mr Inglis and myself acquiesced, and the Presbytery protested and appealed against it to the General Assembly.

"The Presbytery having met by leave of the Synod, immediately after the rising of the Synod, agreed to fall from their protest and appeal. A motion was then made to cite the Kirk-Session of Kilbride to appear for their interests in the case at a meeting of Presbytery to be held at Campbeltown on 12th May, and to request the petitioners to supply for that meeting the statistics referred to in the Synod's deliverance. This motion having been carried by a majority, I dissented, and complained against it to the General Assembly, chiefly because the Presbytery proceeded in the case (1) without a certified extract of the Synod's deliverance ; (2) in the absence of the petitioners ; (3) without showing cause why further action should be taken, especially before there was sufficient time to elect the lay members of Presbytery ; and also because (4) the names of representative elders, who ceased to be members of Presbytery when the Synod rose, were put in the sederunt, and these elders sat and voted as members of Court ; because (5) a petitioner sat and voted in the Presbytery in his own case ; and because (6) the resolution of the Presbytery to proceed in the case with such undue haste, was contrary to the spirit and intention of the Synod's deliverance, which contemplated, as stated by its supporters, giving parties in the case time to consider their respective positions in reference to the question in dependence.

"Although, in view of the undoubted irregularities in the Presbytery's procedure, I would be fully justified in carrying my complaint to the Assembly, still, on finding that no practical advantage was likely to result, seeing that the General Assembly could not competently deal with the merits of the case when adjudicating as a Court of Review in a case of complaint against irregularities in the procedure of a lower Court, I fell from my complaint, and thus the decision of the Presbytery of 22nd April, citing the Kirk-Session, and requesting the petitioners to supply the statistics referred to in the Synod's deliverance, became final. The case would then come up in ordinary course at the first meeting of Presbytery after the General Assembly, to be dealt with under the Synod's remit, 'according to the laws of the Church ;' and should any complaints or appeals arise in connection with it, the services at Lamlash, which admittedly had given general satisfaction for two years, would in that case be continued on the same footing for possibly another year, or until the meeting of the next General Assembly, when the case, I have no doubt, would be finally disposed of on its merits. This, however, was prevented by the proceedings which I shall now mention, and the matter was brought into the unfortunate position in which it now stands.

“Some time previous to the meeting of Presbytery, held at Campbeltown on 12th May, the Moderator of Presbytery wrote to parties at Lamrash, requesting them to get up another petition, and to forward it to the Presbytery. This petition, as afterwards appeared, was a new step towards the splitting up of the congregation of Kilbride, which is comparatively small, and has never been self-sustaining, into two still smaller congregations; and yet neither the Kirk Session of Kilbride nor myself have ever received any notice of it. It was not until the 22nd May, and then only incidentally, that I came to know that the Moderator of Presbytery had written to Lamrash, and my informant could tell me nothing of the petition thus got up.

“Crossing from Ardrossan to Brodick on Tuesday, 26th May, I learnt, also quite incidentally, that a petition from Lamrash was to come before the General Assembly, then sitting. But the friend who informed me of this, having only heard that there was such a petition, could tell nothing in regard to the nature or object of it. After I arrived at Brodick, I learned from the newspapers that the petition was to come before the Assembly that very day at the forenoon sederunt. This petition, I afterwards ascertained, was the same which was got up at Lamrash two weeks before by direction of the Moderator of Presbytery. In the interval the Presbytery Clerk apparently had charge of it; but, although he had written me twice between 12th May and the meeting of Assembly, on matters connected with the Lamrash case, he never alluded to the petition to the Assembly. It was not until about a week after the rising of the General Assembly that I learned that, at the evening sederunt of the Assembly, on Monday, 25th May, leave was granted to the Presbytery of Kintyre to meet at the close of that sederunt for the purpose of considering matters connected with the petition of members and adherents of the Free Church at Lamrash, and that, at the same sederunt, the Assembly ‘appointed the Committee on Bills to meet on the following day a quarter of an hour before the meeting of Assembly.’ The petition stated explicitly that there was a division in the Presbytery on the question of the erection of Lamrash into a station, and complained that, in consequence of my dissent and complaint to the General Assembly, the erection of the station had been ‘withheld or delayed;’ and yet one of the parties in that division, unknown to the other party, ask leave of the Assembly to meet as a Presbytery when it was impossible for the other party to be present, or even to know of the meeting, and the Assembly grant leave, and also appoint a special meeting of the Committee on Bills, to facilitate the action of the party who had thus obtained leave to meet as a Presbytery.

“The meeting of Presbytery was held that night, 25th May, between 11 and 12 o'clock, and it was then agreed to ask the General Assembly to appoint assessors to the Presbytery in the Lamlash case, and to empower the Commission at any of its stated diets to dispose of any complaints and appeals which might arise in connection with the case. On the following day, at the forenoon sederunt, the petition which had apparently been passed through the Committee on Bills into the Assembly without any relative extract minute of either Kirk-Session or Presbytery, which, indeed, although asking the General Assembly to take action with a view of dividing an existing congregation, and of having a new one formed, did not pass through any of the inferior Courts, was taken up by the General Assembly, and parties were heard in support of it, although those chiefly interested, the minister and Kirk-Session of the congregation proposed to be divided, were absent, and had no knowledge of their proceedings. The main argument used at the bar of the Assembly in support of the prayer of the petition was the importance of Lamlash as ‘a place of large summer resort.’ The Assembly also took up the application of the Presbytery for Assessors, which, on account of the extraordinary haste in these proceedings, made it necessary to have the Standing Order anent the printing of papers suspended, to allow the minute of Presbytery of the previous night to be received in manuscript. The Assembly granted the application, and appointed Rev. Dr Rainy, Rev. Dr Adam, and others, Assessors to sit and vote in the Presbytery in the Lamlash case. It does not appear, however, that any action was taken in regard to the Lamlash petition. Even the resolution of the Presbytery of 22nd April, citing the Kirk-Session of Kilbride to appear for their interests at a meeting of Presbytery to be held at Campbeltown on 12th May, which became final, when I fell from my complaint, was not, so far as appears from the printed proceedings, altered or amended. The statement in the petition, therefore, that the Presbytery, when they erected Lamlash into a mission station, were ‘acting under a remit from the General Assembly,’ does not seem to be correct, unless by ‘remit’ the appointment of Assessors be meant. The Presbytery, along with the Assessors, having met by leave of the General Assembly in Edinburgh, on Saturday, 30th May, agreed then to meet again at Lamlash on 11th June, and to cite the Kirk-Session of Kilbride to appear for their interests at that meeting. The Kirk-Session did not appear at the bar of the Presbytery, but gave in an extract minute, in which, while still retaining the views previously expressed by them to the effect that there was no necessity for a separate station at Lamdash, and that the erection of one would, by weakening the existing congregations, prove injurious instead of beneficial to the Free Church cause in the district, they agreed to offer no opposition to the Presbytery sanctioning, should they see proper, a mission station there, the whole responsibility in the matter resting upon the Presbytery. After hearing a statement from the petitioners, the Presbytery agreed to form the district into a mission station. From this decision Mr Inglis, the elder representing the Kilbride Kirk-Session, and myself, recorded our dissent; but we did not appeal to a higher Court. The newly erected station was placed under the charge of the Rev. Mr Johnstone—a member of the Presbytery of Greenock—one of the Assessors appointed by the General Assembly to the Presbytery of Kintyre.”

It is important in this connection to call attention to a document signed by Mr Cameron on 29th May, and given into the custody of Principal Rainy, as it figures repeatedly in the progress of the case:—

“Edinburgh, 29th May.—Mr Cameron explained that he was willing to consent to the Presbytery taking charge of Lamdash, erecting it into a station, if they see cause; that he agrees to abandon the site, leaving it to the Presbytery or people to negotiate for the same site or a better one, promising at the same time to do nothing to hinder their obtaining it.

(Signed) “ALEXANDER CAMERON.”

It was expected that this proposed agreement, amicably arrived at, would end or tend to terminate the difficulty. But when the matter came before the Duke of Hamilton's Commissioner, the elasticity of interpretation was subjected to the following criticism by Mr Cameron, in a letter to Dr Rainy, of date 27th August:—

“You can see from Mr Jamieson's letter that the memorandum which you wrote in Edinburgh, on 29th May, and which I agreed to sign, has left on his mind the impression that I had proposed, and even actually arranged, to make over, so far as I could, my interest in the site given me for a preaching station at Lamdash to the Presbytery. I was certainly pressed by yourself and friends to do what Mr Jamieson thinks I did; but, as you are aware, I positively refused, because, as I stated to you, I believed that if I were to do what you wished me to do, I would be breaking faith with the Duke of Hamilton. What I agreed to was, as you know, to give back the site to the proprietor, and to leave him free to give it, if he thought proper, to the Station. It is clear, therefore, that your document which I signed is liable to misconstruction, and that consequently it is better for all parties that it should be withdrawn, which, as the party who signed it, I accordingly now do. It was an irregular thing from the first, for clearly you had no right to propose to me, and I had no right to agree, to sign a document of the kind without my Kirk-Session having been first consulted. I signed it, as you know, with the view of my being at once relieved of my obligations in connection with the church ordered for Lamlash; and when that purpose failed, no further use should have been made of it; nor should it have been engrossed, as it was, in the Presbytery Record without my express sanction. But although I now formally withdraw the memorandum, I still adhere to the resolution of the Kilbride Kirk-Session, of date 10th June, which was so highly commended by yourself and the other Assessors at the meeting of Presbytery on the following day. Of course, in agreeing to that minute, the Kirk-Session did not surrender their right to make such provision as they might consider necessary for supplying ordinances to their own members and adherents at Lamlash. This was also expressly understood when I signed your document on 29th May."

The question of motive in the whole matter will probably with most people be somewhat set at rest by an undoubtedly genuine expression of feeling in the following communication to the Duke's Commissioner, a most genial and learned lawyer:—

"The obligations under which I have come in regard to a church for Lamlash were undertaken entirely in the interest of the people and of the Free Church cause in the district, and were the natural and necessary result of arrangements entered into, and of responsibilities assumed, long before the petition to the Presbytery for the separation of Lamlash from Kilbride came into existence. Of the fact of these responsibilities the Presbytery was informed as early as the 20th January, when the case came first before the Presbytery. I am satisfied that His Grace will not allow me personally to suffer in this matter. I am likewise satisfied that he will not be the less disposed to protect my interests in this matter, if he should come to know, as Mr Murray and yourself have all along known, that in negotiating for a site for Lamlash I acted as faithfully to the Free Church as I could have done if I approved as sincerely as I, for the most part, disapprove of the public policy of those who now guide her counsels."

On the 26th of October the following note was addressed to the Moderator of the Free Presbytery of Kintyre:—

"Rev. Dear Sir,—In reference to the citation to the Kirk-Session of Kilbride to appear at a meeting of Presbytery to be held at Campbeltown to-morrow evening, to explain and defend, if it sees fit, the course it may have taken in connection with the erection at Lamash of a building 'alleged' to be 'a place of worship' 'in connection with the Free Church,' I have been instructed by the Kirk-Session to inform you that it takes nothing to do with the erection of buildings whether in connection with the Free Church or not, that being a matter which does not come within its province as an Ecclesiastical Court.—I am, yours most respectfully."

The reply was this :—

"At Campbeltown, 27th day of October, 1885, which day the Free Presbytery of Kintyre met and was constituted.

"Inter alia,—It was moved, seconded, and unanimously agreed to :—

"1. That though neither Mr Cameron nor the Kirk-Session of Brodick appeared to answer the citation of the 13th inst., the Presbytery understood, from information furnished to them, that a place of worship is being erected at Lamash under the direction of the Rev. A. Cameron, of Brodick, which erection has not been authorised or sanctioned by the Presbytery.

"2. That no such building can lawfully be opened for public worship in connection with the Free Church of Scotland without the sanction of this Presbytery.

"3. That the Presbytery, disapproving of the way in which this building has been proceeded with, so far as it has been disclosed or can be gathered, hereby prohibit the opening of it for public worship.

"4. The Presbytery appoint intimation hereof to be made to the Kirk-Session of Brodick, to the congregation at Lamash, and also to His Grace the Duke of Hamilton.

"Extracted by (Signed) ALEX. MACRAE, P.C."

There must have been some mistake or misunderstanding as to the precise position of affairs at this juncture, as appears from the view taken of this deliverance by Mr Cameron, which was :—

"At a meeting of Presbytery in October a motion was agreed to 'prohibiting the Iron Church from being opened for public worship.' This was quite incompetent, as the building was not Free Church or denominational property."

Accordingly, about the middle of January, 1886, the Iron Church was opened by the Rev. Dr Williamson, Ascog, Bute, who preached in the forenoon from Ephes. ii. 19 and 22, and in the evening from Rom. i. 16. The day was very unfavourable, but the attendance was most gratifying, and the collection amounted to £32 13s 10½d. The structure presented an elegant appearance was most comfortable, and well lighted.

The Free Synod of Argyll met at Lochgilphead on 28th April, 1886, and took up the reference from the Presbytery of Kintyre in the Lamlash case.

It was moved and seconded—"That the case be referred simpliciter to the Assembly." It was also moved and seconded—"That, inasmuch as the abandonment and acceptance of sites for buildings, and also questions directly affecting the erection, ownership, and possession of property, come within the province of the Civil, rather than of the Ecclesiastical Courts, the Synod decline to interfere in this case, more especially as it appears that the building in question at Lamlash is not Free Church property, and that there is no evidence that it has been opened in connection with the Free Church denomination." Fourteen voted for the first motion, and three for the second. From this finding Mr Cameron dissented.

In May he stated that, although no money consideration could make up for the annoyance to which he and his people had been subjected, he was yet willing to acquiesce in any reasonable terms as to a satisfactory arrangement at Lamlash. But nothing came of any overtures that may have been made on behalf of either party in the somewhat complicated case. It is not unknown that pecuniary difficulties affecting the Iron Church began, at and after this period, to press so heavily that at one time he contemplated the necessity of selling his furniture in order to meet all obligations. But such a sad pass was fortunately and opportunely avoided by the generous intervention of unfailing friendship.

The reference from the Synod of Argyll in the case of Lamlash came before the Assembly on Tuesday, June 1st, 1886. Mr Cameron was asked to go to the bar, but pointed out that he was not a party in this case, as it came before the Assembly by reference from the inferior Court. When members refused to hear him in the House but at the bar, he protested strongly against his having been compelled to take the place which he then occupied, stating that that was the first time he had ever known, in all his experience of Church Courts, of such a course being followed ; and he appealed to the Clerks of Assembly whether it was not as a member of the House, instead of as a party at the bar, that he should be taking part in this case.

After parties had been heard, it was moved and seconded—“That Mr Cameron be asked whether he had received a title to the ground at Lamblash from the Duke of Hamilton in his own name and favour?” It was also moved and seconded—“That this question be not put to Mr Cameron.” The first motion was carried by a large majority. But from this judgment Mr M'Ewan and nineteen other members dissented, because the Assembly had no right to interfere with the individual and personal rights of Mr Cameron, and because the question put to Mr Cameron involves another party, namely, the Duke of Hamilton. Two others dissented because “we are not entitled to know whether the titles be in his own name.”

To the question put, Mr Cameron replied that this was a matter in which other parties were concerned, and that he did not feel himself at liberty to answer the question without their consent. He asked for time to obtain this, and then promised to reply.

Dr Moir Porteous asked whether the Presbytery would now be willing to take over the Iron Church, provided the site could be secured, along with the consent of Mr Cameron? Mr Johnstone replied that the Presbytery could not undertake to answer the question without communicating with the local parties.

Mr John M'Ewan, Edinburgh—Is it a fact that Mr Cameron or his Deacons' Court has done anything to prevent the parties interested from obtaining a site?

Mr Cameron—We have done nothing whatever to prevent a site being got. The Duke of Hamilton decided that matter on his own responsibility, and after making enquiry for himself.

Professor Thomas Smith moved :—

“That the Assembly do not find that the Presbytery of Kintyre was called to interfere with Mr Cameron's exercise of that right which appertains to all ministers of the Free Church of conducting religious services at any place within the district assigned to him ; while it is competent to the Presbytery, if they see cause, to take steps in the regular way for the disjunction of Lamblash from the congregation of Kilbride, and for the institution of a station there."

Mr (now Dr) Stewart, Glasgow, seconded.

Mr R. G. Balfour, Edinburgh, proposed :—

"That the General Assembly find that Lamlash has been erected into a station; that Mr Cameron has secured a site and erected a church at Lamlash, and alleges that a few families there still adhere to him; that the securing of this site and the erection of this church, which is understood to be the property of Mr Cameron, or under his control, constitute the obstacle which has rendered it impossible as yet for the station at Lamlash to obtain from the proprietor a site for a place of worship; that Mr Cameron has erected the building in question without the authority or approbation of the Presbytery, and has caused it to be opened and kept open for public worship against the prohibition of the Presbytery :—

"The General Assembly find that Mr Cameron's conduct has been highly censurable, and all the more so because, on the plea of caring for some persons at Lamlash still adhering to the Brodick congregation, he has inflicted a grievous wrong upon the body of the people at Lamlash adhering to the Free Church. The Assembly prohibit and discharge Mr Cameron from opening the said church for worship on the Lord's Day, without the leave of the Presbytery, under pains of process for contumacy, &c."

Mr Lawrie, Tulliallan, seconded.

Mr Neil Taylor, Dornoch, proposed :—

"That the General Assembly, having heard parties, and considering the peculiarities in the case, find that Mr Cameron was justified in providing a place of worship for the convenience of the adherents of the Brodick Free Church congregation residing at Lamlash, and authorise the Presbytery to take over the Iron Church, with Mr Cameron's consent, and on the understanding that Mr Cameron be relieved of the pecuniary obligations connected with the undertaking."

Mr Macaskill, Dingwall, seconded.

Professor Smith having withdrawn his motion, it was found that 104 had voted for Mr R. G. Balfour's motion and 39 for Mr Taylor's motion. From this judgment 10 members dissented. "1. Because the motion of Mr Balfour is unnecessarily severe and stringent. 2. Because the second motion was sufficient to meet all the purposes contemplated by Mr Balfour's motion without pain to any party."

The last reason is very significant and far-reaching ; and a urid light is thrown upon it by this personal reference :—

“After returning home from the General Assembly, I was attacked by a sort of nervousness which completely unfitted me—although in other respects quite well—for any mental exertion—even the small amount of exertion necessary for writing letters of any importance. This feeling, the result, I believe, of the annoyance and worry to which I was subjected in Edinburgh, went off all at once when I went north to assist Mr Baillie at his Communion ; and during all the time I was there I was perfectly well. I preached seven times in five days, and on five of these occasions to very large congregations in the open air. When I reached this (Brodick) the nervous attack returned, and except on the Saturdays and Sabbaths, when I have been obliged to exert myself, I have since felt quite helpless, so far as any mental work is concerned. I am ashamed to own all this, but it explains my delay in writing you. I ought, of course, to have overcome this feeling, but it is not easy to do so. You have asked how the case of Lamlash stands since the General Assembly’s decision. That decision prevents me from using the building for public worship ; nor can I give the use of it to any other party. I can preach to my own adherents at Lamlash in any place in the district except in the building erected by myself on the site given to me by the proprietor as a matter of personal favour. It will, therefore, be necessary for me to divest myself of the control of the building, at least for a time, so that my people may have the use of it without giving an opportunity of bringing a charge of contumacy against me.”

It was some consolation to him while thus suffering that he received a large amount of sympathy both from private sources and from the public press. To mention only two newspapers, which may be taken as representative, by way of contrast—the Scotsman and the Signal. A few sentences from the latter will suffice :—“If the preamble was designed to give a true representation of the facts, it would have stated that Mr Cameron had received a site and had contracted for the church before the Station was erected.” “Where is it that a Free Church minister comes under obligation not to open a church or hall for public worship within his own district without the approbation of the Presbytery ?” “In the preamble the Assembly say that the church is ‘understood to be the property of Mr Cameron or under his control,’ and then they prohibit him, under pain of Church censure, from opening his own property for worship on the Lord's Day !" "He may preach anywhere about this building, and he may even enter it and preach on any day of the week except Sabbath." "When the reference from the Synod of Argyll was stated and sustained, the Synod, of which Mr Cameron was a member, ceased to be parties, and he was entitled to deliberate and vote in the Assembly, of which he was also a member, when the case was taken up upon the merits. Instead of this, however, he was compelled to go to the bar, and was not allowed as a member of the House to speak or vote upon the case. In this way he was not only subjected to censuring and inquisitorial questions, but was deprived of his constitutional rights."—(Moncrieff's Manual, pp. 60-63).

On the 24th of June an authoritative proposal was submitted to Mr Cameron to take the Iron Church—the site to be included—off his hands, at a sum to be fixed by valuation. But, considering all that had taken place, it is hardly to be wondered at that he seemed to find it difficult all at once to reconcile this line of action with the interests of the members and adherents of Kilbride resident at Lamlash, not to refer to personal considerations.

On April 16th, 1887, an appeal—not without authority, and not in an unfriendly spirit—was urgently addressed to him to come to a just and generous settlement, in view of the forthcoming meeting of the Supreme Court of the Church, to which he replied on 18th April, clearly stating his position ; and with this communication may fitly close the case and correspondence, as far as he was concerned :—

"It was about half-past ten o'clock on Saturday night when I received your letter, and, therefore, I had not sufficient time to reply to it before the steamer left this morning. Besides, I would like to have more leisure to bring out more clearly (1) whether or not the General Assembly ought as a matter of simple justice, and apart altogether from any questions as to the future use of the Iron Church, to cancel the decision of last year in the Lamlash case, and (2) whether or not I have acted all along in this business, not only justly, but also generously towards the interests which you advocate, although I have often had sufficient provocation to dispense with the generosity. These are the two main questions raised by your letter ; and the first of them may easily be decided by reference to facts and documents, with which Dr

Rainy must be as well acquainted as I am, for he acted a principal part in connection with all of them, whilst a brief narrative of the actings of the Church Courts on the one hand, and of my actings on the other, in connection with this matter, will enable any unprejudiced person to form a correct opinion in regard to the second question. It is sufficient at present to say that, assuming that I am right in thinking that the decision of the Assembly has inflicted on me a grievous and cruel wrong, your proposal about taking 'the sting' out of it would only have the effect of adding insult to injury, although I know very well that that is not your intention. I cannot therefore be a party to any proposal in regard to that decision which will not, in effect, remove every trace of it from the Records of the General Assembly.

"I find in your letter a mistake which it is necessary to correct. I did not say that the parties into whose hands, as I expect, the control of the Iron Church will soon pass, are to act for me. They will act not for me, but for themselves, and on their own responsibility. They have a material interest in the building, which entitles them to assume the control of it; but I am confident that they will deal both generously and wisely with any applications for the use of it, that may be made to them on behalf of any Free Church residents at Lamlash, who may wish to have special services there for their own benefit. I hope that this arrangement will result in giving satisfaction to all parties. When Dr Rainy called here in August, I informed him of my intention to divest myself entirely of the control of the building, and he considered that that arrangement would do, if the matter were to pass into the hands of responsible persons. Of course any parties who may have to decide on applications for the use of the building must feel that they will have to deal with a very responsible matter, although they will not be answerable to Church Courts."

The only services held in the Iron Church after this, while it remained at Lamlash—from which it was ultimately removed to Glasgow—were one or two prayer meetings, over which, on a week day, the late Dr Smeaton of Edinburgh genially and profitably presided.

In October, 1888, Mr Cameron was beyond the pale of controversy. The subsequent steps in the conduct of the Lamlash case were not without considerable intricacy and difficulty; but only a very brief summary of results can be given here—for the sake of completeness. Rev. M. P. Johnstone, Greenock, represented the Lamlash people, and the present writer conducted the case for the representatives of the late Dr Cameron. It may not be inappropriate, without attempting to cover a tithe of the ground or of the various interests involved, to give one or two extracts from a correspondence that shows how the situation was simplified. In reply to a request by a deputation from the Free Church station at Lamash for a new site on which to build a church, the Duke of Hamilton's Commissioner wrote on 24th July, 1889 :—

“I wish in the first instance to make it plain to you and the other adherents of the Free Church in Lamash, that whatever views may be entertained by you and others regarding the acting of the late Dr Cameron in connection with the existing site and the Iron Church on it, His Grace would never at the time that site was given have agreed to give any site which did not in his opinion meet the wishes and requirements of the late Dr Cameron and those whom he was supposed to represent in Lamash ; and having—as the Duke has always had—a very great regard for Dr Cameron while alive, and a sincere respect for his memory now that he is dead, he will do nothing which would in the very least degree indicate a lessening of that regard or a diminution of that respect in connection with these arrangements ; and the only feeling which prompts His Grace to agree to the request of the deputation on this subject is the unanimity with which, as you represented, the adherents of the Free Church in the district make a request for another site, and the Duke feels, looking to that unanimity, he can without the least reflection on Dr Cameron's memory agree to the request, but upon the conditions I am to name.”

(1) Refers to locality of site to be pointed out and approved.

“(2) As a preliminary to any such selection the Duke must insist that Dr Cameron's representatives shall be relieved of all the expenses which were incurred by him in absolute good faith in connection with the existing site, and with the erection of the Iron Church upon it. His Grace feels that in making this condition he is only doing what is fair and right by the memory of the late Dr Cameron, and in the interests of his representatives, and because he is satisfied that whatever may be the views entertained by some of your body regarding Dr Cameron's actions, he (Dr Cameron) acted in this matter, so far as His Grace is aware, in the most absolute good faith, and in the belief that he was doing the best he could for the interests of the Free Church of which he was minister.”

The site offered met with warm approval and appreciation of His Grace's kindness on the part of the people ; but the condition attached was submitted to some criticism, which was answered by an intimation that the cost incurred in getting and erecting the Iron Church “may be ascertained, if a difference of opinion shall arise, by arbitration between the representatives of the late Dr Cameron and those who desire the new site.”

A Minute of Reference was then drawn up (by Mr J. A. Stuart, solicitor, Edinburgh) between the Rev. John Kennedy, on behalf of the owners of the Iron Church, and the Rev. M. P. Johnstone, on behalf of the congregation of the Free Church of Scotland at Lamlash, whereby they submitted and referred to the final decision and award of James S. Napier, Esq., Glasgow, sole arbiter, mutually chosen by them to fix and determine the value of the said Iron Church.

The arbiter's findings were given on 5th February, 1890, fixing the present value of the Iron Church at two-thirds of the original cost—a judgment in which both parties acquiesced. It is only right and what is due here heartily to pay a high tribute for perfect fairness and frankness to the respected arbiter and to the corresponding representative.

The final stage in this protracted case was reached when, on 1st June, 1891, the General Assembly took up consideration of a petition by members of the Kirk-Session of Kilbride, Arran, and by a large number of people, representing that the decision come to in this case by the General Assembly on June 1st, 1886, involved, in a way most painful to them, the name and memory of the late Rev. Alexander Cameron, LL.D., as also their Deacons' Court; and requesting that the decision complained of should be rescinded, at least as far as it bore upon the office-bearers of their congregation and on the respected memory of the late Dr Cameron. I appeared in support of the petition, and briefly stated the history of the case, emphasising the desirability and necessity of granting the prayer of the petitioners.

Principal Rainy said there was no new element set before the House. He hoped Dr Cameron had not suffered appreciably in health from that judgment, but undoubtedly he felt it. He was disposed to think that, however unable to review the judgment of 1886—it must be an exceptional case that would lead them to do that—the Assembly would be willing to come to any finding that would have a solacing effect upon the minds of those to whom the memory of Dr Cameron was dear, or who had regard for him. He accordingly moved :—"Find that no charge against any of the office-bearers was made or suggested in the judgment of 1886 which is referred to in the petition. With regard to Dr Cameron, the Assembly declines to review the judgment of 1886, but they willingly express their respect for the memory of Dr Cameron, and disclaim any desire to reflect on the motives under which he acted."

Mr (now Dr) William Balfour, Holyrood, Edinburgh, seconded the motion, and animadverted on the harshness of the judgment of 1886, in the case of one who was doing his utmost to further the interests of his people ; but he gladly acquiesced in the tribute now paid to Dr Cameron's memory, for whom he had the greatest possible respect and regard. The motion was unanimously agreed to.

The home life of Mr Cameron was a complete contrast to the estimate formed by some of him from casual acquaintance or from rumours about his ecclesiastical contendings. Rev. Dr Goold, Edinburgh, in a time of deep bereavement, begins a letter to him thus :—

"We don't often meet, and we sometimes do not see eye to eye, but I hope there is no lack of personal friendliness between us. In this belief I venture to trouble you with an enquiry."

It was, like that of many others, in reference to summer quarters—a matter that he readily and gladly attended to—as he could thereby often oblige both strangers and natives.

The following note to Mrs Kennedy, Dingwall, at the time of her sorest trial—the death of her beloved husband and his dearest friend, Dr Kennedy—shows the same sympathetic and deeply-touched heart-chord :—

"I am sorry not to have been able to call, were it only to shake hands with you, for I did not wish at present to intrude upon you, nor even to refer to your great affliction, which, notwithstanding all the sympathy that friends may show, you must long bear alone. And yet not alone ; for the Master, whom he who has been taken from you so long and so faithfully served, will, I trust, be Himself with you and yours, according to His promise."

As is well and widely known, his hospitality hardly knew any bounds. It was a great pleasure and a literary treat for him to meet many of those who frequently called, and in this way he sometimes formed life-long friendships. He was exceptionally liberal and mindful in giving money to any who were in need; and occasionally, as often happens, some of those not the neediest or most deserving succeeded in sharing in what could not always well be spared. At all events, as he sometimes playfully remarked:—"Money does not remain long with me." In regard to a proposed new hall at Lamrash he writes:—"I regret that in consequence of several calls of a similar kind which I have at present to meet, I cannot contribute a larger sum than one guinea, which I now enclose."

In 1887 he was busy endeavouring to secure a suitable site for a hall at Brodick mainly for prayer-meetings; and also arranging as to a central site for a new Free Church at Corrie; but as in the case of building a new manse for personal comfort, all these long-thought of proposals were destined to be handed down to his successor—one soweth and another reapeth.

In writing to two literary and life-long friends—Rev. Mr and Mrs Auld, Olrig—under date 6th August, 1887, in connection with communion services, Mr Cameron confesses he would not like to leave Caithness without having the pleasure of seeing them, and adds—"I have not had an idle Sabbath for years, and I would enjoy one, if I shall not be in your way." All who have had the privilege of even a brief day in the happy home and society so much appreciated by Dr Kennedy will readily acquiesce in the above estimate and prospect.

During 1888, in spring and in summer, the doctors—local and visitor—repeatedly recommended him to rest, and pressed him to remove to some retired place to recruit. But he put off from day to day in hope that when the strangers should be gone it would be easier for him to take a change. It was noted by many that he seemed to devote the summer wholly to pastoral work—writing out admirable sermons in full, and occasionally reading a large part of them from the pulpit on account of failing health. It was remarked by visitors and natives alike that he never preached more powerfully or profitably than during the last year of his life.

Probably he felt that his opportunities of pleading with men were fast passing away, and, therefore, put all his ardour into his appeals.

On the 18th of April the University of Edinburgh, his alma mater, conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL.D., in recognition of his great services to Celtic scholarship. It is no secret that the University of Glasgow had in view to bestow a similar honour upon him had it not been that it was anticipated by Edinburgh. Along with Mr Cameron was capped an old fellow student, Mr Oliver, of Dennistoun, who received the D.D. degree. Many congratulatory letters reached him on this occasion. One wrote :—"Your old friends rejoice with you in your promotion, and hope that you will long be spared and known as Dr Cameron. What a pity that you had not a lady to share the charms of it with you." It need hardly be added that he was never married. In this he was like Immanuel Kant and many other distinguished men, who seemed to dread the possible rivalry between books and looks. Nevertheless it is scarcely regarded as the ideal life. Another remarks :—"I have very great pleasure in offering you the hearty congratulations of myself and family on your having had conferred on you by the Edinburgh University the distinguished degree of Doctor of Laws. It is extremely gratifying to us all, as it must also be to your other friends, that you should have received such a well-merited honour." Another says :—"Will you allow me to congratulate you most enthusiastically on the honour which the University of Edinburgh has conferred upon you? It must be a cause of eager gratification to every former student of yours that your work for Celtic Philology and your attainments in that department are at length officially recognised. But to one who has so long known and proved you, not only for a master, but for a true friend, it is doubly pleasing to hear of the distinction proposed to be conferred."

One other note will suffice :—

"At Campbeltown, 27th March, 1888, which day the Free Presbytery of Kintyre met and was constituted inter alia, Mr Macqueen called the attention of the Presbytery to the fact that the degree of LL.D. had been conferred on one of their number, Mr Cameron, of Brodick, and he moved that the Presbytery express their congratulations with Mr Cameron on receiving from the most illustrious University in the kingdom its highest degree. Conscious that this brother has well earned this honour by his well-known abilities, and especially by his labours in connection with Celtic literature, they hope that he may be long spared to enjoy the distinction so honourably conferred upon him.

"The motion was seconded by Mr Mackenzie and unanimously agreed to.

"Extracted by

A. MACRAE, P.C."

A melancholy and pathetic interest attaches to this kindly and appreciative record : for this was Dr Cameron's last, and the writer's first appearance at the Presbytery. He was not destined to wear the honour long ; but it was well that his ripe scholarship had received this lasting mark of recognition.

In reply to the congratulations of Dr Aird—so soon to be the venerable and honoured Moderator of the Inverness Assembly, and in answer to his desire for information about Gaelic Bibles and Psalm-books, regarding which he is pleased to say—"No other man but yourself can tell accurately the dates," Dr Cameron writes :—

"I beg to thank Mrs Aird and yourself very sincerely for your kind congratulations. The honour of which the Senatus of the Edinburgh University have judged me worthy, I neither sought nor expected ; and I can say without any false humility that I do not consider myself to be really deserving of it. It is not for me, however, to quarrel with the opinion of the Senatus and of yourself and other friends on this point, but rather by more application to work in the future, if the Lord will be pleased to spare me for a few years longer, to endeavour to make up, to some extent, for my shortcomings in the past.

"I have to apologise for not sooner acknowledging your kind letters. The last—that of the 27th ult.—I received on Saturday last on my return home after some days' absence ; and during the past days of this week I was very busy with work which I was anxious to get out of my hands before sitting down to acknowledge the congratulations of yourself and other friends. Your letter of the 23rd I received before leaving home to attend our Presbytery meeting in Campbeltown, and I expected that while there I might be able to get definite information in regard to the date of the publication of the first complete edition of the Synod of Argyle's metrical translation of the Psalms. Dr Russell, one of the Established Church ministers of Campbeltown, is the Presbytery Clerk of the Synod of Argyle, and has in his custody the Synod Records. I had hoped that I might have been able to call on Dr Russell and see the Records, which contain much valuable information in regard to the efforts of the Synod to get the Scriptures and Psalms circulated among the Gaelic-speaking people. I was not, however, able to call in consequence of our sitting having been a very lengthy one, and of my having to make some preparation for a discussion on the overture on ministerial inefficiency, which I regard as wrong in form, wrong in principle, and not fitted to serve the end which it is intended to promote. Our Presbytery, however, passed it by eight votes against four. My opposition was in vain, and I might have been more profitably employed searching the Records of the Synod of Argyle ; but of course it was my duty to be in the Presbytery.

"It was astonishing that so few ministers in the Northern Presbyteries refused to conform to Episcopacy in 1662. I believe — of the Established Church ministers of the present day would become Episcopal if they could ; but the Presbyterian Constitution of the Church of Scotland, as contained in the Statutes of the Scottish Parliament, prevents them.

"I do not know much about the religious history of Argyleshire after the Revolution ; but it is a very interesting subject, and well worth study. There was a Mr Donald Campbell in Kilmichael-Glassary, who was an evangelical preacher. The people were very ignorant and irreligious when he went among them. He published some sermons on the 'Sufferings of Christ,' which were translated into Gaelic and published before the end of last century. A second edition was published in 1800. I have the English edition and the two Gaelic editions. I have also another volume published by this Mr Campbell.

"I shall write soon again if I can get more information for you. You ought not, however, to let your own stores of valuable information in regard to the traditional religious history of the North Highlands die with yourself.—With kindest regards, I am, yours sincerely,

"ALEXANDER CAMERON.

"Brodict, 9th April."

In a letter dated Brodict, 17th March, 1888, addressed to Dr Aird, and referred to in the last, Dr Cameron gives a great deal of valuable information about Gaelic books, that ought to be remembered. He says :—

"I am sorry that I have been so long without replying to your esteemed letter of 12th inst. I was at Lenimore on Sabbath introducing Mr Kennedy to his people there ; and having had to go to Edinburgh on Monday, I did not get home until yesterday afternoon.

"The 'Caogad,' or first fifty Psalms, put into metre by the Synod of Argyle, was published in 1659. The Synod did not complete its metrical version until 1694, but I do not know whether or not the completed version was published in that year. Reid, in his 'Bibliotheca Scoto-Celtica,' says that the first completed edition was published in that year, but that he had never been able to meet with it. The first completed edition of the Synod of Argyle's version that I have seen was published in 1702. This is also the oldest edition Reid had seen. It has the 3rd edition of the Shorter Catechism (same date) bound up with it, the 2nd edition (1659) having been published with the 'Caogad.' One would think that if the Synod of Argyle's completed version was published in 1694, the 3rd edition of the Shorter Catechism would be published along with it, whereas the 3rd edition was not published until 1702, according to the title-page of the edition published in that year.

"The next oldest edition of the Synod of Argyle's version that I have got was published in 1738, with which the 6th edition of the Catechism is bound up. Between the edition of 1702 and that of 1738, two editions were published, one in 1715 and the other in 1729.

"A metrical version of the whole Psalms, by Mr Robert Kirke, minister at Balquhiddier, was published in 1684, but there never was a second edition. It does not appear to have been much used. I have the 'Caogad' and also Kirke's Psalter, but they are very scarce.

"The date of the first edition of the Shorter Catechism is not known. The second edition, as I have stated, was published in 1659.

"The first edition of the New Testament into Scottish Gaelic was not published until 1767. It was prepared by Dr James Stewart, minister of Killin. The first edition of the Old Testament was published in four parts, and at different times. The 1st part, containing the Pentateuch, was published in 1783; the 4th part, containing the Prophets, in 1786; the 2nd part, containing Joshua to the end of 1st Chronicles, in 1787; and the 3rd part, containing 2nd Chronicles to the end of Song of Solomon, in 1801. The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd parts were prepared by Dr John Stewart, minister of Luss, and son of Dr James Stewart, and the 4th part by Dr John Smith, of Campbeltown.

"The Old Testament, translated into Irish by Bishop Bedel, was published in London in 1685. Some 200 copies were sent to Scotland for use in the Highlands. The Irish New Testament was published in 1603, and a second edition, prepared by Bishop O'Donnell, was published in 1681. A copy of this edition is bound up with my copy of Bedel's Old Testament. The volume belonged to the late Marquis of Breadalbane, at the sale of whose library I purchased it.

"In 1690 Bedel's Old Testament and O'Donnell's New Testament were published in London in one volume, in the Roman character, for the use of the Highlanders of Scotland. There were also copies of the Testament bound separately. Mr Robert Kirke, of Balquhiddy, was the means of procuring this boon to the Scottish Highlanders; and hence this edition is usually called after him, 'Kirke's Bible.' Another edition of the Irish New Testament, in the Roman character, for the use of the Scottish Highlanders, was published in 1754. The publisher was John Orr, a bookseller in Glasgow.

"The publication of Kirke's Bible in 1690, and the reprint of the New Testament in 1754, both in Irish Gaelic although not, like Bedel's Bible, in the Irish character, were the only steps taken to make the Scriptures available for our Highland countrymen previous to the publication of the New Testament in Scottish Gaelic in 1767—a little over a century ago.

"I hope that these hurried notes will be found to supply the information you wish to get. I need not say that I shall be delighted to give any further information that I may possess and that may in the least interest you."

These letters read like Mr E. Gosse's "Gossip in a Library"—only Dr Cameron's is a Gaelic library, but not the less interesting on that account.

He struggled on through the summer and autumn months, working excessively hard, paying pastoral visits to his people, and regularly calling for the strangers. He did not seem to have secured as many ministers on holiday to take a sermon for him as he was wont to do, for he was almost proverbially successful in persuading reluctant preachers to go to the pulpit for an hour. At last, in the early days of October, when he could no longer fight against growing weakness and the rapid advance of several diseases that affected heart, liver, and latterly, lungs, he agreed to go to Strathpeffer; but he was under promise, at the same time, to assist the late Mr Baillie, Gairloch, at his communion, and hoped against hope that he would be able to fulfil his engagement. He only, however, succeeded in arriving at the hospitable home of his old and most kind friend, Mrs Fullarton, Woodside Place, Glasgow—now in her hundred and first year—when violent bleeding at the nose set in, and he was quite prostrated. Only at this juncture did he allow his Gairloch appointment to be telegraphically cancelled; and he managed, with great difficulty, to go through to Edinburgh, where he was at once laid up in Holyrood Manse, under the hospitable roof and genial care of his unfailing and ungrudgingly kind friend, Rev. Dr William Balfour. Here he lingered for several weeks, battling against overwhelming odds, but brave and patient throughout all his trying illness. He had the very best medical advice from Dr George Balfour and Dr T. A. G. Balfour, George Square, who were unremitting in their attendance and kindness. He received visits from many sympathetic and sorrow-stricken friends, who had a few months before hoped and prayed that he might be spared for many years to continue and crown his life-work ; but it was otherwise ordained, and he un murmuringly acquiesced in the will of God. He was nursed assiduously and admirably, under the superintendence of Miss Balfour, by one of her servants, and by his own housekeeper, Miss Jane Currie, who was called to Edinburgh when it became evident that he could never see his much-loved home and people at Brodick. He had also the careful attention and unwearied assistance of Rev. J. K. Cameron—who succeeded him in the pastorate at Brodick—during the last three weeks of his heavy trouble ; and, being an eye-witness of the closing days of Dr Cameron's life, he kindly supplied the following touching account :—

“The worth of a man, and the nature of the Christian profession, are always more or less tested on a sick bed, especially when the hope of recovery gradually lessens at the apparent approach of death. The triumphs of faith in such circumstances as these are often very remarkable. To those who were favoured with a measure of the confidence of, and whose painful lot it was to see the late Dr Cameron during the three weeks of suffering, in Edinburgh, which terminated in his lamented death, it was very apparent that his was no mere profession which could not stand in the hour of trial. To a remarkable degree it was seen that it was the man who lived that was there contending with death and the realities of eternity. His patient suffering, and whatever few remarks his painful suffering permitted him to utter, bore ample testimony to the fact.

“For several days he clung to a very strong hope of recovery, but it weakened with a gradual sinking of body under his disease. Notwithstanding all the aid that medical friends did render him, his condition from the first appeared to his friends to be very critical, yet he himself for some time failed to realise that it was so much so. This helped to strengthen his hope of eventually overcoming the disease, at least in a measure. Proof of how little he realised his true condition was afforded by the fact that he proposed to leave Edinburgh on the following morning after his arrival there for to proceed to Gairloch, in the west of Ross-shire ; which is reached by train to Auchmasheen on the Dingwall and Skye Railway, and thence by coach for a distance of thirty miles. He was to have assisted at the Gairloch Communion services. He intended thereafter to return to the favourite Spa of Strathpeffer, and there rest for some weeks. He had a strong personal desire to be at Gairloch because of how refreshing the Communion gatherings there, on previous occasions, proved to his own soul. His services, too, were always in request in the north of Scotland, where he was very much appreciated by the Lord's people as a preacher of the Gospel. It was, however, his promise, given some time previously, to be there which most determined his purpose.

“ His ministry at Brodick was not without peculiar trials and difficulties, but the people of his congregation had always a warm place in his heart. They were much on his mind during his last illness : and he desired much, if it were the Lord's will, to be restored to such a measure of health as that he would be able to go back to work again among them. He left Brodick immediately after the close of a busy summer season : and on account of the many visitors who frequent the place, representing, as they do, so many different classes of society and so many parts of the country, the importance of the place deeply impressed itself upon him, because of the opportunity that is there afforded to a preacher to preach the Gospel to so many of his fellow men. Indeed, the whole interests of the congregation continued to the end to hold a place in his thoughts second only to his own spiritual welfare. Even the night before he died, when he began to calmly put his house in order, his Communion at Brodick was the first thing he arranged for. However strongly, however, he expressed a desire to remain to work among his people, he always beautifully joined with such a desire a strongly expressed prayer for the grace of resignation to whatever the will of the Lord might be towards him.

“ His estimate of his own work in the ministry was very low. During his last illness he dwelt much upon himself as an unprofitable servant. Indeed, to himself that work almost seemed a failure, though there is much testimony to its having been otherwise. However low his estimate was, yet his heart was in the work, and he greatly appreciated all scriptural efforts made by others in it. To many it seemed strange that he should have given so much of his time and talent to the prosecution of his Celtic studies rather than to the real work of the ministry. From his own lips there was the testimony that this was not due to any want of love for the one, or entirely due to his love for the other. However strong his love of Celtic scholarship may have been, it was the desire of doing some service for the benefit of others that caused him to prosecute his studies with such devotion.

"A zeal for the honour of Christ characterised all his work in the Church. And, when he was called upon either in or out of Church Courts to stand in defence of Christ's honour, he did so fearlessly. The spirit which ruled in him in such matters became apparent during his illness in a conversation which he had with two of his city brethren. Their conversation at one point turned upon the supply for his pulpit at Brodick. He mentioned one man by name whose preaching met with a measure of acceptance by his people. One of his brethren jocularly asked him whether he were jealous of such a man. He replied in all earnestness that he considered himself honest in saying that he was jealous of no man who might become popular through his truly preaching the Gospel, but that he was jealous of men who became popular whom he knew did not truly preach the Gospel.

"Throughout his illness he appeared to maintain his professed reliance on the merit of the atoning death of Christ; yet his few last weeks of sickness had not for him a cloudless sky. He had his mental strife, and no presumptuous delusion could bring peace to his troubled spirit. Only true peace could satisfy a soul exercised as his then was. An intimate friend called one day to see him, but on account of the weak state in which he found Dr Cameron at the time, he said very little to him. When, however, he rose to leave him, he said:—"There remaineth a rest for the people of God." "Yes," replied Dr Cameron, "that is true, but it is one thing to speak of it, and one thing even to preach of it, but I can assure you from experience that it is a different thing to make personal application of it."

"On another occasion he was greatly awed with the thought of eternity, which he saw about to break upon him; and the solemnity with which he three times in succession uttered the word eternity, is not to be soon forgotten by those who heard him.

"It was well that it was not all darkness. He retained in his illness much of his wonted reticence, yet it was apparent that there was light at times penetrating the darkness, and that he had moments of true joy in the midst of his sufferings. Some such moments as these were enjoyed by him from the visits of the late godly Dr Smeaton, whose prayers were very refreshing to him.

"Towards the close he as much desired to be away as he at first desired to remain. The time seemed long till he should pass in to be with his Saviour.

"The last attempt he made to speak was a few hours before his death, but what he said could not be heard. Thereafter he became unconscious; and after a few hours in this state, he peacefully fell asleep."

The congregation for whose welfare he felt so anxious on his death-bed were not unmindful of him, and showed their continued attachment by subscribing a sum of £40, with which they intended to present him on his home-coming if he should recover. But when it became evident that the end was approaching, Mr John Hastings, Lamlash, one of the elders, and a most faithful and attached friend to Dr Cameron, was requested to convey the people's kindest wishes, and take £20 to him in Edinburgh—a parting gift which the dying pastor pathetically and thankfully received. This was not unlike the spontaneous action of the Metropolitan Tabernacle flock who, the other day, subscribed £700 for the comfort of one of the world's greatest preachers. The result proved similar in both cases. Neither preacher returned to enjoy the gift, but passed to the enjoyment of an eternal reward.

On Wednesday morning, the 24th of October, Dr Cameron rallied considerably and seemed much better, and was pleased that another day had dawned after a restless night. He then spoke of a fairer world and a brighter light that knew no night where the inhabitant shall never say, I am sick. He rested composedly and conversed occasionally until mid-day, after which he spoke little, and towards evening he fell into a deep slumber which ended, as already stated, peacefully in the sleep of the just about nine o'clock.

Many letters of sympathy and condolence were received from men representing many different views of thought and life, but all alike anxious to bear witness to the ability, kindliness, spirituality, and influence of one whose work was widely appreciated, and whose memory will long be held dear. The suddenness of his death—as far as the outer world was concerned—elicited an immediate testimony to the sense of profound loss sustained.

He retained unaltered his great affection for his old home in the North, where he is survived by his younger brother ; but his last wish was to be buried at Kilbride, Lamlash, near the scene of his latest labours—a touching and final proof that he loved Arran well. The remains were removed to Brodick ; and many came to take a farewell look of the pale but placid face. On Monday, 29th October, the funeral took place, attended by a great assemblage of sorrowing friends from distant quarters as well as from all parts of the Island.

A handsome granite monument marks his grave, and bears the following inscription :—

(I)

Erected by the Free Church Congregation of Kilbride, Relatives, and Friends,

To the memory of the Rev. ALEXANDER CAMERON, LL.D.,

Born July 14th, 1827 ; Died October 24th, 1888.

Translation.

Thy voice is sweet as yonder harp

In Tara's hall of generous bowls.

Thy word is pleasant as the dew

Which gently falls on mountain-plains,

When breaks the sun athwart the gloom.

Affable and given to hospitality.

A ray of light to the time that is gone.

It is appropriate and interesting to add that Dr Cameron's splendid and valuable library, containing nearly 5000 volumes, chiefly Celtic, was bought by Sir William Mackinnon, Bart., Balinakill, for £600, and presented as the "Cameron Collection" to the University of Edinburgh, where it is conveniently located in a separate room. This mode of disposing of it was what Dr Cameron desired, though he hardly knew how it could be accomplished; for he hoped that the books, which cost him so much time and money to collect, would not, if possible, be scattered. It is highly satisfactory to find that his wish has been so perfectly realised. It is also due to the Duke of Hamilton to state that his Grace spontaneously offered the same sum for the same books, and readily acquiesced in the above purchase.

On Tuesday, 8th January, 1889, the Free Presbytery of Kintyre met and "put on record an expression of their sense of the loss they have sustained by the death of their brother, Dr Cameron. While he differed from the majority of his brethren in many of his ecclesiastical views and positions, they cannot but express their appreciation of his earnest piety and his ripe scholarship, especially in the department of Celtic philosophy. Having clear convictions, he held them firmly and advocated them with courage, at the same time maintaining, as all who knew him intimately are ready to testify, a deserved reputation for genial friendliness and hospitality. The Presbytery, with much sorrow call to remembrance, while now taking notice of their brother's decease, that so short a time has elapsed since they had occasion to congratulate him on receiving the well-earned honour of Doctor of Laws, and they regret that he has been taken away in the middle of his work, and while he had in hand important literary efforts, the completion of which would have been a great boon to Celtic students."

Emerson says—"This is what we call character—a reserved force which acts directly by presence and without means." "Half his strength he put not forth." "Somewhat is possible of resistance, and of persistence, and of creation, to this power, which will foil all emulation." "Greatness appeals to the future." That being so, this chapter may fitly close with the following estimate of Dr Cameron's character by one who knew him long and well—the Rev. Hugh Macmillan, D.D., LL.D. :—

"Dr Cameron and I were fellow-students in the Divinity Hall of the Free Church College of Edinburgh for four sessions from 1852 to 1856. We sat on contiguous benches, and had frequent opportunities before and after the meetings of the classes of exchanging words with each other. What struck me specially in these days was his great earnestness and quiet thoughtfulness. He did not take a prominent part in the work of the classes, nor obtrude himself much upon the notice of his fellow-students. He was shy and self-contained, and seemed to shrink into himself at the approach of any one with whom he was not familiar. But he made a most creditable appearance in all the oral and written examinations, and earned the high respect and esteem of his professors and his compeers. While those who had the privilege of his friendship saw beneath his constitutional shyness and reserve a force of character, a warm and generous nature, a mind of fresh and vivid power, and a capability of devotion to any cause he espoused, that were all the more concentrated and persistent that he was reluctant to give outward expression to them, I was not one of those who were admitted into the inner circle of his friends. He was for one thing older than I was ; and perhaps I was more attracted in my youth by a frank enthusiastic nature than by one whose excellencies were not on the surface but required to be brought out, like precious metal dug up from the depths. But my heart warmed to him on account of the many good qualities which I could not help knowing he possessed and showed, and very specially on account of the dear old mother tongue which we spoke together as often as opportunity offered. Even at that time he impressed me greatly with his extensive knowledge of Celtic literature and philology. He gave me glimpses into the wonderful beauty and expressiveness of the language which filled me at once with admiration and surprise. After our college curriculum was finished, we parted ; and we met but seldom, owing to the wide distances between our respective spheres of labour. But I was always glad to see him ; for his conversations on his own favourite topic of Celtic lore, and also on other subjects of more general interest, were invariably most interesting and instructive, and left me richer in the possession of a new thought or a new way of regarding an old thought. I knew no one who had such power as he possessed of clearing up some doubtful or obscure question of philology, by the side-lights which he threw upon it, from his studies of comparative language. He had a wonderful power of linguistic analysis ; an extraordinary patience and skill in hunting out words and idioms or facts to their remotest origins. He was admirably qualified to make the study of the Celtic group of kindred languages a thoroughly scientific pursuit. The literary remains which he has left behind give abundant evidence of his vast and varied and exact scholarship. And we feel that in him we have lost one who would, had he been spared to labour longer, have shed a new halo of interest and significance round the language and literature of his native Highlands. He did much valuable work in his life-time, cut off prematurely, we cannot but think, at a time when his mind was ripest and most capable of arranging and utilising its great stores of erudition. But we feel sadly that he might perhaps have done more even within the limits of his life-time, had he not unfortunately, as we all have more or less, the defects of his qualities, and the constitutional dreaminess and want of practicality which seems to belong to the Celtic temperament, and is ever, indeed, one of the concomitants and proofs of genius. He could not have found it easy, with his methodical habits, and the very varied and arduous duties that he had to perform as a minister and a pastor in important churches, to find time and energy to carry on his own favourite leisure pursuits. It was astonishing, indeed, that he was able to finish an amount of work which must have required the greatest labour and concentration of mind. We are grateful for the valuable monument of learning he has erected ; but we cannot but regard it as we do the Torso of the Vatican, as a noble relic of what he might and could have finished."

CHAPTER VI.

CELTIC STUDIES.

IN this chapter only a general account can be given of Mr Cameron's Celtic scholarship and early enthusiasm for his native tongue, as a more specific presentment of his standpoint and influence in Philology will be given in the second volume. It is interesting to find Dr Mackintosh Mackay, of Dunoon, one of the most accurate Celtic scholars of his time, making the following honourable and encouraging mention of Mr Cameron as far back as 16th December, 1848 :—

“I am very glad to inform you that on examination of the papers given in at the Gaelic competition, I find you entitled to the first of the three prizes of five pounds each. In examining your Gaelic paper, there are several improvements which I could point out to you, though I cannot count them as errors. By attention and perseverance you may make yourself very soon perfectly master of Gaelic orthography.”

It is clear from his subsequent career that he acted according to this suggestion, for no sooner was he settled at Renton than he set about acquiring an accurate knowledge of the literature and philology of Gaelic. But this acquisition was devoted to more than merely personal purposes, for thereby he was preparing himself to become a fit instructor of Gaelic-speaking students.

We find from the following reference to this subject in the Gael of June, 1872, that Mr Cameron commenced a Gaelic class in the Free Church College, Glasgow, at least as early as session 1866-7, and that his teaching was very highly appreciated and acknowledged. At a meeting of the Glasgow Free Church Students' Celtic Society, held on 25th March, 1872, gratitude for his untiring and valuable services, which were gratuitously given during the last five sessions. Mr Cameron expressed his gratitude to the students for their valuable gift, and referred to the importance of an accurate acquaintance with the grammatical structure of the Gaelic language to such as are to be employed in communicating instruction to others through the medium of that language, illustrating his remarks by some amusing examples of mistakes sometimes committed in speaking and writing Gaelic, and urged upon those present the duty of devoting some portion of their time to the study of their native language, which furnishes the key to those treasures of ancient Celtic lore which are now being studied with so much earnestness by Celtic scholars both in this country and on the Continent. Studies which engaged the attention of such men as the Chev. Di Nigra, the Ambassador of the King of Italy, recently at the Court of the Tuilleries, and now to the French Republic, they should not regard as beneath their interest. The books selected for the presentation were ‘Leabhar na h-Uidhri,’ an ancient Gaelic manuscript published by the Royal Irish Academy, and ‘Sanas Chormaic,’ an ancient Irish Glossary, recently edited for the Irish Archæological Society by Dr Whitley Stokes.”

In the subsequent October number of the same excellent magazine, there is a lecture on Gaelic Philology by Mr Cameron, who concludes it by indicating what required to be done in regard to modern Gaelic :—

“The Gaelic Scriptures must be purged of the errors and anomalies which escaped the notice of the translators, and also of the revisers of the quarto edition of 1826, so that they may become what they were intended to be—the standard of Gaelic grammar and orthography ; the work of which Dr Alexander Stewart laid the foundation in his ‘Grammar of the Gaelic Language’ must be completed ; a standard edition of the Gaelic poets must be prepared ; the Bardic and other traditional literature which still exists in the Highlands, but which has not been committed to writing, must be collected and preserved before the present generation shall have passed away ; much must yet be done, in addition to what has already been done, to read and interpret the old Gaelic which has come down to us, often much obscured, in the Gaelic names of places ; and, especially, a Gaelic Comparative Lexicon must be prepared, which will exhibit the words of which the language is composed, not only in the different forms in which they appear in the different dialects of the Celtic, but also in relation to their cognate words in the other branches of the Aryan family. This last work would certainly be a heavy undertaking, and one which could not have been accomplished when, more than forty years ago, the dictionaries of Armstrong and of the Highland Society were prepared ; but the progress which has been made in the study of Celtic philology within the last few years has prepared the way for beginning, and for carrying on to a successful issue, a work of this kind ; and if the Highlanders of Scotland should resolve, ‘shoulder to shoulder,’ to help it forward, he promised that it would be undertaken.”

In the November number of The Gael there was an immediate response to this appeal on the part of Mr John Mackay, who wrote :—

“I hail with delight the idea of having a compilation as you shadow forth—a Gaelic Comparative Lexicon. As a Highlander willing to bear a hand, I accept the challenge by offering at once to subscribe a five pound note to begin with, more if found necessary, and take several copies of the work when published.”

Unfortunately, this projected and important work, though begun by Mr Cameron, was not completed, and has not yet seen the light. A Comparative Gaelic Grammar remains to be written. A second revision of the Gaelic Bible is in the hands of the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge, and there is at present a proposal to reprint the quarto edition of 1826.

Although it does not appear that Mr Cameron composed any original poetry, he was very happy and accurate as a translator of popular hymns into Gaelic—M‘Cheyne’s, Cowper’s, Keats’, Watts’ &c. In 1864 Principal Shairp wrote a short poem, “A Cry from Craigellachie,” on paying a visit for the first time on the railway to Inverness. Mr Cameron translated this piece so successfully into Gaelic that many mistook the translation for the original. It was published in leaflet form, and proved very popular. Many of the hymn-translations appeared in The Gael, signed A. C., such as Longfellow’s “Psalm of Life,” “Precious Promises,” “Jehovah Tsidkenu,” &c. He also contributed several excellent and exquisite translations of hymns to Bratach na Fìrinn—“The Banner of Truth”—in 1872, one being, “Just as I am,” and another, “The New Jerusalem,” the latter having been, it is believed, translated at a time of deep and enduring bereavement in the translator’s life. And there seem to be traces of this pathetic feeling pervading, and echoes of such a mood of mind prolonged in the rendering of this harmonious and beautiful poem. A few stanzas may be given as a specimen of the painstaking and pleasant workmanship :—

“ AN IERUSALEM NUADH.

“ O mhàthair chaomh, Ierusalem !
 A d' ionnsuidh cuin 'thig mi ?
 O cuin a chrìochnaichear mo bhròn ?
 Is t' aoibhneas cuin a chi ?
 O thìr 'tha taitneach sòlasach !
 O chala ait nan saoi !
 Cha 'n fhaighear bròn am feasd a' d' chòir,
 No cùram, saoth'r, no caoidh.

“ Cha 'n fhaighear tinneas annad féin
 No creuchd air bith no leòn ;
 'S cha 'n fhaighear bàs no sealladh grànd' ;
 Ach beatha ghnàth a' d' chòir.
 Neul dorch cha chuir ort sgàil' a chaoidh,
 Is oidhch' cha bhi ni 's mò ;
 Ach dealraichidh gach neach mar ghréin,
 An solus Dhé na glòir'.

“ Cha 'n 'eil innt' sannt no ana-miann,
 No farmad fos, no stri ;
 Cha 'n 'eil innt' ocras, tart, no teas,
 Ach taitneasan gun dith.
 Ierusalem ! Ierusalem !
 Mo mhiann bhi annad shuas !
 O b' fhearr gu 'n crìochnaicheadh mo bhròn,
 'S gu'm faicinn t' aoibhneas buan !”

He also translated several political election addresses—a species of composition very difficult to render accurately into idiomatic Gaelic.

As early as 1862 Mr Cameron's eminence as a Gaelic scholar was recognised, and he was appointed a member of the Joint-Committee of the Established and Free Churches on the Gaelic Scriptures. His extreme accuracy to the minutest points was admitted by all, but criticised by some on account of the time involved. Rev. Dr Kennedy, Dingwall, wrote thus in 1882 :—
 “ I once had an opportunity of comparing the best Gaelic scholars in the Established and Free Churches of Scotland, when acting as a member of a joint-committee for the revision of the Gaelic translation of the Bible. I had, at that time, no hesitation in deciding that, as to exact acquaintance with the structure and roots of the Gaelic language, the copious use of Gaelic terms and phrases, the knowledge of cognate dialects, and the power to explain and establish his opinion regarding any disputed point, there was no member of committee to be compared to the Rev. A. Cameron. He is undoubtedly the best Celtic scholar in Scotland.' This opinion appears to have been shared by many in the committee; for we find the following corroborative minute:—

“At Glasgow, the thirty-first day of March, 1864, which day the Sub-Committee of the Established and Free Churches on the Gaelic Scriptures conjointly met. Sederunt—The Rev. Drs Smith, Inverary; and Macdonald, Comrie; and the Rev. Messrs M'Lachlan, Edinburgh; and Cameron, Renton. Dr Smith presided, and opened the meeting with prayer. Mr Cameron was appointed Clerk.”

The following estimate of his ability and not ungenial criticism is from the pen of a fellow-member — Rev. Dr Masson, Edinburgh:—

“With the late Dr Cameron I first became acquainted at the meetings of the Joint-Committee of the Established and Free Churches on the Gaelic Scriptures; and my first opinion of him there was that in all things he was too critical. I had heard of him before; and I knew that in certain influential quarters, and to some highly esteemed Gaelic authorities of that day, he was anything but persona grata. It is not unlikely that what, before meeting him, I was in the way of hearing in these quarters had to some extent prejudiced me against Dr Cameron. But when I came to know him in the Committee I found good reason, growing with the progress of our meetings, to entirely abandon the prepossession. He was critical, indeed, but could always give good grounds for every point of criticism on which he insisted. He was particular about inverted commas, hyphens, accents, and spacing, but you soon came to feel sure that when Dr Cameron wished the insertion of an inverted comma some letter or syllable had been left out which the inverted comma should represent. Some of us were at first inclined to poke fun at him as a worshipper of the inverted comma. We soon, however, came to view the matter in a different way. In point of fact, Dr Cameron removed from the Gaelic Bible a great many more inverted commas, which were meaningless, than, with good reason, he wished to insert. His point of view was that every inverted comma, accent, and hyphen on the Gaelic printed page should be distinctly significant. My own point of view has always been different. I have always held that every such typographical excrescence, though, doubtless, having some significance to the student of word-growth and grammatical inflection, is a needless disfigurement of our Gaelic books, and that, moreover, it greatly increases the difficulty of reading Gaelic, while also it burdens the memory and attention of the writer with a multitude of minute technical details which are practically as useless as they are distracting and irritating. In the Joint-Committee my views had little support from either party in the controversies which raged so hotly. But Dr Cameron met me with the knowledge of a scientific linguist, instead of the traditionary superstition of the empiric, which formed the stock-in-trade of his most distinguished opponents.

"Dr Cameron was not one of the first Free Church contingent to the Joint-Committee. It was understood at the time that he had purposely been kept out of it. And no sooner had he appeared in our midst than it was evident that he was distrusted and greatly disliked by his own brethren. But he was not the man to be unfairly put down or sat upon. Nor was our chairman, the late revered and distinguished Dr Colin Smith, of Inverary, the man to allow it. He and many more of us, alas! how many, have gone the way of all flesh—Dr Macdonald, of Comrie, Dr MacLachlan, Dr Mackay, Dr John Kennedy, and many more. It is an old saying, and wisely charitable, nil de mortuis nisi bonum. But it is only the barest justice to Dr Cameron now to testify that though from one influential member of the Committee he met with much provocation and with ungenerous and even violent opposition, he never allowed himself to lose his temper. Firmly and with a calm self-possession, which to his opponent was more aggravating than a sharp retort, Dr Cameron held his own and kept the even tenor of his way. Well, well, they have now, both of them, entered that presence where, "beyond these voices there is peace." I confess I should have liked to witness their first meeting there.

"In private I seldom met Dr Cameron, nor did I even hear him preach but once. That once, however, was a treat to be long remembered. It was a Gaelic sermon, preached not long before his death in the church of his friend, under whose hospitable roof he died, the Rev. Mr Balfour, of Free Holyrood Church. Seldom, indeed, have I listened to an abler sermon. It could never have been preached by a man who was only a student of words and of mere grammatical technicalities. It was full of human interest and richly laden with divine truth—well reasoned, too, and well proportioned, clearly arranged, and touchingly as well as impressively delivered, and that, too, without a shred of "paper." Every one was deeply affected. For myself, there was yet another pleasure, the last I would have anticipated. Dr Cameron was the last man in whom I would have expected to find the gift of song. But that night in Mr Balfour's Church he was his own ptecentor. He had, I think, but three singings. The first two psalms were sung in plain song, quietly, but with much solemnity. But the last psalm was simply inspiring. It carried me back to the Burn of Ferintosh, full forty years ago. With measured cadence and all the touching simplicity of the true northern modulation, he gave out the line. Then followed strophe and antistrophe, burst on burst of inspiring song, such as carried us off our feet and lifted us up to heaven. I will never forget that night. Save the Benediction, the music of that parting song of praise was the last I heard of the voice that now is hushed for all his friends on earth. Is he singing that song now, and are they singing it with him?—they, I mean, who vexed him so sorely in the Church below?”

In 1867 the Joint-Committee drew up and in 1868 submitted a report to the General Assemblies, containing numerous proposed emendations on the 1826 quarto edition of the Gaelic Bible, against the adoption of which Mr Cameron appeared at the bar of the Free Assembly; and his position may be gathered from the closing part of his statement:—

“Now, I beseech the General Assembly not to adopt a report which unfairly throughout, and in some clauses inaccurately, represents the proceedings of the Joint-Committee. If you adopt it, what will be the result? You will be inflicting an injury upon some of the most distinguished ministers of this Church—men who have been devoting their time and strength to the work of this Committee, and whose conduct in the discharge of a public duty that report places, undesignedly no doubt, in a light in which I feel that the conduct of the men who formed the majority of the Joint-Committee in January, ought not to be placed before the Church—as if because they refused to proceed to introduce changes into the Scriptures which the Joint-Committee all but unanimously disapproved of, they had hindered the prosecution of the work entrusted to this Committee. You will be inflicting a wrong upon some of the best Gaelic scholars in this country—men who, not being members of this Church, are precluded from appearing here to defend themselves. You will be inflicting a grievous wrong upon the people of the Highlands by indirectly countenancing unjustifiable interference with that version of the Scriptures which the Church has sanctioned, and which for upwards of forty years they have been accustomed to peruse. Our admirable Gaelic translation of the Scriptures was prepared by such scholars as Dr Stewart of Killin, Dr Stewart of Luss, and Dr Smith of Campbeltown. Dr Stewart of Dingwall afterwards, in conjunction with Dr Stewart of Luss, bestowed much toil upon its revision. Unfortunately they both died before their work was finished, but in the Pentateuch (of 1820) they have left to others a specimen of the manner in which the Scriptures ought to be revised. The last edition which the Church has sanctioned and authorised to be used in her pulpits to the exclusion of other editions—that of 1826—was prepared by the best scholarship of the time. The name of one distinguished minister of this Church who took a leading part in its preparation I must mention—the late Dr Macdonald of Ferrintosh. This edition is certainly not perfect, but it is decidedly better than any subsequent edition; and on that account, as well as because it is the edition whose words and phrases are lodged in the memories of the people, any unnecessary and extensive interference with it ought not only to be scrupulously avoided, but resolutely resisted. That is precisely what some members of your Committee have been endeavouring for the last four or five years to do, and to do not merely in the interest of the Gaelic Scriptures, but also in the interest of sound scholarship. I therefore trust that the General Assembly will not, by adopting this report, virtually pass a censure upon us in return for our efforts to preserve uninjured their own Bible to our people.”

This appeal resulted in the following resolution, which was adopted by the Assembly:—

“The Assembly receive the report, record their thanks to the Committee, and especially to the Convener, for the diligence and attention that have been bestowed upon the subject of the report; but in consideration of all the circumstances now under view, the General Assembly resolve to discharge, and hereby do discharge, this Committee. In coming to this resolution the Assembly declare that no difference of opinion has arisen between this Church and the Established Church upon the questions that have been under consideration of the Joint-Committee; that, on the contrary, there had been the utmost cordiality in the intercourse which has been carried on, and that any difference of view leading to the discharge of the Assembly’s Committee is a difference among Gaelic scholars, which prevails as much among the members of the Free Church Committee, when taken by itself, as it could among the members of the Joint-Committee when met together. The Assembly, therefore, record their satisfaction with the conferences that have been held on this subject with the Committee of the Established Church, and they hereby instruct the clerks to make communications, both to the Assembly of the Established Church and the National Bible Society, to the effect that the discharge of the Assembly's Committee on the Gaelic Scriptures is to be explained in the manner now indicated."

Dr Mackintosh Mackay, Rev. Farquhar Macrae, Mr Cameron, and others, about this date came to the conclusion, that whatever might be the defects of the Standard version of 1826, there was little likelihood of its being ever improved, and they add :—

"But if a revision should be deemed expedient, there are many reasons demanding that it should be gone about with much serious deliberation and caution, in such manner as to secure the confidence of our Gaelic-speaking population at home and throughout the world."

The difference of opinion among Gaelic scholars alluded to above can hardly be touched upon in this rapid review, although a lengthy and learned correspondence ensued, in which Dr Maclauchlan and Rev. Mr (afterwards Dr) Clerk, Kilmallie, on the one hand, and Mr Cameron on the other, were the keen combatants. A few extracts will suffice to show some of the points at issue. Mr Cameron wrote to the Edinburgh Courant of May 23rd, 1870 :—

"The last authorised edition—the 4to of 1826—although containing typographical and other errors which might easily be removed in a new edition, has always been highly prized by the people, who have been from their childhood familiar with its words and phrases, and, therefore, any extensive interference with it, beyond the removal of obvious errors and anomalies, is much to be deprecated. The alterations introduced by Dr Maclauchlan and Mr Clerk into their edition (1860) are very numerous, and although some of them are corrections, very many of them are either unnecessary or positively erroneous. Having subjected this edition to a minute and careful examination, I am prepared to prove to the satisfaction of any competent Gaelic scholar that the errors and anomalies which have been introduced into it, and which are not to be found in any other edition, may be numbered literally by thousands. Passing by such alterations as 'An toiseach chruthaich Dia na neámhan agus an talamh,' 'First God created the heavens and the earth' (Gen. i. 1), and 'An toiseach bha am Focal,' 'First was the Word' (John i. 1), I shall at present give a few specimens of the grammatical errors with which this edition abounds. Some of these errors, it may be noticed, seriously affect the sense of the passages in which they occur." Then follow twenty specimens of errors such as—"An ceud beò-chreutair,” “The hundred living-creatures,” for “An ceud bheò-chreutair,” “The first living-creature,” Rev. iv. 7. “Fench bha leth-aoin ’n a bolg,” “Behold there was the half of one [child] in her [Rebekah’s] womb,” Gen. xxv. 24. “Lougan de Tharsis,” 1 Kings xxii 48, represents Tarshish as the material of which Jehoshaphat made the ships! Title-page, “chum craobh-sgaoilidh a’ Bhìobuill,” for “chum craobh-sgaoileadh a’ Bhìobuill.” “This error occurs in the only sentence wholly composed by the editors.” “Thar nan uile thighibh,” for “thar na h-uile thighibh,” Isa. xxxii. 13. “Na mìle bliadhna,” for “am mìle bliadhna,” Rev. xx. 5, &c. “These specimens taken from a very extensive list of errors discovered in this edition are sufficient to show the evil of interfering rashly with the edition of the Gaelic Scriptures which the Church of Scotland sanctioned, and with which the people of the Highlands have been long familiar. Not a few of Dr Mac-lachlan and Mr Clerk’s corrections on that edition have now been condemned by themselves; while their efforts to correct their own errors, in the last impression of their Bible, have not unfrequently resulted in producing new errors as awkward as those which they have sought to remove.”

Mr Clerk replied on the 26th May in the same newspaper, admitting typographical errors, for which he endeavoured to account by the disadvantages under which the editors laboured in living far from each other, and from the printer who knew not a word of the language he was putting in type; and accusing Mr Cameron of making assertions resting entirely on his own authority. A counter-reply from the latter appeared on August 12th, pointing out that Mr A. Sinclair, Glasgow, who possessed an accurate knowledge of Gaelic, had the corrected proofs submitted to him and revised; but was prevented from interfering with the wish of the editors, after correcting an editorial emendation which represented David, when he feigned madness at Gath, as writing instead of scrabbling on the doors of the gate. And as to assertion, “the specimens of errors which I have produced violate well-known rules of Gaelic grammar, and they exist only in Dr Maclauchlan and Mr Clerk’s edition.” This second letter contains an able and elaborate re-statement and proof of the positions laid down in the first—most of which are now acknowledged as unassailable. A further statement on the same subject, which contained a vindication of the 1826 edition from charges preferred by Mr Clerk is dated from Renton, October 3rd.

Writing to Rev. Dr Clerk in 1881, Mr Cameron pointedly says what may be regarded as amply justifying the somewhat unenviable position as candid critic he occupied :—

“I see from your Reference Bible that you have adopted, but without any acknowledgment, the fruits of my criticism. It is too bad to abuse me for criticising, and then quietly to avail yourselves of the results! Is it not? But while you have appropriated my corrections, you have adhered to nearly all your objectionable orthographical changes. You have even introduced new ones, equally objectionable, which until now had no place in the Scriptures.”

No doubt it would have been a much pleasanter, but far less conscientious course, to curry favour by being less critical and more laudatory, but he never yielded to this temptation. The Monthly Visitor Gaelic tracts he occasionally submitted as exercises to his students, and as examples of how not to translate. In a letter to the Inverness Courier, 17th June, 1869, no fewer than 44 errors occur in a tract of four pages. At the same time I think it may be admitted that, had he devoted as much time to constructive as to critical work, Gaelic philology, and perhaps literature, would have been far more enriched, and Celtic students more highly benefitted than as yet is the case.

The name of Professor Blackie is well and widely known in Celtic circles, and his manifold labours, eventually crowned with complete success, in founding the Celtic chair in Edinburgh University, are universally acknowledged. He is known to have repeatedly stated, as in a letter to a friend in 1876, that Mr Cameron was the best Gaelic scholar he knew. And the Professor was occasionally very candidly criticised by the scholar. The following letter, dated 3rd October, 1882, speaks for itself :—

“In Professor Blackie’s interesting letter, published in the ‘Scotsman’ of Wednesday last, the second part of the compound word Finlarig, in Gaelic Fionnlàrig = Fionn-làirig, is identified with làrach (a ruin), and the first part, Fin, is represented as pointing to the ancient Féinne. Neither of these comparisons is correct. The word làrach, explained in the dictionaries as ‘the site of a building,’ ‘a ruin,’ &c., is a corruption of làthrach (a house-site). Làthrach is a derivative from làthair (presence), and has no connection with làirig, the g of which is always hard. The latter word occurs very frequently in the Gaelic topography of both

Scotland and Ireland, with the meaning of 'side' or 'slope of a hill,' and is identical as shown by its Irish form leary (pronounced larg), with the old Gaelic word lerg (a little eminence, a plain, a field, a battle-field). Leargaidh, which occurs so frequently as Largy in place-names, is a derivative from learg = làirig. For the Irish forms Joyce's Irish Names of Places (1st ser. p. 390) may be consulted.

"If Fin, the first part of Finlarig, were identical with Finn, the name of the famous King of the Féinne, the Gaelic equivalent of Finlarig would not be Fionnlairig but Làirig-Fhinn; but fionn, forming as it does the first term of the compound, must be regarded as the adjective fionn (fair, white), as in Fionnghasg (Fingask), Fionnairidh (Finary), Fionndruim (Findrum), &c. Fionnlairig, therefore, signifies either the 'white hill-side' or the 'white plain' or 'field.' The Gaelic adjective fionn (white), in old Gaelic finl, is identical with the Welsh adjective gwin (fair, white), and seems connected with Sansk. cvind, cvindâti (to be white), Goth. hveits (white), A.S. hvit, Eng. white."

In 1872 Mr Cameron commenced to contribute to The Gael a series of able articles on Gaelic Philology, which were continued for three years, and dealt with some five hundred and fifty root words. They were abreast of the philologic science of the time, and claimed only to be on the right lines. They seem to have been much appreciated, one stating they were the only articles in The Gael he read. The origin of these studies is put on record thus:—

"Soon after my settlement at Renton another clergyman in the village and myself agreed to meet for a certain time every week to read Greek and Latin. This we continued for two or three years. It was those readings that first led to my having taken an interest in Celtic philology, the study of which I have been enabled, by the Grammatica Celtica of Zeuss, and the writings of Stokes, Ebel and others, to prosecute on the right lines. I was first drawn to the study of ancient Gaelic through having met, quite accidentally, with the copy of Dr Stokes' Goidelica which he presented to the Advocates' Library. If I have done anything towards promoting among my countrymen a more accurate knowledge of Gaelic, it has been chiefly by having succeeded, by the help of the ancient language, in clearing up difficulties in the construction of modern Gaelic which had baffled Dr Stewart and other writers on the grammar of Scottish Gaelic."

This idea is put more strongly by Rev. M. Mackay, LL.D. who says of Mr Cameron:—

"I have met with no individual of the present generation more intimately acquainted with the grammatical structure of the Gaelic language, or with its idioms."

Perhaps the most convenient way of introducing the difficult subject of the translation into Gaelic of the Queen's Book is by the subjoined references and extracts. Messrs Edmonston & Douglas, publishers, Princes Street, Edinburgh, wrote on April 2nd, 1872, to Mr Cameron as follows:—

"We have requested our friend, Mr Alex. Nicolson, to edit the late Mr Angus Macpherson's Translation of Her Majesty's Journal in the Highlands, and he is willing to do so provided you will give him your aid in revising the MS. now in the printers' hands. If you will be so kind as to do this, we shall send the MS. to you at once, as there is no time to be lost, and we should be glad to know how many pages a week you can forward the printer, and your probable charge. Did Mr Macpherson talk to you of a preface he had written?"

This request was complied with; but the execution of the work was not proceeded with as rapidly as was anticipated, and hence the following note from Mr Cameron on June 12th, 1872:—

"I was obliged to go north to Caithness on Wednesday of last week, and I was not able to return home until last night. This explains why I have not written sooner in reply to yours of the 6th. I had the printed sheets with me in the north and worked at them as much as I was able. I expect, therefore, that they will be finished by the time I promised. When I saw you in Edinburgh, I undertook to write out on the broad margined sheets the corrections which I had made on the sixteen sheets at the rate of one sheet daily. I told you that I could not undertake more, and that it would not be desirable for the work itself that I should attempt more. That you did not receive the two sheets promised on Monday of last week was no fault of mine, and, therefore, there is no occasion to speak of 'fallacious promises' and of 'promises made only to be broken.'"

The corrections on the margined sheets became almost innumerable—at any rate unmanageable within the period fixed, and the difficulties and delays were correspondingly numerous and exasperating. Expostulation was frequent and urgent, and the readiness of response was not always all that could be desired. Whether it was excessive painstaking or a touch of dilatoriness, or both, on the part of the reviser, the publishers were greatly inconvenienced and not a little displeased, as there had appeared several notices of the coming book, and many subscriptions had already been received. The Inverness Courier said :—

“We understand that the Gaelic edition of the Queen’s Journal in the Highlands, translated by Mr Angus Macpherson, Deputy-Secretary of the Highland Society, will be published immediately by Messrs Edmonston & Douglas, Edinburgh. It has been arranged that there shall be two editions of the work, one giving the Gaelic and English in opposite pages and the other giving the Gaelic only. Her Majesty has very kindly supplied a number of sketches and illustrations, not previously published, which will add greatly to the value of the work ; and besides this new feature, nearly all the illustrations in the two-guinea edition will be reproduced. A special photograph of the Queen spinning her Highland wheel will form the frontispiece . . . Mr Macpherson, the translator of the work, is an excellent Gaelic scholar, and has taken much pains in discharging his honourable and difficult task.”

The controversy already adverted to grew so keen and unfortunate that Mr Cameron declined to continue his revision or permit the publication of the large portion—almost the whole—already printed and revised. This proved a loss to the publishers and a great disappointment to the public. I am unable to give full particulars, and at this distant date, when the matter is beyond recall, it may be as well. Here, however, is a letter from Mr Cameron to Dr F. W. Ramsay, of Inveresk, stating how the matter stood at a later date—August 30th, 1873—but, sad to say, the translation, though executed and excellent, never saw the light :—

“The late Mr Angus Macpherson’s translation of the Queen’s Book was put some time ago into my hands that I might revise it, which I have done, and I am now arranging for its publication. From papers which have been sent to me I find that the Highland Society of London promised to take 500 copies, I presume, of the 4s 6d edition, or to give a subscription of £100. In arranging with a new publisher, which has been found necessary, it would be of great importance to know whether or not that subscription be still available ; for if it be not available, I am afraid that the idea of publishing the translation must, at least for the present, be abandoned, which would be unfortunate after so much has been written and spoken about it. I shall therefore feel greatly obliged if you can give me any information regarding the Society's subscription and the condition or conditions on which it was promised.

"I may inform you that I have carefully examined the translation, comparing it, clause by clause, with the original, and that I have also corrected the orthography, so that the MS. is now ready for the press. It is, perhaps, proper to state that the translator's father has authorised me to write you, and that I wish to get the above information to facilitate the arrangements in regard to the publication, and not for any personal ends, for I do not intend to accept of any remuneration for my work.

"In consequence of the long delay in issuing the volume, it is considered better to publish only one edition—that with Gaelic and English on alternate pages, at 10s 6d; and if the publisher with whom I am arranging shall see his way to take the publication in hand, the volume will be finished in the best style of typography. I take the liberty of sending you a copy of a Gaelic magazine, published in Glasgow (The Gael, March, 1873), which contains an extract from the Inverness Courier in regard to my connection with the translation." In the extract referred to, Nether Lochaber intimates the prospect of early publication, Cluny Macpherson having taken an interest in the matter, and stated that the work was under the superintendence of Rev. Mr Cameron, Renton, who, it is added, "perhaps knows more of the genius and grammar of our mountain tongue than anybody else that we can at present think of."

In 1876 Mr James Macdonald, London, writes to Mr Cameron :—

"I was very interested to read in the newspaper reports an account of a valuable paper which you read at the meeting of the British Association the other day at Glasgow on the etymological affinity of the Gaelic and English languages."

The Gaelic class continued to be taught with much success in the Free Church College until 1876, when, on August 31st, Professor Candlish, as Clerk of the Senatus, wrote to Mr Cameron :—

"As the Senatus are about to make arrangements for awarding the College bursaries for next session, I write to request that you will give me such information as may enable the Senatus to arrange for awarding these bursaries among the rest."

It was not possible, however, to fix even the number of, much less the amount available for, bursaries beforehand, and this proposal, to have control over what cost so much toil and time to collect, could hardly fail to be regarded by him whose unaided efforts secured the money, as undue interference on the part of those who had no knowledge of the subjects taught, and could not, therefore, well have any voice or vote in the award or distribution of the bursaries. The result was an application for the use of one of the University class-rooms, and the request was immediately and frankly granted. The removal to a more central, accessible and unrestricted sphere proved a great boon, and the attendance at the class was more than doubled. The sums of money given by Sir William Mackinnon, Bart. of Balinakill, and the late Mr Kidston of Ferniegair, along with many other friends of Gaelic-speaking students, by way of encouragement and incitement to become proficient in their native-tongue, amounted some sessions to almost £200. The instruction given was highly appreciated, as the numerous testimonials given at a later date by old students amply testify, and as a more tangible proof of affection indicates—the presentation of a copy of “The Sculptured Stones of Scotland,” in April, 1878, by the members of the University Gaelic class to Rev. Alex. Cameron, “as a cordial expression of their appreciation of his devotion to Celtic scholarship in general, and especially as a token of their gratitude for his disinterested and invaluable services as teacher of this class.” Some of the students who had hardly any knowledge of Gaelic to begin with acquired a keen interest, not only in modern, but specially in ancient Gaelic. Mr Cameron took great pains in giving very accurate and minute information on many difficult and intricate points of Gaelic construction, and he also took great delight in leading up through the beauties of Ossian to the higher planes of philological thought, from which one could take a wide survey of the history of language, and learn somewhat of the past life and modes of thinking of otherwise forgotten or even unknown people and nations.

In 1880 the attendance of students exceeded 70, and the class was at its best ; but the teacher had, on account of severe illness, most reluctantly to give up his much-loved work, and not without pathos part with his attached pupils—he fondly hoped only for a brief period. But communication with Brodick in winter was then only three times a week, and this implied absence from home for several days each week, so that on account of additional congregational and literary work and less strength to meet so many pressing calls, he was never again able to resume his teaching.

The following is a brief tribute to the teacher's memory from one of his most distinguished pupils, Rev. Duncan Brown, M.A.:—

“He had the teacher's prime qualification of enthusiastic devotion to his subject. He was therefore able to impart this enthusiasm to the true student of Celtic. He had the no less necessary qualification of thorough acquaintance with his subject. Any student who sat under him, and who had a mind at all, could not fail to see how great was the store of learning from which he drew constantly his illustrations and examples. As a result of the combination of these two qualities in him, he was suggestive and inspiring in the highest degree. Sitting under him for only one hour a week during a short session, I can yet say that he gave me not only a love for but an insight into, the scientific study of Gaelic as well as of language in general. His influence in this respect, upon myself at least, was as great as that of professors under whom I sat not one hour but five hours in the week. The truest evidence of his power was that he could be all this and yet that there was no show or display in his teaching. It was slow, quiet, unassuming, but powerful in the grasp and force with which it laid hold of the mind.”

The project of starting a periodical which would take up Gaelic scientifically, and give the latest philological researches and results, occupied the mind of Mr Cameron for a long time. It took definite shape in 1878, and was submitted to the well-known collector of Gaelic Tales, J. F. Campbell of Islay, who replied thus :—

“I have the pleasure of knowing that you are a great Gaelic scholar, and feel the compliment of being asked to contribute to a Celtic periodical of which you have sent me the proof prospectus. You ask my opinion and suggestions. My experience leads me to advise caution in starting another Celtic periodical. I know the classes who take an intelligent interest in Gaelic lore, and know them to be poor in purse if rich in mental gifts. Between the poor, who really know and admire and take interest in songs and heroic traditions and popular tales and legends, and the rich who subscribe to support a Gaelic chair, there extends the entire class of book buyers and Gaelic vendors who have never yet made any Gaelic serial pay its way or pay contributors. It is a maxim amongst men of the press who understand their business, that no publication can flourish that does not pay. To the best of my knowledge there exists no Celtic publication that pays contributors or can pay its own way. The writing is done by men who seek a vent for the fire that burns within them, not by men who have found a way to make themselves heard. The class of Celtic scholars is very limited—I mean the set of men who go at a subject from the bare love of it, and work gratis with might and main. The ‘Celts-maniacs’ include Germans, Irish, Scotch, Italians and others who are scattered all over the world. They, if they were got to bring their several lights to a focus, would make a blaze; but even then they would but enlighten each other. There is no buying public for a Celtic periodical as yet. I have a great pile of Gaelic stuff, but my hope is to live long enough to make some use of my gatherings on my own plan. I shall be glad to hear that you come good speed. I wish you every sort of luck in your venture.”

Mr Cameron’s reply indicates the character and contents of the proposed publication :—

“I am much obliged for your kind letter and for your offering to become a subscriber to the Celtic Review. From the prospectus I sent you, you would see that the Review is intended, if it go on, to occupy ground which has not hitherto been formally taken up by any periodical in this country. It will not, therefore, interfere with any periodical at present in existence. The articles that appear in the Highlander and in the Inverness Celtic Magazine, if I except some Gaelic ballads with airs, would not be suited for the Review, and most of the articles that I would like to see in the Review would not be suitable for those publications, which are intended more for general readers. Any Celtic publication that may appear in this country must for years to come move in the rear of Kühn’s Beiträge and other similar publications on the Continent; but if the Review be started at all it must go on the same lines so as to reflect to some extent in this country the blaze of Celtic light to which you refer in your letter, and perhaps to increase it by some few sparks of its own kindling. It must therefore more especially at the outset appeal for support to a narrow circle of readers, and to a still narrower circle of contributors. It must also be self-supporting. It is therefore necessary that the subscription price should be higher than the ordinary price of magazines. There can, of course, be no pay for contributors, nor for conducting the periodical: all that must be a labour of love. I may mention that the idea of starting such a publication as the Review is not new. It is now more than seven years since the matter was first talked of, and it has never been entirely lost sight of. If the idea is to be at all realised it seems to me that no more time should be lost. A considerable portion of the necessary expense for the first year is already secured. The prospectus, however, will not be published until a sufficient number, or nearly so, of subscribers has been obtained by means of private effort."

Accordingly the first number of the Scottish Celtic Review appeared in March, 1881, and was well received alike by reviewers and readers. This number contained articles—chiefly by the editor—on the place of Celtic in the Indo-European Family; Grimm's Law; the Laws of Auslaut in Irish—a translation of a valuable paper by Professor Windisch of Leipzig; a specimen of Old Gaelic—St Patrick's Hymn; a West Highland Tale, contributed by Rev. Mr Campbell of Tyree; a Gaelic Song; Notes on Gaelic Grammar; and a Gaelic air—Coire-a'-Cheathaich.

Professor Windisch—than whom there is no higher authority in Celtic philology—gives the following favourable estimate of the work begun :—

"A foreigner like myself naturally finds the Gaelic texts the most interesting, and I observe with peculiar pleasure that you have also begun to present to your readers the invaluable 'Book of the Dean of Lismore.' Perhaps you will permit me some time to send a short article for your journal, explaining my view of the value of that remarkable manuscript. With your fine knowledge of Gaelic you combine a comprehensive grasp of the principles and methods of comparative philology. You have rightly recognised that a scientific acquaintance with the phonetic laws is before all things essential. This is the A B C of philology and of all grammar. You have done me the honour to translate a treatise of mine and insert it in your journal. I mention this only in order to remark that the correctness of your translation is eminently deserving of recognition. I have not observed a single error, although the German scientific style is none of the easiest. Your grammatical analysis of single portions of texts is certainly calculated to afford assistance to those beginning the study of Gaelic etymology, and to stimulate them to deeper research. I am convinced that your Scottish Celtic Review, and your own work in connection with it, will bear good fruit, first of all in your own country, and will also be prized in other countries."

Professor Rhys, of Oxford, writes on the same subject in the Academy :—

“Most of the earlier articles are earnest efforts on the part of the editor to initiate his countrymen into reasonable views on Scotch Gaelic, which they do not, as a rule, like to see connected too closely with Irish, it being, as they have usually thought, a much finer thing to dip at once into Sanskrit or Hebrew, or anything Oriental, than into the source to which history clearly directs them.”

The Northern Chronicle remarked :—

“Judging from the first number—a large, beautifully printed octavo of eighty pages—the magazine will differ from its Scottish predecessors in the Celtic field, in that it will devote considerable space to philology, and what may be called the higher branches of Celtic literature, while, at the same time, it will not neglect the simpler and more popular subjects connected with the Gaelic language.”

It adds that the editor had devoted more time and attention to the objects thus to be promoted than any other Scotchman, and that he is generally considered to be one of our most erudite and accurate Celtic scholars.

The second number appeared in November, and contained a continuation of former articles, together with new material. There is an interesting note on the “Tuairisgeul” Mòr by Mr Alfred Nutt ; there is a flowing translation of the “Aged Bard’s Wish” by Dr Hugh Macmillan ; and there is also the highly popular air and song—“Macrimmon’s Lament.”

The third number appeared in November, 1882, and contained “Eas-Ruaidh,” an Ossianic ballad, from the Dean of Lismore’s book, transcribed and translated by the editor—who was always admirable and accurate in his renderings of ancient or modern poems ; a West Highland tale—“How Finn went to the Kingdom of the Big Men,” with translations by Rev. J. G. Campbell ; the affinity of the Celtic and Teutonic languages ; and studies in Gaelic grammar which account for and illustrate many difficult and obscure idioms.

The fourth and final number which, on account of pastoral and ecclesiastical anxieties and duties, did not appear until October, though dated July, 1885, contained the “Lay of the Muireartach” with revised version and translation, Macphie’s “Black Dog,” “Gaelic Orthography,” “Common Mistakes,” “Laws of Auslaut in Irish” concluded, “Studies in Gaelic

Grammar," "Macgrigor of Roro" with translations by Principal Shairp, and music of "Macgregor's Lament."

Mr Cameron had abundant material at hand to continue the periodical for years, and almost adequate support to carry it on successfully, as will be seen from this reference in 1886 :—

"In regard to the Celtic Review, I may state that the cause of its not appearing more regularly is that most of the articles had to be written by myself, whilst my professional duties, especially during the summer months when Arran is much frequented by strangers, leave me but small fragments of time for other work. I cannot complain of want of encouragement, so far as the number of subscribers is concerned. In a very short time the number reached nearly 500, of whom about 80 subscribed for the large paper edition ; and at that time the circulation could easily be extended. I believe that even now, notwithstanding that the successive numbers have been issued at such long intervals, a considerable number of additional subscribers could be got without much difficulty ; for I have urgent requests from different quarters to continue the Review, which I would willingly do if I could devote to it more of my time."

As proof of this wide-spread desire, may be given a very friendly letter from Mr R. A. Neil, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge, who writes on 12th November, 1886 :—

"You may perhaps recollect that I had the pleasure of meeting you in your manse some years ago. This is partly my excuse in writing now to trouble you about a matter in which I take considerable interest, and on which several people have spoken to me lately. It seems to be a very great pity if a periodical publication devoted to Scotch Gaelic should not be kept up and strongly supported : and the Scottish Celtic Review has always appeared to me to be the only thing of the kind worthy of the subject. May I ask you what are the chances of its being continued ? I ask this, because, though I fear it has not had the support it has so fully deserved, I do not think it would be difficult to get a considerable number of more subscribers. Without any trouble I think I could get 10 or 15 among my personal acquaintances, and this ought to mean that a good many more could be got through them. If it would be of service I should be very glad to do anything in my power towards furthering such an excellent object as the keeping up of the Review."

But his hands were full of other and less profitable work in the form of conflict with Church Courts, so that for the remaining three years he was hardly able to buy or consult the books requisite to keep him abreast of the rapid advances of philology on newer lines. One cannot pass from the promise and possibilities patent in these papers without a sigh over all that might have been, to which the world that credits what is done is cold.

Mr Cameron had the honour of being a member of the Royal Irish Archæological Association ; and a similar mark of esteem was bestowed upon him when, on 1st December, 1882, it was intimated to him from the Royal Institution, Edinburgh, that he had been elected a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland.

On the same date, "within a few days of the expiry of the time appointed for giving in applications," he offered himself "as a candidate for the Celtic chair recently instituted in the University of Edinburgh," and submitted testimonials of the highest order proving his fitness for occupying the arduous and honourable position. Perhaps it may suffice in this connection to quote the opinion formed of the whole by Sir Noel Paton, LL.D. :—

"December 9th.--I have carefully read, and herewith return the printed testimonials of your fitness for the very important task of inaugurating the scientific study of Gaelic in Scotland ; and it is with much satisfaction I find so many competent persons bearing witness, on the one hand, to the extent and accuracy of your attainments as a Celtic scholar, and on the other, to the enthusiasm, patience and success with which, for so many years, you have gratuitously taught the subject in Glasgow. You have done original work, the value of which has been recognised by scholars at home and abroad, and you have proved your capacity for communicating to others the results of your investigations."

Referring to the labour involved in conducting the Scottish Celtic Review, "which would make it necessary to follow the example of the Paris Revue Celtique and other continental publications devoted to special subjects by issuing the successive numbers as they can be made ready," he states the reason for finally, though very reluctantly, making up his mind to exchange pastoral for literary work :—

"But even under this arrangement I find that it is impossible to carry on my literary work efficiently, and, at the same time, to discharge faithfully my professional duties. It is this consideration mainly that has decided me to become a candidate for the Celtic chair, so that my whole time might, for the future, be devoted to the promotion of Celtic study among my countrymen."

In the same strain Mr Macbain wrote—"It would be well for Gaelic literature and philology if Mr Cameron could obtain the comparative leisure of the Celtic Chair to enable him to give to the world the wealth of knowledge he possesses in the language, myth, and literature of the Scottish Celt." Dr R. C. Jebb, M.P., said—"Mr Cameron is a thorough scientific scholar, who adds to his intimate knowledge of Gaelic as a vernacular the possession of the latest results in comparative philology and a mastery of the most approved methods." And to add only one other weighty opinion, Rev. H. Macmillan, D.D., LL.D., stated—"I know no one so well qualified in every respect to occupy the chair with honour, and make it useful and stimulating. His Celtic scholarship is both profound, far-extending, and accurate."

There was thus a general consensus of opinion as to his great, if not unrivalled, claims and fitness for the position, and considerable surprise—not to say disappointment—was elicited when it transpired that he was not the successful candidate. His own view was that, if possible, it would be preferable to secure the services of Professor E. Windisch or of Dr Whitley Stokes, and he repeatedly said that if either of these distinguished linguists could be got to accept the chair, he would be glad to become tutor to their pupils in modern Gaelic, but to those of none else.

On the 23rd February, 1883, he received, written in Gaelic, the diploma of the Edinburgh University Celtic Society, conferring upon him the honour of honorary membership.

In the long-continued controversy as to the authorship of the famous Poems of Ossian, the question that calls for settlement is, whether James Macpherson was, as he professed, the translator, or, as many maintained, substantially the author. Mr Cameron does not appear to have publicly pronounced an opinion, but his attitude on the subject seems to be indicated by a remark made in conversation—"That not a line of the Gaelic originals which we possess exactly corresponds with the old Ossianic ballads."

The last published literary work in which he was engaged, and the only one for which he received any remuneration, was a contribution of two ballads from the Dean of Lismore's Book, which appeared, with modern renderings and translations, in the Scottish Review.

His zeal for Celtic matters continued without flagging unto the end ; for he had with him on his last journey to Edinburgh MSS. that he hoped to be able to transcribe. He felt handicapped and hindered in his work by distance from the requisite material and by lack of leisure, as this reference shows :—

“ I have a considerable quantity of material which might interest a large class of readers and which deserves to be published. I refer to transcripts of Ossianic and other ballads, chiefly from MSS. in the Advocates’ Library. I have been trying during the last few years to do something whenever I could spend a little time in Edinburgh in the way of transcribing portions of these MSS. I have transcribed a considerable part of the Dean’s Book (including all the Ossianic ballads contained in it), about one-half of the Glen-Massan MS., and portions of others. Besides these MSS. there is now deposited in the Library the large collection of Highland Tales and Ballad Poetry which belonged to the late Mr John F. Campbell of Islay, and which is available for use. From these two sources a large amount of material could be got.”

The excessive care bestowed upon, and the great accuracy attained in the transcripts made from the MSS., may be shown by a note from Dr Thomas Dickson of the General Register House—a well-known authority on such matters—to whom Mr Cameron was very highly indebted for his great kindness in reading over and comparing the transcripts with the manuscripts : —

“ 22nd September, 1886.—As this is a bright day I went to the Library and examined again the words of doubtful reading. There is, I think, no room for doubt about ‘demyth.’ The ‘h’ is written on the line and there is nothing after it. Of the other word, the only doubtful letter is that which precedes the ‘g,’ and to-day I seemed to perceive more clearly than before that it consists of two parallel strokes, and is in short either ‘n’ or ‘u.’ I thank you very much for your kind invitation to Arran ; but regret that owing to the absence of other officials on holiday I am closely tied to the oar at present.”

As already stated in the preceding chapter, Mr Cameron’s Alma Mater, the University of Edinburgh, conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. on 18th April, 1888. He had fondly hoped to be permitted to do some literary work worthy of the distinguished honour bestowed upon him. He had already translated Professor Windisch’s Irish Grammar, but was anticipated by others in its publication. He had been for half a life-time collecting and cogitating material for a scientific Gaelic Grammar, but, with the exception of notes for his class, he had not begun to reduce it to writing. He had in hand a Gaelic Etymological Dictionary which was long-looked-for, and which all concerned expected would prove his magnum opus. But divis aliter visum. Six months later he was at rest ; and these purposes and plans were not destined to be carried into full effect. And yet it is satisfactory to find that his wish in regard to making public property of the materials he had with such labour and learning accumulated, will be largely realised, and his work continued, though not completed, in the publication of “Reliquiæ Celticæ.”

EXPLANATIONS OF SIGNS AND ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THE TEXTS.

ALL editorial additions and materials are put within square brackets. The round brackets are reserved for Dr Cameron's work, or for the editor of the Sage and Mackenzie Collections.

Dr Cameron's texts are reproduced literatim as he left them ; and the abbreviations of the original MSS. which he left unextended are here reproduced "diplomatically" by the following signs (the signs of abbreviations in the Dean of Lismore's text being explained on page 1) :—

The apostrophe (') stands for a stroke with a super-imposed dot, which is placed above a letter (÷). This sign generally stands for a vowel and dh or gh. But, like many of the signs in these MSS., it is used for other abbreviations, as thain' for thainic.

The double apostrophe (") is much the same as the small super-linear s or f, which see below.

A single inverted comma (‘) shows that the preceding letter (i.e. consonant) has a stroke drawn above it. This abbreviation stands generally for an omitted liquid consonant with suitable vowels. It may simply mean a reduplication of the letter. But m' may be for mac, son, and 't is a vowel and rt.

A double inverted comma stands for two strokes over a letter in the original MS. It denotes a larger supply of liquids and vowels than the foregoing. It often stands with a single letter for one word, as F'' for Fergus.

The small super-linear f or s, or doubles of the same, are attempts at reproducing similar forms in the MSS. These generally are abbreviations of r or -rr with a vowel prefixed.

Other small letters show contractions which affect them, but these may be easily understood. The letters are similarly placed in the MSS., unless they are written over the letter which should precede them. Of course, this last position could not be imitated in print, nor is it anyways necessary.

The gamma-like letter in the MSS., with super-imposed line, which stands for chd or cht, is represented by x. If a dot occurs above the line, then an apostrophe follows the x, or an h.

The letter h, italics, is always reserved for any letter in the MSS. having a dot above it.

Of the numerals employed, the 3, or letter z, stands for a similar abbreviation, which means s preceded by some vowel. The figure 4 represents ar.

The figure 7 stands for "acus," or the English equivalent for "and." But it has also the value of et or ed (arising from its being originally for Latin et). When it has the dot above it, the aspiration thereby meant is represented by italic h in print. Thus, c7 is for cēt, ceud, "one hundred," and b7ha is for betha or beatha, "life."

Once or twice on p. 165 the apostrophe represents a similar sign of abbreviation in the MS., but no confusion can arise. It is final in baitht'.

These abbreviations apply only as far as page 166. The rest of the book is printed from modern MSS. written in the ordinary characters.

THE TEXT

OF

THE DEAN OF LISMORE'S BOOK,

WITH

TRANSLITERATIONS AND TRANSLATIONS.

THE Book of the Dean of Lismore is a manuscript collection of Gaelic poetry taken down from oral recitation, more than three hundred and fifty years ago (1512-1526), by Sir James Macgregor, Dean of Lismore, in Argyllshire, and his brother, Duncan Macgregor, who acted as his secretary. The MS. contains 311 quarto pages neatly written in the current Roman hand of the period. The orthography, which is not always uniform, is phonetic, and may, therefore, be regarded as accurately representing the spoken Gaelic of the West Highlands of Scotland at the time the MS. was written, a circumstance which greatly enhances its value for linguistic purposes, although it immensely increases the difficulty of presenting its contents in an intelligible form to Gaelic readers of the present day.

A complete transcript of the Dean's Book, with the exception of those parts that are illegible, was made in 1813 by Ewen Mac-lachlan, of Aberdeen; and a volume containing a selection of pieces from it, with modern versions and translations, and a valuable introduction written by Mr W. F. Skene, was published in 1862 by the late Rev. Dr Maclauchlan, Edinburgh.

[In reproducing Dr Cameron's transcripts, the contractions and peculiarities have been retained, except when extended by himself. They are as follows:—

c italic shows that the original has a form which may be either c or t.

e italic, doubtful if vowel be e or o.

h italic is used after any letter that has a point—punctum delevs—above it.

m italic after another m, shows that a stroke is above the m in the MS.

—a sign of duplication.

n̄ is for nn.

o italic may be e.

r, small and at the top of the line, is for ir or er or such

s alone italicised, doubtful if not ss.

t, similar to r described above, is for th or ch.

t italic may be c. See c.

' , apostrophe, is a contraction generally for n, but it may be m, or r, or even a mere flourish of the pen, if terminal.

' a sign for r with vowel.

Other italics denote extended contractions].

Sliabh nam Ban-Fionn.

Là dha 'n deachaidh Fionn, mo thriath, Do shealg air Sliabh nam Ban-Fionn,

Trì mìle mhaithibh nam Fiamm, Ni 'n deach' sgiatha os an cionn.
Oisin! is binn leam do ghloir, Beannachd fòs air annain Fhinn,
Agus innis cia mheud fiadh 'Thuit air Sliabh nam Ban-Fionn.

[Cia mòr leibh creachar sloigh, Oin nì an deachaidh bhuaibh fo leth].
Do thuit air Sliabh nam Ban-Fionn Do fhiadhaibh le Fionn nam fleadh.

Innis domh roimh gach sgeul; Beannachd air do bheul gun ghò,
Am biodh éideadh no àirm A' dol leibh a shealg gach lò?
Do bhi éideadh agus àirm A' dol leinn a shealg mar ein,
Nì bhi Féinnidh dhiubh a' m' dhòigh Gun léine shroill is [mìn]
Gun chotan sìoda séimh, Gun lùireach is bàrr gheur ghloin,
Gun chean-bheart chlochdha chòrr 'S dhà shleagh an dorn gach fir.
Gun sgiath uaine bheireadh buaidh, Gun lainn chruaidh re sgoltadh cheann,

An iarraidh an domhain fa seach Nì robh neach a b'fhearr † no
Fionn † ba dhear?

Is sè a b'fhearr eineach is àgh, Nì 'n deach' làmh os a chionn,
Dol an taisdeal a' chuain ghil, Gun fhaicinn air fear mar Fhionn.
Cath eagair a chuadhmair siar A shealg air Sliabh nam Ban-Fionn:
A Phàdraig, oid'-chinn nan cliar, Do b'alaime grian os ar cionn.
'Nuair a shuidheadh Fionn ar coin Do b'iomdha soir is siar
Guth gadhair o chnoc gu cnoc A' mosgladh thore is fhiadh.
Do bhi Fionn is Bran 'N an suidhe seal air an t-sliabh,
Gach fear dhiubh 'n ionad 'sheilg No gur éirigh colg nam fiadh.
Do leigeamar trì mìle cù A b'fhearr lùth 's a bha gu garg Mharbh gach cù dhiubh sin dà fhiadh Sol fa 'n deach' an iall 'na
h-àrd (?)

Do thuit sè mìle fiadh bàrr Air a' ghleann do bhi fo 'n t-sliabh,
A h-eugmhais agh is earb, Nì dhearnadh sealg mar sin riamh.
Gur b' e deireadh ar seilg shiar, A chleirich, oid' nan cliar 's na clog,
Deich ceud cù air slabhraidh òr Thuit fa shroin deich ceud tore.
Do thuiteadar leinn na tuire A rinn na h-uile air an leirg
Mar a bhiodh ar lanna is ar làmh Do bheirdeas ar air an t-seilg.
A Phàdraig nam bachall fiar Am faca tu shiar no shoir
Sealg aon latha re d' linn O Fhianmaibh Fhinn 'ba mhò na sin?
Ach sin sealg a rinn Fionn, Mhic Alpainn nam mionn blàth;

Innis duinn, a Phádraig, An onór do¹ leighinn,
 A bh-fheil nêamh gu bh-áraidh Aig maithibh Féinne Eireann?
 Bheirims² dhuit a³ dheimhin, A⁴ Oisín nan glonn,
 Nach bh-feil nêamh aig t'⁵ athair, Aig Oscar, no aig Goll.
 Ach is truagh an sgeul 'Chanas tus', a chléirich;
 Mise déanamh 'chrábhaidh,⁶ Is gun nêamh aig Féinne Eireann.
 Nach math leat a' t' aonar Bheith a' t' shuidhe sa' chathair,
 Gun Chaoilte, gun Oscar, Bheith far ruit, is t' athair?

¹ The MS. has "a" for "do" (thy).

² The MS. has "veyrs" for "bheir-sa" (I will give).

³ The MS. has "a" for "do" (of).

⁴ In modern Scottish Gaelic, "a" is always omitted, for the sake of euphony, before the vocative of nouns beginning with a vowel or with f.

⁵ "Ag aythyr" = "ag th' athair" = "aig t' athair" (at or to thy father).

⁶ The article is understood before "chráwe" = "chrábhadh." Cf. "di hearneyt chráwe" = "do Thighearna chrábhadh," for "do Thighearna a chrábhaidh." In the Ir. Oss. Society's version, the gen. of "chrábhadh" is not attenuated in these stanzas.

Would'st thou not wish alone
 To be sitting in the city,
 Without Caelte, without Oscar
 Being with thee—or thy father?

Little pleasure it were to me
 To be sitting in the city,
 Without Caelte, without Oscar
 Being with me—or my father.

Better the face of heaven's son
 To behold it for one day,
 Than that all the gold of earth
 Were wholly thine.

Tell to us, oh holy man,
 The tale of the heavenly city;
 I will tell thee truly
 The tales of the battle of Gabhra.¹

If tis the tale of the city
 Thou askest, old man,
 (Tis) without thirst, without hunger,
 Without want, without stain.

What more are the people of heaven
 Than the nobles of the Feinn' of Erin?
 Is their hardness in their heart,
 Or reward they clerics?

They are not like the Feinni,
 They resemble not each other—
 Tis not a noble office
 To be tending cattle.

For the love of thine honour, Patrick,
 Forsake not thou the men;

¹ In the long version of Cath Gabhra given in the Ir. Oss. Soc.'s Transactions, Oisín gives an account of the battle earlier in the poem; but the fut. "bheirsa" represents best the MS. "versi."

Beag a¹ mhath leam-sa Bheith² a' m' shuidhe sa' chathair³
 Gun Chaoilte, gun Oscar, Bheith² far rium is m' athair.
 Is fearr gnúis Mhic nèimhe R' a faicsin⁴ re aon lá,
 Na bh-feil do ór sa' chruinne⁵ Bheith agad gu h-iomlán.⁶
 Innis duinn, a thailgein, Sgeul na cathrach nèamhdha ;
 Bheir-sa dhuit gu h-áraidh Sgeula eath Ghabhra.⁷
 Ma 's e sgeul na cathrach⁸ 'Dh' fhiafr'as tus', a sheanoir ;
 Gun iota, gun acras, Gun airceas, gun ainíouh.
 Ca iad muintir nèimhe, Is uasail Féinne Eireann ?
 Bh-feil cruas 'n an cridhe,⁹ No 'n díol¹⁰ siad cléirich ?
 Ni h-ionnann a's na Fianna, Ni 'n coshmail iad re 'chéile ;
 Nior dhleas gléire Bheith 'g airghe spréidhe.¹¹
 Air ghrádh t' éinigh,¹² Phádraig, Na fág-sa na daoine ;¹³
 Gun fhios do Rígh nèimhe, Beir a steach na Féinnidh.
 Ge beag a' chuil chrónanach, No an dad o'n¹⁴ gath ghréine,

¹ "Beg a wath liamsi" = "beag a mhath leam-sa" (lit. little its good to me).

² "Bheith" aspirated because preceded by "a" or "do" (to) understood.

³ "Si chaythrice" = "sa chathraigh" (in the city). In Scottish Gaelic, the dat. is now "cathair" or "caithir."

⁴ The MS. has "re 'agsin" = "re 'aicsin" = "re a aicsin" (to see it). The infinitive is now "faicsin" or "faicin" with prothetic f. The verb is "faic," in Old Gael. "ad-ciu."

⁵ In "grwnnith" = "g-cruinne," c is eclipsed by g.

⁶ The last syllable of "iomlán" is long, rhyming with "lá," the last word of the second line of this stanza.

⁷ "Gabhra," the scene of a battle fought between the Clan Morna and the Clan Baoisene in the third century (283 or 296), is now Garristown, about fourteen Irish miles north of Dublin.

⁸ "Cathryt" = "cathrach," gen. sing. of "cathair" (city).

⁹ "Na gree" = "na g-cridhe," with c eclipsed by g in consequence of the nasal termination of the poss. pron. an (their).

¹² "Tenni" = "t'éinigh," gen. sing. of "éineach" (honour, generosity, goodness), with the poss. pron. preceding. The gen. sing. would now be "éineich" or "éinich" in Scottish Gaelic, but "éinigh" in Irish Gaelic.

¹³ "Demyth?"

¹⁴ The letter "e" of "one" is indistinct in the MS. The word may possibly be "om" for "um" (about); or "dad om" may be for "dedom" (atom, mote), which occurs in another version.

 It goes not beneath the edge of his wing.

Not so with Mac-Cumall,
 The good king who ruled the Feinni;
 All men on earth might go
 Unto his house unbidden.

 Not just is the judgment
 Thou passest on my King.

 That Finn of the Feinn' would fight
 Than thy Lord of devotions
 And thyself together.

'Tis pitiful, old man,

 Phádraig, na toir athais Air maithibh Clanna Baoisene.
 Ni h-urrainn duit 'aithris, Oisín, mhic na ríoghain,
 Ach nach ionnann blur maithéas Agus flaitheas mo Thighearna.
 Da ⁵ maireadh agam Conan, Fear míobhlas na Féinne,
 Ni leigfeadh le d' mhuineal Do choimeis, ⁶ a chleirich.
 Na abair sin, Oisín, Is an-mhín ⁷ do bhriathra;
 Bi am feasd gu foistineach, Is gabh chugad ⁸ mo riaghailt.

¹ "rey" is probably for "regh" or "regha." Cf. "doreg" (veniam), and "dorega" (veniet), in Gramm. Celtica and Windisch's Ir. Texte.

² The MS. has "sin," but other versions have "air," which the sense requires.

³ "Rachteis" = "rachdais," 3rd pl. fut. sec. Cf. Windisch's Ir. Texte.

⁴ With the MS. "tarnig," cf. O'Reilly's "tarnac" (it was finished).

⁵ In "di marra," "di" (if), which is the same word as "da," in "da wacca" below, is for "dian" (Z 709) = di-an, the prep. di (of), and the rel. an (which). The nasal of the relative is assimilated to m of "marra" = "maireadh."

⁶ "Di chomis" may be for "do chomas" (thy power).

⁷ "Meine" = "mín," in Dermaid's Lay.

⁸ "Hugit," now frequently written "thugad," is for "chugad" (to thee, ad te), Old Gael. "cucut," the prep. co (to) reduplicated, and the 2nd pers. pron. suffixed.

But that not alike are your bounty
 And the sovereignty of my Lord.

Had I now Conan living,
 The bitter-tongued man of the Feinni,
 He would not allow thee¹
 Thy comparison, oh cleric.

Say not so, Oisín,
 Froward are thy words;
 Be evermore in peace
 And take to thee my rule.

If thou hadst seen the battalions
 And the embroidered banners,
 Not one thing would be in thy thought
 But the glory of the Feinni.

Oisin, son of the prince,
 Thy soul suffers for thy folly ;
 Save the remembrance of the battalions
 (Thou) hast no dream in the world.¹

If thou hadst heard the hounds
 And the joy of the chase,
 Rather would'st thou be in their train
 Than in the heavenly city.

Poor is that, old man,
 And the joy of the chase,
 Compared with all the honours
 That are in the heavenly city.

Say not so, oh Patrick,
 Empty are thy words ;
 In doubt² and in danger,
 Better Finn and the Feinni.

By thy hand, son of Baoisne,
 Not empty are my words ;
 Better an angel of the angels³
 Than Finn and the Feinni.

² Teagamh signifies also difficulty.

² The 3rd and 4th lines of this stanza are, to some extent, conjectural in the modern version.

³ "Da glwnta" = "da g-cluinnteadh" = "dan cluinnteadh" = "d'an cluinnteadh."

⁴ "Meith" is apparently for "meithir" = "meadhair." See "meitur" below.

⁵ "Na warri" = "'na bh-farradh" = "'n an farradh."

⁶ "Za wil" = "dha bh-feil" = "dha feil" = "dh'au feil." For "da," which may be translated by "that" or "which," see O'Donovan's Gramm., p. 133.

⁷ "In deggow" = "an d-teagamh," for "a d-teagamh" = "an teagamh." In the Deau's Book, the nasal termination is frequently retained, although the initial consonant of the following word is eclipsed.

⁸ "Déineachd" is merely conjectural.

⁹ "A" for "do" (thy).

¹⁰ In "da beanyt," the nasal of the relative is omitted.

¹¹ "A gath" = "a g-cath" = "an cath" (in battle).

¹² "Da marri" = "danmaireadh" = "da maireadh," with n of the relative, assimilated to m of "maireadh."

* "Da wacca" = "da bh-faca" = "dan faca" = "dian faca." See note on "d marra," above.

¹ "Da mairdis" = "dan mairdis" = "da mairdis" (see last note). "Mairdis" or "mardais" is the 3rd pl. of the fut. sec. of "mairim" or "maraim" (I remain).

² "Si goynit" = "'s a g-cómhnadh" = "'s an cómhnaidh" (lit. and in helping).

³ "Holli" may be for "tholadh," aspirated form of "toladh" (more) = "tuilleadh," or for "h-uile" (all). See "olla" = "uile," in 16th stanza.

⁴ "Vil" is for "a bh-feil" = "an feil."

⁵ The MS. has "tus" for "tu-sa" (thou), but the sense requires either "sibhse" (you) or "agads" for "agad-sa" (at or to thee).

⁶ "Wreysrow" is for "weysrow" = "bhaosradh" (vanity, vain glory).

⁷ See note to stanza 21.

⁸ "Za gomor" = "dha g-comor" = "dh'an comor," for "dh'an comoradh" (to compare them ; lit. to their comparing).

⁹ "Ir dynnoyll" = "ar d-tionol" (our gathering) = "arn tionol."

¹⁰ "Bhuaradh" is merely a conjecture for "woery" in the MS.

Eas-Ruaidh (Easroy).

I know a little tale of Finn—
 'Tis not a tale I would despise—
 Of Cumhall's son of valour great,
 Whom I'll remember while I live.

Once, when we were, a little band,
 Close by the Salmon-Leap,¹ Easroy,
 We spied, full sail, upon the sea,
 A currach large, which bore a maid.

Fifty warriors were we round the king,
 Brave were our deeds on every field ;
 Where now, alas ! are found our peers ?
 O'er every land our arms prevailed.

We all uprose in haste,
 Save Finn, prince of the Feinn, and Gaul,
 To await the currach bounding high,
 And cleaving, in its course, the waves.

It rested not, nor slackened speed,
 Till in the wonted port it moored ;
 Then, as it anchored by the fall,
 Forth from it stepped the youthful maid.

¹ Lit., "Easroy of salmons slow," i.e., "of the slow-moving salmons," referring, perhaps, to the salmon being retarded when ascending the river by the cataract.

When from the wave he came to land,
 The king of goodly fame enquired,
 "Maiden, dost thou recognise
 Be this the man of whom thou spak'st!"

"I know him, Finn of Cumhall son,
 Harm to thy Feinn he'll do, I fear;
 He will attempt to bear me off,
 Though great thy strength, O generous Finn!"

Oscar uprose and with him Gaul,
 Both valiant in the deadly fray;
 And close beside our men they stood,
 Betwixt the warrior and the king.

The graceful hero then advanced,
 With strength and fury, them to meet,
 And snatched away from us the maid,
 Who stood close by the side of Finn.

Eagerly Mac-Morna threw
 Right after him, with might, his spear;
 Not feeble was that headlong thrust,
 The warrior's shield was split in twain.

Then Oscar shook, in furious rage,
 The bloody lance from his left hand;
 And by it slew the hero's steed,
 Great was this feat which it performed!

Though great their valour and their strength,
 He vowed his arm would them subdue.

If but two sudden blows he dealt,
 With ardour to each man opposed,
 We all would have been under ground,
 In combat vanquished by this man.

Three times nine men the victor bound,
 In the fierce contest ere he ceased ;
 Tightly the binding of three smalls¹
 Upon each one of them he placed.

Then did the valiant Gaul advance
 To crush the hero in close fight ;
 Whoever then should them behold,
 Fierce was their ardour and their strife.

There fell, by brave Mac-Morna's hand,
 The king of Sorca's son—sad tale !
 Woe to the land to which had come
 The maid for whom the man was slain !

And when the mighty warrior fell
On ocean's strand—event of woe!
The royal maid¹ of Tir-fa-ton
In Feinn-land dwelt a year with Finn.

Flann Mac-Morna—woeful deed!
Was slain—it was a mighty feat;
Nor was there warrior that escaped,
Whose body was not full of wounds—

(Except) my sire of noble mien,
He who stranger ne'er refused:
Now, since my countenance is changed,
To me is known a tale of Finn.
I know a tale.

The following stanza is written at the bottom of page 221 of MS. :—

Do¹ zawe sea churre na o skay, leich na thraa zor royve ann
Na gin dug ayr mor er ir wane, is gin dranik sea feyn fynn.

² Indistinct.

³ "noyeir," the word in the MS., may be a clerical mistake for "moyeir" = "meùir." Cf. Miss Brooke's version.

He neither lance nor shield did show
To chief or warrior that was there ;¹
Our Feinn contemptuously he passed,
Until he came up close to Finn.

Had not our fifty warriors stout
Been in the clash of arms his match,
We helpless would have been in thrall,
Deprived of what had been our right.

Unceasing would the sword have been
Destroying men and shields alike ;
So fierce a conflict betwixt two,
Was not, in my day, seen again.

¹ For these two first lines, Gillies' version has :—

Ni 'n d' fheuch e lann no sgiath
Do laoch no thriath da 'n robh ann.

The following stanza is written at the bottom of p. 221 of MS.:—

Do ghabh se 'churaidh no a sgiath, Laoch no thriath dha'n robh ann;
Na gu'n tug àr mòr* air ar Féinn', Is gu'n d' ràinig se féin Fionn.

Mar bhiodh caogad laoch¹ garbh An dàil an àrm dhò² gu leòr,
Bhiomaid³ gun chabhair fa smachd, Do ghabhas uainn a' chòir.
Do bhiodh an claidheamh gun tochd A' claidh chorp agus sgiath;⁴

* "tair mhòr."

¹ "laech."

² "dhà."

³ "bheimisd."

⁴ "sciath."

⁵ Miss Brooke's version is "ag dis" = "aig dithis."

⁶ "re."

⁷ "bliadhain."

⁸ "na n-arm n-àigh."

⁹ "in g-cath" for "i g-cath."

We buried then, close by the fall,
The man renowned for might and deeds;
And on each finger point we placed
A ring of gold, to mark a king.

For ten years, Gaul of valiant arms,
The hero fierce not slack in fight,
Marna's son, as well we know,
Was healing with Mac-Cu'all¹ of feasts.

The Battle of Gahhra.

Great this night is my sorrow,
 Holy man, who art subject to me,¹
 Thinking of the fierce battles
 That we fought with Cairbre of the Red Spear.

That son of Cormac O'Conn,
 Woe to the Feinne that came under his yoke !

¹This is evidently a mistake. It was Oisín that was under Patrick's rule.

Oisinn, what would Finn have done,
 And the remnant of the men of Erin?

By thy hand, oh holy cleric,

 Without blame, without reproof.

We sent our messengers eastward
 To Fatha, son of Mac-Conn,
 To come to us to aid us
 And take the sovereignty of Erin.

The Heads.

Emer. Connel, what heads are these? .
 We trow thou hast blood-stained thine arms.
 The Heads I see upon the withe,
 Name the men under shroud.

Connel. Daughter of Forgall of steeds,
 Young Emer of melodious words,
 Tis to avenge the Hound of feats
 That I have southward brought the heads.

E. Whose the great head with eyebrows black,
 Than the rose more red its pure bright check,
 That which is next unto the left,
 The head which has not changed its hue?

C. The head of the King of Meath of swift steeds,
 Erc MacCarbre of curlèd locks;

Deirge na partaim a bheul Gile a dheud na blaith faich'.
 Aird' a shleagh na cranna-siúil, Binne na tend-chiúil a ghuth
 Snamhaidhe do b' fhèarr na Fraoch Cha do shín a thaobh re sruth.
 Ba leithne na comhla a sgiath Iomhain triath a bhi re druim,
 Comhfhad a lann is a lamh Leithne a cholg na clar dhe luing.
 Truagh nach ann an comhrag re laoiach Do thuit Fraoch a phron-nadh or,
 Tuirse sin a thuitim le péist, Truagh, a Dhé, nach maireann fós.
 H-osnadh.

Farewell eastward to Alba from me,
 Pleasant was the sight of its harbour and vales,
 With Uisnech's sons pursuing the chase,
 'Twas delightful to be on the slopes of the hills.

It happened that the nobles of Alba were drinking,
 And Uisnech's sons who love deserved ;
 To the daughter of the Earl of Dun-Treor
 Naoise gave a kiss unknown.

He sent to her [a frisking drove]
 A wild hind and a fawn at its foot ;
 And he went to her on a visit
 As he returned from the host of Inverness.

When I did hear of this
 My head filled full of jealousy :
 I went in a curach on the wave,
 'Twas the same to me to live or die.

They pursued me out to sea—
 Aindle and Ardan, who spoke not falsehood ;
 They turned me with them back—
 Two who would to a hundred give fight.

Naesi gave his word in truth—
 Thrice he swore upon his arms—
 That he would not cause me grief
 Until he should go to the host of the dead.

(Then) gave that maid from Dun-Treor
 Her solemn word and wanton vow,
 That so long as Naesi lived
 She would not wed a man.

Alas ! were she to hear this night
 That Naesi is under a shroud of clay,
 She assuredly would weep,
 And I would weep with her sevenfold.

'Tis not strange that I have love
 For the coast of Alba of smooth ways ;
 Safe was my love among them—
 Mine were its horses and its gold.
 Farewell eastward to Alba from me.

* The above poem gives a graphic picture of life at the court of a great Highland chief, about 1600. In a translation of the Book of Clanranald, evidently made by the great Irish annalist, Dr O'Connor, the poem is thus rendered into English :—

Six nights I had been in the Dun,
 It was not a fallacious entertainment I received ;
 Plenty of cuirm [strong ale] was drunk at the board,
 There was a large wine-bruigh and a numerous host.

The attendants of the house were on every side,
 It was the cheerful great reality ;
 As quietness was better for the princes comfort,
 The party of the tribe took their drink in retirement.

The merriment of the harp and of the full bowls,
 With which hatred and treachery are not usually accompanied ;
 The laughter of the fair-haired youngsters,
 We had inebriating ale and a blazing fire.

A prince from whom a good disposition is acquired,
 He keeps the fellowship of all ecclesiastics ;
 In his regal court drinking is not a dream,
 To his numerous company he is plentiful and hospitable.

We were twenty times drunk every day,
 To which we had no more objection than he had ;
 Even our food was in abundance, which consisted of Four, three, seven along with six of varieties.—Ed.

An Epitaph Inscrib'd on the Tomb of Marg^t. Scott who died in the Town of Dalkeith,
 Feby. 9th, 1738.

Stop passenger untill my life you've read ;
 The living may get knowledge from the dead.
 Five times five years I liv'd a virgin life ;
 Ten times five years I was a virtuous wife.
 Ten times five years I lived a widow chaste.
 Now tired of this mortal life I rest.
 I from my cradle, to my grave, have seen
 Eight mighty Kings of Scotland and a Queen.
 Four times five years the Commonwealth I saw ;
 Ten times the subjects rose against the law.
 Twice did I see old prelacy pulled down ;
 And twice the Cloak was humbled by y^e gown ;
 An end of Stewart's Race I saw : yea, more !
 I saw my country sold for English ore.
 Such desolations in my time have been
 I have an end of all perfection seen.

(Written in the Irish character).

Tuirimh Bhrighid

Gairm is guidm tu a cloch na leig Brighid amach

To melt the soul to captivate the ear
 (Angels his melody might deign to hear)
 To anticipate on earth the joys of heaven
 Was Handell's task ; to him the power was given
 Ah ! when he late attun'd Messia's praise
 With sounds Celestial w^t Melodious lays

A last farewell his languid looks exprest
 And thus methinks th' enraptur'd Croud adrest
 "Adieu my dearest friends! and also you
 "Joint sons of sacred harmony adieu
 "A whispering angel prompts me to retire
 "Bids me prepare to meet the immortal choire
 "O for the glorious change great Handel cry'd
 Messia heard his voice and Handel dy'd.

THE CAMPBELL COLLECTION.

[THIS Collection was made by the Rev. Alexander Campbell, A.M., minister of Portree, in Skye, about the year 1797; and it was found by the late Donald M'Pherson in a drawer of the Advocates' Library, in 1872, when J. F. Campbell was printing his Leabhar na Feinne. It was found too late for Mr Campbell's work; he gives one specimen of it—"Mar a Mharbhadh Lamhfhad"—at page 165 of his book. The following contents, with remarks by some purist, precedes:—

- "1. Cath Innse-Croite—Modern intermixt with some ancient stanzas; Style, low; Versification, harsh and clumsy.
2. Dan na h-Inghine—Much corrupted.
3. Mar a mharbhadh Lamhfhad.
4. Dan na Muirirdeach.
(None of these genuine).
5. Tarcum.
6. Dargo—Pretty correct.
7. (Two leaves) Fear Mor."

Besides this, the other contents transcribed are:—Laoidh Naois, Ceardach Mhic Luin, Dan Laomann, Trod Chlann Mhorn agus Chlann Bhaois, Laogh Phadric, Duan Gharbh Mhic Stairn, Laoigh Fhraoich, Losg Bruth Farbuim, Dan Iarcun (1st part only), Duan Eas-ruagh, Conn Mac An Deirg. See Campbell's Leabhar na Feinne for one or two poems left untranscribed.—ED.]

DAN AIR LA BLAIR INNISCROT.

A CHEUD CHUID.

La dhuinn ri fiadhach na 'n ard,
 Nuair tharladh an t' shealg nar car
 Chunnacadair lin an' bar báire
 Seoladh gus an traigh o lear.
 Gu facaidir lin an' bar báire,
 Seoladh gus an traigh o lear,
 Aig n' stad iad san chala ghnath
 S bard a Chluinte gádrúisg fhear.

Thainig an cabhlach gu tír,
 Greadhan nach bu mhin ar leinn ;
 'S bu lionmhor ann croinn le sroil,
 Ga thogbhail leo as an ceinn :
 Mar neoil dhonn bhreac ar dhruim Bein-ard
 Gaoirid ma's tig seilm na frois
 'N dara 'uair ní duth a ghrian,
 'S iad uair eil a dearsadh leis.
 Mar sin le srolamh ri bár,
 Sheas ar 'n traigh an carlach tiugh,
 Chit ar uaireamh dearsadh lann,
 'S chailta sin iad fann ma seach.

Sheasamh sinn uil' ar an t'shlíamh,
 Thionnal an Thiann as gach ait ;
 Dh' físrachadh—"Co iad na Sloigh,
 Rinn cruinneachadh mor ar traigh?"
 Dh' earraid Mac Chu'aill dhe 'n Theinn¹
 "Co racha ghabhail sgeul dhé 'n t' sluagh ;"
 S gun dhinnis e fá gun chleith,
 "Gu faidh é breith agus buaidh."

Do ghluais Fearghus meanmnach og,
 Ar a ród an coinne na fear ;
 'S dh' eorich é le comhra foil,
 "Co iad na sloigh tho seo bho lear?"
 "Tha Orrain¹ orra mar Thriath ;
 Ma Ghara mhoir na sciath dearg ;
 Ard Ri Lochlann ceann nan cliar,
 Giolla bu mhor fraoch is fearg."

 A racha dh' eorach dhé 'n t' sluadh ?
 Se labhair Fíonn flath gun Chleith,
 Gu 'm beirigh é breith agus buaigh.

“Ciod a ghluais a bhuidheann bhorb,
O criocha Lochlann nan colg sean ?
An ² ann a chuideachadh na 'n Fìann
A thainig an Triath air a' lear ?”

“Ar do laimhsi Fhearghuis fheil’
As an Fheinn ge mor do bheac,
Cha 'n fhalbh sin mar faigh an tir
Gun Chórag neo-mhin o' r feac.”

“As do laimh gé mor do dhoidh,
I's as do shloigh gé mor do bheachd ;
Cha 'n fhaigh sibh bhuoinne chaoidh 'n tir,
Gun Chórag neo-mhin o' r feachd.
Ach dhobh sibh o' n Fheinn gun stri
Tri fichid is Caogid each ;
Tri chiad Clogad do stuth grinn,
Is tuille mor do nith ar sin.”

“An tir uil' o thoinn gu toinn
Gheilleacan do m' aon Chuing ;
'Neo córag curraunta teann,
Gu bristidh cheann agus chneas.”

Do thill Fearghus na bhraithir fein,
'S ga b' chosbhail ri Grein a chruth ;
Dh' aineadh ³ mid o chaochla greann,
A dhroch sgeul ma 's cuala ghuth.

“Tha Orrain a sud a traigh,
Cia fath dhos' a bhi ga chleith ;
Cha 'n fhalbh e mar faidh é n' tír,
'Neo córag neo-mhín na leith.”

Sin thiuntaidh Mac Chu'aill ri Goll ;
“Nach mor an glonn duin bhi na 'r tost,
'S nach tuga mid Cath laidir treun,
A dh' ard Ri Lochlan no sciath breac.
Ga Ri é ar trian na fairge,
'S nach gaoirer mi fein cho treas ;
De cha d' thuga mid uoinn an tír,
Gun sin fein a bhi na leith.”

Fhreagair Ullain le frith mhoir, “Fhionngheal crodh' a chruth ghlain ;
Gu de 'n cas no tharlach sibh,
'S gur lionmhor dhuibh cloidheamh ar laogh,
C' aite bheil Fionngheal no Fìann,
Caoilte Mac Reath agus Leith ?

¹ Orrainn ?—A. C. ² An asterisk in MS., but no foot-note to it.—A. C.

³ Al. Dhinnis da 'n Fhein a seul,
'S gu 'm b' fhosgara mor a dhuth.

C' aite bheil Colla, Connall is Taog,
 Is Faolan geur a chridh theith?
 Cia aite bheil Diarmid donn,
 Oissin mor a's Geal mac Luth,
 A's ceathrair mac Fhearghuis am bard
 'S fear Du'aird ládair nan sruth?
 Cia ait' bheil clann an Deirg mhoir,
 A's Morlamh o I nan creag?
 Na Clann a Choitir o' n Bheinn
 'S gu fuiliga mid beum na scuid?"
 Dheirich a Theinn uile borb,
 Cha gheilleadh iad' beoi gun chath;
 Mar dhaimh chabrach ruith ar Eilde,
 Chìti fairis ceum na flath.
 Chruinnich na laoch ma Ri,
 A bhuidheann chrodh' bu chaomh leis;
 'S mhionnaich iad ar ceann a lann,
 Nach fásadh iad fann san ghreis.
 "Buinnige sinn buaidh na laraich,
 Bho 'n armaunn thanig o' lear;
 'Neo treigi ar neart 's ar tabhachd,
 'S caille sinn Ailleac ar fear."
 "Beridh beannachd, beiridh buaidh;"
 Ars' Mac Chu'aill ri shluadh;
 "Maireach coinncachidh sin Orrain,
 'Nochd bi 'mid suthath gun ghraim."
 An oiche sin dunn gu la,
 Cha bu ghnath linn' bhi gun cheol,
 Fleagh gu farsuing; fion a's ceir,
 Bhiodh sud ag an Theinn gu leoir.
 Bha Caoireall a's Fearghus nan tend
 Le cheile 'g iomard ar cruit;
 'S na Baird eile bh' ann gu leir,
 Cha d' cheil iad o' n Theinn an guth.*
 "Co sud a tuirling san cheo?
 Co sud 'n con'uidh na' neal,
 Da shleadh fhada traist na dhorn;
 'Sa sciath mor gu deas ri thaobh.—
 Mar ealain beannach, tha sciath;
 A dha shleadh mar dharich crion,

* Bha fuaimneach nan teuda binn,
 Mar cheol taibhse tighin o' lear
 Nuair chluintir misg caoil na Caothann
 Guth na Gaoith san Aird an Ear.

Chitir fad ar faireadh feasgar,
 'S Gealach doiller misg na 'n craobh.
 Se sud Colg'ear! Mac Chonnail!
 Da m' ghnath bhi 'Strath glas na fiadhb;
 'S na Milti tammas ma'n cuairt dha;
 Bualadh sa crathadh a sciath.
 Thainig Stairne gu tiamha;
 Se fír iargalt dian na dheigh.
 "Striochd a' 'Chomhaill na Morbheinn,
 Striochd gu humhaill da m' threin."
 Ach dheirich Colg'ear ga bhachdail,
 Choinnich no gaisgeach san teinn,
 'S bu dubhach Stairne na shiumhaill,
 Mar shruth a tilleadh o 'n bheinn.
 Le fuathas ruith e gu traigh;
 Ri bharcá thogadh no siuil:
 Ghrad chruinneach doinionn nan speur,
 'S bha taibhse ri cul.
 Gaoth, tein adhair, a's tairnean
 Ri garbh stairireach ar a mhuir;
 Dhuthadh gu buileach na speuran,
 'S tonna becnach 'g eiridh fliuch.
 Bha gaineamh na dílinn ga bualagh,
 Le fuaimneach fairis ma 'n druim;
 Na loingeas riist a geiridh,
 Gu heutrom 'mullach nan tonn.
 Rug' egal ar Stairn' agus curam;
 Lub é go Sorchá ro 'n t shín;
 Ach shiothlaidh dhiu fichid a's ceath'r,
 Mas d' ránaig iad ealain a Bhaoín.
 Gun thuit fo Cholg' ear san deannal,
 Da chaogad fear agus laoch;
 Tuille thuit dhiu san iomain,
 'S fuil na stra air a fhraoch.
 "Beannac dhuitsa Laoich oig',
 Sé labhair ris gu foil a Ri;
 Dhion u mise—dhion u Morbheinn
 Choisinn u do coir san stri.—
 'S leatsa 'n teidigh staillin uchda,
 'N cloidhe geal, 's a'n clogad úr,
 Bhuinig mi le m' neart san áraich,
 O Cheanntort Carruic nan Túr.
 Cholg' air bhuadhaich na geur bheum,
 Cíod an eigin rin ort lochd?
 Fiadhaich air mullach na Morbheann,

*Thuit u eiti sìor fo 'n Torc !
 Bu duthich ! duilleach a la sin,
 Tulach adhor na n' aram nochd ;
 A's Comhall le buidheann gu tuirseach,
 Gad chuir san Uir a chnochd !
 Cluinnidh d' thu fuaimneach ur teud ;
 A's eisdidh sinne ri do cheol ;
 'S a maireach a crathadh nan speur,
 Thig beud air Orrain a's brón.
 Ach threug a sealla ! C'ait na dh' albh u ?
 Cha 'n fhaic mi tuille do chiabh,
 'S e ciar' thu donn ar dhath na h oich,
 Mar chaoill a dhuthas a ghaoth "

Beannac dhuit theanga nan oran,
 A's dhuibhse chlaoinn cheolar nan teud :
 Biodh Iullain maireach na Cholg'ear ;
 'S theid Orrain air chrith air an leirg.
 Chi mi dhe chaitheamh san áraich,
 Mar lasair na muice fiadhich,
 Nuair dheiris cath ¹ air meall-gorm,
 'S a theichis treun Laoch ro diomhail.
 Ach c'ait' bheil Mac Cholla nan lann,
 Bu mhath ceann ² dhuinn an s' gach cath ?
 Gu de chum é 'nduigh o'n Fheinn ?
 O'n chuilm gu de chum a Flath ?

"Chunnaig Mac Laomuinn a Bhean,
 Bu ghile s' bu bhoiche dealbh ;
 A leaga na h eilid le corr,
 'S gu stolt air beinn Eudain a falbh.
 Bhual a chriodh le leum chais ;
 Ghluais fhuil gu bras na chuisle borb,
 Ghorm thuil nam bosa mín,
 Tha m' ghaol fein gun chleith na d lorg.

Theich ise le leum mhoir,
 Rin i eighmh, 's bu luath a cas
 Chuala Conn 's a shleagh na dhorn ;
 Choinneadh e fear og gun stad.

Thoiseach na seoid air a cheil',
 Cho aoilteal forrumach, bras ;
 Gu cruaidh, cuidreach a's do bheumach

* Mar dhuichd an t shamhrai dan mhillich,
 Tha taogas a nochd da ur feachd ;
 O fuirich ma 'r timchioll a Laoch ;
 'S na ruith le do thannas as falbh.

² Al. Cuis.

Chaidh a Leirg air chrith fo'n cas.
 Bha teine lasra gu dearseant,
 O'n airm ládair, ghasta, theunn,
 Cho fhreagradh na bealaich da'n fhuaim,
 'S a chaoilteach chrathadh i ceann. 18t 11 12
 Mar dha dhaoith chuairt' an glean bein-sith
 Choinn'cheas eite le trom neart ;
 Togbhail fraoich, a's chlach, a's gheug,
 'N uair gheighmeas Spioroit na nial ;
 Spionadh iad an darraich glas ;
 Creannaichidh an talamh trom,
 Togaidh an Amhainn na' meallan,
 Ga sradagh a' feadh na'n tom.
 Ge d' bhrìst a shleagh, bha 'n cloidhe beo,
 Ag na thuit iad bonn ri bonn,
 'S a fuil throm na sruthain leo.
 Thainig Gorm 'uil—och mo thruaigh !
 Fuar gun anam bha fear mor :
 Bhuail i bosan—bhuail i bhrollach,
 'S le osna fonn a bhroin.
 Choinn 'ie Cholla ! smi do bhean !
 Sud a fear bu mhath gu euchd ;
 Ni bheil saoi nach d' uair a leiridh.
 'Struagh a ta mi fein a' dheigh.
 Conn Mac Cholla Rì nan Tùr
 Leis a seinnte gu cuin cruit :
 'S ioma fear tha fuair fo'd bheum,
 Ge d' tha u fein a' ndiugh na d' chorp.
 B' ionmhuin t' aghaidh mhin dearg mhor,
 Bu deacair clóth an sgach Cath :
 Sin a's criodh farsuing fial ;
 Bu ghile na Ghrian do dhath.
 Ni 'n dheitich u daoine mu nith ;
 Ni 'n ghiarr nith air neach fo n' Ghrein :
 Fear bu mho 's bu ghlainne dealbh,
 Cha 'n fhacas ann ach u fein
 'S mise nighean Rì I-thonn
 'S ioma sonn bha 'r son mo shealbh ;
 'S ge b' ioma ga m' iarui saoi,
 B' fhearr leum bhi nam mbnaoi ag Conn.
 B' fhearr leum bhi san bheinn le Conn,
 Gun soilse grein', gun tias, gun doigh ;
 Na leis a Rì a's arda fleadh,
 San talla 'm bi mioghail a's ceol.

'Chraobh a b' aille san chaoill—
 Sheid a Stoirm a's dhu na neoil ;
 Thuit i le diulleach gu Crionadh,
 Och ! gur cionail snuadh a geug !
 Leag i mise le buille !
 Seargidh mi builleach ri taobh !
 Cha 'n fhaicear tuille mu dhuillich
 'G eiri gu mullach na'n Craobh !
 Och, mar 'ta mi ! Choinn mu ghraidh !
 Cha'n fhag mi 'n t aitise beo,
 Ach ruithidh m' anam ga t' uisidh ;
 Siubhlaidh sinn cuideachd air ceo.
 Sud do sheobhag 's do dha chù,
 Leis an tuirseach ¹ usi dhalbh,
 'N te leis am b' ionmhuinn an triuir
 Cuirir i san uir ar ² ball !

Threig a guth a's threig a Cli,
 Shìn i ri taobh an fhir mhoir :
 Dhonnail na Coin air a leacainn,
 'S thuit lad fairis sior ³ ri 'm bonn.

Chaidh lon a's Gorm'uil san aon Uaigh ;
 Aig am bonn tha 'n Coin san Uir :
 Thogadh san aite do Chloich
 'S tha Ault glas a ruith ri 'n cul."

Mar seo sheinn Fearghus nan teud,
 Cha b' aobhinn da n' Fheinn a ghuth ;
 Bha deoir silleadh gu dluth
 O shuilean maitheamh nam fear.

"Choinn 'ic Cholla bu mhor beum,
 S' duileach lium mar dh' eirich dhuit !
 Gur bui do dh' Orrainn nan cuach
 Gur a fuar a nochd do thigh.

Co bu ghairge reidh gu blàr ?
 Co bu dàna dheanadh cath ?
 Co bu luthor a misg cheud ?
 Bu threun 's bu gheanoil a Flath.
 Nocha na d' shineadh san tigh fhuair,
 Cha chluinn u fuaimneach nan teud,
 Cha chuideach u tuille nam fir.
 Ach falaidh sin uil as an t shaoghil
 Mar shoilseach chaochlas ur lá.
 Faodidh é martuin gu h' oiche
 Ach faodidh norrion thabhairt lea.
 Gleidh mid fìoroinn a's ceartas ;

Na seachna mid cath 'nuair bhios feum,
 'N uair dhalbhis dh' eubh sinn ur cliu
 'S an taobhse cha choisinn sinn beum.
 Fhreagir mar sin Fion nam buadh ;
 'S cho fhreigir an Fhein do ghuth.
 Chaid é sin air an t shliamh ;
 'S a chlogad 's a sciath ri uchd.
 Chualas aichearr iorghuil lann,—
 Chualas srann a tighin bho chath.
 Chuir Orrain daoine mach a's t oiche ;
 "Màramh a's milleamh gach Flath."
 Tearmidear a's mac an Leith,
 Choinneach iad le cheil an daoi ;
 'S chaidh Diarmad agus Oissein donn,
 Le buillean trom gu 'n cuir a dhí.

Thainig iad mar mhadaidh chaoilte,
 Ruith le feall gu deanamh lochd ;
 Ach coinnichidh a Sealgair san bheinn iad,
 Gu scath sios ma 's dean iad cron.
 Mar sin na thainig san oiche,
 Gu sinne le feall am bhrath,
 Cha till aon aonan dhiubh slan,
 Gun bhas gun cheangal san chath.

Na'm biodh tus a mhaiceamh oig,
 Air sliabh aluinn Inse-Crot ;
 'S gu faiceadh tu Laoich nam buagh,
 Gu mor uallach dol san troid :—
 A liuid Abhrach Comhdui corr
 'S liuid saoi na neididh glan,
 A thachair anns an deannal chruaidh,
 'N uair sin ga 'n ceangal 's ga scath ;
 Cha thoga tu tuille fonn,
 Nach dean bonn do rath na dh' eum
 Ghlachda tu cruit chùil ¹ a d' laimh
 'S chluinte san ghleann fuaim do theud,
 Chluinte fuaim do ghuth 's do chiuil
 'S tu tabhairt cliu air maitheamh Fhinn
 Sleibh is enoic agus creagan
 A freagairt le caismeac bhinn.

'S mise crionan nan de chaoill
 Dh' albh mo spionadh 's threig mo luths ;
 'N Oiche sin bu mhor mo rath,
 Bu mhi 'n dara cath air thus :

Och ! mo thruai ! S truagh a ta mi
 'S mi nan aonar crataich bochd
 'S mi 'g ionntruin muintir mo ghraidh,
 Thogadh dhìom gach cradh 's gach lot.
 Gun sealla, gun suil gun fhriarg,
 Ged d' thig air taibhse nam' choir
 Cha leir dho sibh, mar cluinn air caismeach,
 'S e tabhairt da m' laigse tuille treoir.
 Ach tha u 'g eisdeac mo sgeula,
 'S cluinni tu mar gheirich dhuinn ;
 Cluinni tu na dhuilg an Fheinn,
 'S gach gnìomh euc a rinneadh linn.

AN DARA CUID.

Sambach an diugh fiadh san bheinn ;
 Sambach tha sliabh Innse-crot ;
 Cha neil Iorghuil theith san ghleann
 Na laoiach ghreannor liodart chorp.
 Chunna mis' a chaochlaì snuaigh,
 Chunnaig feidh is coin na ruith.
 Chual mi gaoir chath is eighmh ;
 Dh' aireach sleibh is enoic air chrith.

Chìlì¹ sin air cheann nan Armuinn
 Iullainn làdair annsa chath ;
 Is Orrainn mac Ghàra nan cuach
 Ruith le ruathar na char.

S cianoil an diugh tha gach gualla,
 Air no ghluais a bhuidheann chro.
 S cianoil sin is gach lagan,
 Anns an d' rinn iad tapadh mor.
 Ach ge d' dh' albh iad, cha treig an caoin—
 'Mairidh a chaoidh anns an dàn ;
 Bheir an t oran saoi gu fuireach,
 'S cha tuit a chliu buileach gu làr

Tuirling Iullainn le d' thaibse
 Tuirling 'ic Morna gu t Oisein !
 Cuideach e gu seinn do chliu
 'Sa bhi muirneach mu na maiceamh,
 Thug maille ruitse buaigh san bhlàir
 Do chloidheamh laidir dearsa lasant :
 Tham' chaoin' fann, 'scha 'n iona leum,
 Seann Aois gam' leoin le ioma creuc ;

Bi fagaisg Iullain le d' chairdeas
 O! duisg mo chaoim 's mi tithin air t euc.
 Cha d' thoiseach ach gann o latha
 Chunn' cas teann orn feac sa ghuirt ;
 Chunn' cas meirg Orrain nan lann,
 Ga togbhail o'n traigh na'r uchd.
 Iomad clogad maiseach, cruaidh,
 Ioma' tuagh, is ioma' gath,
 Chunn' cas le Orrain nan cuach ;
 'S bu lionmhor ann Mac Ri is flath.

Chuir sinn Deo-ghreine ri crann,
 Bhratach Fhinn bu ghairge treis ;
 Lum-lan do chlachan dhe 'n òr,
 Aig an Theinn bu mhor a mias.
 B' ioma cloidheamh, dorn-gheal, ur,
 B' ioma srol ga'n cuir ri crann ;
 An cath Mhic Chu'aill na fleagh,
 'S bu lionmhor sleagh agus lann.

Thog sinn air gasradh o'n chaoill
 Is giuleanaidir linn airm an Aigh ;
 'S coinneachaidir san chorag chruaidh,
 Feachd ridh Lochlann o'n traigh.
 Do rinneadair an Urnaidh chruaidh.
 Bristeadair air sluagh nan Gall
 'S cho ro cuiri, gaisgeach mor,
 Nach do leag gu leor gu lár.

Ghluais feac Lochlann mar a stoirm,
 'Ghàtas 'sa thogas a muir ;
 'S a bhristeas è na thonna bán
 Ma thaobh 's ma mhullach nan creag.

Mar na creagan sheas an Thiann
 Nach shurrinn an shion a churr
 'S a dh' uireas gu ladair teann,
 Dhaindeoin sran is mid an t struth.

Mar chloich ghlais a ruith le beinn
 Ri bristeadh gheug is tolladh phreis,
 'N uair bhrucas na mullaich le tuil,
 'S an talamh uil' fo aoilt' air chrith :
 Mar sin bha Laoich nam Fiann
 Aig iomain nan Triath 's na Flath
 'N uair dh' airleach air spionadh is euc,
 An ceum a chunbhail san chath.

Sin chit' an tromad an t shloigh,
 Iullainn mor ri liodairt Chorp ;
 Mar mhui mhara beicil ard,

'S i sradadh an t shail le trost.
 Air gach taobh dhé thuit na Sloigh
 Bu mhorghalach, dian, a ghuin ;
 Ruith sios na chulaidh chruaidh,
 Gu Córag ri Orrain sa ghaoil.

Mar iolair a ruitheas luath,
 'S a bhuaileas an tith an treud,
 Minnean maoth air taobh Bein-gulb,
 Ga scar gu dlu le fuathas beum ;
 Mar sin thug Iullainn nan ruag,
 Ruathar an Coinneamh an Triath ;
 'S chuir an da chuir na leum
 An tullach gu leir air chrith.

Thainig Orrain cas mar steud,
 Leumnach gu forrumach bras ;
 'S a dha Shleadh fhada, scaiteach, gheur,
 Le 'n colg eiti sinnte mach.
 Chuireadh e crith air na neoil ;
 B' eolach a chrathadh e shleadh,
 'S e gabhail da chleasa garg
 Sior ann am brollach nam fear.
 A mhac samhail cha 'n fhacas riamh
 Ag iomac maogha na mor shliabh :
 'S cha b' aille neach san chruinne ché
 Na Orrain treun nan arm glas.

Mac Morn' is Orrain laimh air laimh
 Choinneach iad gu teann san ghreis ;
 Is chi 'mid an Aird an iar,
 Mar thón teine teinteneach :—
 Chi 'mid, ro bheum a Sleagh,
 Lasair uaine le leum theith ;
 'S mar bu deirge 'n talamh glas,
 Las fearg Iullain ri Orrainn.

Mar dha thannas trom am feirg
 A dhuisgeas fia'aich air ard lear,
 Tilgeal air a cheilé neal ;
 Le tein adhair, fiamh, is geillt :
 Ataidh na Stuardhan le stiorm ;
 Theid gach iasg san mhuir air chrith ;
 'S gu 'n till na taibhse gu 'n ceo,
 Ca tuit an doininn gu fois.
 B' ionnan sin is sri na laoich ;
 B' ionnan sin 's a fraoch san chath.
 Leumnach a ghaoil—eucach a stair,—
 Neartmhor, dian, iorghuil na fláth

Tharruing Orrainn an t-shleagh ruadh,
 Gus Iollainn nam buadh a bhrath ;
 Ach bhrist i fairis traist ma sceith,
 'S cha d' rinneadh beud air a fhath.
 Gheirich frith, is tuille fraoich,
 Air dà mhalaidh na mor laoch :
 Nam bloidhean bhristeadh a sleadhan,
 Is dh' aireach a sciathan an caoch,
 Thuit iad na 'n tollan gu tallamh
 Ghearrad iad thall is a bhos ;
 S chiti birreach colg an lann,
 A seasamh teann mar ioma dos.

Ach chaoineach Iullainn air fein,
 Chaoineach é air euc nam fear,
 O'n gheirich Morna 'sa threabh ;
 'S a cheannsuich tric an daoibho lear.
 Tharruing é 'n sheann lann a truail,
 Leise 'm buinigde buaidh gach blair ;
 Leig é leis a bhuille chruaidh
 Orrainn nan cuach air an traigh.

S cuir an deannal—sheas an Thiamn :
 Tuille sri cha d' rinn nam fear.
 Theich feachd Lochlann go 'm barca
 'Sa siuil arda thog gu muir.
 Bu duthach an tuireadh 's an eighmh,
 Bu deirich a fonn 's a screud.
 Chaill iad Orrainn ceann nan Armunn,
 'S iomad mìle math na leith.

Thiolaig sinn é air an traigh,
 Dh' ardaich sinn a chlach 's a leac :
 'S chluinte le Caoireall donn
 Fonn a chliu air feadh nam feac.

“ Dé thug Orrainn an taobhse ?
 Dé thug an Laoch do Mhor-bheinn ?
 Com na thuit thu 'n toiseach t eiri,
 Com na threig thu 'n treun do neart ?
 Co bha Lochlann cho treun ris ?
 Co bu gheur a dhiamdh lot ?
 Co bu mhaiseach a misg cheudan ?
 Iorghuileach, eiti san troid !
 Thuit san Araich an Laoch ladair
 Thuit an t Armunn, calma, fearail !
 Bu gharbh Gara—bu mhor Stairne,
 Ach cha b' fhearr iad sud na Orrainn

Chunnaig mi sa mhadain cheutuinn,
 Craobh 'si 'g eiri dosrach, ard ;
 Thainig a samhradh, 's chad' dh' uireach,
 Thuit i buileach—shearg a bláth.
 Sheid an doinionn—dhuth na speuran ;
 Phrannadh a geugan le spáirn ;
 Bhrist a Mullach—chrion an duileach,
 Spionadh a bun as an lár.
 Mar sin dhaingeadh 'meadhain euc'
 Orrainn treu'ach, leumnach, og :
 Och ! mo thruaigh ! 's truagh an oiteag,
 Chuir gu clos an Cuiri mor !

Chunnaic mi 'n si bheinn air graoidh,
 Damh cabrach eutrom nan cnoc ;
 'S e gu croiceach, úroil, ard,
 Saor bho chradh, gun leon, gun lot :
 Gheigmh an fhaogbaid—ghluais an gaothar ;
 Le guin ruith saighead o'n t shreang ;
 Bhuail i chríodh—lub a ghluinean ;
 Thuit gun lúths, is chrom a cheann.
 B' ard mar sin a leumadh Orrain,
 Gu morghalach, meanmnoch, bras ;
 B' ard a chit' a chlogad cruach,
 B' fhuaimneach iomairt a chas.
 Cia ait' an diudh 'bheil mais' an Ridh,
 Bu tiamhaidh air cheann nam Flath ?
 Cia ait' am bheil a Spionadh treun,
 Chuireadh air na ceudan cath ?
 Sinnte raoir air caiseal cró,
 Do dhimeach Anam gu ceo.
 'N duigh na laidh 'n tigh neo-aoibhiun
 Cha neil neart na chré, na treoir !
 Mile marbhaisg air an t shaoghil,
 Caochlaidich dhreach, 'sa dhealbh ;
 Caochlaidich iomard is aogas,
 'S lionmhor laoch air 'n dean é leoin.
 Com 'bidh cogadh eidir Armunn ?
 Com 'bidh Ardan an a Maitheamh ?
 Com 'bidh fuil cho tric ga dortadh ?
 Gus gu seargd' an oige flathail ?
 Och ! mo thruaigh ! struadh an eigin,
 Chuir an Theinn gu saoi a scath—
 Cruaidh an cunnart—mor an gabhadh,
 'Dh ardaich, 's a bhoirbneach an cath.

Ach co sud na 'n eulaidh chruai'
 Co na seoid tha sud fo sprochd ?
 S' iad sud na laoich thig na 'r deagh,
 'S iad fo eislean air do chnoc.

'Si seo leac Orrainn nam mor bheum
 Co bu treun' gu liodart cheann ?
 Mili tiamhaidh 'n tús na h iorghuill,
 B' fhia'ach, gabhaidh, fuaim a lann.
 Chom é córag ri Mac Morna
 Chom é gaoil gu leor sa ghreis ;
 Thuair é urram mor is cliu
 Thug an Theinn dha n' churri mis.

'Nuair thig fear siumhal nan tonn
 'S a sheasas e ri bonn do lic ;
 'Seo leac Orrainn nan cuach,
 Bha san ionnad uaimhreach tric.
 Co sheoladh an Cuan cho luath ?
 Na chuireadh stuadhan mor is beag ?
 Co bu tapidh stuiridh long,
 'Sa Shneadhaidh cho lom a chreag ?

Caidil Orrainn, caidil samhach,
 Ge d' gheara' do laithin og ;
 Ge d' gheara' tu 'n toisich t eirigh,
 Na biodh ort a' d cheo.
 Thuit thu le Iullainn nan geur-lann,
 Treun gu buill' is casgairt dhorn.
 Thuit thu fo Iullainn le urram,
 Na lig mulad na do chóir.

'S mor an cliu dhuit sud a laoich ;
 Cia na dh' aodadh seasamh ris ?
 Co b' fhurrinn Mac Morna bhualadh,
 Na bhuin' geadh le buaigh air mias ?
 Fear Cogaidh buadhach nam Feinne,
 Laoch uallach aobhi mór.
 Mili currannta ceutach,

'Gaisgeach eutrom, truin an treoir."
 Mar seo sheinn Caorreall am bard,
 Caismeac ard ar cliu 'n fhir mhóir,
 Chuir cruaidh air chrith sliabh Innse-crot,
 Le iorghuil ghoirt, is neart, is treoir.

Do ghluais sinn a sin nam bheinn
 Buidheann eutrom na'n ceum lúth ;
 Bhogha, 's a shaighead, 'sa chloidheamh,
 Aig gach daoine a bhann, 's a chú ;
 A sciath uaine bheiridh buaidh ;

'S a lann chruaidh gu bristeadh cheann ;
 'S ge d' shiubhladh tu 'n domhain ma seach,
 Cha'n fhaice tu neach mar a Fhiann,
 Ge d' shiumhla' tu 'n domhain ma seach
 Cha 'n fhaice tu neach mar a Fhiann
 Air mhid, air fhinnead, 's air aille,
 Cha deacha, lámh as an cionn,
 "Leanadh buidheann an torc,"

Arsa Fionn, se labhairt mìn,
 "S buidheann eile feidh nan cnoc ;
 Biodh air cuilm a nochd gun dith."

Sgaoil sin uile na coin :
 Bu lionmhor an sear is siar,
 Gair challain o chnochd gu cnochd,
 Ri dusgadh thorc agus fhiadh.
 Bha feidh is gaohair na 'n cabbaig,
 Ri stairereach is tartair mor :
 Cho fhreagridh creagan is fireach,
 Thug iad crith air uisg' an lóin.

Mharbh gach haon diu sin da' fhiadh
 Seal ma 'n deach an iall air aird ;
 'S mharbh Bran is e na chuilean,
 Da fhiadh is urrad ri each.

Cosan bui bhiodh aig Bran,
 Da thaobh dhuth' is tar geal,
 Dhruim uain' air suidhe na sealg',
 'S a cluasan corrach cró-dearg.

Dá cheud cú le sla' rui ùr,
 Do thuit tra neoin le 'n ceud torc ;
 Smòr an caull bha sud dha 'n Theinn,
 'S mòr an diomhail thainig orr'.

'S nuair mharbh sinn na toirc,
 A roin na h oile air a leirg ;
 Mur biodh air lámh 's air coin,
 Cha deana' mid fhair air an t'sheilg.
 B' ioma' laoch fuileachdach fial,
 Na shuidh air sliabh Innse-crot ;
 'S gun ach iall a choin na laimh,
 'S e tilleadh bho fhaire nan torc.
 Shuidh Fionn fein agus Bran,
 Air an traigh a bha fo 'n t shliabh,
 Bho san agam fein 'tha 'mbeachd
 Sealg mar sin cha 'n fhachd mi riabh.
 "Sgaoilibh" arsa Fionn, "a chuilm,
 Biodh gach aon gu suilbhear ait ;

Na biodh greann air gruaidh fir mhor
Cuirte 'n t shlige choir ma seach"

Shuidh sinn uile na bha ann ;
Bu gheanail neoghann air cuilm :
'Sa mhacaidh na' feachda tu 'n t àm,
B' aluin a ghrian as air cinn !

DAN

NA H INGHEAN.

La dha ro 'n Fheinn is Fionn
Air sliabh Seal-math na sruth dian,
Chunnacas a teachd an sa mhaodh
Inghean 'si 'g imeachd na h aonar.
An Inghean bu ghlaine snuadh,
Bu ghile, 's bu dheirge gruaidh,
Bha da rosg aillidh na ceann,
'S i gamhaire falachidh na tiomchioll
Da Shuil ghorma gun smal,
Gu soiller glan, air dhreach na greine
Da chich chorrach air uchd grinn
Geal is mìn mar chanach sleibhe
Air dhath an oir a bha falt,
Bu gile na gach sneachd a deud,
Bu deirge na caoran am beoil
'S bu bhinne ceol na' gach teud.
Bha eideadh ùr dhè stu a b' fhearr,
Ma cneas gradhach caoin curaidh,
'S cha b' shurrin Bard air mid aigh,
Trian dhe h ailleachd a chunntas.
Bha boinne cùrr mar dhruic a n t shramhri
Sileadh teann bho shuil na h oigh ;
'S chluinte h osn' air sciath na gaith,
Mar fhuaim ciuil san iomard bhroin.

Do sheas sinn uile air a raoin,
Na flaithean caoin is mi fein ;
Gus an d' thanig an Inghean na'r coir,
'S gu n' bheannuich i gu foil da 'n Fheinn .

"Mo chomruich oirbh Thianua mhath
Eudar Mac Ridh is ard Fhlath."
Ceist gach fir mhaitheamh Fhinn,
San uairsin thugadh dha 'n Inghean.

Gun fhreagair Fionngheal gu grinn,
 “Ainnir bhinn a’s aille dealbh,
 Bheil aon tórachd air do lorg,
 A Rioghann og na ’m bosan geal?
 Na cia eile fath do chaoi’,
 ’N e d’ leannan gaoil nach eil beo?
 Na bheil do cheile laóch treun,
 An teugbhail na ’n cunnart ga leoin?
 Brith do thurrais air gach ròd
 Aithris dhuin, is ciod é tainm.
 ’N shurrin gorm lanna ga ’d dhion,
 Na faodair t fhurtachd le Fionn?”

“Mise ’n Inghean Ridh nan gleann
 Laoch greannmhor, math go seilg;
 Insin dhuibh gu erruinn mo sceul,
 Mala-chaol a ghaoirir dhìom.
 Cha neil mo leannan gu ’n bhi beo;
 Ni mo tha tórachd orm gu teith,
 Triath a’s mor gaoil air mo lorg—
 Iullaidh aillidh an airm gheur,
 Mac uaireach garg Ridh na h Irsamil
 Ghabh e gaol orm : ghìar mar mhnaoi;
 Dhuilt mi ghaoil, is theich bho ghuin.
 Do chuir mi geasa na cheann,
 Gu ’m beireadh an Fheinn mi air sál,
 ’S nach bithinn aige mar mhnaoi,
 Dhuilt mi ghaoil, is theich bho ghuin.
 Do chuir mi geasa na cheann,
 Gu ’m beireadh an Fheinn mi air sál,
 ’S nach bithinn aige mar mhnaoi,
 Ge mor leis a ghnìomh is àgh.

Mu chomraich a rist air Fionn
 ’S air uil’ mhaithreamh treun man Thiann
 Do bhri air morachd ’s air buaidh,
 Gabhìbh mo chomraich le dian.”

Sin labhair Oscar le cainnt mhir,
 A Laoch sin a chaisgeadh gach Ridh;
 “Ge d’ nach cuireadh tu riamh é fo gheas
 Ni reachadh tu leis mar mhnaoi—
 Nach cuirimid cnoic is glinn
 Air chrith fo iorghuil a chath;
 ’S nach tuitim fein ma’s treiginn thu,
 A gheug úr a’s aille dreach.”

Gheirich ceathrair mac Fhinn gu baath
 Caoirreal agus Raoidhne geal,

Faolan agus Ferghus óg,
 'S dharduich iad an guth gun stad.
 "C' ait' am bheil é n ear na 'n iar,
 'C' ait' am bheil san domhain uile,
 Nach cailleadh eanchainn a chinn
 Mu 'm beoinneadh é leis thu, Inghean?"
 "S mor m' eagalls' Fhianna threun
 Dhé air liodart is mor dhorainn.
 Tha fear mor mileanta, geur,
 Fiuranta, mear, bras san teughbail."

"Suidh thusa seo fo scail ur sciath
 Inghean og is maiseach comhradh,
 'S cha bhoinn a fear mor thu leis
 'Ge mor do dhochas as fheobhas."

Chunn'cas a tighinn o n' chuan
 Fear 's a mhid thár gach fear ;
 Tarruing a dhuth Loingeas gu tír,
 'S e tabhairt g' ur 'n ionnsui le ainmheimn
 Mar ilbheinn elbheinn chreige,
 Mar stuadhan aimbeasach chugainn
 Mar chaorabh teinnteach o chladach
 Be sud coslas gaisgeant' a mhili.

Thainig e air steud, leumnach, bhrais,
 Marcachd gu forumach, dian ;
 'S chluinte¹ fada fu-im nau creag,
 Fregairt dha no chaiream eiti.
 Be sin fear mor gun bhi mall,
 Mar stuaidh dhireach cas an gleann ;
 'S e tiachd chugainn le bhearta uchda,
 Le chorr' chlogad 's le chuaille
 'Cloidheamh mor froiseach neimhneach
 Cruaidh, cosgara 's co dhireach ,
 'S ciath innealt or-bhui, le 'mbriste blath
 Air dorn toisgeal a mhili.

Bho thoinn tra thainig se gu tír
 Do labhair a Ridh bu mhath cliu :

"An Aithneachadh tu fein a bhean,
 'N e sud a fear a deir thu?"

"Aithneachas e Fhinn na' mbuadh,
 'S mor am pughar dhuibh gur hé ;
 Tairgidh se mise bhuaibh leis,
 'Ge mor air treise san Theinn."

 Sa dha shleagh na 'n cuilg ri ghuallainn.

“Na diansa beachd a aon fhear,”
 ’Se thubhairt Caoirreall an Airm gheur,
 “Ge d’ shiubhladh e ’n domhain uil’, Gheibht’ san Fheimm fear cho treun.”

 1 Cha b’ fhuireach air Curri na sciath
 Na aon Laoch treun ga ro ann ;
 Dh’osgail é rathad ro ’n Theimn,
 Gus an d’ rainig é fein Inghean.
 ’S air teachd da ’n oig-fhear bu mhath dreach
 Chugainn le neart, feachd is feirg,
 Gu’n fhuadaich é leis an Oigh,
 Dhain-deoin na laoch ga gleidh.
 Thionndaigh mo mhaes’ air a leirg,
 An t’ Oscar ’s é lán do throm fheirg :
 ’S thug e aire gu dúrr, dána
 Air an Og-laoch mhòr a thainig.
 Chraosach dhearg o laimh chlith,
 Thilg é na dheigh le neart :
 Buailleadair leis steud an fhir,
 Is thuit é chlisc air a leirg.
 Mar pheathair an gleann seur-Eilde
 ’N uair chluinntir tairnean le frois,
 Thilgeas creag le fuaimneach eiti,
 Síos fead ionnad tamh nan tore.
 Mar sin leum as a laimh chearr
 A Chraosich dhearg le srann ro ’n athar,
 ’S nuair chinneach le Oscar an tùrn,
 Chluinnte fada cliu nam fear.

Be sud, Oscair ! toiseach ’t euchd,
 ’S ioma laoch a rinn thu scath ;
 ’S mar biodh Mac Morn’ san gheur-chath
 Dh’ aodadh gu leaga tu Flath.
 ’N tra thuit a steud air a leirg,
 Thionndaigh é le feirg is fraoch.
 Dh’ ogair é ge mor an taom
 Combrag air ur caogad Laoch.

’N taobh a mudh dhiom fein ’s do Fhionn
 Chaidh caogad treun Laoch na dhail ;

1 AL. Ni ’n dh’ iach e lann na sciath,
 Do Laoch na Triath dha ro ann ;
 Gus an droinu e tair air an Fheimn
 ’S an d’ ranuig é fein an Inghean.

Ge b' mhor an aignidh 's neart a lann
A gheall é 'n caisgairt 'sa milleadh.

Thug e ruathar fir forthuinn
'S bu luaith é na galla mhuilinn ;
Chiti fada dears' a lann
'S chluimhte fuaimneach sran a shleadh.
B' ioma cruth a chaochail greann,
Is coirp ath-chumta le cruadhas lann ;
Iomadh lann ann is leith chos.
Leagadh naogh naonair gu luath,
San iorghuil chruaidh mu'n do seuir,
Ceangal guineach na 'n trì caol,
Air gach Laoch dhiu sin do chuir.

Clanna Morna, cruaidh an càs,
Thuair cuit diubh bás—bu truagh an sceul
Cha ro h aon dhiu thainig as,
Gun an cneas fo iomadh creuchd.
Bliadhna dhaibh gun airm an aigh
Aig Fionn a Seallmath na sleagh ;
Na luidh fo choimrin, le leoin,
Ga leithis an talla nam fleadh.
Is ge d' bhiodh ur caogad slán,
Air aillinn na 'n arm gu dias ;
Bhiodh siad fo chomhair a smachd,
Agus bheiridh se 'n oighean leis ;
Gus 'n deacha Goll an aignidh mhoir,
Chórag an fhir san chaol ród,
Is ge bé chi'adh iad a sin
B' fhiadhaich an gaoil is an doigh.

Do ghluais Goll na chula chruaidh,
An am fianuis a mhoir shluaigh,
Bu tiamhidh seire' gnuis an fhir,
Ri dol ann an tús na h iorghuil.
Bha goirm' is glaise na ghnuis :
Bha near(t) is tabhachd san laoch—
Coilianta, mordhalach, deas.

Be sin an córag ro chreuchdach,
Bha fuileachdach, feumannach,
Agus bos-luath, beumannach ;
Ard agus leumannach, gabhaidh !
Scolta sciath is briste lann—
Gu feardhàna, calma, cruaidh.
Mar choin ladair, ghuineach, dhisgir,
'S gach aon diubh cho ciocherach gu buaidh.
Mar amhainn a ruith le beinn,

Bha scrios a faladh gu teann.

Mar chaoiribh dearga bho theallach,

Torran nan laoch námhadach.

Thilg Mac Moirn an urchair gheur,

Gu cruaidh geur an uchd an fhir ;

Bointin cha d' rinn dha chré,

'S gu 'n d' rinn i dhe sceith do bhloidh.

Tharruing Iullainn a lann sholuis,

Fa'da chiti dearsadh' oinn—

Buaileadair leis sior mu n' bhrollach

Cruaidh chruinnbheart dhainginn 'Ic Morn'.

Bhuail gun bheud—ach bhris an stailuinn ;

'S cloidheamh Ghoill chaidh teann na chorp.

Dh'aom a ghluin ; is thuit gu chúl.

Sin dhimeach anam fo sproc.

Aon ghair aoibhinn rinn an Fhiann,

Nach d' rinneadh leo roimhe riamh ;

'Nuair a chunnaig iad Goll crodh 'n uachdar

Air Iullainn, meamneach, mor, uaibhreach.

'S mor am beud a chinnich linn,

'Nuair chlaoidh sinn am fear o'n chuan.

'S gur meirg gus an d' thainig an Inghean,

Bu chaoireach ris an ghreadhan chruaidh.

Chaill thu Iullainn inghean àluin,

Chaill thu neart is lùths do dhorn.

Cha 'n eirich thu tuilleadh bho 'n talamh

Chunbhail stri ri cuirri mhor.

Cia iorgolt' a bhais do shealladh !

Milleadh mais' is lagairt treoir !

B' uaimhreach a raoir Iullainn

Tha é 'nochd an tigh am bhroin !

Mar sud chaill òg Chormaic a rìdhinn,

Bu mhlise 's bu bhoich a dealbh—

Eamhair àluin, chas-fholt, bhuidh

Bhuinig mi san teinn le m' neart.

Chunnaig thusa Mhala-mhín

Deirigh soilse na reul glan ;

Ge' b' ionadh linn cruth na hoigh,

Bu bhoich an a' snuadh 's an dreach

S muladach mise na deigh !

S muladach mi 'n deigh a Mic !

A coinnichi sinn thabhas 's na speuran,

Bhar bheil Trathul treun nam feac.

D A N ;

AIR MAR MHARADH LAMH FHAD.

Chaidh Fionn, is Oscar, is Mac Morn',
 'S móran do mhaitheamh nam Fiann,
 'Lochlann le cuireadh o Iarcum,
 Gu cairdeas is gaol a choimhead—
 Gu sìth am bannamh gun cheilg,
 Cheangal gu dian 's gu deangann.

Tiaruinte dh' imeach na h armuin
 Gun chunnart gun ghabhadh gu calla,
 Choinneach slioc Lochlann air traigh riu,
 'S an tard Rìgh dh' altuich am beatha.

Seac la agus oich' gun sri,
 Rì ceol 's rì iomaird 's rì aighear ;
 Bha Fionn is Iarcum nan long
 'S a laoi ch gu fonnar ga chaithibh.

Ach 's mealta gun fhuras a saoghal
 Ge broscalach faoilteal a shealladh ;
 Chi' thu é dìreadh 'sa tearnadh ;
 'S tric é na scaileadh mar fhaileas.

Tha Ghrian sa mhadain ag soilseadh,
 'S e geiri gun nial air adhar
 Le mòr-theas togaidh é 'n driuchd ;
 Gu suilbhìrr seallaidh gach fearainn.
 Ach duthaidh gu h'alamh nan Speuran,
 Iathaidh neoil thiudh air na beannamh,
 Chitir an dealan a dearsadh,
 'S cluintir an tairnean le forum.
 Silidh an t uisge gu nuath'alt,
 Doirtidh é nuas oirn na mheallan ;
 Croicidh an tuil o' n a bheinn,
 'S a 'n earbag teachaidh ga falach.
 Mar sin caochlaidh ur dochus
 I(s) dolas leannuidh fo ghruaim ;
 'N diudh tha thu aoibhneach gun dóruinn
 'S labhruidh le solas do bheil :
 Treigidh a màraich do bharrail,
 Thig norr'uinn faireas le fuaim ;
 Gun fhios thig cho guinneach,
 'S tuislidh le turraig do cheum.

Rinn Iarum fleudhachas mhor,
 Bha Fionn 's mhaitheamh fo ghean,

San dochas gu m' chairid an Ridh,
Is sioth nach bristeadh é tuillidh.
Ach mealta bha fhocall 's a ghníomh,
Ceilg rinn é shníomh gus a míleadh.
A ghuin 's a neimhdeas dha 'n Theinn,
Cheil e fo dhuthar nam faolladh.

Bha Lamhfhad gu borb aig a chuilm,
Mac baoth na Muirirdeach ruaidh ;
'S b' ionmhuinn le Iarcum an Laoch
Ge b' aognaidh agus 's a gabhail.

Scian-Orbhui, chlocharra, cheanngheal,
Riabh ris nach d' dhealaich Mac Chu'aill ;
Groim thuair Lamhfhad le feall orr,
'S b' aill leis dha fein gu 'n gleidh.
Ach ghlachd Mac Morn' i na laimh,
Is Lamhfhad ge d' dh' iar cha 'n fhaidh.
Tus na h-iorghuil 's na dourainn ;
Gu truagh se Iarcum chaoireach.

Dh' eirich greann is fearg a laoiach ;
Ach Goll cha chaochladh am bharail :
Cha d' thugadh é seachad gun sri
Scian bhuadhar an Ridh 's i aig',

“ Com am bheil thu d'usgadh iorghuil ?
Com bheil thu 'g iarui dosguin ?
Do dh' Fhionngheal boinidh a scian,
'S do Lamhfhad a chaoidh cha tabhair.
Suidh fhirnhoir 's na mill a chuilm ;
Na bachd toilintin na cuideachd ;
Na brist suaim deangann na sioth,
Rinn bhur Righri treun an cheangal.”
Cha d' dh' eist an t umpaidh an laoch ;
Cha d' gheill é le sioth da chombairl.
Dh' arduich é ghuth fiadhaich cruaidh
'S chluinte fada fuaim a mhuineal.

“ 'S tric 'Ic Morn' a rinn thu beud.
Air maitheamh is tréun-fir Lochlann ;
Cha till thu tuilleadh air sál,
G(u) brath cha tarruing thu cloidheamh.”
Tharruing é 'r dorn le laimh chearr ;
Mac Morna ghearr é gu fuilteach ;
Thuit é fein alabh na dheigh,
Bho lár cha d' dh' eirich é tuilleadh.
Sparr Goll a scian orbhui na thaobh,
Chraobh fuil a choim as a dèadh ;

Ghlaoidh é gu cruaidh—chaill é chlith,
Cha b' fhurrinn Iarcum ga chobhair.

“ Glac' mid, ars' Iarcum bhur 'n airm,
Suas eirimh uile shliochd Lochlann.
Doirtidh fuil nam Fiantidh gu lár,
Na teichidh aon-aonan duibh dhachaidh ;
Tuitedh iad le 'r faobhair chruaidh,
'S biodh aoibhneas air mna'n 'n fhearuin,
Tullidh cha chaill oighean an gaoil,
'S mac cha bhi mathair a tuireadh.
Bidh Morbheinn 's a feidh aig Laoich,
Nach stríochd a dh' iorghuil na dh' eagall.
Fionngheal 's a ghaísgeach san uir,
Cha dhuísir tuillidh dhuin cogadh.”

Bha 'n Theinn gun clogad gun sceith,
Gun cheilg, cha d' smuainteach air cogadh ;
Gun duil ri suasaid na sri,
Gu siothoil na suidh ma 'n t shligeadh.
Ach alamh ghlachd iad an Airm ;
'S ge d' thionail na ceudan Curri,
Dhion iad an Cuideachd gu treun,
'S a 'n ceum a gluasad gu loingeas.
Rheubadh lamh Oscair an aigh
Le geur lann guineach Rígh Lochlann ;
Ach scaradh eisin ga teann,
'S bu tiomhaidh builleán nan gaisgeach.
Bha forrum a sciath san t shuasaid,
Mar fhuaimneach thartarrach chreige,
Nuair bhuailis dealan i 'm fuathas
Ga bloodhidh na caoban le ghlaoidhir.
Mar sin chluinte fuaim an sciath,
Gu mor uaibhreach anns a chath,
'S dh' arduich air gach taobh an iorghuil,
Aig 'n d' rainig an traigh na maitheamh.

Bhíodh Iarcum na Oscar 'n uair sin
Na sineadh gu luath gun anam,
Mar brist' a sleaghan na cheile.
'S gu n' dh' eighmh Mac Chu'aill air Oscar,
“ A mbic mo mbic, Oscair aigh,
Bachd do lamh is fag an t aineol ;
Tha ghaoth na deannamh gu Mor-bheinn
'S air siul bhána ard ri 'n crannaibh.
Chaill Iarcum urram dé laoich :
Bhuinig thu cliu air san deannal,
Nach d' choisinn sinn buaidh na h áraich

Rinn feum mar b' abhaist dhe 'r lannamh
 Sheas an iorghuil—scur an t shri,
 Sheol laoi ch nam Fiann bho n' chala.
 Is chluinte neimhdean nan deidh,
 Ri glaoidhaich eildol gun aighear.

Deach agus fiachadh fear mor,
 Gu fuilteach leoineadh le'r lannibh,
 'S a dha dheug eile 'sa naoidh,
 Sin thuit air an raoin gun anam.

Chaill sinne Faoilte gun ghruaim,
 Is Luath-chas dhireadh nam bealach :
 Dithis bu shuthach aig cuilm,
 'S nach tiuntadh an cùl san deannal—
 Thog Fionn leis an Coirp ar sál,
 Air Ardbheinn chaireach san talamh.
 Bha mnaoi fad bliadhna ga 'n caonidh,
 Is Righinn tuireadh an caulla.

 La dha 'n Theinn air tullach Turra,
 'G amhaire Eirinn uil' ma tiomchioll ;
 Chunn'cas cian air bharabh thonn,
 Adhaidh chatha, chaola, dhurrghant'.
 'Se b' ainm a ghaoirte dhe 'n Duaichrich,
 Mhuirirteach ghruamach gun Aighear :
 'S i teachd bho Lochlann le sloigh,
 Gu córag ri maitheamh nam Feinne.

Bha cloidheamh meirgeach air a crios,
 Le bhàrr a sliobadh air talamh ;
 Is da shleagh chuailleol gu cath,
 Traist air taobh¹ tuaithuil no nna'adh.
 Bha aodann du'ghorm air dhath an ghual,
 Aig an Deid charbadaich, chruidh,
 'S da shuil² gholloch na ceann
 Bu luaithe na nu runni gheamhrui.
 Mar chraoibh chas ine bha ceann,
 Mar chaoille chrin asaid chrithinn.
 Bha clogad cruadhach 's a sciath,
 Aig gaisgeach ri cliabh ga 'n gleidh.

Do bhrìgh a mire 's a neart,
 Gu n' tharladh lea gean gun chomain,
 'S i gluasad gu durrann air traigh,
 Le Braitichan ard ri crannamh.

Naon'ar fear curranta, mor,
 A maitheamh brollach air sloigh,
 Dh' imeach le furrann na co'ail,
 Dh' fheorach cìod a gnothach 'dh' Eirinn ?

Naon'ar sin mharbh i le fraoch,
 'S mor gharbh ghaire na garbh chraos.
 Naon'ar eile ge d' bhiodh ann,
 Cha tìgeadh beo as an lamhan.

Cia na Laoich a 's fearr na sud,
 Se labhair a Mhuirirdeach aimsge—
 Thugamh umhlachd dho gu luath.
 'Neo córag cruaidh curramna.

Dh' imeach Fearghus mo bhrathair fein
 Na chula chath' 's na neart treun,
 Bha da cheud Laoch le 'n airm nochd
 Gu fuaimneach teann air a cheum.
 Gu foilli, glic, labhair é,
 “Bhean de do gnothach a dh' Eirinn ?
 Com nu mhàragh leat bhuir laoich,
 'S gu 'n smuaintean air òc nam beac ?
 Gu 'n tugadh Mac Chu'aill sud dhuit,
 Tri fiachad cù air coilear eilleadh :
 Tri fiachad long le 'n cuid seòl—
 'S deachnar Oighean le 'n og eideadh,
 Ma thilleas tu dhachaidh gun srí.
 Gun tuilleadh milleadh do Lochlann.”

“Buaidh nam Feinn' ge d' dh' uighinn uile
 Le feidh, 's le 'm beanntaidh, 's le luingeas
 Cha ghabhinn iad raoghain a fuil,
 Na muintir le 'n mhurtadh mo mhac.
 'S tuiti fo staillinn mo lann,
 Ceann Oscair, is Fhinn, is Ghoill ;
 Mas till mi dhachaidh gun srí,
 Gun tuille milleadh do Lochlann.”

Dheirich a sin colg na muai ;
 Cha b' aoibhinn forrum an lann :
 Bhuaill i 'm beum sceithe gu cath,
 'S ghlachd i sleagh fhada na laimh.
 Leag air a claignn a clogad,
 Ga cheangal le lub'chinn teann.

Air chrith chaidh an talamh mu 'n cuairt
 Do ghluais neoil thiugha na speur,
 Threagair na creagan do scairteachd ;
 'S dh' aom o'n a chladact an tonn :
 Theich as na gleannamh an t shealg
 Gu mullach na 'm beanntui fuara.
 Dhonnail na coin air an Learg,
 Le cagall is gairsgin ro h iolach ;
 'S a Bheann iargolt bailceas fiadhaich
 'g iarrui le caise gu córag.

Labhair a sin Conan crosta,
 Mac ud Morn bha riabh ri ole ;
 Giolla nach b' airi air cliu
 Is duibhi maitheamh nam flath.

“Dona sin a Ghoill mo bhraithir,
 'N uair tharladh an t ole s' a d' dheidh !
 Is dona sin Fhinn 'ic Chu'aill,
 Cha duthach leat caull nam Feinn' !
 Ge d' thuit iad uile san iorghuil,
 Cha chluintir thusa ga 'n caoidh ;
 Cha chluintir thu caoi nam buineach
 Air 'n tric chuir du mhusaie dith !
 Ligte mise 'n coir na mnai,
 'S gu 'n eighmh i fhathast nus goirt :
 Bristidh mi cloidheamh 'sa sciath ;
 Scaradh gu fiadhaich a Coirp.
 Cha 'n aill leat an dhuaichni cumha !
 Ge neo chui dhuinn' a theirgsin ;
 Ach caille tu dos do chinn chrin,
 Rinn linn dhuit Mac Oissein iaruidh.
 Tuille cha till thu air sál ;
 Caille tu 'n diugh Armuinn Lochlann.
 Fuaim an caoill cha chluinn gu brath ;
 Cha 'n fhaic gu brath 'mnaoi na Leannan.”

Ach chaisg Conan dhe mhi cheill ;
 'S ge beig a choisinn e mhathas ;
 'S tánadh a chaise gun fheum,
 'S gheill è gun imeachd gu aileas.

Ge d' bhaca tu 'nuairse Chonain
 Bho ruith le d' mhollac gu t aileas ;
 B' iomadh de laoch is Curri,
 Thuit fo throm bhuillean gun eiri !
 'S b' iomadh ann colla gun anam,
 Is maitheamh a gearain an creucan ;

'N uair dh' eirich an Iorghuil aig Turra,
'S chluinte na mullaich a g eighmheach

.

'N uair chunnaig sinn colg na mnai,
'S i teachd cho eiti ga'r 'n ionsi,
'S nach gabhadh i cumh'nanna sìoth,
Ach còrag aognaidh is suasaid :
Ghlachd sinn gu grad Airm an Aigh,
Leis an buinigte buadh gach blàir ;
'So 'n tuiteadh gu fuileachdach air naimh
'S le 'n diant bhur daimhean bho lochd.
Do dh' eirich no laoiach a b' aille,
'S n gaisgeach a b' fhearr a bh' againn ;
Dh' eirich iad

Soiller, luath, le neart dha 'n chath.
Diarmad Mac Duimhn' 's Faolan donn,
Is Caoilte, Caoireall, is Oscar ;
Is Oissein, Fearghus, is Morlach,
Is Culduth, Tuathuil, 's Mac Leith.
Dh' eirich sin is Goll Mac Morn'
'S Glaissen nan srol le dha shleagh.
B' ard a bhratach ; geal an lann,
Mar dhealan teann gu reubadh chorp.
Triur Mac a Rìgh chiar'a dhoinn,
'Le m' ghna bhi 'n Iznis nan tore ;
Dh' eirich sin is dìon nam Buineach,
Ce anntort nam Feinne Mac Chu'aill.
Len ceudan dh' imeach bhur laoiach
Chórag an daoì sa bhealach ;
'S ge d' thionnail iad teann sa' chuairt
Bha cuid dhiu gu luath fo cosan.
Bha cuid dhiu tuiteam gu brónach
Cuid eile crònaich fo totan ;
'S bhean gu bastalich fiadhaich,
Giarui 'sa caitheamh a chath.
Mar thonn a dh' eiris gu hard,
'S bhrìstis le gáir ma chreig ;
N' uair sheidis an doinnionn gu dian,
'S a bhrucas an t shìon le treis ;
B' ionnan sin is colg na mnai,
'N uair eiti tharruing i lann,
Máradh mu 'n cuairt di bhur boich,
Ge b' aognidh 'm builleann 's an greann.
Ge b' mhor a spionnadh, cruaidh 'm beum

Ghlachd an t eug iad—threig an neart ;
 Thuit iad anns' an Araich eiti,
 Fo iomadh crenchd gun treim, gun treis !
 Thuit Glaisen 'sa bhrathair gun eiri,
 'S mor an t euc a chinnich leo ;
 Thuit air gach taobh duibh na 'n torran,
 Coirp gun anam' 's fo leoin.

Mar dha chràibh gheughais an caoil,
 Dh' eirich calma na laich dhias ;
 Ach sheid cruaidh dhoinnionn an fhasaich
 Theachd am blath is dhalbh a mias ;
 A meanglain fuaimneach a gluasaid,
 Theach an luths is bhruchd an ceann ;
 Chlaoin iad uile gu tuitim,
 'S chluinte 'n tartar sa ghleann.
 Mar sin thuit Glaisein 's Ruri graidh,
 B' uaimbreach ceum am blár nan sleagh
 Le cheile dh' eirich iad og,
 A' mais' mhor, a' neart san dreach,
 Le cheil' air feadh nam beanntui fuara,
 Thuiteadh luath les feidh is boc.
 'N uair bhuailte 'm beum ceith' gu córag,
 Cólamh ruith iad teann dha n' chath,
 San Cólamh thuit iad gun eirigh,
 'S leum le cheile dh' Innis-F'lath—

Thuit cuideac san iorghuil fo chreucan
 Calm'fhear treun a Innis-torc
 Thuit é 'n teis meadhon a chliu,
 'S ghearradh dluth a chruth 'sa chorp.

Mar uilleam toinneadh air traidh moil,
 'S e brucadh le fuaimneach eiti ;
 'Nuair bhios dealan, gaillinn is gaoth,
 Rì saothair air barramh an tshleibh ;
 'S a dh' atas a muir na stuadhan,
 Ard suas gu mullach nam beann,
 Sioladh a rist gu h alamh,
 Na copraich bhan ann an gleann,
 Mar sin le cloidheamh na dorn,
 'S a sciath gu doigheal air laogh
 Bhrist i ro bhròlach an t-shlòidh,
 Breac rathad stroiceal san mhaogh,

Ach thachair Caoilte Mac Reath,
 Airleos 'sa bhean laimh air laimh.
 Bu lionmhor am buillin 's bu bhlat,
 Gus 'n sharuich Mac Reath an Daoi

Bhas taobh an Colla ri ghuin,
 Bha cuid dhé fuil air nam fraochamh ;
 'S cuid dhi no dealt air an shleagh,
 Ga sradaidh air fear an Aonich.
 Gu n' thuit an Daoi leis an Laoch,
 'S ma thuit, cha bu thuitim mín ;
 B' fhiadhaich iorgolt an guin,
 'S b' fhuilteach a caitheamh san shri.

Mar thuitis ghlas Dharrach sa 'm bheinn
 'N uair sheidis an doinnion gu dian,
 Ga spionadh gu turr as a reamh
 'S ga tilgeadh na ciosaich san chaoill.
 Gluaisi na mullaich le fuaim,
 Na fuar ghlinn faireadh an t shrí.
 Co fhreigridh na creagan ; is teachaidh
 Na féidh le cabhag o 'n t shin.
 Mar sin thuit anns an Araich ;
 Lan chratach fo bhuillean an Ri
 A Mhuirirdeach ruadh gun aighear,
 Le tartar an Coinneamh a taoibh.
 B' aoilteol fuaimneach a h armachd,
 A clogad cruaidh cru'ach, 'sa sciath,
 Le trost thug ràn air an talamh,
 Chlisg is chrithneach a sliabh.

A bhean ge b' duachnai bha t aogus .
 Ge b' mhiostach do thurras dha 'n Theinn,
 Dh' iar Fionn air buidhean do cháradh
 San láraich nam bhagair thu leagadh—
 Ri taobh tullach Turr' tha thu sinnte,
 Gu h iosil fo dhuthar nan creag.
 Cha shoilseach grian air do chothnich,
 Cha chaon na h oighean ar d' lic,
 'S co arson a bhean gun cheill,
 Dheanadh oighean Eirinn gal ?
 Ciod 'm biodh Innisfail fo bhróin,
 Ge d' sheacadh fo n' fhod do chorp ?
 A Laoich oge, scairteol, threin,
 Leugadh fo bheum geur do ghuin !
 Thigidh taibhse ghaisgeach fhiadhaich,
 'Siar air neoil gu d' leabaidh fhuair ;
 Deanadh san Ghailleann fo thuath,
 Seanachas cruaidh ri t anam goirt.
 Ach Oighean Innisfail nan stuadh,
 Is slioc uasal Beann nam Flath ;
 Cha tig a tuireadh gu t uaigh ;

Ach silidh deoir ri caoi nam fear.
 An athair, an leannain 's an ceile
 Thuit le d' leums' aig Tullach Turr'.
 Bu tapaidh ladair do bheum,
 'S tu tarruing sleagh mhor san mhaodh
 Bu mhor cunhabhd cruaidh do chre'
 A aimsge brein bha t anam crost.
 Mar chloich do chridh 'n uisge r6t'
 Rag gu doheart, 's teann an guin
 Mar Iarrunn geur gu reubadh feoladh,
 'S geur gu dortadh fuil nam fial.

Thiolaic sinn Glaisein 's a bhrathair
 Le Calmfhear b6n a Innis toirr :
 I(s) clachin thogadh san aite
 Nach gluaiseadh gu brath nam Fir
 A's treise do shliochd nan Daormann
 Ge d' chruinnceadh umpa dhui graoidh
 Clach aig an ceann 's aig am bonn ;
 'S da chloich ri 'n tom air an chnoc.
 Cha ghluais iad norruirn a gheamhrai
 Cha chairich an doinionn an treis ;
 'S chitir iad fad air an fhaireadh
 Na seasamh air 6irde na beinne—

 Thill sinn dbachaidh gu Taura,
 Tigh mor gun drandan nam fleudh ;
 Far 'n tric ro maitheamh gu ceolar
 Le Fionn fo sholas aig cuilm.
 Ach an duidh nan thorran luathadh,
 Gun daoine gluasad san ionad—
 Cha chluintir ann torman nan cl6r,
 Fa fuaim nam bard scach fo ghean !
 Na bhraiclaich aig Earb an fhasaich,
 'S aig minnein gu tamh gun ghiorrag ;
 Far faod iad luidh agus eirigh !
 Is teachadh o bheud 's na bealaich

Thainig baird le caiream na 'r c6'aill
 Gu ceolar ag iomaird air cruiteann ;
 Suntach bha n t shlige san t 6ran
 Is sugradh oighean is maceamh.
 Bha sioth is aighear san chuairt,
 'S b' fheumnach Luinneag nan teud.

Ach labhair Mac Chuaille an aigh
 Dha 'm ghna bhi carthannach ceart :

S cuir fuaim nan oran 's nan teud,
Is gh' eist iad uile ri ghuth.

“Ge suthaich 'nochd air 'n orain,
Ge ceolar sheinnis a chruit ;
'S ge d' chinnich linn buaidh aig Turra
Far 'n bhasaich a Mhuirirdeach oile.
Tha duilideas tha'ast air m' intin,
Chaill sinn Mac Rìgh Innis Toirr !
Chaill sinn Glaisen sa bhrathair !
Le 'm b' aighearaich sabhailt sinne.
Bha 'n gaisgeach taitneach na 'r lathair,
Bu ladair maiseach an rùn :
Le loingeas ruith iad ga 'r 'n ionnsuidh,
Cha dhiultadh iad córag nam Flath.
Chaoirreal, fhir aithris na sceul,
O 's binn liun bhi g' eisteachd do ghuth ;
Na caidleadh na laoch gun oran
Na cumt' iad a Innis nam Flath.
Na cumt' iad le Taibhse gun dui
Fo mhulad air neoil gun fhois.”

Sin dh' fhosgail Caoireall am bheul
Fuaim nan teud gu n' dh' eirich leis,
Shil Fionn is Oissen an deoir,
Gruaim is brón air gnuis gach Fir.

“Cia taitneach 'Ghlaisen bha taogus,
Siobhalt bha ceanntort nam Flath,
Meanmna le spionadh na d' chré,
Bu treubhach thu meadhan a chath.
Bu dhearbh an curri ge b' chaon thu,
A chaoidh cha chaillir do chliu.
Fili earacoil, ceutach,
Feili, fostineach, ciuin !
Bu chruaidh trom bhuillean do staillinn,
Geur do lann gu deanamh lot ;
'S tric chuir thu giorrag air namhaid,
'S a gheill e dhuit cratach goirt.
Cia gabhaidh leis iomaird an laoi ch,
Bu tiabhaidh air ceann nam Flath ;
Leumadh scrios far bàr a shleagh,
'N uair ghlaodht' am brosnachadh cath !
Ach tuilleadh cha'n fhaicir a dearsadh,
Sàr chloidheamh làdair a churri,
'S e scapadh fuathas san àraich,
Cuir eighean Armuinn an Cunnard !
Cha 'n fhaicir tuilleadh do bhàrca

Le siuil arda ri crannamh !

'S i gearradh uallach na stuadhan

Na ruith le mor shluadh gu calla.

Tha Lochlannaich suthach fo aoibhneas

Caoidh cha chluinn iad fuaim do ghuth.

Cha 'n fhaic tuilleadh struth do mheanmna

Leagadh cheann a mire chath !

Guileamh uile mbnai is Oighean

Guileamh brònach, leointe, goirt !

Ghalbh bhur sciath is dideann chruaidh,

Och mo thruaigh ! bhur dian, 's bhur neart !

Biodh mulad oirbhs' ghaisceach mhora,

Nochd gur brònach tigh an laoich !

Gu bheil duthach, druit deurach,

Tuilleadh eislen 's beud na bhun !

Mu thruaigh ! 'm beum a leag gun cirigh,

Glaisen uaibhreach eutrom glioc,

Meadhon oige ghlachd am bas é,

Chaidh an t Armunn tra fo lichd.

S ann tha e iosil an caradh,

'S a bhraithir laidir ann mar ris

A bhraithir curranta beumnach,

Mor chrigheach, geur chuisseach, geanoil

Aoidheal mar Ghlaisen is cairdeal,

Armunn crodh, calm' agus fearoil ;

Uaibhreach an caise na h iorghuil,

Cia tìamhaidh a cheuman smearoil.

Ach co sud chidh mi sileadh dheòir,

'S a guth bròn 'teachd san ghaoi ;

A h aodann duthach 's a h uchd gluaisneach ;

'S a falt dualach luath air scaoil ;

S e sud Grudearg searg na h oige,

Caoidh an Oig fhear 'sa cré goirt ;

Chaill i Mili na gheur bheum,

Och ! s mor a h eislen 's a lot !

Mar dhithean dosrach na ceutuin

Dh' asas aoibhin 'n tus a' bhlais ;

Dearsadh ear treise gu sudhor,

'S boladh curr a measg nan craobh :

Ach cruinn' chith norruin na' speur

Seididh doinionn chruaidh nam beann :

Duthaidh aodan, dh' albh a bhoichead,

Bhris e brònach 's lub a cheann ;

Mar sin tha is' searg na h oige,

Mulad 's brón ga curr ri làr,

Dh' eirich cònadh fuileachdeach beumnach,
Thuit an ceil' an tias an bhlaire.

Ach thuit é le urram san 'Araich.

'S dhian an t Armunn a sciath;

Mar sholus shoilseach an Curri,

Mairidh feasta cliu an Triath.

Leisi sin scuirse dhe d' mhigheann,

Scur dhe a' chaoi nach treoirich nith;

Nis àraich faiclich Mac Rur,

Tog e suas an luths gun dith.

Eiligh é thabhaist mar Athair

Flathail ann an neurt 'sa ntreun;

'S tuitidh slìochd Lochlann gu crátach,

Fo stailinn ládair a lann geur,

Tuitidh dhiu no miltin curri,

Gu fuilteach a thorradh a bheum

A chaireach san talamh an t Armunn

Ga chuir tra fo bhrath an Eug.

S ann maille ribhse na shineadh,

Tha laoch nach strìochdadh do dh' eugall

'S a 's tric a chunn'cas san Iorghuil

Tabhairt srios' le ballchrith air Lochlann

An Calm flear thainig air Sal libh

Mac aliunn Rìgh Innse Toirr;

Nach d' dhùin riabh dorras ro'n fheumach,

'S an eigin nach treigadh a chairid.

Bu mhath le gaohair sa ghleann thu

'S daimh chabrach nam beann ga leagadh,

'N u'air chluint an fhaoghid aig eighmhach

'S Mac Stalla na deigh ga freagaird,

Tuillidh cha chluintir linn fhaoghid,

'Choin 's a shluagh cha ghluais san chaoill.

'Choin fo b(hr)òn cha siumhail aonach

'S cha ghlaodh an guth cruaidh san ghaoith.

Gealchas na sineadh sa sta(irs)each

Fo lan airteal caoi' 'n fhir mhoir.

Cha 'n fhaicir lea teachd an gaisgeach

'S truadh a' donnal dh' albh an treun!

'S muladach t' athair 's do mhathair,

'S gu brath nach faic iad thu beo!

'S h

DAN AN DEIRG.

Mac Fhàilich an 7
 Treis air cairim an fhir mhoir
 Thanig o' lear le dè bhuaidh
 Treun laoch bha lán do ghaoill—
 'S gu 'm bé 'n Dearg dàna mac Drui' bheil
 Gu teachd no Fiamh bu mhor fiadh
 Gu n' ghluais an Dearg Mac Drui 'bheil
 A near o thir no fear fionn—
 Gu crìoch thabhairt air fearamh no Feinnidh—

Briathribh gu 'n d' thug a laoch lán,
 Na chiad là dol air sàl ;
 Gu 'n d' thogadh é geill amach,
 Fthar gach Feinne ge feo'is.

Air teachd da 'n fhear, a laoch lonn,
 Seal ma n' iomraidh é comhrag,
 Do ghluais an Dearg deud-gheal aluin,
 Gu crom-leai¹ na mor shluadh

Bha 'n dithis laoch nach d' fhulaig taire
 'G amhaire a chuain chabhair bhan,
 Ryno nu Roid glan Mac Fhionn,
 Is an Caol cro' Mac Chreibhin.
 Tra choimhid an dithis ud an cuan,
 Tuitidh iad na sirim suain,
 Gus no ghabh barca 'n fhir mhoir,
 Call' air an traigh na 'n ceart choir,
 Do leum an Laoch a b' fhear tlachd
 Air tìr an crannamh a chraos' ;
 Tharruing é bharc a air no lunnan,
 Air an traigh gheal gheanchadh—

Bha fhalt fionn-bhui mar or,
 Os cionn a dha mhalaidh nach duth, agus gruaidhearg
 Bha dha dhearc shuil dhorma mar ghlainnedh,

¹ Crom-leac ? “Bein-eudain” deleted and “Crom-leai” or “Crom-leac” written over it.

Anna 'n geal ghnuis a mhìli.
 Bha dha shleadh cheamh reamhir chath,
 Ann a laimh mhic an Ard Fhlath—
 Bha sciath oir air a ghualain chlith,
 Air mac uasal an Ard ri—
 Bha lànn neimhe ri leigadh chorp,
 Air an laoch gun eagall córag—
 Neal cuimdi clochara coir,
 Air a Mhìli shochara shùil-ghorm—
 Geill ghaisgeach an doimhin toir,
 Gu n' choisin an Dearg Mac Drui' bheil
 Air mhid, air dhealbh is air neart,
 Air chòrag cheart is air cheatidh.¹

Dh' eirich Ryno nu Roid 's nior thiom
 Is an Caol ciad bhineach cro' calma,
 Trogaidir an Airm na laimh,
 Agus rithidir na chun-bhail.²

“Innis sceul dhuin fhir mhoir,
 Oirn tha coimhead a chuain,
 Da mhac Rìgh le sar uil sin'r
 Dh' fhiantidh lan uasal na Feinne”—

“'S 'n triath o 'n d thainig mi nist,
 Cha 'n iomadh ann neach dhe n' leithid.
 'S mi 'n Dearg mac Rìgh nu n' Druidhn
 'G iaruidh go ard Rìoghachd Eirin.”
 Dh' fhianachd Ryno 'n aignidh mhir,
 “Gu de Rì é 'n Dearg Mac Druibheil,
 Tagradh geill o fhearamh Fail?
 Cum faidh tus é laoch iomlan?”

“Ge borb sibhs' dhithis laoch,
 Bhri air farmaid agus fraoch,
 Gu dé bhacadh dhìomse gabhail
 A glacadh an iomghabhail?”

“Na 'n Aireamhs dhuts' mo chaithin
 A Dheirg a mhic an Ard Fhlath;
 S lionmhor an Teambra laoch lonn
 Dh' eiridh ruits' ga d' chòrag.”

“Cia chuile neach dhui sin,
 Do dh' fhianachd an Dearg mac Drui' bheil,
 'S gu fiachadh uide ri cheile,
 Mar fhiachan is mar an fhiachan.”

“Mo bhriathra ge borb do roin,”
 Do fhreigir a laol ciadmhineach, crò calma,

¹ Doubtful.

² cho'aill.

“Gu rachins’ ga d’ chlaoidh

CUID DO DHAN

— AN FHIR MHOIR —

Dh' eirich a sin colg an Laoich, Adv. 72.2.10.
 'S cha b' aoibhinn forum a lann :
 Bhuail E 'm beum sceithe gu cath
 'S ghlac E sleagh fhada na laimh.
 Bu tiamhaidh a sin gnais a mhili
 B' iargolta chlogad mu cheann :
 Air chrith chaidh an talamh mu 'n cuart,
 Is ghluais neoil thuagha nu 'm beann.
 Fhreagair nu creagan da 'n Scairteachd,
 'S dh' aom o n' chladach an tonn :
 ('S) theach as nu gleannamh an t shealg
 Gu mullach nam beantui fuar.
 Dhonnail nu coin air an Leirg,

Le gairsgin is eagall ro 'n iolach ;
 'S a Fear mór ri bailceas fhiadhaich
 'G 'iaruidh le caise nu h' iorghuil

Gu 'n labhair a sin Conan crosta
 'Mac a'd Morn' bha riabh re ole ;
 Giolla nach b' airidh air cliu,
 Diubhaidh na maitheamh 's na flath.

“ Dona sin a Ghoill mu Bh(r)aithear,
 'N uair thárlagh an t' oles' a'd dheigh !
 Is dona sin Fhionn 'ic chu'aill
 Cha duthach leat caull nu Feinn !
 Ligte mise 'n carr an Thir mhoir
 Ge colach a chrathas E shleagh,
 Tolaidh mo stailliunn a chré,
 'S reubaidh mo chloidheamh a chorp.”

Chaisgeadh Conan dhe mhi cheill
 'S Ge beig a rimm E dh' euchd na mhath,
 Stanadh a chaise gun fheum,
 'S ni 'n dh'eirich E chórag nam flath.

Ach dh'eirich na Laoich a b' aille,
 'S na gaisgeach a b' fhearr a bh' aguinn ;
 Dh'eirich iad 's meirg na laimh,
 Soiller, teann, le neart dha'n chath.
 Diarmad Mac Duimhn' is Faolan donn,

 Re saothair air barramh an t' shleibhe
 Mar sin le chloidheamh na dhorn,
 'Sa sgiath mhor gu seolt' air lagh
 Bhrist E roimh bhrollach an t sloigh,
 Breachd rathad stroiceal sa mhaogh.

Ach thachair Caoilte Mac Reath
 4 Airlìos 's fear laimh air laimh,
 Bu lionmhor am buillean 's bu theith,
 Gus n' sharuich Mac Reath an Daoidh.
 Bha taobh a cholla re ghuin,
 'S bha cuid dhe fhuil air na fraochamh
 Is cuid dhith 'na dealt air an shleagh
 Ga stradadh air feadh an aonaich.
 Gu 'n thuit an Daoidh leis an Laoch
 'S ma thuit cha bu thuitim mìn,
 B' fhiadhaich iargalt' an ghuin,
 'S b' fhuilteach an chaitheamh san strì

IARCUM NAN LONG.

A CHEUD CHUID.

'S muldach mise, 's mi n' aonar,
 Re caoidh nan laithean a dh' fhalbh !—
 Dh' fhalbh iad mar gathan na grèine,
 'Nuair 'thig fras 'nan dèigh o'n fhìreach ;
 Gu tiamhaidh duthaith an iarmailt,
 Luithidh neoil air uchd nam beann
 Gidheadh scapaidh an doilleir
 Gu soilleir soillsidh a ghrian—
 Ach dhomhsa gu brath cha 'n èirich,
 A solus a b' aoibhinn do m-anam !
 Cha 'n fhaic mi tuille na laoiach,
 'S tric a chuir aognachd air maitheamh ;

'Nuair bhuailte beum-sgeithe gu comhrag
'Sa lasaadh colc-chath bhur cuid lann.

Ge d' bu duilich mi là beinn Eudainn.

'Nuair chuir sinn treubhach an cath ;

'Smi faicinn Oseair do bhèudsa

Do chrèuchdan gèur is do loit :

'S ann is duilich mi 'nochd 's mi m-aonar,

Gun thusa ghaoil a bhi agam,

'Chum aoibhneis do m-anam mar b-aibhist

Chum àigh is aighear do t-athair.

Cha 'n fhaic mi tuilleadh mo laoch

Le chraosaich 'g iomain a chatha,

'S cha chluinn mi tuilleadh a' scairteachd,

A' scapadh trom eagal 'san laraich.

Druidt' an tigh cumhang a d' shìneadh,

Cha 'n eirich thu chaoidh 'g am fhreagairt :

'S fuaim na h-iorghuil cha chluinn thu,

Cha chluinn mo ghuthsa ga d' thuireadh !

Tha 'n earbag a nis gun churam,

Gu sìubhlach a' ruith feadh nan cnoc :

Faodaidh i luidhe is èirigh,

Cha lèum do shaighead le lot !

Tha fiadh air uilinn beinn-Eiti,¹

'S làn-shocair a chèum gun chabhag,

Gun eagal gu 'n cluinn e do ghaothar,

Cha 'n fhairich e t-fhaoghaid 'sa ghleann !

Tuirling Oseair le d' Thaibhse,

Tuirling le d' thaibhse gu t-athair,

'N aisling taisbein thu fein dha,

'Tabhairt nuaigheachd thig aoibhinn d' a anam,

Gu ruig e aithghearr an còmhlan,

Fionn Mac Cnu'aill is Diarmid,

Geal-Rino, Caoilt, agus Glaisein,

Fearghus fili nan gèur-lann—

Is Faolan Connal is Goll :

Buidhean bu treine 'sa b-èucail,

'S air 'n èireadh deagh chaithream 'nam fonn—

Gur truagh nach mise bha còlamh,

Re còmhlan maitheamh an t sluaigh !

'S an ionad 'm bheil Thaibhse gu subhach,

Neo-dhuthach le Trathul nam buadh !

Ach thig iad fathast ga m-iarruidh,

Oir cian cha 'n fheud mi bheo ;

Dh' fhalbh na bu threise 's bu threine,

¹ Eudainn.

'S treigidh mo chèumsa gun deò,
 Cha d' chum an spionnadh na 'n àilleachd,
 Na laoiach a b' àille bha aguinn,
 Tha Fionn is Tréumhor le cheile,
 Is Oscar 'nan deigh cha mhairean !

Treigidh gach nì tha 'san t-saoghal,
 Cha 'n fhuirich h-aon diubh gun chaitheamh,
 Eadar talamh, creagan, is moinnteach,
 Uisg' is ceò, agus beannaibh —
 Trèigidh is thig iad gu crìch,
 O'n daormunn is críne, gu Maitheamh
 O ard-gheal shoillse na grèine,
 Gu fann-lag bhuisgeadh an teine.
 Leis a' sin seinneamsa m-òran
 Fuidh bhron ge d' bhi mi car tamuill,
 Tha Taibhse mo Shinnsear 's mo chairdean,
 Gu h-ard 'san Talla 'm bheil aighear—
 Chluinnte fada guth a' sgèula,
 Nuair thachair trom-bheud dhuinn 's an deannal,
 Ge d' cheannuich sinn Iarcum le Armuinn,
 'S na millte barca 'gar coimhead.

Nuair a thuit a Mhuireardeach 'san àraich,
 'Sa tharladh a corp 'san talamh ;
 Chuala Rìgh Lochlann 's bu chraiteach,
 Leis caradh is diùmhail na mnatha.
 A crios thog Gobha nan Cuan leis,
 'Sa bharca 'san d' thainig iad thairis :
 'S làn folla sheall è do 'n Ard-Rìgh,
 'Rànaich “gun d' mbarbhadh a' bhean.”

IARCUM

“'S na mbarbhadh mo Mhuirdeardach ruadh,
 Cha d' tharladh do neart 'nan lamhan
 Na leagadh gun fheall i 'san àraich,
 Le sleagh, le strèip, na le claidheamh ;
 Mar do shluig i talamh-toll,
 Mar do bhàth muir sleamhain lom,
 Cha 'n aithne dhomh dhaoine 'sa chruinne,
 Na bhuidhneadh air mo Mhuime buaidh.”

GOBHA

“Cha do shluig i talamh toll,
 Cha do bhàth muir shleamhain lom,
 Is aithne dhuit daoine 'sa chruinne,
 A fhuair air do Mhuime buaidh.

Cba 'n e mharbh i ach an Fhèinn
 Buidhean leis nach gabhta Fiamh :
 'S b' fhiadhaich an coslas 'san strì,
 Nuair thuit an trèun laoich fuidh 'n lannaibh."

IARCUM

"C'aite Ghobha 'n robh 'n Fhèinn
 'Nuair thachair leò 'm beud gun ghainne ?
 'N d' fhuair sibh iad scapt' ann a' Morbheinn,
 Na cruin le cheile 'gar feitheamh ?
 'M fac thu Deo-Ghreine re crànn,
 Le slabhruichean òr-bhuidh aiste ?
 'N do thàrladh dhoibh cogadh re namhaid,
 Na 'n robh iad ruith seilge 's na beannaibh ?"

GOBHA

"'S ann bha iad a' comhrag an Eirinn ;
 Re seoid a dh' eirich 'nan aghaidh ;
 'Bagairt mor-Chormac an t-àrd-Rìgh,
 Thilgeadh le tàire o chathair.
 Ach cheannsuich an Fhiann am buirbe,
 Le eigin strìochd iad d' an cumhachd,
 'S bha Eirinn uil' ann an sìothchaimh,
 'Nuair dh' imich ar loingeis gu Calla."

IARCUM

"Do bheireams' mo bhriathra Rìgh,
 Ma mharbhadh mo Mhuirdeardeach ruadh,
 Grad sgrios gu 'n d' thig air an Fhèinn—
 Nach caisg Mac Chu'aill na shluadh,
 A' Mòr-bheinn cha 'n fhag mi aon chlach,
 An Ault, an abhain na 'm fireach,
 'S bheir mi breibannaich air Muir,
 Ga tarruing uil' as a tighean."

GOBHA.

Nach mor a spleadh a' loingeis bàn,
 Dh' aindeoin na tharladh le chumhachd,
 Gun togadh iad Mor-bheinn air Sail leo,
 'S Gaisgeich cho sar-mhath 'ga gleidheadh
 Ni 'm facas do loingeis air Muir,
 Na dheanadh do'n fheachd sin cogadh—
 Ach b' fhearr leam gu 'n dioghalta mo bhean
 Air Fionn Mac Chu'aill na Mor-bheinn"—

IARCUM.

Teanalaibh mo theaghlach còir
 Gach Ceannard Curranta le shlòigh,
 Rìgh Sorcha treubhach nan gèur-lann,
 'S Rìghrean Ifreòine 's nan Slinein
 'N sin 's-ioghmadh leam mur diùmbail an Fhèinn,
 Na rinn iad a bheud air Rìgh Lochlann :
 'S ge duilich an gnìomh 's ge dàna,
 Cha 'n fhag mi ceann Fhinn na Oscair."

'N sin dh' imich teachdairean uaith',
 Gu luath 'gan teannal, le farum.
 Ga ionnsuidh chruinnich iad mòr-shluagh ;
 B'u mhorchuisseach, uaibhreach an sealladh,
 Tri fichead is mìle long,
 Do chruinnich an Rìgh 'san fheachd throm,
 'S cha robh port na leth-phort ann,
 Nach robh lán do 'n bhàrca bheannach.

'Meadhon nan loingeas bha'm bàrca
 Do 'n aireamh a' b'airde 's bu mhotha ;
 Is bratach Rìgh Lochlann air barr rith',
 Gu h-àluinn a plapail 'san oiteig.

Air an tràigh chruinnich na h-armuinn,
 'B' àirde 'sa b' innbhich san teanal,
 'S an Rìgh d'an cuireadh d'a ionnsuidh,
 Gu cuilm is comhairl' a ghabhail.

Shuidh air leth an cuid daoine,
 Air gach taobh car treise fuireachd,
 Fhuair iad do 'n chuilm an leoir,
 Do 'n t-shluagh cha robh 'h-aon a' talach.
 Dh' eirich 'nan teis-meidhein Iarcum ;
 Chluinnt e guth an Rìgh gu h-àrd :
 'S labhair e 'm briathran baoth,
 Re fir agus laoiach nam feachd.

"Cia fada bhios sinne fuidh nàire,
 Re caoidh na millte do'r fearaibh ;
 A thuit eidear Eirinn is Morbheinn,
 A' comhrag re maitheamh na 'm Fiann ?
 Cia fada dh' fhuilgeas sinn tàirre,
 Agus masladh gun diolt' o mhacaimh,
 Le miannach sgrios thighean oirn còlamh
 'S nach fearr na sinn ann a' maise ?
 Nach feud thoirt urram gu brath oirn,
 Air chalmachd, air chumhachd na thapadh
 'M fuilg sinn so uile o'r namhaid,
 'N a 'n dean sinn an ardan a bhacail."

Tha Lamhfhad fthabhast gun dioghailt,
 Nach mor a micbliu do Lochlan ?
 Is thuit a mhathair gun tòrachd,
 Nach mor a spìod air bhur gaisgeach ?"

Mar so labhair an t-Ard-Rìgh,
 'S chluinnt e co-fhreagairt an t-sloigh.
 Mar fhuaimneach doinionn sa bheinn,
 'Nuair lùbas a choill d' a neart :
 Na mar thartar tonnaibh air traigh,
 'Nam caochlaidh do 'n nornuinn gu fois :

Mar sin bha monbhar an t-sluaigh,
 Tabhairt cliuth do 'n labhair an Rìgh ;
 'Sa g-iarruidh e dh' imeachd gun dàil.
 Gu faigh e mbiann air an daoidh.

Ach diomhain bha 'm buirbe 'sa morehuis,
 A'm boilich cha d' bhuidhinn dhoibh buaidh ;
 Bu tuirseach an tuireadh 's bu bhrònach,
 Gun Rìgh, gun 'Churraigh do 'n t-sluadh—
 A pilleadh o ionad na làraich,
 'S na chuireadh an deanal goirt ;
 'Nuair theich iad là Beinn-Eudain,
 Fuidh iomad crèuchd agus lot.

An deigh dhoibh fleaghachas mòr,
 Le beachd gu leòir as an gaisgeadh,
 Thog iad siùil bhreac o's an cinn,
 Re 'n croinn ga 'n ceangal gu daingean,
 'N sin dh' imich o 'n fhearann le ceòl
 Gu mòralach ghluais o 'n chala ;
 Bha coslas deagh thuruis 's na neòil,
 'S bu stolda caitheadh na marra.
 'Siubhal gu suthach nan tonn,
 Cha d' choinnich doinionn a' seideadh
 A bhrosnuich eislein na eagal.
 Gus 'n d' rainig iad Calla nam mor-shruth
 Cha d' thruiseadh aon seòl o 'n chrann ;
 Gach oidhche' agus la cho aoibhinn,
 B' èutrom a bhuidhean neo-fhann.
 Bha Fionn is Oisein an uair sin
 Is Oscar buadhach mo Mhacsa ;
 Le seachdnar eile do thrèun-laoich
 Air Uillinn Beinn-Eudain gam faicinn
 Car treise shuidh sinn gu samhach,
 'G-èisdeachd an gadruisg 'san tartair,
 A' teachd gu cladach o 'm barcaibh
 'N an sgaothan làidir is barpoil.

Bu choslach an tartar 'san gàdruisg,
 'Nuair bhruchd iad gu dàn air a cladaich,
 Re garrthaich eunlaith an coill,
 Is clann a' creachadh an neudain—
 Na re garrthaich sheillein re grèin,
 'S a chetein an deireadh an earraich,
 'Nuair ghluaiseas an sgaothan gu fèir,
 Na leum a dh' ionnsuidh na meala.
 Mar so 'nan iomada trèud,
 'S nan buidhnichean eutrom beachdaill,
 Sgap iad uil' air an tràigh,
 Gun riaghailt, gun eagal, gun fhaicill
 Cha b' fhada shuidh sinn gu h-àrd,
 'Nuair chunnaic sinn Armuinn g' ar coimhead,
 'S a dh' imich da chaogad d' an àireamh
 A dh' fheoraich a faigheadh iad nuaigheachd.
 Aig bonn na beinne gu stòlda,
 Dh' fhuirich an còmhlan neo-mheata—
 'S gun d' thainig chugain Oglach gabhoil,
 'S e stàrachd le iomada bailceas.

MORCHEANN.

“An d' thusa so Fhinn na Mòr-bheann?
 Labhair gu gruamach a Curraigh,
 Innis an d' thu Rìgh na Fèinne,
 Na cia 'n t-ait am bheil e fuireach?”

FIONN.

Gu'r mise so Fionn na Mòr-bheinn,
 Ge b' e thu do shluadh an Tithean;
 'S ma 's ann ruinne tha bhur n-iorghull
 Cha 'n 'eil sinn ann ach naothnar nar fianuis,
 Ach innis dhuinn fàth do thuruis,
 'Churraigh cia 'n t-ait' as na dh' imich,
 Na millte bàrc uel air ciadach?
 An cairdeas na 'n cogadh is miann leibh?

MORCHEAN.

'S meanbh bhur naothnarsa ro' 'n aodainn
 'S a liughad ann caogad trèun-fhear;
 'Thainig a mach le Rìgh Lochlainn,
 'Chosnadh do Rìoghachd 'na h-èiric.—
 'S mise Morcheann teachdair Iarcum
 'Chuir e 'n so le feachd a d' chòmhail;
 'Dh' fhaighneachd an gabhadh tu sìth
 Na 'm b' ionumhuin leat mìrùn is coistri

'Si chomhairl' a chuir e do d' ionnsuidh,
 A Mhuireardeach fhaotain dha ;
 Gun lot, gun uthar, gun diùmhail,
 Gun bhèud, gun bhuille 'sa bhlàr.
 Neo Mòr bheinn uile, sa daoine,
 Gach raon, is mullach, is gleann
 Gach beathach 'tha 'g-ith innt' air aonach,
 'S triòchdadh do 'n Rìgh air aon bhall.
 Umhlachd do chumbachd na milidh ;
 Grad-sgrìos le faobhar laun gèur,
 Gabh-sa do roghaim Mhic Chu'aill,
 Tha h-aon do'n dithis ad' dhèigh."

FIONN.

"'S 'ìoghnadh leam fhir mhòir do chainnt,
 Cha 'n eòl dhuit ar neart 's ar treis :
 Cha 'n eòl dhuit ar spionnadh neo-fhann
 'S iomadh ceann a leagadh leis.
 Air laimh t-athar è 's do shean-athair,
 'S air dà shùil do leannan gràidh,
 Cha d' thainig riamh suinn g' ar sireadh,
 Air an cumadh-mid fada dail.—
 Ach gleidhidh is cumaidh sinn cleachdadh
 Nach do chaill dhuinn fathast buannachd,
 'S innis do 'n Rìgh ma 's tu theachdair,
 Gu faigh è cumha na combrag uainne.
 Ma 's fearr leis combrag na cumha,
 Cha chum an Fheinn air fada tàmh ;
 Gu gairid tarruingidh iad claidheamh,
 'S an drasda 's è bheatha gu cuilm.—
 Ach cumha ma ghabbas gun diultadh,
 Gu 'n toir Mac Chu'aill sud dha,
 Tri fichead clogad, is caogad luireach,
 Dà chuig bratach mine daithte,
 Cuig cèud saltair chaola chatha,
 Is leth-chèud cloidheamh chinn airgid—
 Na caogad Saoidh na 'm b' aille leat,
 Le 'n caogad srian ghasd' agus diolaid."

MORCHEANN.

Cha diùbh le Rìgh Lochlann do chuilm,
 'S do chumha gun diùltadh cha ghabh ;
 Ach diùghlaidh Mòrbheinn 's an Fhèinn,
 Ma 's a fheudar d' ar Laoich cath."
 'N sin phill na teachdairean gu siubhlach,
 'S gu 'n d' rinn iad d' an cùl an aghaidh ;

Is dh' innis do 'r Rìgh o Mhac-Chu'aill,
 “Nach geilleadh d' a Chumhachd an Fheinn.”

Chuir sinne 'mach teachdairean dileas,
 Nach diobradh caonag 'sa chabhaig,
 'S chualas feadh Mòrbheinn “gu'n d' thainig,
 Na millte barca gu calla.—
 Gu facas mòr-chuideachd air traigh ann,
 Is dearsadh laidir d' an lannaibh :—
 A' muidheadh maraon 'sa g-èigheach,
 Gu'n d' thugadh iad leir-sgrios 's an fhearann.”

Chruinnich an Fhianm mu 'n ceann-feadhna,
 Dh' eirich iad uil' an co-thional—
 Gu feardhanta stolda gu cladach ;
 'S thogadh mar b' abhaist gu blàr leo,
 Seachd brataichean aghmhor nan cathan.

Chuis sinn amach an Liadh-laoineach ;
 Bratach Dhiarmid ghasd' 'ic Duimhne ;
 'S 'nuair a ruith an Fhianm gu blàr amach
 Bhiodh toiseach aig bratach 'ic Duimhne :
 Ard mar nèulaibh bhalla bhreac,
 Air mullach na giùsaich uaine :
 Ioma-dhathach mar bhogh' nan spèir,
 Is frasa ceutain air chluaineamh.—
 'S mairg a choinnicheadh i mar namhaid,
 'Nuair sgaoilte re bàr an Liadh-laoineach.
 Diarmid¹ Ceannard nan Armunn,
 Bu chinnteach dha casgairt na teugmhail—

Teann 'na deigh bha bhratach Chaollte,
 Liath, luideagach, aobhach, annrach,
 Leis an sgoilte cinn is muineil ;
 'S leis an dòirte fuil gu aobrainn :
 Bratach Chaoilte na mòr-shluadh,
 'S è b' ainm di 'n Tuinn-chasach ruadh,
 A choisin le² cruadal di urram.

Thogadh an sin an Sguab-ghabhaidh !
 Bratach Oseair bhuadhaich laidir—
 'S nuair a rachta 'n car nan cliar,
 B' fhiadhuich³ farrum Sguab-ghabhaidh !
 Agam fein a bha i riamh
 Gus an d-èirich gu euchd mo Mhac—

 Bu chinnteach Sleagh an caismeachd iorghuil

² Al. Thug Cluiteach air Lochlannich buaidh—

³ Al. 'S b' fheumail duinne la Beinn-Eudain
 Gu 'n robh Oscar treun an neart—

'S bu chaillte¹ do dh' Iarcum nan long,
 Gun robh trom an neart.
 Meadhon nan Cathan bha Fionn,
 Ceannard nam Feadhna 'sna Flath—
 'S Gile-Greine chlochrach ard
 Gu diomghalta bàn re cranu—
 Bha seachd slabhruidhean buidhe aist' sìos,
 Do 'n òr bhuidt bu ghlainne sniomh ;
 'S laoch air gach slabhruidh dhiubh sin,
 G' an cumail ris na sleathan.
 O ! b' aoibhinn an sealladh, 's bu trèun ;
 Riamh air Gil ghrein cha d' luidh smal !
 'S mar chliabhan a toinneadh gu tràigh,
 Bhiodh i 'sa chliar chath gu h-iomain.

Chuir sinn a mach an d' Fhulang-dorrain
 Bhratach Fhearghuis mhoir mo bhrathar
 Nach d' thiunntaidh riamh cùl re caraid,
 'Sa chumadh gèur-aghaidh re namhaid—
 B' èiti 's bu tiamhaidh a sealladh,
 Mar pheathair a' teach romh thairnein,
 Cuiridh e crith air na creagan
 'S air Fèidh biaidh eagal 's an fhàsach.

Thogadh 'suas mo bhratach fèin ;
 Mar dhearsadh Greine bha solus ;
 'Nuair theicheas neoil dhutha fàr aodain,
 'S nach cruinnich tuillidh air doilleir.
 'Nuair thug mi do dh' Oscar sgob-ghabhuidh
 Bharig an Fheinn an Laun sholuis
 Bu daingean a sheasamh i làrach,
 Bu chràiteach le namhaid a coinneamh.

Air deireadh bha Bhrichill Bhraoichill,
 Bratach Ghoill mhoir 'ie Morn',
 Nach pilleadh o'n chomhrag air h-ais
 Gu'n teicheadh an talamh trom glas
 Gur h-e b' aoibhneas do 'n t-sròl bhuidhe,
 Toiseach teachd is deireadh falbh ;
 A cuideachd a chumail re buillean,
 'S cuirp nan daoidh a seath re làr.
 Bu choslach a catheamh 'san àraich,
 Re seobhag an ealta èun ;
 Na re iomghaoth laidir nan spèur,
 A mhisgeas 'sa leagas an darraeh,

Mar so dh' imich ar cathan,
 Mar lasair a dh' ionnsuidh na làraich ;

¹ Cha b' fhiù iarruidh ach a Sguab-ghabhaidh

'S ar Sròil a' dearsadh gu soilleir,
 Ag iomain na doilleir air falbh—
 Gach sranu a chluinnte 's an athar,
 O chrathadh nan Siòl gabhaidh—
 Mhosgladh e 'n fhuil 'san anam,
 Le sparradh a chum na h-àraich.

Vide Smith { Dh' èirich an fhuil cho bras,
 An cuislibh nan gaisgeach mòra,
 Re bèum sleibhe o 'n aonach,
 'S gach aon diubh ag èighach còmhraig
 Chunn'cas feachd Lochlann am fradharc;
 Dh' èirich cath bhagraidh nam Fiann:
 Bha fearg a' sèideadh 'nan sùilean,
 Shuidh damhair air mullach an sgiath—
 Ghluais am buirbe, ghluais an deithir,
 Shoillsich lasair theith na h-àraich,
 'S chruinnich mu dheas air an Rìgh,
 Ceannardan fèilidh nan cathan.

'N sin dh' fhaoighneachd Mac Chu'aill gu fòil
 Do mhaithreamh Laoich na Mòr-bheinn.
 Co dh' fheachas Iarcum 'sa ghreis,
 Mu 'n tabhair è leis sinn air sail."

'S math a fhreagair an sin Goll,
 Laoch nach do chleach a bhi nall;
 " Mis' agus Iarcum 'sa ghreis, Leigibh eadarunn 'sa chleas dhluth."

FIONNGHAEL.

'S tric a rinneadh leat nì math,
 A mhic Moirna bu mhath gnè;
 A lamh chalma, 'sa shuil chruaidh,
 'S ioma fear tha fuar fuidh d' bheum.
 Oscar agus Diarmid dounn
 Is Caoilte agus Fearghus mo mhac,
 Is Oissein le d' Ghara caomh fèin—
 'S didinn iad ro threun is neart,
 Togaidh iad cudthrom an t slòigh,
 Ga d' dhìon gu'm b' usa dhuit cath—
 Gu 'n coinnicheadh tu Iarcum nan lòn
 Gu buidhneadh air an t-sounn sin rath—
 Fuireaidh mise faisg aig làimh,
 'Faicin co 'n cearn am bi feum;
 'S ma chitear aon laoch an tèinn,
 Le meanna gheibh e 'thoirt as—
 'S tuitidh sinn uile 'san àraich,
 'Neo gheibh air an àireamh iad buaidh."

OSCAR.

Ach fhreagair an sin Oscar àigh,
 'Ri b' àluinn leam fein a chruth,
 Fagaibh¹ agams an diugh Iarcum,
 Gu faireadh è 'san strì neart,
 O'm theich e oidhche nam feall,

DAN—EAS RUAGH

Lá do Fhionn air bheagan sluaigh,

 Cia aoibhinn, ceutach a dealbh !
 Bha fallt donn na iomadh dual Luaithreach air a muineal caoin ;
 'S a h uchd geal mar eirí' thonn,
 Le fliuch osnaich throm a cleibh.
 Do sheas sinn uil' air an raoin,
 Bha ionadh air na bh' ann do Laoich ;

TRANSLATION OF THE ABOVE.

Fingal with a few of his people stood near the Banks of Eas rua, where its red foaming stream, rushing o'er a lofty rock, sends forth at times those slow and solemn sounds that announce (sic) the coming storm. They saw a boat, like a mist, sailing on the distant main: a woman was all it carried. Swift it cut the yielding waves. Its rapid course on the face of Ocean was like that of the bounding steed; nor did aught retard its way, till landing at the stream of Eas-rua it disclosed its lovely freight.

A fair one of transcendant beauty rose from it to our wondering view. The lustre of her face was bright as the beams of the sun: how pleasant, how delightful her form. Her dark brown hair, in many flowing locks, hung loosely on her tender; and her white bosom, wet with tears, heaved with the sighs of grief, like the swelling rise of waves, when they break in foaming spray.

We all admired the fair, and lost in sweet amaze stood in the field above. We return her mild salute; we welcome the beauteous stranger.—"Flower of beauty!" calm I said, "bright in the den of thy grief, if blue blades of steel can shield thee from harm, our hearts are thine and unite; they accord with the strength of our arms. Tell us lovely beam of youth! from what region art thou come? Whence arises thy sorrow? and whence is thy load of concern?"

"If thou art Fingal, king of heroes," with deep sighs the maid replaid, "it is to claim thy protection I come. For warm as the sun is thy face to cheer the disconsolate mind. Thy shield is the strength of the helpless; they fly to its shelter for succour. To the king of the Isle of rocks the youth of Fainesollis was bright: It was a sunbeam that warmed his heart with affection for the daughter of his love. Many chiefs admired my beauty; many wooed me for their bride: And often did Cromla with its woods reply to the sighs of mighty heroes pining in my love. But now dark sorrow overcasts my face; it wastes my feeble frame. And what, O Fingal! can I do, if thou dost not save me from further wounds. I am closely followed over the rolling waves: The chief who pursues me with wrath is implacable and dreadful. The King of Tora of red shields is the heroes' father; and his name is Borbar the fierce."

"No friend of thine, my fair, more cheerfully obeys thy will; with my soul I embrace thy cause; I promise the protection you claim. In defiance of Borbar the fierce, safe beneath the shadow of my shield thou canst securely rest. The Island of rocks is at hand, where dwell the children of the waves: But the tempest of our spears will afford thee sufficient shelter. I pitied the weeping fair; and my trickling tears descended with hers as she spoke."

Like a foaming wave afar we saw the ship of Borbar the fierce. High were his masts; while his sails swifter than the mountain stream his course. On either side the billows spread in foam, as the ship with speed advances. Pursuing in the tract the maiden took, it arrived in the same landing place. The young heroine leaps on shore; gloomy anger frowns upon his brow. Dark on his head a dreadful helmet nods: high reared above his crest appear the points of his spears. He held on his side a red spotted shield, strong and firm in the combat. A ponderous massy sword hung fastened to the belt of the mighty. In size, deeds of valour, and wrath, none could exceed the hero. "Come thou rider of the stormy waves," I said accosting him with cheerful voice, "come to partake of Fingal's feast; it abounds in plenty; it often gladdens the stranger."

Like a green and tender twig shaken by the blast of the desert, the maid stood trembling by my side. An arrow whizzing came, she fell. "Unerring, hero, is thy aim, but cruel and rash thy deed." The combat of spears begins. The man from Ocean was laid low on the field; he was slain by my hand, and hard to win was the victory.

Close by the stream below the fall of Eas-rua, we buried the chief who was mighty. And there we reared the tomb of the maid whose side was whiter than snow.

The above Poem I took down from the recitation of Mrs Nicolson, Scorribreac, in the Parish of Portree in Sky, who says, that she gave it to Mr Macpherson, the translator of Ossian, when he travelled through Sky. The underwritten has met with many Editions of this Episode, but the above is the completest he procured.

* Dr Cameron was lucky enough to fall upon two copies of Peter Macfarlane's lost Collection, the one in the MacLagan MSS. (marked 9), which is here reproduced, and the other in a number of MSS. which must have once belonged to Rev. J. Stewart of Luss, the famous translator of the Scriptures into Gaelic. These we term the Stewart MSS.

† This description is from the Stewart MSS.; as often happens, there is no such information as to source in the MacLagan MSS.

'N Cath is tinn' a thug an Fhiann.

 Cha raibh sailm air ùidh, ach ceol.
 Chaidh è thigh Oissain Mhic Fhinn,
 O sann leis bu bhinn a ghloir.

Failt ort fein, a shean-fhir shuairc,
 Air chuairt thugad thainig mi,
 A laoch mhòir mhilidh nach meat
 Cha d'eur thu riamh neach mu d'ni.

Sgeul a b'ait leom fhaotainn uait
 Odha Chuthaill is cruaidh colg,
 An Cath is tinn' a thug an Fhiann
 O na ghineadh tu riamh 'n an lorg.

Dh'innsin sin duitse gun dàil,
 Dheagh Mhic Ailpein nan salm binn,
 An Cath is tinn' a thug na fir
 O'n a ghin iad Fiannaibh Fhinn.

Dearmad air fleadh³ a rinn Fionn
 Ann Albuinn ri h àm nan laoch,
 Chuir pairt do'n Fheinn fui' struim dearg,
 Dh'èirich orra fearg is fraoch.

Tre Chaoilte Mhic Rannachair mhoir,
 'S Mac o Dòrain a bhi leinn,
 Mar sud is Aillidh maith ùr
 Thug breiteachd bliadhna ri Mùr Fhinn.

Ghluais an trithear a dh' Fhiannaibh Fhinn
 Gu Rìgh Lochlann nan srian sliom,
 Seirbheis blia'na thug iad dha
 'N trithear a bha 'n ùidh ri h uail.

Ghabh Bann-rìgh Lochlann nan sgiath donn
 Trom ghaol trom, 's cha b'ann gu deas,
 Air Aillidh greadhnach nan arm geur
 Gus an d'èirich a cheilg leis.

¹ [This verse is deleted in the MS. It is intact in the Stewart MS.]
² "Lùth-chuirt."
³ "cuirm, fèisd."

Ghluais i a leabuidh an Rìgh
 An gnìomh mun do dhoirteadh an fhuil,
 Gu h Albuinn fhathail nam Fiann
 Thugadar an triath th' air muir.

Bha Rìgh air Lochlann san uair
 Leis am buinnte buaidh is blàr :
 Earragan Mac Ainnir nan lonng,
 A Rìgh bu mhaith a làmh 's a lann.

Chruinnich Rìgh Lochlann mor shluagh
 Cabhlach cruaidh a dh' fhàs gu treas :
 Dh' èirich sud o'n àirde tuath
 Naoi Rìghrin, 's an sluagh leis.

Sheol iad air an abhais àrd
 O chòrs' Eirinn bu gharg gàir,
 Gu h Albuinn fhathail nam Fiann
 Thogadar an triath th' air muir.

Teachdoireachd thainig thugainn gu luath,
 Sgeula cruaidh chuir ruinn gu geur,
 Còmhrag nam fear Innse-fàil
 Fhaotainn air an tràigh mu dheas.

Thairig Fionn doibh cumha mhòr
 Làn an tunna do 'n dearg or :
 Do Rìgh Lochlann nan arm sean,
 Araon, agus a bhean fein.

Lochlannaich a bhuithinn bhorb
 Le meud an stoirm as an tèathachd,
 Cha ghabh iad cumha fù 'n ghrein
 Gun an Fheinn a bhi 'n an dèigh.

Comhairl' eil' a chinn aig Fionn,
 S aig naithibh na Feinne gu leir ;
 Nighean Rìgh na 'n gabht' è uadh,
 Gun d' fhuair è sud, 's a bhean fein.

Chuir sinne 'ga fhios nighean Rìgh
 Bu ghuirme sùil, 's bu ghrinne meur :
 Chuir sinne ga coimhead ceud each
 A b' fhearr ris an deachaidh srian,
 Le 'n ceud marcaich air a' muin
 Fui' chulaibh shròil le 'n laiste gnìomh.

Theirinn i 'n sud air an raon,
'S dh' fhàg i 'na dèigh na h eich,
Thug i ceum uighe d' an coir
'S da choinnleir òir 'na làimh dheis ;
Da choinneil air ghuaillnibh a guin
'S dealbh a chrùn o gheug nam port.

Do naigheachds' o phobull Fhinn
Innis dhuinn a bhri', 's a bheachd ?
Mo naigheachds' o phobull Fhinn
Gum faigheadh tu bhri' gu ceart.

Mu rinn do bhean ort beairt chli,
'S gun d' iomair i 'n gu cearr :
Thoir cairdeas is comunn do dh' Fhionn
'S gum faigheadh tu mi 'na geall.

Gheibhe tu sud is ciad seud,
Is ciad leug o 'n uirbhidh shaor :
Gheibhe tu ceud seothag suairc'
Air am bitheadh buaidh nan eun.

Gheibhe tu sud is ciad mias
Do chùrsa Rìgh bheath' an àidh,
'S ge b' è ghleidheadh iad r' a bheo
Chumadh iad duin' òg a ghnà.

Gheibhe tu sud is ciad greidh,
Is làn Glinne do chrodh bànn ;
'Sa mhacain mar gabh thu sin
Thoir leat do bhean, 's thoir dhuinne sith.

'Ta cha d' thugainn sith do neach
Do dh' Aillidh, no ghin d' ar Feinn,
Ach Fionn fein a thigh'n fui' m bhreith
Is a chreach a thoirt gu tràigh.

'Ta cha d' thug thu leat do neart
Na bheireadh a chreach gu tràigh :
Falbhai mis' is beannachd leat,
O 'n chaidh taitheachd bun os cionn.

Cha 'n fhalbh thus' a chiabh na 'n cleachd,
A Ribhinn fharust a bheoil bhinn
Gheibhe tu na seuda saor,
'S cheanglainn thu ri m' thaobh deas.

Cha 'n fhan mis' a cheann na 'n cliar,
 O nach traogh mi t fhiamh, is t fhearg ;
 'S o nach faighinn saor fui' m bhreith
 Ceann na deise bu ghann ciall.

Cha 'n fhàg mi agaibh do theach
 Do bheinn, no dh' amhuinn, no thulaich ;
 Ach Albuinn a thogail leom
 Na cròchcan glas ann am loinngas.

Thionndaidh i ris a cùl,
 'S mharcaich i do 'n chùirt gu dian :
 Bu lion'ar sròl 'ga thogail suas,
 'S ann òrdugh gu luath chaidh an Fhiann.

Fhreagair Aillidh 'n còmhrag cruaidh,
 Do 'n t sluagh a thainig ann gèill.
 Ceann Mhic Nì, Mhic Naomh, Mhic Near,
 Leagadh leis air an treas beum.

Deich Ceannarda-fichead d' ar Feinn
 'S ceann Aillidh fein air an tùs,
 Thuit iad air laimh Earragainn mhoir
 Man deachaidh na slòigh ann dlùths'.

'N sin chaidh Fionn fein air thùs,
 Deagh Mhac Chuthaill a ghnuis ghil ;
 'S deich Ceannard-fichead air a laimh dheis,
 Do shiol Chuthaill na 'n cleas lùth.

Labhair Fionn flath na 'n cuach,
 Ri maithibh uaislibh Innse-fàil ;
 Co dh' iongas Earragainn sa ghreis
 Man leigeamaid leis ar tàir ?

'S ann bha fhreagradh sud aig Goll
 An sonn a bha deachcuir a chlaoi.
 D' iongaidh mi Earragainn sa ghreis,
 'S bheir mi d' fheuchainn d' a chleas lùithe.

Mac an Luthaich, 's Diarmad donn,
 An t Oscar mòr, is Mac an Lèig,
 Ga d' dhion o shrith-bhuillean an laoich,
 Cum dithis air gach taobh do d' sgèith.

Dolphinne Mac Mhalcain o'n Ghrèig
 Muime Earragainn,¹ 's cha bi bhreug,
 'N àm sgathadh a chinn d' a dhaltadh
 A Rì' mhoir bu do amhluidh iomairt :
 'S mar bhithe mi 's Fionn nam fleadh
 Gum buineadh è 'n ceann do'n chearthar.

Seachd fichead 's mìle sonn
 Thuit le Garadh, 's thuit le Goll :
 Urdal le Oscar an àidh,
 'S le Conall 's le Coireall cneas bhàn.

'S air a bhaiste thainig orm
 A chleirich a chanas na sailn,
 Thuit leam fein, 's le Fionn nam fleadh
 A cheart choi'-lion ceann ris a chearthar.

'S mar duine chaidh as am beul airm,
 No chaidh mar cheo do'n ghrein ;
 Do dh' àrm Rìgh Lochlann gu fìor
 Cha 'n fhac' iad riamh an tìr fein.

Tuille mor is leith nam Fiann,
 Thuit iad air an t sliabh mu dheas ;
 'S ge d' thainig cuid dhinne as
 Cha d' rinn sinn an lath' ud ar leas.

Latha blàr na tràghad.

A Chleirich a chanas na Sailm
 Air leom fhein gur baòth do chiall,
 Nach èiste tamull sgeul
 Air an Fhein, nach cual thu riamh.

Air mo chuthainn a Mhic Fhinn
 Ga binn leat bhi tighinn air t Fhein ;
 Gu nan salm air feadh mo bheoil,
 Gur è sud is ceol domh fhein.

'N ann a coimeas do chuid salm
 Rì Fiann Eirionn² nan arm nochdt :
 A Chleirich àidh gur h ainid leom
 Na sgarthainn an ceann o d' chorp.

¹ Ge d' a tha ùghdar na h eachdruì so a 'g radh gum b' è Dolphinne Muime Earragainn, tha 'n leughair r' a thuigsinn gur è Oide bha ann.

Gabham fui' d' chomraich fhir mhoir,
Is guth do bheoil is toigh leom fein ;
Togamaid suas altoir Fhinn,
'S bu bhinn bhi tighinn air an Fheinn.

Latha dhuinn a fiathach learg
Cha do tharla sealg 'n ar car,
Chunnaic sinn iomad bàre
A' tighinn chum na tràigh an ear.

Leig sinn ar gasruidh tre 'n choill,
'S thogadar leinn ar n airm àidh,
A dha shleadh air gualain gach fir mhoir,
'S dh' imich sinn leo do 'n tràigh.

Chuir Fionn comhairle r' a Fheinn,
Co rachadh a ghabhail sgeula do 'n t sloigh ?
'S na bheireadh è leis gun chleith
Gum faigheadh è breith is buaidh.

'N sin thuirt Conan a-ris,
Co a Rìgh a b' àill leat a dhol ann ?
Ach Fearthus fìor ghlic do mhac,
O 'n 's è chleachd bhi dol 'n an ceann.

Mallachd dhuits' a Chonain mhaoil,
'S è labhair Fearthas is caoin cruth ;
Rachains' a dh' fhiosracha sgeul
Do 'n Fheinn, 's cha b' ann air do ghuth.

Ghluais Fearthas gu h armach òg
An ròd ann coinnimh nam fear,
'S dh' fhiosraich è ann comhradh fòill,
Cìod na slòigh ud thain' air lear ?

Manus fuileach, corrach fial,
Mac Rìgh Bheathann nan sgiath dearg,
'S è Ard-Rìgh Lochlann ceann n' an cliar,
Giulladh bu mhòr fiach is fearg.

Cìod a ghluais a bhuithinn bhorb
O chriochaibh Lochlann n' an calg sean ?
No 'n ann a chuideacha le 'r Fiann
A thainig bhur triath air lear ?

Air do laimhse Fheartlais àillidh,
As an Fheinn ga mor do mhuir ;
Ga ghabh sinn cumba gun Bhren,
'S gun a Bhean a thoirt o Fhionn.

As do laimh ga mòr do dhoigh,
 'S as do shlòigh ga mòr do mhùirn ;
 Mheud 's a thainig sibh air lear,
 Ni 'n d' thuga' sibh Bran th' air tuinn.

Gun d' thoir an Fhiann comhrag cruaidh
 Do d' shluagh m' am faighe' tu Bran :
 'S gun d' thoir Fionn comhrag trein
 Dhuit fein m' am faighe' tu Bhean.

Ghluais Fearthas mo bhràthair fein,
 'S b' amhluidh mar dheò-ghrein a chruth ;
 'S dh' innseadh è sgeula gu fòill,
 Ge b' oscarra mòr a ghuth.

Tha Rìgh Lochlann air an tràigh,
 Cìod am fà' dhuinn bhi 'ga chleth :
 Cha ghabh è gun chomhrag dlù,
 No do Bhean, 's do chù f' a bhreith.

Cha d' thugainnse mo Bhean
 Do dh' aon neach a sheall sa ghrein ;
 'S ni mò bheir mi Bran gu brath,
 Gus an d' theid am bàs 'na bheul.

Chuir Fionn comhairle ri Goll
 Cìod am fonn dhuinn bhi 'n ar tosd ?
 Nach d' thugamaid cath duirghiollach garbh
 Do Rìgh Lochlann nan arm nochdt' ?

Seachd Altramain an Locha-làin
 'S è labhair Goll gun atha ceilg,
 Ga mor an doigh as an sluagh,
 Buinidh mise buaidh a' m' fheirg.

Iarla mugha mòr nan lonng
 Ar-sa Diarmad donn n' an cath,
 Coisgidh mi ga mòr a thèachd,
 No bithidh mi fhein air a shon.

Thuirt an t Oscar bu mhòr prìs,
 Coisgear leom Rìgh Innse-torc
 Ceann a dha chomhairlich-dheug
 Leig fa m' chomhair fein sa chath.

'S ann an sin a thuirt mi fein,
 Ged d' tha mi mar tha mi nochd ;
 Rìgh Tearmunn n' an comhrag dlù,
 Gun sgarainn an ceann o chorp.

'Gheibh sibh beannachd, 's buidhnibh buaidh
 Arsa Mac Chuthaill nan ruag àidh,
 Manus Mac Athair an t-sloigh
 D' iongaidh mis' è, ga mor fhearg.

'N oidheche sin duinne gun bhròn,
 Cha bu dual duinn bhì gun cheol,
 Ol is àileachd, fion is cèir,
 Bha iad againn fhein ni 's leoir.

Aig ceann an naothadh lò
 No slòigh a' togail ri gurt ;
 Bha meirg Rìgh Lochlann an àidh
 'G a thogail o thràigh 'n ar n uchd.

Thog sinn deo-ghreine ri crann,
 Bratach Fheinn, 's bu gharbh a greus ;
 I lom-a-lan do chlochaibh òir,
 'S aig an Fheinn bu mhòr a meas.

'S iomad clogaid, 's iomad sgiath,
 'S ioma' lùireach, is triath gharbh,
 'S ioma' Mac Toisich, is Rìgh,
 'S cha raibh aon fhear dhinn gun arm ;

'S ioma' cloidheamh dorn-chair òir,
 Is sròl ga thogail ri crann ;
 'S ge b' fhuileachdach Fionn nam fleadh,
 Bu lionmhor sleadh bh' air a cheann.

Rìgh Feinne a chomraig chruidh
 Leis an èireadh buaidh gach blàr.
 Chrom sinn ar ceann ann sa chath
 'S gun d' rinn flath mar a gheall.

Manus fuileachdach n' an cuach,
 Is Mac Chuthail nan ruag àidh,
 A dh' ionnsui chèil' an tiugh an t-sluaigh,
 'S a Chleirich bu chruidh an sàs.

Sheas sinn uile, an da shlògh,
 (Air leam fhein gum bu mhòr ar modh)
 Gun aon duin' a dhol g' an còir,
 Gu fiosraichte fòs gan dol.

Bhriseadh an sgiath air an leirg,
 Thogadar am feirg, 's am fraoch,
 Thilgeadar uath' an airm àidh,
 'S chaidh ann sbairn, an da laoch

Bha clachan is talamh trom
A mosgladh fui' bhonn ann cas,
Croinn druighnich an ear san iar,
Sann leinne bu chian an cath.

Ann am fianuis an da shloigh
Leagadh Manus air an fhraoch,
Dha-san ga nach b' onair Rìgh,
Chuir Fionn ceangal nan trì chaol.

Sann an sin thuirt Conan mearachdach maol,
(An laoch a bha riamh ri h'ole)
Cumar rium Manus nan lann,
'S gum buininn an ceann o chorp.

'S beag mo chairdeas, 's beag mo chaoimh
Riuts' a 'Chonain mhaoil gun fhalt,
O'n tharla dhamh bhi 'n gràsaibh Fhinn,
B' aansa leom na bhi fui' d' smachd.

O'n thachair thu 'm ghràsan fein,
Cna 'n iomaiream beud air flath;
'S bheir mi tearuint thu o'm fheinn
A lamh threin a thug mòr chath.

Gheibh thu do raoghain a-ris
'N uair tharlas tu d' thir fein,
Cleamhnas is comann is pairt,
No do lann a thoirt do m' Fheinn.

Cha d' thugainnse mo lann
'M fad sa bhios ceann air mo chorp;
Ach bheir mi dhuit mòide phosda
'M fad 'sa bhios an deo a' m' chorp,
Nach d' thoir sinn buille tuill' a t aghai Fhinn;
'S aireach leinn na rinneadh ort.

[An t Athach Iodhna].

'Sann tamull beag ann diaigh latha Blàr na tràghad, a thachair an eachdruì so a leanas; a tha Oissain a' leantuinn air nnis' do 'n Chlèireach.

'Sann an tigh Chroma-ghlinn n' an clach
Thainig oirn an t Athach ioghnadh:
Aon chas fuithe nach raibh cli,
'S aon sùil mhòr ann clàr a chinn;

Aon lamh uathasach as uchd,
 'S i cho dubh ri gualach Gothainn :
 Chomh-laiche cuig meoir a throighe
 Trian do dh' ùrlar an ruith' thighe.

Thog Conan an dorn gu dùr,
 Gu h Athach mòr na h-aon sùl.
 Fosadh air do chèill a Chonain, Arsa Fionn.
 'S mòr an t aobhar reachda leom
 Teachdair Rì' Lochlann a bhualadh.

A nochd a thoiseach dhuit a' m' theach
 Athaich ionadh ;
 Fhir is mughadh aon sùil gun tlachd,
 Innis dhuinne t ath, is t iompaidh.

Thainig mise o'n tìr leathaich,
 O 'n chuideachda ghorm shleadaich ;
 Sindeag thug mi nach raibh mall,
 Thainig mi o Rioghachd Lochlann.

Chuir Nighean Rìgh Lochlann (Blath-bhuig)
 Teachdaireachd gu Fionn na Feinne,
 A coinneacha seachduin o' màireach
 Ann Carna-beireal ann Lochlann,
 E fein 's a chuid Feinne air fad.

Chuir Fionn a mheur fui' dheud fios, 's fhuair è brath nach raibh-se gu maith dha ; 's dh' iarr e orra an sgian folaich leo.

Bha seachd ciad fichead còta sròil
 Aig Fionn Mac Chuthaill Mhic trein mhoir ;
 Bha fraoch feirg air gach fear,
 Agus trein laoch treatha gach trein-fhir :

Bha clogaid, is sgiath, is lùireach
 Air gach laoch iorsach àrd ghlùineach ;
 Is uldbach air gach fear do 'n dream
 Do luchd nan urchairibh innealta.

Dh' fhalbh sinn ann sin, 's cha deachai stad air ar cois, no lod as ar bròig gus an d' rainig sinn Carna-beireal. Thachair Manus oirn a mach, 's chuir è faillt' is furan oirn ; 's dh' iarr e oirn ar n airm a chuir seachad ann an Tùr ; ghlais iad an Tùr, 's thug è cuire dhuinn dol a stigh a dh' ionnsuidh ar dinnearach. 'N uair a shuidh sinn suas mun bhòrd, shuidh fear do mbuinntir Mhanuis air gach gualain do dh' fhear a mhuinntir Fhinn, 's bha fear eil' a' fritheala dha. Thuirt Manus, Co mharbh lamh nam beud mo mhae fein, Ciochnais nam buadh ? 's è labhair Goll ann san uair ;

 air an tràigh ud siar o thuath, far 'n do leagadh a' mòr shluagh.
 Co mharbh lamh nam beud mo mhae fein, Gorm-shùil n' an cath ?
 'S mis' a mharbh Gorm-shùil n' an cath, 's è labhair an t Oscar armach ; cha raibh cionnta dhomh 'g a chionn o 'n a thuit è leom ann iriuill. Co mharbh lamh nam beud mo mhae fein, am Biugalbriagha ? 'S mis' a mharbh am Biugal-briagha, 's è labhair Diarniad
 o Duimhne ; 's nior raibh math agaibh gun a dhiola, ge do tha mi 'n teis-meadhon fearaibh Lochainn. Beiribh air an fhear bheag ud 's ceanglaibh è, ar-sa Mànus. C' àit' a bheil na miennan mòr a Mhanuis ? arsa Fionn. Dh' fhàgas far an d' fhuaras, ar-sa Manus.

Tharruing sinn ann sin (ars' Oissain) ar seachd-ciad-fichead sgian, leis an d' rinneadh a' mòr ghnìomh. Mharbh sinn trithear mun fhear, man d' rainig sinn an dorus. Mharbh sinn an dorsar ;
 's bha sinn a mach air an fhaiche 'n ar dream aigeannaich uallaich.
 Bhris sinn dorsan an Tùir, 's chom sinn le dùrachd a steach ; 's thog sinn ùmhladh na caitheach ; 's riamh o sin amach cha còs againn air fearaibh Lochlainn.

Rann na h Ionmhuinn.¹

Ach Oissain uasail Mhic Fhinn
 'S tu 'd shuidh air an tulaich èibhinn ;
 A laoi ch mhoir mhileant' nach meat
 Gum faic mise bròn air t inntin.

Dh' innsins' aobhar mo bhròin fein
 A Chleirich, nam b' àill leatsa eisd :
 Mi cuimhneachadh air Fionn nam Fiann
 Bhi air an tulaich so dh' aon rian.

Air an tulaich so bha sinn araon,
 'Ille Chleirich naomh nam breithe saor.
 Chunnaic mise Teaghlach Fhinn
 'S iad gu mear mòr meimneach eibhinn.

Air an tulaich so bha 'n Fhiann,
 'S bha sinn uil' ann a dh' rian :
 Chunnaic sinn bean ann sa mhadh,
 'S i teachd thugainn na h aonar.

'N ainnir ùr a b' àillidh snuadh,
 Bu gheal is bu dearg a gruaidh,
 Bu ghile na gach gath grèine
 A bragad, shuas fui' caomh leine.

Bha da rosg àluinn 'na ceann,
 Bha earradh ¹ àluinn mu timchioll,
 Bha dùnadh do 'n òr mu bragad,
 Bha slabhruidh òir f' a caoin àraidh ;
 'S bha lèine do 'n t sròl a b' àireadh
 Leith r' a cneas gràdhach caomh cùraidh.

Thug sinn ar trom ghaol uile
 Do theaghlach sin, Fhinn a h Albuinn ;
 Gun aon fhear gaol da mhnaoi fein,
 Thug sinn uil' ar gaol do 'n Ionmhuinn.

Chuir ise comaraich air Fionn,
 'N Ribhinn, 'si gu bas-gheal binn.
 Chuir ise comaraich air Goll
 'S b' e sud laoch aluinn nan sonn ;
 Air Oscar mac Oissain fhèill,
 'S air Chaol chrotha Mac Ghruidhein.

Mo chomaraich oirbh Fhiannaibh matha
 Eadar chlannaibh, Rìgh, is fhilatha.
 Co tha tòrachd air do lorg
 Ainnir ùr is àillidh dealbh ?

Tha sin a' tòrachd orm fein
 Fhir uasail is riomhaich Feinn,
 An t Iolan mòr mìleanta mear
 Oighre Rìgh na h Easpainte.²

'S eagal leamsa Fhiannaibh fial,
 Bhi d' ar leadairt is d' ar dòruinn,
 Leis an fhear mhòr mhileanta threun,
 Airm iuranta ranna gheur.

C' àit' an d' imich è 'n iar n' an ear,
 No air cheithir àirdibh an domhain,
 Nach fhaiceamaid eanachainn a chinn
 Man leigeamaid leis thu Ionmhuinn.

A' gheug bhoinnegeal, bhas-gheal ghrinn,
 'Nighean ùr n' an gorm rosg èibhinn,
 Suidhidh sinne air do sgàth
 'Nighean ga grannda do chomhra,
 Man d' thoir am fear mòr thu leis,
 Ga mòr leat do dhoigh as fheothas.

Chunnaic sinn fear mòr uainn
 A' caitheadh a chala sa chuan ;
 'S è tarruing a loingheas gu tir,
 'S è teachd thugainn le h ana-mèin.

Gum b' è sud am fear mòr málta
 'S è 'na stuagbhadh alluidh allamarra,
 'Na fhraoch feirge gu Fiannuibh Fhinn,
 'S è teachd 'na chaoir theinntich thugainn.

Bha seachda do 'n òr mun fhear
 Is ceanghuichean sìoda ga cheangal :
 Bha sgiath air mum bristeadh bladhdh
 Ann dorn toisgeil a Mhìlidh :

Bha lùireach àrd iorsach uaibhreach,
 Bha threin scapul breac buadhach,
 Bha cheanna-bheairt chlocharra shèimh
 Os cionn aghai shocair a ghaisgich.

Le chladbeamh mòr froisneach neimhneach,
 'S e gu cosgairne coi-dhireach
 Le dha shleadh o'm bun bu chrui' roinn,
 'S iad 'n an cuilg a seasamh suas r' a ghualain,

Thug è ruathar fir gun chèill,
 Cha do bheannuich è dh' Fhionn no 'n Fheinn ;
 Mharbhte leis ciad do dh' Fhiannuibh Fhinn,
 'S mharbhte leis an Ionmhuinn :

Cheangail è Faolan Mac Fhinn
 'S tri naothnar d' a luchd-leanmhuinn,
 Do 'n chinne mhòr mheimneach mhear ;
 'S bha 'n t Iolan gu h armach eatrom.

Thionndai mo Mhacs' air an leirg,
 Oscar 's è làn do throm fheirg ;
 'S ann a dh' obair è còmhrag
 As an fhear mhor bhaoisgeil mhi-nàrach.

Thionndai 'n t Iolan ri m' Mhac fein,
 'S dheanta leo còmhrag treun ;
 Os fear mor creitheach, ceann riathach
 Bas-luath, bras-bheimneach àrd-leumnach, aineasach è.

Mar shrughadh amhuinn le gleann
 Bha sgrios am fola cho teann ;
 Mar chaoir theinntich teachd a teallaich
 Bha toradh nan laoch nàmhadaich.

Thug Oscar beum fearra-ghas fear
 Gu h Iolan armach deud-ghlan ;
 'S ann a bhuin è leis a bheum ghrànnda
 Ceann Mhic Rìgh na h Easpàinte.

Air an tulaich so tha leachd,
 Dheadh Mhic Ailpein tha so fìor ;
 'S tha leachd na mnai air an taobh eile,
 A dheadh Mhic Ailpein a h Albuinn.

Air leinne gum bu mhaith iad,
 'S cha raibh 'n aon neach dhiu ach seud.
 Beannachd air an anam araon,
 'S thugadh beannachd eil' air Oissain.

Marbhrann Fhraoich.

Sud è thall an carn fui' m bheil
 Fraoch Mac-Iubhaich an fhuilt mhaoth,
 Giulla' dh' fhàg luidheachd gach magh,
 Air 'na luidhe, tha corp Fhraoich.

Chinn easlainte throm throm
 Air Nighean Bheothail n' an corn fial :
 Chuireadh leatha fios air Fraoch,
 'S dh' fhiosraich an laoch, Ciod è 'miann ?

Thuirt nach bitheadh i slàn
 Gun làn a da laimh bhois mìn,
 Do chaorran meal' an Lochain-luain,
 Gun duine 'ga bhuain ach Fraoch.

Ghluais Fraoch, nach raibh tiom
 A dhol a shnàmh air an linnidh bhuig ;
 'S thug ultach leis do 'n chaorran dearg
 Far an raibh Maoigh bu gheal cruth.
 Cha 'n fhothain sin a laoch luain
 Gun an t slat a bhuain o bun.

Ghluais Fraoch an earragain àidh
 A dhol a shnàmh air an linnig' bhuig,
 Cha 'n fhaod duine, ga mòr àdh
 Tighinn o'n bhàs ann sam bi ghuin.

Fhuair e bhèist ¹ 'na surram suain
 'S a thùrladh suas ris an dos :
 Rug è air chaorran air bharr,
 'S leadair è 'n crann as a bhun.

'S è toirt a dha bhuinn o thìr,
 Ann sin dh' fhairich a bhèist :
 Rug i air 's è air an t snàmh
 'S gun do leadair i làmh 'na beul

Rug i air 's è air an t snamh
 'S gun do leadair i lamh 'na craos
 Rug easan orrais air ghial
 'S ochòin gur an sgian aig Fraoch.

Thainig Nighean an fhuilt fhionn bhuì' fhial
 Agus sgian aice do 'n òr ;
 Cha b' è sud an còmhrag cearr
 Thug è mach ann ceann 'na dhorn.

Thuit Fraoch agus a bhèist
 Bonn ri bonn le meud an creuchd,
 'S iad 'nan sìneadh air an tràigh
 Taobh ri taobh, gun deo 'n an crè.

'N uair a chunnaic an Nighean è
 Thuit i 'na neul air an tràigh ;
 'San uair a dhùisg i as a suain
 Rug i 'na laimh air a laimh bhuig.

Ge d' a tha thu 'n diu mar chloì'teach eùn
 'S mòr an tèathachd a dheanta leat,
 'N àm cuir cath tairbeartach garbh
 Bu tu 'n Laoch bha dian san trod.

'S ionmhuinn tighearna nan sluagh,
 'S ionmhuinn gruaidh is deirg nan ròs,
 'S ionmhuinn beul nach diult ri daimh
 Gam biodh na mnai a teireairt phòg

Maiseadh is caise bha 'na chùl,
 'S guirmeadh a shùil na feur air leachd,
 'S deirgeadh nam partan a bheul,
 'S gileadh a dheud na blàth an fhiodh.

'S duighe' n' am fitheach bàrr fhuilt,
 'S deirgeadh a leachd na fuil laogh,
 'S gileadh è na comhannach nan sruth,
 'S mìne' n' an canach corp Fhraoich.

¹ "Tore-nimhe."

'S co fada a làmh 's a lann,
 'S leathadh a chalg na barr a loinn,
 'S leatha' na gach còmhla' a sgiath,
 Sud an triath a bha 'na druim.

'S faideadh a shleadh na crann siùil,
 'S binne na teud chiùil a ghuth ;
 Snamhaich eil' a b' fhearr na Fraoch
 Cha do shìn a thaobh ri sruth.

'S truagh nach ann an còmhrag Laoch
 A thuiteadh Fraoch le'm prònta slòigh
 Ochèin do thuiteam le bèist,
 'S truagh a ghaoil nach mairthionn fòs.

Creidamh Oissian.

Innis duinn a Chleirich
 Ann onoir do leughaidh,
 'Bheil Neamh gu h'àraid
 Aig maithibh Fiann na Feinne.

Dh' innisin sin duitse
 Oissain n' an glond,
 Cha' n eil Neamh aig t Athair,
 Aig Oscar, no aig Goll.

'S olc an sgeuladh àraid
 Tha agad dhuinn a Chleirich ;
 Com am bitheaunsa ri cràbhadh
 Mar eil Neamh aig maithibh Fiann na Feinne.

Oissain gur fada do shuain,
 Eirich suas is èisd na sailm :
 Chaill thu 'nis' do lùth, 's do rath,
 'S cha chuir thu cath ri la garbh.

Ma chaill mi mo lùth, 's mo rath,
 'S nach cuir mi cath ri la garbh ;
 Do d' chleirsneachd gur beig mo spèis,
 'S do cheòl èisdeachd cha 'n fhiach leam.

Cha chual thu co math mo cheòil
 O thùs an domhain mhòir gus a nochd :
 Tha thu aosda seana-ghlic liath,
 Fhir a dhiola cliar air enochd

'S tric a dhiol mi cliar air enochd
 'Ille Phàdric¹ is ole rùn :
 'S eùcair dhuit a chàin mo chruth,
 O nach d' fhuair mi guth air thùs.

Bha da ghaothar-dheug aig Fionn,
 'S leigeamaid iad ri Gleann smàil ;
 'S bu bhinne leinn frosnaich ar con
 Na do chluigs' a Clèirich àidh.

Smeorach bheag Ghlinne smàil
 Is faothar nam bare ris an tonn,
 Sheinneamaid-ne leo puirt,
 'S bha sinn fein, 's ar cruith ro bhinn.

'S è sin a chuir as duibh riamb,
 Nach do chreid sibh 'n DIA nan dùl ;
 Cha mhairthean duine d' ar sliochd,
 'S cha bheo ach riochd Oissain ùir.

Cha b' è sin bu choireach ruinn,
 Ach turus Fhinn 'n uair chaidh è 'n Ròimh ;
 Bhi cuir cath àraidh leinn fein
 'S a claoi ar Feinne gu mòr.

Ach ciod a rinn Fionn air DIA ?
 Rinn è rian, fhial, agus gol,
 Thug è latha ri pronnadh òir,
 'S an treas là' ri meothair chon.

Aig meud a ruithe ri meothair chon
 'S ri dol an sgol gach aon là,
 'S gun urram a thoirt do DIA,
 'Nis 'tha Fionn nam Fiann ann laimh.

'S ole a chreideas mi do sgeul
 A Chlèirich le d' leabhar bàn,
 Gum biodh Fionn MacChuthaill, na cho fial
 Aig duine, no aig DIA ann laimh

Tha è 'n Ifrinn ann laimh
 'M fear le 'n gnà bhi pronnadh òir ;
 'S a thaobh a dhimeas air DIA
 Chuir iad è 'n tigh pian fui' bhròn.

[¹ Phàdric deleted, and Chleirich written over it. Former only in Stewart MS.]

Nam biodh Clanna-Baoisge a steach,
 Na Clanna-Moirne nam fear trein,
 Bheireamaid-ne Fionn a mach,
 No bhiodh an teach againn fein.

Cuignear a chonnaibh na Feinne air fad,
 Leatsa ga mòr an teàthachd,
 Cha d' thugadh sud Fionn a mach,
 'S cha bhiodh an teach agaibh fein.

Is ciod è 'n tàit' Ifrinn fein
 A Chlèirich a leughas an sgoil,
 Nach bu cho maith ri Flaitheanas DE,
 Nam faigheamaid feigh, is coin ?

'S beag a chùil chrònanaich
 Is mònaran na grèine,
 S' gun fhios do'n Rìgh mhòralach
 Cha d' theid fui' bhàrr bhillibh a sgèithe.

Cha b' ionann is Fionn Mac Chuthaill
 An rìgh bha againn air na Fiannaibh,
 Dh' fhaoda fir an domhain
 Dol d' a thallasan gun iarrui.

Na coimeas thusa duine ri DIA
 'S a sheau fhir leith na breithnich è ;
 'S fad o thainig a reachd,
 'S seasuidh a cheart gu la bhràth.

Choimeasain-se Fionn Mac Chuthaill
 Rì aon neach a sheall sa ghrein ;
 Cha d' iarr è riamh nì air neach,
 'S cha mhò dh' ¹ èar e neach mu nì.

Bha sinne latha air sliabh Boid,
 'S bha Caoilte ann bu chruaidh lann,
 Oscar, agus Goll nan sleadh,
 Diarmad o 'n Mhoidh, is Fraoch o' n Ghleann :

Bha Fionn Mac Cuthaill ann bu mbor pris
 'S bha è 'na rìgh os ar ceann,
 'Sa Chlèirich nam lachull fial,
 Cha leigheamaid DIA os ar cionn.

¹ " dhiult."

'S olc leam sin uait Oissain
 Fhir nam briathra boile ;
 'S gum b' fhearr DIA ri aon uair
 Na Fiann na Feinne uile.

B' fhearr leamsa aon chath laidir
 A chuireadh Fiann na Feinne
 Na TIGHEARN' a chràidh sin
 Agus d' thusa, a Chlèirich.

Eisd ri ràithe Rìgh nam bochd
 Is iarr a nochd Neamh dhuit fein ;
 'S o 'n tha crìoch a' tighinn air t aois
 Tog do d' bhaoisg a shean fhir leith.

Comaraich an da Abstoil deug
 Gabhaidh mi dhomh fhein a' nochd,
 'S ma rinn mise peaca trom,
 'Biodh è 'n loch, nan tom, n' an cloich.

Duan Chlann Uisneachain.

Turus gan deach iad th' air tuinn
 Clann Uisneachain a Dù-Lochlann,
 Dh' fhàg iad Dearduil 's am fear dubh
 'M Beinn Ardil, 's iad 'n an aonar.

C' àit' an cualas sgeul bu chruaidhe
 'N an Gille dubh 's è dur shuireadh ?

A Dhearduil chruinneagach gheal,
 Bu chuidh orts' is orm bhi cuideachd.
 Cha bu chuidh mis' is tu
 'Ille dhuì' na mìrun,
 Gus an d' thig iad dathigh slàn,
 Clann Uisneachain a Dù-Lochlann.

Ge b' eug a racha tu dh' eth,
 'S ge d' fhaithe tu bas 'g an cumhadh ;
 Bithidh tus is fear dubh san aon leabui'
 Gus an d' theid uir air do leachduinn.

Gheibhe tus' a Dhearduil ghuanach
 Uamsa air mhaduìn a' maireach ;
 Gheibhe tu bainne chruidh bhraonaich,
 Is maorach o Innis aonaich ;

Gheibhe tu uam muineal mhuc
 Agus struighe shean torc ;
 Gheibhe tu breachcartaich bò,
 'S a ghaolaich nach gabha' tu sin.

Ge d' a gheibhinn coilich fhiodh
 Agus bradain thara-gheala,
 B' annsa leam bior a chùl chas
 A lamham Naois Mhic Uisneachain.

'S è Naois a phoga' mo bheul,
 Mo cheud fhear, 's mo cheud leannan ;
 'S è Aillidh a leige' mo dheoch,
 'S è Ardail a chàireadh m' aodhart.

Sùil gan d' thug Dearduil ghuanach
 A mach air barr a bhaile bhraonaich,
 Slàn do 'n triuir bhraithrean a chi mi thall ud,
 Snàmhaidh iad na cuantuin thairis.

Naois is Ardail air an stiuir,
 A stiuradh gu h àrd mi-chiùin.
 Mo ghaol an geal lamhach geal,
 Tha m' fhear fein 'ga stiuradh sin.

Ach smid na d' thigeadh as do bheul
 'Ille dhuì nam braon sgeul,
 M' am marbhar thusa gun chion,
 'S nì mo a chreidear mise.

A Chlann Uisneachain nan each
 A thainig a tir nam fear fuileach,
 An d' fhuiling sibh tàir o neach,
 No ciod è a bha 'g ar cumail ?

Bha 'gar cumail-ne 'mach uait,
 An Taobhar fuileach faobhar ruagh,
 Mac Rìgh Rosaich ceann fear-fàil
 Air ar glacadh 's air dìongail.

C' àit' an raibh ar n airm ghaïsge
 'S air lannan tapuidh geura fuileach,
 'N uair a leig sibh le Mac Rì' Rosaich
 Bhi 'gar glacadh, is 'g ar dìongail ?

Cadal gan d' rinn sinn 'nar luinnig
 Air onfhadh na mara truim,
 Man do dhuìsg sinn as ar suain
 Dh' iadh na sea longa-deug m' ar timchioll.

Cha mhise nach d' innis duibh
 A Chlann Uisneachain a Dù-Lochlann,
 Nach bu lamh air bhog bhlonaig bhan,
 'S nach bu sturd air cogadh cadal.

Ge nach biodh do chogadh ann fui 'n ghrèin
 Ach duine fad as a thir fein,
 Cadal fada 's beag a thlachd
 Do dhuine 's e air deòrachd.

Deorachd 's truagh duine d' an dàn è,
 'S é 's gnà dha cuid a sheacharain,
 'S beag urram is a mhath
 'S truagh duine 's e air deòrachd.

'S ann a chuir iad sinn ann uaidh shalaich
 Fui' thalamh tuinn
 Far an d' thigeadh a mhuir làn
 Tri uairean gach aonlà.

An Nighean mhath bha aig an Rìgh
 Ghabh i dhinne mòran truais
 Seicheanan a h Athar gu leir
 ('S bu lionmhor ann bian èild is daimh)
 Chuir i eadar sinne 's am fuaradh,
 An Ribhinn ùr a b' fhearr tuigse.

Rainig i h Athair sa chraoibh ruaidh
 'S a chàirdean gu leir mu thimchioll.
 Rùn n' an cagar thu Dhir-bhàil
 Cha 'n 'eil rùn nam ban ach iomluath.

Ciod an rùineadh a bhiodh ann
 Nach innseadh an t Athair ga aon nighinn?
 An rùn a gheibhinn-se uait
 Ghleidhinn e fad sheachd bliadhna fui' bhile mo
 chiche deise,
 'S an rùn a gheibhinn o chàch
 Athair a ghraidh gun innsin duits' è.

Chuir Rìgh Eirionn fios th' air sàil
 Gu maithibh uaislibh Bharra-Phàil,
 Gum faithinnse lan luinnges
 Do dh' or, 's do dh' innsri, 's do dh' ionmhas,
 'S na Gimich a chuir air sàil
 Air chuan na h Eirionn a' maireach.

Leig an Nighean osna throm
 As a cridhe gu ro mhòr,
 Gheisg asnaichean an tighe
 Leis an osann leig an Nighean.

Co leig an osann throm
 Gur duilich leis na Gimich?
 'S mis' a leig an osann throm
 Bhur Gimich gur coma leam :

Tha earran mhor a' m' thaobh cli
 'S mharbhadh leatha caogad Rìgh ;
 'S tha luainn mhor san taobh eile
 Mu choinnibh na h earrain sin.

Thainig i 'n sin dhuinn gur fios
 An Ni bhàn bu ghile cneas.

An raibh thu sann Dun ud thall?
 No ciod an ailis bha oirn ann?

Bha mis' ann san Dùn ud thall,
 'S truagh an ailis bha oirbh ann ;
 Gum faitheadh m' Athair lan luinge
 Do dh'òr, do dh' innsri, 's do dh' ionmhas,
 'S ar fuadach amach air sàil
 Air chuan na h Eirionn a màireach.

Ach sìne' sibhs' amach bhur casan
 Dh' fhiach an tombais mi na glasan,
 'S nach fàg mi bonn diu air dearmad
 Air fad, air leud, no air doimhneachd.

Rainig i 'n sin an Ceard cluaini
 Mac an-t Saoir o 'n chraoibh ruaidh.
 Eirich suas a Cheaird chluaini
 'S nighean Rìgh air tigh'n 'ga d' iarrui.

'S beag orm na bhiodh ann,
 Nighean Rìgh a shiubhladh an oi'che gu fir ;
 'S è bheireadh i dhathigh g' a teach
 Treas tuairisgeal na gemhich.

Dh' èirich è suas an ceard cluaineach
 Mac-an-t Saoir o 'n chraoibh ruaidh,
 'S rinn è na trì iuchraichean buadhach
 Ann aón aiteal na leith uaire.

Thainig i 'n sin sinn gur fios
 An Iomhuinn bhan bu ghile cneas :
 Sine' sibhs' amach bhur casan
 Dh' fheuch an fuasgail mi na glasan,
 Mar d' fhàg mi bonn diu' air dearmad
 Air fad, air leud, no air doimhneachd.

Thug Naois leum rialachainn àrd,
 Aillidh, 's Ardail air a dhruim lorg.

Tha lonng (ars' ise) aig m' Athair air sàil
 Amach o bhàrr a bhaile bhraonaich,
 'S tha aon fhear donn 'na toiseach
 'S dhiongadh è ceud ann an còmhrag.

Ma tha sibhs' a' dol 'na dhàil
 Gun eagal oirbh, no fheall sgàth,
 Buailibh gu co' thromach ceart
 Bhur trì chloidhean 'na aon alt-san.

Ge bu dorch an o'che dhoilleir
 A ri' bu bhorb a rinn sinn eolus,
 'S bhuail sinn gu co' thromach ceart
 Ar trì chloidhean 'na aon alt-san.

Thig thus' anois' a' d' luinng
 A Nighean bhàn a b' ionmhulnn leinn,
 'S aona bhean cha d' theid os do chionn,
 Ach aona bhean eile san tir an d' theid thu.

Ciod an aon bhean a bhiodh ann
 'S gur mi ghleidh dhuibh bhur n anam?
 B' uaimhreach dhomhsa sin a dheanamh
 'S a liuthad Mac Ri' bha tighinn ga m' iarrui.

Conn Mac an Deirg.

Sgeulachd air chonn Mac an Deirg
 Air a liona' le trom feirg,
 Dol a dhioladh Athar gun fheall
 Air uaslibh, 's air maithibh na Feinne.

Sgeulachd air Chonn fearaigh fearail,
 An Sonn mòr calma ceanail,
 Gum b'ionann d' a dhealbh 's d'a dhreach
 'S do'n Dearg mhor mhear mheamnach.

Bu mhugha Conn gu mòr mòr
 'Tighinn ann caladh ar sloigh,
 A' tarruing a luinnghe gu tir
 Ann iris a chuain is a chaolais.

A' tarruing a Bharca gu tir
 A stigh air an tràigh ghil ghainmhiach :
 Shuidh è air an tulaich 'g ar coir,
 An t Saoi curanda ro mhòr.

Bha ghruaidh choreair mar Iubhar caoin,
 Bha rosg gorm, 's a mhala ro chaol,
 Bha fholt buidhe mar òr ceaird
 Os cionn geal ghuailnibh a mhilidh.

Ghabh sinn eagal uil' an Fhiann,
 Nach do ghabh sinn a leithid riamh,
 'N uair a chitheamaid conadh Chuinn
 Mar onfhadh mara air trein tuinn.

Comhairl' a chinn aig Fionn,
 'S aig uaislibh matha na Feinne ;
 Dol a ghabhail sgeula do 'n fhear choltach :
 'S chuir iad Fearthas beul-dearg, binn-fhoclach.

Ghluais Fearthas gu binn bàghach,
 Gu glie suairce so ghràdhach,
 Air chomhairl' Athar mar bu choir
 Ghabhail sgeula do 'n Chonn ro-mhòr.

S geul a b' ait leam fhaotuinn uait
 Labhair Fearthas gu fìor ghlic ;
 Fhir mhòir a thainig d' ar fios,
 Ciod è fàth do thuruis chum na Feinne.

Innsidh mise sin gu beachd
 Fhearthais, m' as àill leat a thoirt leat ;
 Eirig m' Athar a b' àill leam,
 Uaibhse a mhaithibh Fiann na Feinne.

Ceann Ghuill 's a dha mhic mhoir,
 Ceann Fhinn, Airt, agus Ghreuir,
 Ceann Chormaig is àillidh dreach,
 'S na bheil be(o) do mhaithibh na Feinne ;

Na Eirinn a thuinn gu tuinn
 A gheilleachdain domh fa m'aon chuinng ;
 Na deich ciad d' ar Fiannaibh a' màireadh
 Gu còmhrag mear diobhailteach.

Nan d' thigeadh deich ciad d' ar Fiannuibh
 Chaisge sin do luath mhireadh,
 Cha b' ionann 's a radh air choir,
 Thug Conn mor dhoibh ioma sgleo.

Deich ceud air a cheud là
 Mharbh Conn, 's cha bu ghnìomh dha ;
 'S gun rachadh è rompa sin
 Mar sheothag tre eoin an t-sleibhe.

Deich ceud air an ath la
 Mharbh Conn, 's cha bu ghnìomh dha ;
 Bheireadh è ruathar fir foirinn
 'S bu luaithe è na roth-galla-mhuilinn ;
 'S rachadh è 'm frilis nan neul
 A sireadh tuille còmhraig.

Deich ciad air an treas là
 Mharbh Conn, 's cha bu ghnìomh dha,
 Bha ioma leith lamh, cos, is ceann,
 Cuirp gun airceis air aon a bhall ;
 Bha Conn a cailce a sgiath
 'G iarrui comhraig gach aon ial.

Thuirt Conan mearachdach maol
 Leigear mise thuige,
 'S bheir mi an ceann a mach
 Do Chonn dimeasach uaimhreach.

Marbhaisg ort a Chonain mhillte
 Nach sguir thu do d' loineis a chaoi,
 Deich ciad do d' leithidibhs' air tràigh
 Cha d' thuga ceann a Chuinn amach.

'N uair a chunnaic am fear mòr
 Conan a'teachd a sheilbh arm,
 Thug è sichceach air an daoì,
 'S è teicheadh dhathigh gu h allbhuidh.

Bha ioma cnap is faobh is meall
 Gabhail a suas air a dhroch ceann ;
 Air maol Chonain ; gu dearbh deimhin
 Chuir è cuig caoil fa aon cheangal.

'S ioma sgread is èighibh chruaidh
 Bha 'g an cruinneach, a mhor shluagh ;
 Bu lùthaireadh è na fuaim tuinn a' teachd,
 'S an Fhiann uile 'g a èisdeachd.

Beannachd do 'n laimh a rinn sin duit,
 'S è thuirt Fionn n' an cruth nuath ;
 Ach gum b' è sin turus gun èiridh
 Dhuits' a Chonain mhaoil mhi-chèillidh

Fhir a chleachd mo chobhair riamh,
 A Ghuill Mhic Moirne na mòr ghnìomh,
 A mbiann sùil gach bean,
 A phrionnsa nan teug-buailteach,
 Thoir an ceann gu fearail deth,
 Mar thug thu ga athair roimhe.

Dheanainse sin duitse Fhinn
 Fhir nam briathra blàtha binn,
 Chuir fuachd is falachd o' r cùl
 'S gum bitheamaid uil' a dh' aon rùn.

Thog iad an sin am prùip chatha
 Dhol a thoirt an àrd latha,
 Na h airm shèund a bh' aig am braid,
 Thog Mac Moirne mìlanta.

Chuaidh Goll 'na chula chruaidh,
 'S 'na phrop a 'm fianuis an t sluaigh ;
 Bu gheal dearg gnùis an fhir
 'S è 'na thore àrd an tùs na h iriull.

'N àm dhoibh dol ann coinnimh chèile,
 Cha 'n fhaca sinne an co baoghal ;
 An da churai' bu gharg an di,
 Chuir iad an tulaich air bhall-chrith.

Chuir iad fallas do chneasuibh an cuirp,
 Chuireadh iad cailce do 'n sgiathaibh
 Bha 'm falt ri gaoith n' an gleann
 Le cleachd n' an Curai'nean cho teann.

'S ioma caoir do theine ruagh
 O fhaobhar nan arm geura cruaidh,
 Os cionn n' an ceanna-bheairte corrach,
 'S iad a' cuimhneach na mòr fhalachd.

Latha agus aon trà deug
 Chum iad an còmhrag ; 's cha bhreug,
 Man do bhuithinn Goll nam beumannan
 Ceann Chuinn air lom eigin.

'N gàireadh èibhinn thug an Fhiann
 Nach d' thug iad a leithid riamh,
 'N uair a chunnaic iad Goll cridhe
 An' uachdar air Conn teug-bhuailteach :
 'S a fuasgla' Chonain as a shàs.
 'N dèis loineis a mhi-ghràis.

Marbhrann Dhiarmaid.

Eisdibh beag m' as àill libh laoidh
 Air a chuideachda chaoimh so chaidh,
 Air Beinn-Ghulbunn, 's air Fionn fial,
 'S air Mac-o-Duimhne nan sgeul truagh.

Dh' imir iad 's bu mhor an fhaoill
 Air Mac-o-Duimhne bu dearg beul,
 Dol do Bheinn-Gulbunn a shealg
 Tuire, nach faodadh arm a chlaoi.

Dh' fhairich a bheist as a suain,
 'S sheinn i fead chruaidh ris a ghleann,
 Dh' fhairich i faragra nam Fiann
 Tighinn an or, 's an iar 'na ceann.

Mac-o-Duimhne nach d' ob daimh
 Chuir è 'n t-sleagh an dail an Tuire,
 Bhris è innt' an crann 'na thri,
 'S bu reachd'ar leis a bhi sa Mhuic.

Tharruing è 'n t seann lann o 'n truail
 A bhuineadh buaidh ann sgach blàr :
 Mharbh Mac-o-Duimhne bhèist,
 'S thachair dha fein a bhi slàn.

Shuidh sinn uile air aon chnochd,
 'S luidh mor sprochd air ceann Flath fàil :
 Air dha bhi fada 'na thosd
 Labhair è, 's gum b' ole aradh,
 A Dhiarmaid tomhais an Tore
 Cia meud troigh o shochd a ta.

Sea troighe-deug do dh' fhior thomhas
 Atha 'm friogh na muice fiathaich.
 Cha 'n è sin idir a tomhas,
 Tomhais a-ris i Dhiarmaid.

Tomhais a Dhiarmaid a-rìs
 'Na aghai gu min an Torc,
 'S leatsa do raoghadh ath chuinge 'ga chionn,
 'Tulladh nan arm ranna-gheur goirt.

Dh' èirich è 's cha bu turus àidh,
 Is thomhais è dhoibh an Torc,
 'S tholl am friogh bha nimheil garg
 Bonn an Laoich bu gharg san trod.

Aon deoch dhomhs' a' d' chuaich Fhinn,
 Fhir nam briathra blàtha binn;
 O 'n chaill mi mo bhrìgh 's mo bhlagh,
 Ocbòin 's truagh mi mar d' thoir.

Cha d' thoir mise dhuit mo chuach,
 'S cha mho chobhaireas mi air th' iotaibh;
 O 'n is beag a rinn thu do m' leas
 'S gur mòr a rinn thu do m' aimhleas.

Cha d' rinn mise cron ort riamh
 Thall na bhos, an' or nan iar,
 Ach im'eachd le Grainn¹ am braid,
 'S a h uabhar ga m' thoirt fa gheasuibh.

Chi mi air tuiteam fa chreuchd
 Mac-o-Duimhne ciabh n' an cleachd,
 Sàr Mhac è fuileach nam Fiann,
 Air an tulaich siar o dheas.

Seobhag sùl-ghorm o Eas-ruaidh
 Leis am buinnte buaidh gach blàir,
 'N deis torchairt leis an Torc
 Fa thulachan n' an cnochd ata.

Mac-o-Duimhne mòr am beud
 Air tuiteam an eud mirùin:
 Bu ghile bhraigh na ghrian,
 'S bu deirg a bheul na blàth chnoth:

Bu bhui' sniomhanach fholt,
 'S gorm a rosg 's geala ghlan a shlios,
 Meud agus tàbhachd an laoich,
 Maise, 's caise 'n ciabh n' an cleachd.

Cumhadair is mealltoir Bhan
 Mac-o-Duimhne a b' fhearr buaidh,
 Ann tuire' cha tog i sùil
 O 'n chaidh an ùir air do ghruaidh.

Sin è 'na shìn air an raon
 Mac-o-Duimhn' air a thaobh fial,
 'Na shìneadh ri taobh an Tuire,
 Sin sgeul fhaithinn duibh gu dearbh.

Iomairt, èitigh òir, is each,
 'N Giulladh eigin chreach nach gann,
 'N lamh bu mhor gaisg' is gnìomh,
 Ochòin mar tha 'n t saoi sa ghleann.

'N Gleann sìthe, an Gleann so r' ar taobh
 'S lionmhor gu fèigh ann is loin,
 Gleann san tric an raibh an Fhiann
 An' or¹ san' iar air deigh n' an con.

'N Gleann sin fui' bheinn-ghulbunn ghuirm
 'S àillidh tulachain tha fui' n ghrein,
 'S tric a bha na sruthain dearg
 Ann déigh nam Fiann bhi sealg an fhèigh.

Duan A Mhuileartaich.

Latha do 'n Fheinn air tulaich Oir
 Ri amharc Eirinn m' an timchioll,
 Chunnaic iad air bharraibh thonn
 An Tarrachd èitidh athull crom.

'S è b' ainm do 'n fuath nach raibh fann
 A Muileartach claoon ruadh manntach,
 Bha aodan dughlas air dhreach guail,
 Bha dheud carbadach claoon ruadh,
 Bha aon sùil ghlogach 'n a ceann,
 'S bu luaithe è na rionnach maothair.

Bha greann ghlas dubh air a cheann,
 Mar dhroch choille chrìonaich air chrith.
 Ri faicinn na Feinne bu mhor goil,
 Shanntaich a bhiast bhi 'n an Innis

Marbh è le àbhachd ciad Laoch
 'S a ghàire 'na gharbh chraos.
 C' àit' a' bheil fir is fearr na sud
 An diu a' d' Fheinn, A Mhic Chuthaill.

Chuirinn-sa sud air do laimh
 A Mhuileartaich mhathain chlaoin chàim;
 'S air sgàth luchd chumail n' an con
 Na bith oirnn ge d' mhaoitheadh.

Gheibh thu cumhadh is gabh síth,
 Thuirt Mac Chuthaill an t'àrd rìgh,
 Ge d' a gheibhinn brìgh na Feinne uile
 A h'òr 's a h'airgiod 's a h'ionmhas,
 B' fhearr leam a chosgairt le m' shleadh
 Rònán, Oscar, agus Coireall.

An t'sleadh sin ris a' bheil thu fàs
 'S ann aic' a tha do dhian bhàs,
 Caillidh tu dos a chinn chrìn
 Rì deadh mhac Oissain a ghearradh.
 B' usa dhuit ord chrotadh n' an clach
 A chagna fui' d' dheudaich,
 Na còmhrag nam Fiann fuileach.

'N sin 'n uair a dh'èirich fraoch air a bhèist
 Dh'èirich Fionn, flath na Feinne,
 Dh'èirich Oscar, flath nam fear,
 Dh'èirich Oscar agus Iolan;
 Dh'èirich Ciar dhubh Mac Bràmh,
 Dh'èirich Goll mor, agus Conan,
 Dh'èirich na Laoich nach bu tiom,
 Laoich Mhic Chuthaill nan arm grinn;
 Agus rinn iad crò cuig catha
 Mun Arrachd èitidh sa Ghleann.

A chearthar Laoch a b' fhearr san Fheinn
 Chòmhraigeadh è iad gu leir,
 Agus fhrithealadh è iad mun seach
 Mar ghath rinne na lasrach.

Thachair Mac Chuthaill an àidh
 'S a bhiast laimh air laimh,
 Bha drùchd air barr a loinne
 Bha taobh a cholla' rì guin bualaidh,
 'S bha braon ga fhuil air na fraochaibh.

Thuit am Muileartach leis an rìgh,
 'S ach mu thuit cha b'ann gun stri,
 D' fheuchainn cha d' fhuair è mar sin
 O latha ceardach Lon Mac Lioghann.

Ghluais an Gothainn leis a bhri'
 Gu teach othar an àrd rìgh,
 'S bu duilich le Gothainn n' an cuan
 Gun do mharbhadh a Muileartach claon ruadh.

Mar deachaidh è 'n talamb toll,
 Na mar do bhàthadh è 'muir dhomhain long,
 C' àit' an raibh dhaoine air bith
 Na mharbhadh a Muileartach ?

Cha 'n è mharbh è ach an Fhiann
 Buithinn leis nach gabhar giamh,
 'S nach d' theid fuath na h Arrachd as
 O 'n t sluagh aluinn fhalt bhuì' iompaidh.

Bheir mise bria'ran a-ris,
 Ma mharbhadh a 'Muileartach mìn,
 Nach fàg mi agaibh 'n ar gleann
 Tom Innis no eilean.¹

Bheir mi breabadaich air muir,
 Agus cnagadaich air tìr,
 Agus nì mi crocan coille do dh' Eirinn
 Ga tarruing thugam as a freumhaichean.

'S mòr an luchd do loinngas bàn
 Eirinn uile a thogail,
 'S nach deachai' riamh do loinngas air sàil
 Na thogadh an cuige' do dh' Eirinn.

Mìle agus caogad lonng
 Sin cabhlach an rìgh gu trom,
 A' dol gu crìochaibh Eirionn
 Air thì na Feinne nan tàradh.

¹ " ailean ? "

Mar chaidh Cuthall a mharbha'.

Thuir Fionn ri Garadh, o nach d' ruga' mis' ann sin, Cionnas a mharbh sibh Cuthall?

'S è Cuthall a rinn oirn a marbha',
'S è rinn oirn a' mor sgaradh,
'S fhad a dh' fhogair Cuthall sinn amach
Air chrìochaibh n'an coimheach.

Chaidh dream againn do dh' Albuinn,¹
'S dream eile do'n Dù-Lochlann,
'S an treas dream do'n Ghrèig amuigh
Gum b' fhada o chèil' ar cabhair.

A chiad latha thainig sinn ann
Air fòid Eirinn n' an gorm lann,
Marbh è dhinn, 's b' ann r' an àireamh
Seachd ceud deug air aon leanuinn,
Do mhaithibh Chlanna-Moirne,
D' ar triathaibh, 's d' ar tighearnan.

Rinn è 'n sin caisteal d' ar cnaimhean
Ann am fianais na Feinne :
S' è rinn tiom ar cridheachan
Ar cinn a bhi 'nan slindeiribh.

Thainig Mòr-Nighean-Taoichd amach
Agus ghlaodh i le àrd iolaich,
'M bu bheo duine Chlanna-Moirne
A dhioladh na tighearnan.

Thug sinn ann sin ruidh nach raibh màll
'S rainig sinn an tigh san raibh Cuthall ;
Chuir sinn guin ghoirt, gach fear
D' a shleadh ann an corp Chuthaill.

Bheuchdadh è mar gum biodh mart ann,
'S raoichdeadh è mar gum biodh Torc ann ;
'S ge bu nàr sin r' a innse',
Bhramadh Cuthall mar ghearran.

Sin agads' Fhinn Mhic Chuthaill
Beagan do sgeula t athar
Gun fhuachd, gun fhalachd o sin,
Gun eiseamail gun urram.

¹ "Eirin" in different hand.

Gar an d' ruga' mis' ann sin,
 Ri linn Chuthaill n' an geur lann,
 An gnìomh a rinn sibhse gu tàireil
 Diolaidh mis' ann aon la è.

'S maith a gheibhe tu sin fhir
 Bhi 'g im'eachd ann slighe t Athar.
 Cuir an càirdeas o' r cùl,
 'S tog an fhalachd choit-chionnta.

Mar chaidh Bran a mharbha'.

Lag is lag oirn ars' a chorr
 'S fada crom mo lurg a' m' dheigh,
 Nam bristinn's i an nochd,
 C'ait am faighinn lus na léigh ?

Leighisi' mis' thu ars' an Dreollan
 O'n a leighis mi mòran rothad,
 Ann sa choir tha os mo cheann
 'S mis' a leigheis Fionn nam fleadh.

An latha mharbh sinn an torc liath
 'S iomad Fiamh bha ann 's a shleadh ;
 'S ioma cuilean taobh-geal seang
 Bha taobh ri taobh sa bheinn bhuig.

'N uair a shuidhich Fionn an t sealg
 Sin 'n uair a ghabh Bran fearg r' a chuid ;
 Throid an da choin air an t sliabh,
 Bran gu dian agus cù ghuill ;
 'S man d' fhaod sinn smachd a chuir air Bran
 Dhealuich è na h uilt r' a dhruim.

Dh' eirich Goll mòr mac Smàil
 Cùis nach bu choir mu cheann coin.
 Bhagair è 'n lamh ann san raibh Bran
 Gun dail a thoirt da, ach amharbhadh.

Dh' èirich Oissain beag mac Fhinn,
 'S cuig ceud-deug ann co'-dhail Ghuill,
 'S labhair è ann còmhraidh àrd
 Caisgeam do shluagh garg a Ghuill.

Bhuail mi buille do 'n èill bhuig
 'S do na balgaibh fionndairnich,
 Dh' adhlaic mi 'n t òr 'na cheann,
 'S truagh a rinn mi 'm beud r' a sheinn.

Sheall mo chuilean th' air a ghualain,
 'S b' ionadh leis mi 'g a bhuala ;
 'S shrutha na frasa fala
 O rosgaibh meara glana.

An lamh leis 'n do bhuail mi Bran
 'S truagh nach ann o 'n ghualain bha i ;
 Man d' rinn mi am beud a bhos,
 Gur truagh nach ann eug a chaidhs'.

Ciod a bhuaidh nach raibh air Bran
 Ar-sa Conan uaibhreach mear,
 O 'n a b' aois cuilean do Bhran,
 'S o 'n a chuir mi con iall air :
 Cha 'n fhacas am Fiannaibh fàil
 Lorg feigh ann dèis fhàgail.

Bu mhaith è thathunn dòrain duinn,
 Bu mhaith è thoirt èisg a h amhuinn ;
 Gum b' fhearr Bran a mharbha' bhroc,
 Na coin na talmhuinn ann d' fhàs è.

A chiad leigeadh a fhuair Bran
 Air druim na coille coir liath.
 Naonar do gach fiadh air bith
 Mharbhadh Bran air a cheud-ruith.

Casan buidhe bha aig Bran,
 Da sblios dhubhadh, is tarr geal,
 Druim uaine man iathadh an t sealg,
 Da chluais chorrach chrò dhearg.

Laoidh a Choin dui'.

Latha dhuinn air Mùr Fhinn
 'G amhare gu dian air sliabh loin,
 'Sè chunnaic sinn a' tighinn o 'n tráigh
 Fear earra dheirg, is Coin dui'.

'S gile na blàth a shnuadh
 Bha dha ghruaidh air dhath nan suth,
 Bu ghile na gach blàth a chorp
 Ge d' tharla d' a fhalt a bhi dubh.

Eagal cha do ghabh è rothaim,
 'S ann a dh' iarr è oirn còmhrag chon :
 Leigeadar rís coin chàich
 Leis nach bu ghnà dol air cùl
 'S è 'n cù dubh bu ghairbhe gre
 Thorchair leis tri¹ chaogad cù.

Dh' èirich Fionn amearg an t sluaigh
 'S dh' amhairc è gu geur air Bran,
 Dh' fheargaich a dhà shùil 'n a cheann
 Dh' èirich gurt is greann air Bran.

'Nuair a chrath Bran an t slabhruidh òir
 Amearg an t sloigh le 'n doirte fuil,

'S ann ann sin bha'n sgainneart ghlan
 Eadar Bran agus an Cù dubh :
 Thugadar cuir eifeachdach gharg
 'S dh' fhàgadar marbh an Cù dubh.

Oganaich is àillidh dealbh
 'Nis' o 'n thorchair leinn do chù,
 Fios do shloinne b' àill leinn uait,
 Na co 'n tìr as 'n do ghluais thu ?

Eibhinn Oissain b' è sud m' ainm
 Thainig mi fa stoirm bhur con,
 Shaoil mi nach raibh sud 'n ar Feinn
 Na bheireadh creuchd air For

'S mar bhithe Geola n' an car,
 Agus Bran aig meud a lùis,
 Cha raibh cuilean man do dhruid iall,
 Dh' fhàgadh an cu dubh siar man Dùn.

'S ioma maighdionn deud-gheal òg
 Is binne glòir, 's is buithe cùl,
 Atha 'n an suidh 'n Dùn nan Torc,
 A bheireadh biadh a nochd do m' chù.

Cumhadh Oseair.

'N cuala sibhse turus Fhinn
 An turus a b' fhaide leinn
 An Cairble sleadhach lamhach lag
 Ghlac è Eirinn fa aon smachd.

Chuir e fios oirme gu teamhrui
 Gur n iomarbhaidh amach a h Albuinn,
 'S a dheanamh gnìomh bu duileadh na sin,
 Dol a bhuntuinn dhinn ar tighearna.

Fhreagair sinn an cuire dàna,
 A lion uile is a bha sinn,
 'S cha raibh sinn aon do 'n Fheinn uile
 A lion 'sa chosna dhuinn bhi subhach.

Seachd fichead-deug deagh mharcach
 Air an rathad ghle gheal chleachdach,
 Fhuair sinn onoir, fhuair sinn miagh
 Mar a fhuair sinn roimhe riamh.

Chaidh sinn gu subhach a steach
 'S thainig sinn dubhach amach,
 Bha Cairble is Oscar ri trom òl
 Seachd oi'che agus seachd lò.

An oi'che mu dheire do 'n òl
 Thuirt an Cairble le guth mòr,
 Iomlaid cinn sleadhach an dràst,
 A b' aill leam fhaithinn uaitse Oseair.

Ciod an iomlaid cinn sleadh a tha ort
 A Chairble mhòir nan lonng phort?
 'S gum bu leat mi fhein, 's mo shleadh
 Ann àm chuir catha, na còmhrag.

Cha 'n 'eil seoid, na feachd 'n ar tìr
 A dh' iarra tu 'n onoir rìgh,
 Gun tàir, gun tailceis do neach
 Nach bu leatsa le shìreadh.

Ach iomlaid cinn, gun iomlaid croinn,
 'S mòr an eucair iarruidh oirn.
 'S è aobhar man iarra tu oirn' è
 Sinn a bhi gun Fhiann gun Athair.

Ge d' bhiodh an Fhiann is t Athair
 Mar a b' fhearr gan raibh iad riamh sa bheatha,
 Cha b' uilear leamsa ri m' linn
 Gach aon ni dh' iarrain gam faithinn.

Nam biodh an Fhiann is m' Athair
 Mar a b' fhearr gan raibh iad riamh sa bheatha
 Cha 'n fhaithe' tus' a Chairble ruaidh
 Leud do throighe do dh' Eirinn.

'N sin chinn fuarrachd nan laoch làn
 Cuimhneacha gach ni mar bha,
 'S bha briar'ran searbh leith mar leith
 Eadar an Cairbl' agus an t Oscar.

Bheirinnse dhuit bri'ara na dha
 Thuirt an Cairble le gu àrd,
 An t sleadh sin mu bheil thu 'n dràst
 Gur h ann uimp atha do luath bhàs.

Bheireansa dhuit briathar eile,
 Thuirt an t Oscar donn a h Albuinn,
 Gun eireadh leam buaidh agus creach
 'S rachainn a dh' Albuinn a' màireach.

Mharbh è righ lugha nan lann
 Gu luath fuilteach, faobhar teann,
 Chaisge' leis Baoisgean nan creach
 A bha luath laoisgneach luimineach.

Mungan mac Seircein a h uaidh
 A dh' ionga' cuig ceud claidhe' cruai',
 Thuit sud air laimh Oscair thall
 'S è mosgla' gu righ na h Eirionn.

Seachd fichead do dh' fhearaibh bogha
 Thainig oirn, 's cha b' ann 'g ar cabhair,
 Thuit sud air laimh Oscair thall
 'S è mosgla' gu righ na h Eirionn.

Seachd fichead do dh' fhearaibh feachd
 Thainig a tìr fhuair an t sneachd,
 Thuit sud air laimh Oscair thall
 'S è mosgla' gu righ na h Eirionn.

Seachd fichead Albannach àrd
 Thainig th' air muir ghaidheal gharbh,
 Thuit sud air laimh Oscair thall
 'S è mosgla' gu righ na h Eirionn.

Seachd fichead Cairble ruadh
Do mhaithibh 's do mhòr uaislibh an t-sluaigh
Thuit sud air laimh Oscair thall
'S è mosgla' gu rìgh na h Eirionn.

A chuignear a b' fhaigse do 'n rìgh
'S air leam gum bu mhòr an gnìomh,
Thuit sud air laimh Oscair thall
'S è mosgla' gu rìgh na h Eirionn.

'N uair a chunnaic an Cairble ruadh
An t Oskar a sgathadh an t sluaigh,
A chraosach dhearg a bha 'na laimh
Thilg e sud ann co'-dhail Oscair.

Thuit Oscar air a ghlun deas
Is sleadh nan seachd seun tre a chrìos ;
'S thug Oscar urchair eil' a null,
'S leagadh leis àrd rìgh Eirionn.

Art Mhic Chairble glac do chlàidhe'
'S dean seasamh ann àite t Athar,
'S ma gheibh thu sìneadh saoghail
Saoilidh mi gur mac rath thu.

Thuit le Oscar gnìomh bha cuimeiseach,
Art Mac Chairbl' air an ath urchair ;
Sluagh Chairble 's bu gharbh a ghreis
Chuir iad an càpan man cheap.

Oscar mac Oissain an àidh
Thog è meall cloiche o 'n làr,
Sgoilt è 'n càpan is an ceap
Gnìomh mu dheire mo dheadh mhic.

'S ann an sin a thainig Fionn
Air an tulaich os ar cionn ;
'S n uair a thionndaidh è ruinn a chùl-thaobh
Gun sìleadh na deoir o rosgaibh.

Mo laogh fhein thu, lacgh mo laoigh thu
Leanamh mo leinibh ghil chaoimh thu,
Mo chridhe leumnaich mar lun
Gu la bhràth cha 'n èirich Oscar.

Am meas a tha na mar bha
Latha catha Beinn eidinn,
Shnàmhadh na corran roi' d' chneas
'S i mo lamh a rinn do leigheas.

Mo leigheas cha 'n 'eil am fath
 'S cha l mho nithear è gu bràth,
 Chuir Cairble a chraosach dhearg
 Eadar m' àirnean agus m' iomlag.

Thug mise urchair eil' a null
 Mu chomhair fhuilt agus eudain,
 'S nan ruige' mo dhuirn a chneas
 Cha deanadh na léigh' a leigheas.

'S truagh nach mis a thachair ann
 Ann cath catha ri gnìomh nach gann,
 'S tusa bhi an or 's an iar
 Ochóin roimh' na Fiannaibh Oscair.

Ge bu tus a thachra ann
 An cath catha ri gnìomh nach gann,
 'S mis' a bhi an or 's an iar,
 Ga d' iargain cha bbiodh an t Oscar.

Thogadar an t Oscar àluinn
 Air bharraibh n'an crann sleadha àrda,
 O na mullaichean amuigh
 Gu tulach nan sliabh tamha.

Cha chaoineadh Bean a' mac fein
 'S cha chaoine fear a bhràthair
 Ach amheud 's a bha sinn man tigh
 Bha sinn uil' a' caoineadh Oscair.

Donnalaich n' an con ri m' thaobh
 Agus bùraich nan sean laoch,
 Sgal a phannail mun seach,
 Gur è sud achràidh mi m' chridhe.

'S nach d' fhiosraich duine riamh
 Gun raibh cridhe feol' a' m' chliabh;
 Ach cridhe mar chuimhne cuir
 Air èideigeadh le stàilinn.

Leachd Oscair a chràidh mi m' chridhe
 Ann san naigh bhi trid 'g a righe,
 'S muladach tha sinne 'g a chion
 'S tearc neach aig nach 'eil t iomradh.

Latha na teann ruidh.

Latha dhuinn air luachair leothair
 Mar chearthar fhothain do 'n bhuithinn,
 Bha mis' ann, bha Oscar, bha Daorghlas
 Bha Fionn fein ann 's b' è Mac Chuthaill.

Chunnaic sinn fear mòr a' tighinn
 'S è mar aona cheum,
 Le mhantull dubh ciar dhu' cairtidh
 Le h anbharra lachduinn 's le ruadh mheirg.

Gum b' uamharra coltas an òg-laoich
 Gum b' uamharra sud, 's gum bu ghruamach,
 Le cheanna-bheairt chlocharra shèimh
 Os ceann aoduinn fein san uair sin.

Labhair Fionn is è sa mhonadh
 Ris an duine bha dol seachad,
 Co 'n tir am bheil do thuineachd
 Fhir sin n' an cochull craicinn.

Lon Mac Lioghann b' è m' ainm baiste¹
 'S nam biodh aguibhse beachd sgeul orm,
 'S gum biodh sibh ri h uallach Gothadh
 Ann ceardaich ri' Lochlann ri seirbheis.

Thainig mi gu 'r cuir fa gheasuibh
 'S gu bhi 'n ar luchd freasdail a' m' cheardaich,
 Gu sibh a ghluasad buithinn ochdnar
 Siar gu dorsaibh mo cheardach.

C' ait' a thrù a' bheil do cheardach
 N' am feairde sinne a faicinn?
 Ach faiceadh sibhse ma dh' fhaodas,
 'S ma dh' fhaodas mise cha 'n fhaic sibh.

Sin 'n uair chaidh iad 'n an siubhal
 Mar chuige' mugha na luiminich,
 Air sliabh buithe bun a bheithe,
 Gun raibh iad 'n an ceithir buidhnibh.

Bu bhuithinn diu' sud an Gothainn,
 'S Bu bu bhuithinn eile dhiu Daorghlas;
 Bha Fionn 'n an dèigh san uair sin,
 'S cuid mhor do dh' uaislibh na Feinne.

¹ This word is nonsense. No baptism among them in those days.

A' dìreadh ri cèidse thoirin,
 'S a' tearnadh ri dainneanachd maonaich,
 Fosa beag ort (arsa 'n Gothainn)
 Druideam rotham (ar-sa Daorghlas).
 Mam fàg thu mi 'n dorus na ceardach
 Ann àite teann is mi m' aonar.

Fhuaradar na builg r' a shèideadh
 Fhuaradar air eigin ceardach,
 Fhuaradar cearthar r' am marbhadh
 Do dhaoine doirbhe mi-dhealbhach.

Labhair an Gothainn gu gròth,
 Bu ghrò sin 's gum bu ghruamach,
 Co è 'm fear caol so gun tiomadh
 Athairneas mo thinne cruadhach?

Labhair Fionn agus è freagairt,
 Tha 'n lamh nach 'eil r' a theagasg san fhiadhach;
 Ach gu meal thu t ainm a Chaoilte
 Cha bhi Daorghlas ort o 'n uair so.

Bha seachd lamhan air a Ghothainn
 Agus teanachair leothar eatrom,
 'S na seachd ùird a bha 'g an spreige'
 Cha bu mheas a fhreagra Caoilte.

Caoilte fear gharadh na ceardach
 'S bha è dearbhte leom 'n uair a throdadh,
 'S bu deirge na gual an daraich
 A shnuadh le toradh na h oibridh.

Rinn è 'n leadarrach do dh' Oscar,
 Rinn è 'n cosgarrach do Chaoilte,
 'S mac an luin do Mhac Chuthaill,
 Nach d' fhàg fuigheall do dh' fheoil daoine.

Fead, agus faoth, agus foirionn,
 'S an oireallach nic-na-ceardach,
 'S an làn fhada ghlas do Dhiarmad
 'S ioma latha riamh a dhearbhadh i.

Agam fhein a bha geur n' an calann
 Bu mhòr farum 'n uair a throdadh,
 Bu mhaith i 'n latha na teann-ruidh
 Ann an ceardaich Lon Mac Lioghann.
 Anochd gur tuirseach mo ghabhail
 'N dèis bhi 'g àireamh na muinntreach.

Laoidh an Amadain Mhoir.

Chualas sgeul luaineach, 's cha bhreug
Air Eoin sin ga 'n gèill na sloigh,
'N laoch curand' air nach dearg arm,
'S é b' ainm dha 'n t Amadan mòr.

Smachd an domhain a ghlac è,
'N Giulladh nach d' fhaod gu bhi borb,
Cha b' ann am bàrr sgeith na lann
A bha neart ann ach 'na dhorn.

S amhuil sin is mar bha è,
S ioma triath a bha fa smachd,
Sgeula gearr air dheire' thall
Tuig ann rann is tha i ait.

Latha gan raibh 'n t Amadan mòr
Air chrìochaibh Lochlainn ri seol gaoith,
E fein is aona Mhac¹ a mnai,
S ni 'm facas riamh h àillidh mhnaoi

An Gleann diomhair a tharla leo
Gleann is boidheche tha fui 'n ghrein,
Is mìne srath, 's is àillidh fonn,
'S fuaim a thonn ri slìos a leirg,

Chunnaic iad a' tighinn 'nan taobh
Gruagach² chaomh bu bhreagha brot,
Pios do dh' òr loisgte 'na dhorn
Coltoch ri corn am bi deoch.

Ach comhairle a bheirinn ort
Na h òl a dheoch, 's na blais a bhiadh,
Gus am fiosraiche tu 'n Gleann,
'S nach raibh thu ann roimhe riamh.

'N sin thuirt an t Amadan mòr,
Cha raibh mise fòs ri m' rè,
'S nì 'n raibh mi riamh nì 's mò tart,
'S gum b' fhearr a theachd ge b' è co è.

Bheannuich Gruagach a chùira òir
Do 'n Amadan mhòr, 's ga mhnaoi,
'S bheannuich an t Amadan mòr
'S na comaine ceudna dho.

Thainig iad air cheann gach sgeoil,
 'S thuirt a Ghruagach bu bhreagha brot
 Na bi dubhach Og-laoich mhoir
 Dean suidhe is òl do dheoch.

Thug è sùgha draosta borb
 'S cha d' fhàg braon sa chorn gun òl,
 'S ri imeachd gruagach a chùirn
 Cha bu shubhach a chuirn dha ;
 Na casan o na gluinean sìos
 Bha sud a dhi air an fheòr mhòr.

'N sin 'n uair a thuirt Mac a mnai,
 'S mairig a tha mar tha thu nochd,
 'S tearc do charaid san domhan mhòr,
 'S nì 'n oil leo thu bhì gun chos.

'N sin thuirt an t Amadan mòr
 Biosa a rìbhinn òg a' d' thosd,
 Cha bhì air duin' ann crìch,
 No gheibh mi a-ris mo chosan ;
 'Sluaithe mis air mo dha ghlùn
 Na seisear le lùths' an cos.

Togsa leat mo sgiath, 's mo lann
 Gus an aonach is fearr dòigh.
 'S air suidh dhoibh air an t sliabh
 Chunnaic iad fiagh sa Ghleann ghorm
 'S gaothar cluas dearg 'na dhèigh
 'S è tathunn gu geur air a lorg.

Ann sin thug an t Amadan mòr
 Urchair ghasa le seol geur,
 'S chuireadh le neart laimh an laoich
 An t sleadh roi dha thaobh an fhèigh.

Ghlaca leis an gaothar bàn,
 'S chum è 'na laimh è air èill.
 Bithidh tus' agam-sa ri ceol,
 Gus an d' thig duine na tòir a' d' dhèigh.

Chunnacas mar a' teachd sa ghleann
 Gruagach ann fuidh earradh òir
 A lann libhte air a thaobh clì,
 Bha dha shleadh, 's a sgiath 'na dhorn.

Gun do bheannuich Gruagach a bhrait òir,
 Do 'n Amadan mhòr 's ga Mhnaoi,
 'S ghabhadh leo sgeula gu beachd,
 Cia i 'n tir 'n do chleachd thu shaoi.

'S mise Gruagach a ghaothair bhàin
 Air do laimhse Mhic a mhòir,
 Ruidire curanda gum b' è sud m' ainm.
 'S mi 's gach ball a bhuineadh buaidh.

'S ach a mhacain ga maith do dhealbh
 Bheirinnse mo dhearbha dhuit,
 Nach bi Gruagach a ghaothair bhàin
 Gu la bhràth r' a radh ruit.

Nach fhothainn leat Og-lasich mhoir
 Leith-bhreith na dha bhi san roinn,
 An t sealg uile bhi air do laimh
 'S mo ghaothar bàn a leige leom.

'S mise fein a rinn an t sealg
 Thuirt an t Amadan gu garg dian,
 'S ge b' è fear is cruaidh lamh
 'S leis an gaothar bàn 's am fiadh.

'S o 'n thachair mo ghaothar ort,
 'S a tha na casan a' d' dhi,
 Biadh is aodach fad do rè
 Bheirinn sud duit fein s do d' mhnaoi.

'N sin 'n uair a thuirt a bhean
 Thoir thus' an gaothar geal sin da.
 Bheireadh is an gaothar breac,
 'S nam b' àill leatsa ni bu mo.

'N sin 'n uair a thog iad am fiagh
 Ann crannaig an sgiath, is a bhean,
 'S ann a dh' imich iad 'n an triuir
 Ann san iul a rinn am fear.

Chunnaic iad uatha sa ghleann
 Caithir ann is dealradh òir,
 'S cha raibh miann a chunnaic sùil
 Nach raibh ann sa chùirt ni 's leoir.

Dh' fhiosraich an t Amadan mòr
 Co i chaithir uasal òir,
 Is maith a dreach, 's is àillidh snuagh
 Nach fhaigheamaid breith na iul.

Dùn an òir sa bhall a' bheil,
 Dùn a ghuil gum b' è sud ainm,
 'S nach mairthionn a dh' Fhiannaibh-fail
 Ach mis' amhàin is aon bhean.

Chunnaic iad aon a bhean san Dùn
 'S cha raibh sealla sùl bu bhriagh';
 Bu ghile nan sneachd a chorp,
 A gruaidh mar ròs, a deud mar bhlàth.

'S ann a dh' fhiosraich an Ainnir òg
 Toiseach gach sgeoil ga fear fein,
 Co è Macan deud-gheal òg
 N' am fear mòr 'g am bheil thu geill?

Amadan mòr gum b' e sud ainm
 Ainnir mheirbh an nuadhair òir,
 Tha fir an t saoghail fa smachd
 'S gur mise fein a gheill do.

'S ioghna' leom na bheil thu 'g ràdh
 A mheud 's air na thàr è doigh,
 Ma chuir è 'n saoghal fa smachd,
 Co 'm 'n do leig è chasan leo.

Bheirinn-se dhuit mo bhriathra fhein
 Righrin an demhain gun do gheill do;
 'S mar bhithe druitheachd a chuirn chrosg
 Cha leigeadh è chasan leo.

Bhuail iad air iomairt 's air ceol
 An da mhnaoi òg bu ro mhaith cliu,
 Bha gruagach Dùn an òir sa ghreis,
 'S Amadan mòr n' an cleas luithe.

'S mithich dhomhsa dol a shealg
 Air uagha deirg gu Gleann smàil;
 Gleidh mo rath dhomh air mo chùl,
 Gleidh mo chuid òir, gleidh mo mhnai.

'S ge d' a raibh mi fad amuigh
 Na luidh is na crom do cheann,
 'S na leig aon duine 'steach
 Na duin' amach, ach na h ann.

'S è thuirt an t Amadan mòr
 Suidh thus' a Ribhinn òg fa m' cheann,
 Tha 'n cadal anis' 'g a m' thuar
 Na 'n cinne leinn suain sa ghleann.

'S è chunnaic an Ainnir mheirbh
 Oganach doirbh tighinn a steach,
 'S do mhnaoi a ghruagaich thug è pòg,
 'S gum b' oil leis an òigh atheachd.

Dh' èirich a Ghruagach dheas donn
 'S rug i gu garg air a cheann ;
 Bi t fhaireach Òg-laoich mhoir,
 Ma rinn thu suain cha b' è 'n t àm.

Mar bitheans' am shuain ni 's leoir
 Cha leiginn leo tighinn a steach,
 'S gun d'thig Gruagach Dùn an òir
 Mu 'n d' theid è r' a bheo amach.

Ann làr an doruis a shuidh è
 'S rug è air a sgèith 'na dhorn,
 Cha do bhuail Gothadh, Ceard, na Saor,
 Còmhla' is daighne nan Laoch borb.

Dh' èirich an gaisgeach deas òg
 'S rug è 'na dhorn air a sgeith ;
 Fàg an dorus Òg-laoich mhoir,
 'S nach ball coir a' bheil thu fhein.

A rìgh gum faighe' mis' am bàs
 M' an d' theid mi chuir chàich a' m' cheann,
 M' an d' theid aon duine amach,
 Na duine steach ; ach na h ann.

Bheirinn duit airgiod is òr,
 Cula' mhath shròil agus m' each,
 'S bu choingeis leis muir na tir,
 Nan leige' tu 'rìs mi 'mach.

Bheirinn duit briathara na dha
 Is gabh fos mu na bheil mi 'g radh.
 Gun d' thig Gruagach dùn an òir
 'S gun dioladh è pòg a mhnai.

Cuiridh mi do leith chas fothad
 Mar a b' fhearr gan raibh i riamh,
 'S chuir è le draoitheachd a chas fotha
 Mar a b' fhearr gan raibh i riamh :
 'S thuirt an gaisgeach a bha glic
 Faodai mis' anis' bhi triall.

'S è thuirt an t Amadan mor
 Fuirich thusa fòs gu mall,
 A chas eile gun d' thig uait
 Gu ceum cruaidh, air neo do cheann.

Ach mo chomaraich ort a bhean,
 Didein mo chorp, 's glac mo 'ann.
 Cha 'n fhaith thu didein o 'n bhàs
 A mhacain is àillidh dreach ;
 Ach thoir a chas eile dha
 'S gabh seachad an rod amach.

Ach o 'n fhuair mi mo chasan ceart
 Cha leig mi leats' iad ni 's mò,
 'S mior dhiot cha d' theid am
 Gus an d' thug Gruagach a bhrait òir.

Mo chomaraich ort Og-laoic'! mhoir
 'S ro mhath mo dhoigh as do mhèinn ;
 'S mise Gruagach a ghaothair bhàin,
 'S mi chuir ann s gach càs thu,
 'S mise thug do chasan uait
 A dh' fhiosracha do luaiths', 's do lùiths'.

Bha iad ann sin gràdh air ghràdh,
 Mèinn air mhèinn air aon doigh ;
 Gu'n cualas sgeul luaineach, 's cha bhreug
 Air Eoin sin 'g an gèill na slòigh,

An Ionmhuinn.¹

A Osein uaisle mhic Fhinn,
 'S thu d' shuidh' air au tulaich aoibhinn,
 A mhili mhoir nach bheil meat,
 Tha mi faicsin broin air h' intinn.

Is cuid d' àbhar mo bhroin fein,
 A Phadruic mhic Alpein fheil,
 Bhi smuaineach air maithibh na Feinne,
 'S air na seachd Cathuibh Coi-treuna,

La gun robh Teaghlach Fhinn,
 Gu muirneach meanmnach aoibhinn,
 Gu'm facas ag teachd 's a mhàgh,
 Annir is i teachd na 'h aonar.

An Nighean bu ghile snuadh,
 Bu deirge 's a b' aille Gruaidh ;
 Gu 'm 'b aille na Gath Greine
 A bragad suas fui Caoimh leine.

Bha da rosg Ghaireachdach na Ceann,
 Bha earradh aluinn mu timchioll,
 Leinteog d' an t' srol a b' uire
 fa cneas gràdhach, caoibh, cumraidh.

Dunadh oir fa brat uain,
 Clocha buadha fa sar shnuadh,
 Bha fain oir loisgte air gach meur aic,
 Bha slabhra oir mu Caoimh bhragad.

Thug sinn trom cheist uile dhi,
 Teaghlach Fhinn a h' Albhuidh ;
 Gun aon duin' a thabhairt Gaoil
 D' a mhnaoi fein ach d' an Ionmhuinn

Chuir i a Comraich air Fionn,
 An Ri-bhean Ghlan, Bhon, bheulbhin
 Mo Chomraich air Goll mear mor,
 Mac Mornai nam bratach shroil

Mo Chomraich air Faolan mac Fhinn ;
 'S air Cairreal nan gruaidh grinn,
 Mo chomraich air Diarmad Donn,
 'S air Luth-lamh Ghasta nan Sonn

[¹ MS. 112, in Mr MacLagan's handwriting.]

Mo Chomraich ort Oscair an aigh
 Lamh a chosnadh 's gach Teug-mhail ;
 Mo chomraich oirbh Fheanna maithe,
 Eidir chlann Righrin 's ard Fhlaithean.

Sin tra Fhreagair Fionn gu Grad,
 An Annir ur 'gan gile glaic ;
 Cia bhiodh an toir ais do lorg ?
 A Gheug Bhannta shul-ghorm

'S e bhiodh an toir orm fein,
 A Fhinn uasle 's Righ d'ur Fheinn,
 Iolunn aghmhor a's ro Ghlaine,
 Aon mhac Oighre na h' Espainne.

Dh' eirich cear'ar mhac Fhinn,
 Connul, Taog, Is Raogh nan Rao'ghann
 Faolan cruaidh na 'n Gruaidh grinn,
 Le 'm briathraibh ardanach aoibhinn.

Suidhidh sinne air do sgath,
 A Nighean a's mannta Comhradh,
 Mu 'm buin am fear mor leis thu,
 Ge mor leat a ainnis Fheabhas.

Cait an d Fhas e 'n Ear no 'n Iar,

Gu 'm b' e sud am fear mannd',
 'Na Stuaigh allmhar chugain,
 Le fraoch feirge gu Fiannaibh Fhinn,
 'S e mar chaore teinnteach Chugainn.

Bha leine d' an t' srol bhui' mu 'n fhear,
 Le stiom do 'n t shioda ga 'Cheangal,
 A luireach mhor, irseach, mhailleach,
 'S a threun Scabul breac Buathach.

Ceann-bheart clochara sheamh,
 Os cean sochria a mhasain ;
 A dha shleagh bu chruaidh rinn,
 Nan cuilg seasamh re Ghualuinn.

A Chloidheamh frosach neimhneach,
 Cruaidh cosgarach Coi-dhireach,
 An sciath irseach oir a Bhri Bhlagh,
 An dorn toisgeal a mhili.

Thug e Ruthar fir gun cheill,
 's cha do Bheannaich d' Fhionn no Dh' Fheinn,
 Mharbh e ceud do Cheuda Fhinn,
 S mharbha leis an Ionmhuinn.

Cheangladh ceathrar mhac Fhinn,
 's naoi naonar do 'n luchd Leanmhuinn
 D' an Cuideachuibh mear-dhana mear
 Le Iolunn og an deud ghil.

Thiondadh mo mhac air a leirg,
 Oscar 's e lan do throm Fheirg,
 Thug e náire gu dana,
 Air a Fhear mhor mhi-narach,

Thiontadadh Iolunn re mo mhac fein,
 'S Rinneadh leo Comhrag treun ;
 Coimheach, Cneathach, Cnaimh-dhearg,
 Bos-luath, beumnach, Leamnach Garbh.

Gu 'm be sin an comhrag ard
 Fuileac Faobharach ro Gharg,
 An Seriosa fola gu teann
 Mar Uisg' a ruidh re Caol Ghleann,

Mar Gharbh Ghaoith a thig le Greann
 sa Reubas scealpa nam Beann,
 No mar Chaore teinnteach thig a teallach
 Bha tora na 'n laoch Namhadach

Thug Oscar beum feargach, fearoil,
Do D Iolum Calma n Deud Ghil,
Chiosaich e leis a Bheuma Ghranna
Mac Oighre Righ na h' Espaine.

Air an Tulaich cladhachadh a leac
A Phadruic tha 'n Sceul ud beachd
'S leac na mna air an taobh eile
A dheadh mhic Ailpein a h' Albhuidh

'S bhriste mo Chride mun Fheinn
'S Gun bhi n duine Dhiubh ach Seicd
Beannachd nan Diaidh gu leir,
's mo Bheannachd fein ad Dheaidh Oscar

A Fragment of a Poem ascribed to Oshian.

The Battle of Bein-eiden.

Maoineas King of Lochlin having invaded Ireland Fingal sends his Son Fergus the Bard to enquire of his Hostile appearance and to offer him rich presents on condition he would return peaceably to his own country. The two Armies being in sight of each other, it was previously concerted betwixt Fingal and Fergus that if Maoineas accepted the Terms Fingal proposed, Then Fergus was immediately to display a flag, Which he carried with him for that purpose, as a signal for Fingal to advance to the Battle. Fergus still remaining in Conversation with Maoineas while Fingal's Army advances, takes that opportunity to inform him of the Character of Fingal's Chiefs, whom he points at under their several Colours or Standards. With this the following fragment begins.

The names of the Speakers are Marked in the Margin.

OSSIAN Sgaoil Fergus fili a Bhratach o Chrann,
Mar Chomhar gun dhiult Riogh Lochlin Cumha.
Ghluais an Fhian ghaolach gu mor,
Agus na glas-Laoich bu mhor neart
Thanig sluadh fairim chairim nan tonn
Thanig sud 's bu throm an fheachd.
Dubhairt Riogh Lochlin an sin

TRANSLATION.

Fergus the eloquent spread his flag from the shaft
 As a signal that the King of Lochlin declined the reward
 The lovely heroes moved with majesty
 And the grey swains of great strength
 The chearful people of the waves advanced
 These advanced and heavy was that host
 Then spoke the King of Lochlin

¹ MS. "bhean" with "a" deleted.

- M. Whose standard is this Musical Bard
Is this the standard of Migh & Victory
Liath Luinach I see a gallant youth supporting it
Sinewy Gray. And itself desirous to outstrip the host
F. This is no other than the Liath luinach
The standard of Diarmaid o Duinne
When the Heroes advance Liath luineach takes the Van.
- M. Whose standard is this musical Bard
Is this the standard of the son of might & victory
Finchosach I see a Gallant Youth supporting it
White footed. And itself desirous to outstrip the host
This is no other than the reddish finchosach
The Standard of Ryno of much people
Whose Standard is this musical Bard
Is this the Standard of the son of might and
Victory
I see a gallant youth supporting it
And itself seems desirous to outstrip the host
FERGUS. This is no other than the Brikil Brokil
The standard of huge Gaul the son of Morni
It is the property of his Yellow Satin
Foremost to advance and last to quit the field
MAOINEAS. Whose standard is this thou musical Bard
Is this the standard of the Son of might & victory
I see a Gallant Youth supporting it
And itself seems to outstrip the host
F. This is no other than the Du-neiv (black poison)
The standard of Caoilte the son of Retha
Were there ever so many in the Battle
There would be no mention of any except the Duneiv
M. Whose standard is this, musical Bard
Is this the standard of the son of might and
Victory
I see a Gallant Youth supporting it
And it flaming with joyous Gold
This is no other than the *sguabgarie*¹
The standard of hardy strong Oscar
A standard under which heads will be split
And under which blood will be drawn till it reach the ankles
That will not flinch one foot backwards
Till the heavy green earth recedes

¹ Besom of Destruction.

- Oss. We hoisted Galgreine to its shaft
 The Standard of Fingal strong in Battle
 Full of stones set in Gold
 Truly its reputation was high
- M. Methinks the Mountain is coming down
- F. What is greater cause of Terror to thee comes forward
 The son of Cuthuls Galgreine displayed
- M. Lying is thy mouth of smooth voice
 The third of what I have here of people
 You never had in Erin
- F. Tho' the Heroes few in Number are of small account to thee
 Before evening¹ thou wilt leap with all thy might
 Before the Clear-sword blade, or do hurt to thy self
 Let us bow our heads in the Battle
 And let every chief perform his promise
 Many were the heads made bare
 And shoulders bending aside
 From the rising of the sun till the evening
 There escaped not from the Edge of the sword to their ships
 Except one thousand of Choice men
 They fled like a stream rushing from the tops of the mountains
 And we in Battle Order driving them before us
 Many a Hero and Mighty Man
 And strong man of heavy stroke were there
 But an equal to Oscar my Son
 They had not on this side or that
 Seven Companies of the Choice of the people
 These fell by the Victorious Oscar
 And the Nine Sons of the red hair'd Maoineas
 A thousand and seven Score mighty Men
 These fell twixt Connan and Gaul
 But the Son of Cuthul w^t his high mettled
 folowers (people)
 Like a glowing forge without Intermission
 Sending forth devouring Sparks
 The stroke of every hero still repeated
 As long as a son of Lochlin remained.

 'S ole thig diolain Bean deadh fhir

Ruigse fos long Phort na 'm Fiann,
 Far an robh thu roimhe riamh,
 'S gheabh thu fein a bheil dhearg Bhanda
 Deadh Fhear agus deagh annsachd.

A Ghuill mhoir bu mhaith d' am reir ;
 Cia am fear leis an luidhteadh fein ?

Gabhsa Fearghus Binn na Feinn,
 No Oisein nan Caogad rinn,
 No Oscar feitheach Fuileach,
 No n Corchosach Geur Guineach.

'S Duilich leom sa imeachd uait,
 O 's tu mo Cheud fhear Seimbhidh suaire,
 O' m' ocha-bliann-deug gu blath,
 Och ! gu robhsa riamh mud thiomchioll.

O 'n oiche sin gus an nocht,
 Cha 'n fhacas ort aigue bocht ;
 Ach a oiche nocht ni n dual damhsa
 Bha aig aon fhear eile ta air talmhainn

Aon trath deug dhamh beo gun bhiadh,
 Mar nach robh Duine romham riamh ;
 'S e s mo a chaochail air mo Ghruaidh,
 Bhi g' ol an t saile Shearbha Ruaidh.

A Ghuill mhoir mhic o Bhidh,
 Cath na colla ni bheil ad thi,
 Ach mun tuit thu Laoidh na 'm fear,
 Ol bainne mo dha chich gu d' Chobhair.

O a nighean a Chaill do Chiall
 'S miosa na sin mar tha mo sceul,
 Gomhairle mna ge cruaidh na Geasan
 Ni 'n gabhsa no ni n dearnam,

Na 'n dearna tusa comhairl uam,
 A dheadh mhic Chormaig a Chraim Ruaidh,
 Cha bhiodh tu lag air an Ceann,
 Anns an am am faghadh tu C'othram.

Aine fag a chreig Chruaidh,
 A Ri-bhean eitich an-uair,
 Gus an tig fraoch, throimh mhuir mear¹
 Cha tig laoch an so gad chobhair

The following poems from their various MSS. were not transcribed before death overtook Dr Cameron ; but they are here printed to complete, as far as possible, the Ossianic Collection of Mr MacLagan.

Na Brataichin.¹

MANUS RIGH LOCHLAINN.

Ge d' gheabhadh Rìgh Lochlainn sud,
Na bha mhaoin 's do sheuda 'n Eirinn,
Cha philleadh e shluagh air ais,
Gus am biodh Eirinn uil' air earras.

OISEIN.

Scaoil Fearghus fili² a Bhratach o chrann,
Mar chomhar gu 'n dhiult Rìgh Lochlainn cumha,
Ghluais an Fhìann ghaolach gu (mor) foill
Agus na glas-laoich bu mhor neart.
Thainig sluagh fairim chairim na'n tonn,
Thainig sud 's bu throm an fheachd ;
Suil d' an tug Rìgh Lochlainn uaidh,
Chunnaic e Bratach ag tidh'n amach,
Agus gille gasta air a ceann,
Air a lasadh do dh' òr Eireannach.

MANUS.

Cia i a Bhratachsa Fhìli dhunaich ;
An i sud Bratach Mhic Treun-bhuadhaich ?
Chi mi giolla gasta air a ceann,
Is i fein ag togradh thair³ sluaghadh.

FEARGHUS.

Cha 'n i sud ach an Liath-luineach, (luidneach
Bratach Dhiarmaid O Duibhne,
'N tra thigeadh an Fhìann uil' amach,
Ghabhadh an Liath-luineach toiseach.

Caoidh Oisein air Oscar.

Is mor a nochd mo chumha fein
 'S an ealghris so tha nam chre,
 Re smuainteachadh chatha chruaidh
 A chuir sinn is Cairbre Crann-ruadh.

An cath a chuireadh am magh Ghabhra,
 Eadruinn is Cairbre Crann-ruadh,
 Thuit an Fhiann ann bonn re bonn,
 Is Righridh uasal na h-Eireann.

B' ioma cath-bharr cumhduigh caoimh,
 Agus sciath gu h othuibh¹ oir,
 Do bhi tarsuinn ann sa mhagh,
 Agus Triath bhi ann gun anam.

Ni 'm faigheamaid ann san t sluagh
 Ach mac trein fhir air am biodh buaidh,
 'S ni 'n togaimid as a chath
 Ach mac Righ no ro fhilath.

Aithris duine Oisein fheilidh,
 Anois o 's binn leam fein do ghloir,
 An d' fhuair do mhac bas san chath,
 No, 'n d' rug thu air² ur-labhradh ?

Do fhuair mise mo mhac fein
 Is e na luidheadh air uileann chle,
 Is e sileadh fhola teith,
 Trid bhloidibh a luirich.

Chuireas urlann³ mo shleagh re lar,
 Is rinneas os a cheann tamh,
 Ag smuaineacha' le bron ann sin,
 Creud a dheanainn na dhiaidh.

Dh'amhaire an t Oscar ormsa suas,
 Is dar leam bu mhor a chruas,
 Shin e chugam a dha laimh,
 Chum eirigh am cho-dhail.

Ghlacas lamha mo mhic fein,
 Agus shuidh mi fuidh¹ na sceith :
 O 'n t shuidheadh sin gus a nochd,
 Nior chuireas speis san t saoghal.

'S e dubhairt rium mo mhac fearr'a,
 Is e ann deireadh an anma,
 A bhuidhe ris na duilibh sin
 Ma ta thusa slan a athair.

Os cionn mo mhic Oscar aigh
 Do bhi mi thre chur an àir,
 Is do bhi Caoilte ann mar sin
 Os cionn a sheisir chlainne.

Thainig Mac Ronain iar sin
 Chugainne do dh' fheachainn Oscair ;
 'S e dubhairt am milidh treun,
 Air bhith fada dho na mhor neul.

Mo thruaidhe sin Oscair fheil',
 Ma scar thus' an nochd r' ar Feinn,
 Dhealaich am mir-mhorra² le Fionn,
 'S lean an cìs re siol na 'm mor-chonn.

Aithris duinne Oscair fhearr'a
 Cionnus a ta thu foi d' mheamna,
 An liachd³ chreachduidh do chneadh,
 No 'm fead sinn le liaigh do leigheas ?

Mo leigheas ni 'm bheil am fath,
 'S ni 'm mo dheantar e gu brath,
 'S ni 'm faigh sibh a bheag do m' thairbhe
 Ach beagan beag do m' urlabhradh.

Dh' eirich Caoilte gean gun gho,
 'S dh' fheuch le iongnaibh cneadh no dho ;
 Druim an Oscair chreachdaich chaoin
 Air na scoltadh leis a gheir-shleagh.

Is measa do do bhi tu shiar,

Na fhuaireas fein shoir is shiar
 Ag cuairteachadh an Domhain riamh,
 Gur measa aon ghuin Chairbre
 Eadar m' fhor-dhroin & m' imlionn.

Do thugasa guin do Charbre,
 Bu leor a h isle 's a h airde,
 An Rìgh o 'n urchair mòr mhair,
 Gur sgoilteas a chliabh¹ na cheithreannaibh.

Is mis' am feasd nach gonadh Cairbre,
 Ar na bheiread long thair fairge,
 Mur bhiodha' Cairbre do m' ghuinse,
 Clann na deise dearbh-pheathraidh.

Thog sinn an t Oscar fearr'a,
 Air chrannaibh ar sleagh o 'n àr-fhaich,
 'S thug sinn e gu tulaich ghuirm ghloin
 Chum gu 'm buineamaid dh'e eadach.

 Ni 'n raibh uile slan do chorp,
 No gur rainig a bhuinn lar,
 Ach na mhidheach² ciorrbh' ta creachdach.

Seal do bhi dhuinne mar sin,
 Ag coimhead a chuirp chomh-ghloin,
 Chunnaic sinn ag teachd trath-non Fionn Mac Cumbail mhic Treunmhoir.

An tann do aithnich Oscar Fionn,
 Dh' eirich air uileann gu grinn,
 Dh' amhaire e 'n aghaidh a dhala,
 Agus bheannuch e do shean'-air.

Mo thruaighe sin Oscair fheil,
 Ma sear thus a nochd rium fein,
 Guilidh mi am feasd gu tiom,
 Is caoinidh uile Fhiann Eirinn.

As gille glaic-innis gu fìor a Bhricain

- 27 Cho'n neil ag Cuth-chullan mac
No Nighean as gille glaic
No Daltan a b'Aineamh Bragaid
No mac Dileas deagh mhathar.
- 28 Ach b' eansa leis Snaoish an aigh
Brathàir Oilibhin is ardain
- 29 Fregair a Choin Chulan Chaoin
Mhic Sedridh So-fhailtigh
Toirbheirt Snaoish air a Chean
Air do Chuid do d-fhearaibh Eirin
- 30 Ni 'm fear mise no Snaoish
Ni fear Laoch a Cho-aoish
Ach dhionga Snaois ri h uair 'n Aigh
Ceud do gach Curaidh Comhla.

Bheireamsa Briathar Riogh ann
Fhearaibh aille na Herin
Nach teid mi fein am Luingis
'S mi gan gheil o Chuth-chulan.

Bheirimsa Briathar Riogh eille
'S e labhair an t ard Chuth armun
Nach toir thu mo gheilse air Muir
Is mi fein an am Beatha.

'S Bodach thu a bhiodh na Udlach
'S ole thu fein is 's ole do mhuintir
'S ro ole Bean do thighe
'S Chon fhearr a Beau-mhuintir.

'S cho toir thu mo gheils' air Sail
'S chon bheil annad fein ach Allmharagh

'Sin nar dheirigh an da Thriadh
Le neart Cloidheamh & Sgiadh
Thogadar an Talamh Teth
Le 'n Traidhe san uair sin.

B' imidich Buille o Bhil sgiadh
'S Fuaim Clisniche re Cliat,
Fuaim Lainn ag gaoidh nan glean
Faoi sgleo nan Curaidh co teann.

Seachd oidhche & seachd Lo
 Thug iad ann san imid sgleo
 (An Ceann a t seachda Lo)
 Cho b' airde 'n garbh air a Mhagh
 No Cuth-Chulan na Gaisge.

An Ceann an T séachda Lo
 Thug Cuth-Chulan Beum dho
 Sgoilt e o Bruan gu Bran
 An sgiad Eangach orradha

A Choin Chulan annaich Triath
 Agamsa cho mhair mo Sgiath
 Ach aon Cheim Teiche Noir no nàr
 Cho tug mi Riamh 's mi 'm Bheath.

Bheirimse Briathar Riogh ann
 'S e labhair an t ard Chuth armun
 Aon Cheim teiche noir no niar
 Chon fhaighidh Chead a thabhairt.

Theilg Cuth-Chulan uaidh a sgiadh
 Air an Fhaiche Oir is Iar.
 Ga b' ainnich Sud brole an Fhaoil
 Le maithibh 's uaisle na Heirin.

Ach thug Cuth Chulan Beum eile
 Le meud a Mhinmidh 's a sceinnedh
 Thog e n Lamh leis an Lann
 'S sgar e an Cearn on Choluinn

Macanachd Eirin uille dhuit
 Uamsa arsa Connul
 Agus Ceud Chorn gan Fheall
 Am Fianaish Fearaibh Eirin.

The Rest of the MacLagan Ossianic Collection.

Mr MacLagan collected, in addition to the above poems, copies also of the following, which, for various reasons, are not here printed :—

Suirigh Oisein.

It is the same as Gillies' copy, but, curiously, wants verses 4, 5, 6, and 9. It is in MS. 109, which also contains a copy of "Eas-roy."

An Gobha.

There are more or less complete copies of this poem in MSS. 168 and 233.

Uirnigh Oisein.

A copy of this appears in MS. 157, from Archd. Mac Nicol.

Muileartach.

Mr MacLagan's copy of this poem, in MS. 59, is exactly the same as in Gillies'. A version also appears in MS. 168.

Crom-ghleann, or An t-Athach.

There is an incomplete copy of this poem in MS. 168.

Cath Ghabhra, or Bas Oscair.

This poem appears in MS. 69, but is the same as Gillies' copy. There is also a version in MS. 234, which is the same as Mac Nicol's in Leabhar na Feinne.

Laomuinn.

The copy in MS. 69 is the same as Gillies'; versions appear in MSS. 96 and 200.

Dargo's Wife.

In MS. 69, this poem is the same as Gillies'. A version appears in MS. 200.

Amadan Mor.

This is a popular poem, and good versions appear in MSS. 200 and 216.

Conlaoch.

A version appears in MS. 130.

Fraoch.

A copy exists in an unnumbered MS.; it extends to 35 verses, and is very good.

There are various versions of the poems printed above scattered throughout these and other MSS., the "Ionnluinn" being especially common; next to it the "Teamntachd," "Dermid," and "Clann Uisneach." There is a copy of the "Address to the Sun" and "Malvina."

THE SAGE COLLECTION.¹

POEMS OF OSSIAN THE SON OF FINGAL

Collected from and repeated by DONALD M^c KAY of Borgybeg in Strathnaver; & GEORGE MORRISON Lord Reay's Forester in Strathmore, two illiterate sagacious and genuine Highlanders, in Sutherlandshire by Mr Sage Min^r of Kildonan in said shire at the request of the Rev^d Dr John Kemp one of the ministers of Edinburgh, for the Hon^{ble} Highland Society in Scotland.

¹ Found in the most important of the Stewart (?) MSS., mentioned above on page 247. This MS. extends to 156 pages, and contains, besides the Sage-Pope and the Mackenzie collections reproduced hereafter, poems from the collections of General Mackay, Macdonald, Staffa, and M. Macdonald, Tarbert. viz., Ossian's Courtship (two copies), Cumha Oseair, Conlaach, Dermid, Dargo, and the Amadan Mor, but they are of no importance whatever.

Suireagh Oisein

“Co na daoine b’ aill m’ acanaich ?”
 ‘S e labhair rium mo nighean annsa :
 Bha mi uair a’m’ dheagh laoch-feachd,
 Ged tha mi ’nochd a’m dhibair seann-laoch.
 La sin a bhreughte leinn Eamhar aluin,
 Alt-chas fhinne : leannan Chormaic gu ceart
 Inghin Bhraim nan cuach airgid,
 Ghluais Cormac dha h iarruidh ;
 Le sè cathar¹ (sic cathfhear ?) deug do dheagh fhiannuigh
 Air muir, air mointich, a rè-mhonaidh
 Le grianan, ghiair-mhonigh. (sic)
 Chuir iadsin, an fhailte mhearrach (meagh’rach !
 Sluagh Chormaic, aird-rìgh Teanraigh Teamhraidh
 Ruith ’nar diaigh, gu teann.
 Bu lionar fleasgach mear, mearrach (meaghrach
 Bha ’gòl le meughar nam mor thealich (sic)
 ‘N uair b’ aighearrach iad ’s an òl
 Dh’ fhiafruich Bran, “Ciod e air* seol ?” * ’ur
 Creud ’ur turas gu mo thigh ?
 Gun fhìs gnothach ar n ard flath.
 Cormaic fhreagair air anceann
 “‘S e an aobhar mu’n d’ thainig sinn ann
 Air dearbh ghnothach gu do thigh
 A dh’ iarruidh ort sa t inghean.”
 Na mo chead, le Eamhar annsa
 Gur tusa mo roghuin cleannis. (cleamhnais ?
 Ach Eamhar le molla mòr.
 Cha leig mi thu le fear dhe t’ aindheoin.
 Gu dearbh cha d’ theid mi leis a dhaindheoin
 ‘S cha mhò is caomh leam a shamhuil
 Caisgear Bran ’n a theaghlach fein
 ‘S an tìr re taobh Lochan Leigh (Loch an fhéidh ?
 Is iad an deibh air aon neach.

 Bu luaithe na gaoth na h aon uaireach
 Chuir seol-sith air gruaidh na m marcach snuagh
 Air sealtuin air fear an eich as mò
 Bu mhisde leinn a lu’as a chum ata sin
 “Ceilear, ars’ Cormac caomh
 Leam na rinneadh gu baoh ;

¹ cathan ?

Man cuir fir-alla oirne an guth
 Air turas o'n t sior-shruth."
 "S i an inghean shuilghorn, sheirceach,
 Bhuntain uain, le aon mharcach.
 'Se labhair Mac Cu'il nan geal ghlaic
 "Na nàruich sinne is tu fein
 Na teid dha h iarruidh Oisein."
 Ged dhiultadh i iad uile
 Eadar mhac rìgh is ro-dhuine :
 'S toigh, gun tèidinn g'a h iarruidh
 Le da fhear dheug do dheagh fhiannaibh.
 Ghluais gu taobh loch an Fheigh
 An da fhear dheug, b'fhearr d' ar Fian
 Ge b'e leagadh ruinn, a rùn,
 Cha teicheadh romhain ach an droch rìgh
 Thainig 'n ar coinneamh amach
 Oglach suairce ioghlach thug dhomhs' pòg ;
 Is chur fàilt air an da fhear dheug.
 'N uair a b'fhaoileach dhuinn do'n òl
 Dh' fheoraich Bran, Ciod e ur seol
 Ciod e ur gnothach gu h áraidh."
 Caoilte fhreagair air ar ceann
 'S e an t aobhar mu-d' thain' sinn ann
 'S ar gnothach uile gu do thigh
 A dh' iarruidh ortsa t inghean."
 "Co agaibh dha 'n iarrar i
 Mo nigheansa re thoirt leibh ?
 No co an curaidh fiall fàilteach
 Dha 'n iarrar i gu neo-mheatach ?"
 "Dh' iarrar i do Oisein mac Fhinn ;"
 'S mo nearachd do bhean, aon chinn
 Nach gabh an laoch laidir beartach
 Laoch laomsgar sultar, laochairteach."
 "Ged bhiodh agam da nighean deug"
 Labhair Bran "is nì canam breug
 Gum biodh mo roghuin fein aig Oisein."
 Fosglar an grianan còrr
 Bha air a thugh le clòith * ian (eun)
 Bha comblaichean ris do 'n òr bhuidhe
 Agus ursanan do fhiundrain.
 Dar chunnacas la Eamhar fhèill
 Oisein mac flath na Fèinne,
 An inghin ùr, bu ghile glac
 Thairig i gradh do 'n deagh mhac.
 Is Caolt rachadh teann 's a raghuin (sic)

* clòimh

Thug raghuin, a flath na Féinne
 Is do 'n inghean fhiall a thug an gradh.
 Air Chormaic is air choisuil,
 Chuireamaid an sliabh 'na thrial-lasair
 'S mharbhadh naoi naonar d'ar sluaigh
 Ge bu mhòr am buaidhs' an gnà.
 'S ghabh mise do bhrod (bhraidibh?) nam fear
 Ceud a frithealadh ua sceatha.
 'N oidhch' sin An Ailbhe na Fiann
 Bha sinn subhach, fiall re treis
 Bu cheann-uigh sinn do shluagh
 Bu cheanard do chuainn 's do choin—

An Iomairt Dhlighe

Là do ruig Padruic do 'n tùr
 Gun sailm air uigh; ach a dol, (sic) ag òl?
 Do thigh Oisein mhoir mhic Fhinn;
 Oir 's ann leis bu bhinn an ceol.
 — Deigh do bheatha, a sheanair shuairc
 Thugad air chuairt, thanaig mi,
 Sàr mhilì' thu, is àilte dreach
 Nach do dhiult riamh neach no ni.
 — Tha cumh' 's math leom fhaotain uait
 Dheagh mhic Cumhail is cruaidh calg:
 Cath is teinne a thug an Fhiann
 'S e bha mi riamh air an lorg
 Agus bha dheagh-bhath a' duit (sic opinor)
 — A chleirich, leughas na sailm,
 Cath is teinne thug an Fhiann
 O là ghineadh Fiarmabh Fhinn (fiannaibh)
 An iomairt-dhlighe do rinn Fionn
 Anrs Ailbhe, re linn nan laoch.
 — Air cuid do'n Fhiann, air druim dearg
 Dar èirich orra fearg is fraoch
 Air Caolt, mhic Cranchair chòir
 Is air mac Rona, bu deoin leinn,
 Is air Ealbhain, mac an Iabhair ruaidh
 Triuir a dheargadh luath le rinn:
 Dhìbeir e iad 's an òl
 Sàr mhac Rona bu deoin leinn,
 Thug eirsa (esan?) agus Ealbhain ùr
 Mionnan buana, re taobh Fhinn.

Gun thog ar n òig-fhir an triall
 Luingeas bu dionar leinn
 'S gur dh' imich iad sin an ear
 Gu tìr Lochluin, nan sliabh slim.
 Sin dar thug an da fhianamh ùr
 Dithis nach do chur duil am buar
 Bliadhna dh' aimsir aig an rìgh,
 Ge bu namhaid e dhaibh gach uair.
 Thug bean rìgh Lochluin nan long
 An trom ghaol nach robh ceart,
 Do Ealbhain meurach nan arm (meaghrach ?
 Rinneas leatha cheilg gun fhios

 Gach luireach ùr le 'n èil :
 Gach treis nighean nach d' fhuair fear
 Do rìgh Lochluin 's a bhean,
 Earghail mac Earghil nan lann
 Oir bu mhath a laimh 's an àm.
 Cumha cha ghabhadh fo n ghrein
 Ach nach eibhtagh Fiannaibh Fhinn.
 Fhreagair Ealbhain comhrag teann
 Sgeul truagh re chur an ceill !
 Gun ghearradh le Earaghil nan lann
 Ceann Aildhe air an dara beum

Labhair Oscar le ghloir mhear
 Laoch sin a chaisgeadh na suim
 Ged nach fionadh tu Fionn na Fèine
 Cha rachadh¹ tu leis mar bhean.
 Sheas Oscar agus Goll
 An dithis bu mhor glonn an cath
 Sheas iad an iomail an t shluaigh
 Eadar fear mòr agus flath.
 Bha clogaid teiñteach m'a cheann
 Air an laoch nach (bu) tim an cath.
 Bha neoil fala fo rosg an rìgh
 An ceann a mhilidh bu chaoin dealbh
 Bu ghorm a shuil, bu gheal a dheud

See Fingal Book III.

Imeachd Naonar.

'S cian sin, a thulaich,
 Air a bheil mi nochd, làn goirt,
 Bha mi uair, is binn leam
 Mi bhi 'm aonar ort.
 Mis' is m' athair, is mac Luach
 'N triuir, le 's mò chaidh an t sealg,
 Oscar, Goll, is Caolt,
 Fillean, Cainneal is Diarmad
 Och air m' uilin, a Phadruic !
 Chuir sinn fair' air fiadhach
 Le ar naoi coin, 's le ar naoi gadhair
 Le ar naoi claidhmhean glas
 Bu ghaist an tus gach comhrag
 Leig sinn an sin ar cuid gadhar
 Air fiaghail fiagh nam beann
 Mharbhadh aighean doun leinn
 Is daimh throm nan gleann.
 An deigh dhuinn scios do 'n dlaid (t àit ?) sin
 Chunnacas mar a b' abhaist
 Na h airm gheal is ghlas
 Bhith 'g an cosnadh air na faire
 Sheas sinn sin, air an tulaich
 Is thanaig thugainn oglach gabhaidh
 Dh' fheoruich e gu h umhal
 " An tusa Mac Cumhail aghor ?"
 Mis Fionn na buidhin (nam buaidhean ?
 Ge bé thusa do shluagh an domhain
 Ma's ann thugainn, tha 'ur n iorgail
 Tha sinn naonar ma air coair (m' ur comhair
 Is dàn leam sud, re ar n eadan

'Sa liuthad fear calm' eas luath
 Thanaig o Rìgh Lochlain
 Gu cosnadh na h Eirinn
 Air laimh t athar is do sheanathar
 Is air laimh do leannain shuaraich
 Cha tigeadh thugainn d' ar sirreadh
 Nach tugadh sinn dhoibh bualadh.
 Dh' imich an teachdair' gu sìubhlach
 Charuich e iuil m' ar comhair
 Mharbh gach fear againn dhiubh seisear
 Sud mar chreai (sic) ar gnothach.
 Thug sinn an sin ruadhar d'an
 Gu na lionar ann gainibh (guin ? gaine ?) fear sleigh
 Gum' lionar clagan ga scoltadh,
 'S gum' lionar fleasgach donn a snuigh go (?)
 'S gum' lionar fear chasan geal
 Frasadh fala air na fraochan.
 Bu mhath Goll an tùs gach cath
 Bu mhath m' athair is Caoilte
 Co dhiubh sin nach moluinn
 O rìgh ! bu shona an naoghnar
 An deigh dhuinn bhith cur nan cath
 Is na matheamh dhichuint. (sic).
 Sheas sinn is cha bu dochair
 Fear is ochdnar air an t sithain.

Imeachd Sia fir dheug,

An cuimhne leat Oisein fheill
 Do thuras gu tearnadh treun
 Da ochdnar le m' brandar baile
 Culchorn agus Cormaic.
 Dar dh' àrduich an deoch air Cormaic
 Dhagair e Fionn gu comhrag
 Comhrag nadha gun d' agair
 Gum b' aithreach leis m' an combra (?)
 Gun cuireadh e gun diuthar (?) dheth
 Fionn fo ghothail a choire
 Chaidh Fionn fo na gothail siar
 Cormaic fo na gothail eile
 Da mhili na h-ard fhilath
 Dar chunnaic Filleán fiall
 An iris air flath na Feinne

Thug e am beum meurach near
 Is ghearr e ann figh fo 'n iris
 Ghearr e an iris chaol chiall
 Faraon is an coire co-chruinn
 Chuir e a chaith (ghath ? chlaidhe ?) le neimh
 Seach troighin 's an talamh
 Labhair Goll re airbhacan
 Eirich is gabh an duan cheardach
 Do chaisg fearg is iomadan
 Mor niarachd thar an duan
 Dar chaisg e fearg a mhoir-shluaigh
 'S nach robh againn anns a ghabhail
 Ach re fad ar n airm a throgail
 Stad sinn an sin air tamh
 Eadar fhir agus mhac-mhnai
 A choimhead ma seach
 Uair na h aiseirigh
 Cha robh sinn ann ach se fir dheug
 Is math b' aithne dhomhs' 's cha bu bhreug
 Oir b' eolach mi mu lannan
 Is mu àireamh ar muinntir.
 Aon diubh mise fein
 Dithis dhiubh Carail on Dichoill
 Triuir dhiubh Mac Luthach gun fhoill
 'S be ceathar dhiubh Earamhar
 Cuigear dhiubh aoghus air mheud rath
 Seanar dhiubh Mac Luthach
 Seachdnar dhiubh Caoilte 'trodhach
 Ochdnar dhiubh Aonghas
 Naonar dhiubh m' athairse fein Fionn
 Deichnear dhiubh Osgar ruadh is Raoinn
 H-aon deug dhiubh Coll caomh cas ^{ḡḡḡḡḡḡ}
 Dha dheag dhiubh Raoinn nan rosg glas
 Ceathar deug dhiubh Colna na mòr fhearg
 Cuig deug dhiubh
 'S e sia deug dhiubh Maclamhain.
 Thugadh leinn anis creach ceud bò
 O Theamhair agus ni is mò
 Air riun (sic) duinn coille nan dos
 Ghair iad oirn Cairril is Cormac
 Ghair oirne an ear 's an iar
 O sheann rugh (sic) do aon riann
 C'ait a facas roimh riamh
 Aon chreach bu truime toir
 Bha chreach mar sin, a Chleirich

'Se cheard a ghabh Aonghas uainn
 Anns an uair sin ri uchd an t sluaigh
 Fhear fein a dhiongadh 's an triath
 'S a chreach ioman 'n a aonar
 Dheanadh feith-lamhach buinigh
 Mac ant saoi o'n iarr dhuinn
 Gach neach mharbhadh sinn le gath
 Dheanagh Aonghus a shaobhadh (fhaobhadh ?)
 Chaoilte bhig bhuadhaich
 Odha peathar mhic Cumhail
 'S ann leam bu chuimhne
 Dar chur sinn an rìgh fo-n ar smachd,
 Dar throg sinn creach nan ceudan
 — N cuimhne leat Oisein fheill
 Do thuras &c.

Duan na Cloinne.

Innis duinn, Oisein fheill
 Mhic Fhinn nan iomadh sceul
 Co an cath bu truaighe leat fein
 Chuir' le t' laoich airm-gheir (?)
 'S mairg dh' fheoruich thu sin dhìom
 A Phadruic, o tha dha m' dhian ;
 'S gur e cath bu truaigh leinn
 Là sin a chuir sinn a daor-chlainn.
 O chath Gabhra nan sleagh geur
 A Phadruic, dan innsin sgeul
 Nach do thearuin dhinn o bheum
 Ach mis' is Caoilte, do dh aon reum.
 'S ann ruith sinn, a sin, ar dithis
 Gu Ailbhe far bheil ar mòrchis
 Far am bitheadh mnathan na Feinne
 Agus clanna nan caomh-chleirich.
 An deigh dhuinn gabhail gu sìth
 'S ar smaointean uile chuir a dh aon-taobh
 Thainig teachdair' oirn 's an uair
 O mhac Rìgh Lochluin nam mòr shluagh
 Ar eis thoirt dha laimh
 No Eirin uile fhagail.
 'S e fhreagairt chuir se uainn
 Gu mac Rìgh Lochluin nam mòr shluagh
 Nach tugadh sinn eis no càinn
 No aon ni air domhain domhail.

Ach gu fagadh iad cinn re làr
 O'n a chlann chi iad 'g iòman.
 Dh' innis an teachdair 's an uair
 A fhreagairt chuir sinn uainn
 Gun lion fearg is mor reachd
 Mac rìgh Lochluin nam mòr fheachd
 Thug e na briathra borb
 Ged eireadh Eirinn le lainn
 Nach gabhadh e cùis no càin.
 No aon ni do 'n domhain domhail
 Ach cath gun chairdeas gun dàil
 Thoir do 'n chlainn chitear 'g ioman
 Dar chunnaic a chlainn mhath
 Teachdaireachd treun o'n tràigh
 Fagadar am ball re làr
 'S tilgeadar uath an cuid caman.
 Thanaig thugainn 'n an ruith
 'S chuirtear leo tulach air ball-chrith.
 'Sin dar thug ar mnathan lèir
 Chomhairle ghlic ann a mòr-cheill
 Sinn do ghleithheadh a chlann slàn
 'S gum bitheadh an Fhian uile fòs iomlan.
 Labhair mac Osgair an àigh
 Na thig as a chath slàn
 Fear nach tugadh cath dhoibh
 Air mhath an domhain domhail.
 Labhair mac Chairil a rìs
 Na thig mis' air m' ais anuas
 Mar reachamaid riu sìos
 Man caileamaid ar mòr chùis.
 Throg sinn an sin re slìos suas
 Bratach Fhinn flath nan sluagh
 Sleaghan on beanagh buaidh
 Na craoslichean (sic) cath crann ruagh
 Dar char iad nan cula' chath
 Chlainn sin 's cha bu neonach
 Shaoil sinn gu robh Fianaibh Fhinn
 Aguinn 's a chnoc 'n ar comhail
 Dar thanaig iad uile air lainn
 Clainn ge bu lag bu neimhneach
 Thar leinn gu robh Fianaibh Fàil
 Ac' anns a chnoc 'n ar comhdhail.
 Mhuigh sin garbh cath 's an uair
 'N uchd rìgh Lochluin a mhor shluaigh
 Chuir sinn an treis a bha truagh

Dhithaichear sinn uile 's aon uair
 Gun neach a thearnadh o bheinn
 Ach an Dearg di-chiantach aon bheum.
 Dar chunnaic Mac rìgh Lochlain an àigh
 An Dearg cur di 'air mòr-shluagh
 Chuir sleagh le punsagh(?) tro chrìos
 Mar shaighthe neamh air thalamh
 Sin dar thiuntan mogha fein (mo ghath ?
 Re mac Rìgh Lochlain nan arm geur
 'S rinneas leis da ord, da bheum curanta lainn
 An oidhehe sin dhuinn fo bhròn
 Ann an Ailbhe na mor shluagh
 'G eisdeachd re gair bhan gu truagh
 Diaghuih (diaigh ?) cunnart a' mhòir shluaigh
 Leig sinn comhnard(?) a bheinn mhor
 Dheth na slabhrainean bhuidh òir
 Shuigh gach euth air a thom fein
 A Phadruic dan innsin sgeul
 Donnalaich nan con 's an t sliabh
 Gal mnathan nan gna-fhiannabh
 Thug diar air mo chridhe nach tim
 Agus siarrugh air m' inntin.
 Chuir ar da chulagh re cheil
 Ann a' sin sruthadh deur
 O la sin cha-n fhaca mis'
 Deagh mhac peathar an ard rìgh
 Ge b'e neach a chreideas uainn
 Mar chunnaic uair an tulach
 A Phadruic a leibghas na sailm
 'S mòr mo thruaigh' 'nochd is m' iar uain (?)

Duain na Muireartaich.

From George Morrison, Lord Reay's Forester, now living.

La dhuinn air tulach ear
 'S ag ambare Eirinn mu timchioll
 Gu facas leinn air barraibh thonn,
 A fuath arach adhbhail chrom.
 'S e b'ainm do 'n fhuath nach tim,
 Mhuireartach, mhaigh ruadh mhoithean
 O chrich Lochlin tighear air sàil
 Gu eis Eirinn a throgail.
 Bha claidheamh meirg air a crios
 'N àm dhi clisgeadh garbh glas

'S bha da shleagh fhad chaol chath
 Air an taobh eile do na cailich.
 Aodan du'-ghorm air dreach guail
 Deud charbadach cham ruadh
 Aon suil ronnach 'n a ceann
 Bu luaithe na ronnag gheamhrai
 Bha crin-fhàs liath air a ceann
 Mar chailleach cham-chas chrisin (ghris-fhiomm)
 'S i 'g amharc na Feinne fo dheas
 Ghluais a bheist gun in eas.
 Aig meud mir' agus a h-àir
 Rinneas leatha cin gun chomain
 Mharbh i le tabhachd ceud laoch
 Agus gàire ann a garbh chraos.
 "O fhilath nan cuach thanaig mi
 Thuirt a fuath diomisach deagh-dhàn
 Geilidh gach naonar 's a mheigh
 'S e dh' iarradh a fuath na comhrag.
 "Gabhaibh a chungadh on 's i chòir
 Deich ceud ubhal do 'n dearg òr
 B' fhearr dhuit bhi chnodach chlach
 Na comhrag na Feinne fuiltich.
 "Ged gheibhinn bar brigh Eirinn uile
 A h-or, a h-airgiod is a h-aindriun
 B' fhearr leam fo stàilin mo laimh
 Ceann Oscair, Raoin is Iulain.
 Thuirt an laoch nach d' fhuiling sar
 Mac Muirn do b' ainm Conan
 "Fàgaidh thu dos chinn chrin
 An duil mhic Oisein iarrudh
 Ghearruin stàil fathach fann
 'S nin deargadh orm do bhreun lann
 'S air sciath chuileanach nan con
 Na bi oirne muiteadh."
 Dar chunnaic iad calg na beist
 Dh' eirich Fionn flath na Feinne
 Dh' eirich Oisein flath nam fear
 Dh' eirich Oscar, da' eirich Iulain
 Dh' eirich mac rìgh chlar-dhubh dhuine
 Dh' eirich sud agus Luin* na buighin
 Dh' eirich an dithis, bu bhriagh dreach
 Dh' eirich Raoine is Mac Luthach.
 Dh' eirich Mac an Leithe na dhamhair
 Dh' eirich Glaisean le tabhachd
 Dh' eirich agus ard Aurag

* [Lerin ?]

Dh' eirich Caolt, dh' eirich Conan
 Dh' eirich Diarmaid o Duibhn
 Dh' eirich sin agus Treamhar
 Dh' eirich an Reul nach tim
 Feinne mhic Cumhail ma thimchioll
 Do bhuin an athais, gun scleo.
 Rinn sinn cro crodhant grabhail
 An tsheisear b' fhearr d' ar Feinn
 Chaidh a chomhrag ris a bheist.
 Dheanadh i frithealadh ma seach
 Mur gu an critheadh an lasair.
 Ach na thachair Mac Cumhail an àigh
 Agus a bhiast, laimh air laimh
 Leithid cha d' fhuaras mar sin
 O cheardach Loin mhic Luibhin.
 Bha dealt air bar a lainn
 Aig mac Cumhail mhic Tugheal
 Bha struthaibh fola dol re làr
 Agus ceo teas dol 's an iarmailt.
 Bha tuth mhic Cumhail re guin
 'S bha braon do fhuil air na fraochaibh
 Mharbhadh a Mhuireartach leis an righ
 'S ma mharbh, cha bu mharbhadh min,
 Cha chualas leithid do ghàir
 O bhas (a bha as ?) na Feinne re aon la !
 Dh' imich sgeul ud fa thuath
 Gu crìoch Lochlain nam mór shluagh
 Throg an gobhuin leis an bhrìgh
 Gu tigh Fothuin an ard righ,
 Rinneas beud air (ars ? deir ?) Gobhuin nan duan
 Mharbhadh a mhuireartach mhaigh ruadh.
 Thuirt an righ, nach robh do shluagh
 A mharbhadh a mhuireartach bhuidhe.
 Mur do shluig i talamh-toll,
 Na mur do bhath i muir domhuin lom.
 Ars an gobhuin c' àit robh do shluagh an domhuin
 A mharbhadh a mhuireartach mhaigh ruadh.
 Cha 'n e mharbh i ach an Fheinn
 An droing o nach bunar geill
 'S mòr an nàir do fhath Fàil
 Bhith geilleadh do luchd aoin eilein.
 Ged bhitheadh sluagh an domhuin uile ann
 Eadar thuath is uaislibh
 Fuath na duine cha rachadh as
 O 'n tshluagh àluin fhalt-bhuidhe.

Trogair thugam mo theaghlach còir
 Rìgh na h-easbaig is a lòd
 Rìgh Greig Rìgh galeam glan
 'S gun trogam deich mìle barcich
 Trialaidh mis' an iar
 Agus bheireams' mo mhionnan rìgh
 Ma mharbhadh mo mhuireartach mhin
 'N Eirinn cha 'n fhag mi clach,
 Ann alt no toran no fireach
 Gun throgail ann coruin mo long,
 Eirinn choimhliont' cothrom,
 Bheirinn breabanaich air muir
 Dha tharuing as a shamhchair.
 'S mor spliagh do luingeas bhan
 Dheanadh Eirinn a throgail
 'S nach robh do luingeas air bith
 Throgadh do Eirinn cuig ceud dhiubh.
 Deich fichead is deich mìle long
 Throg an Rìgh, is bu luchd trom
 Air crìoch Eirinn a chur as
 Is dhitheachadh na Fiann na faragh.
 Cha robh port, na leath-phort ann
 Ann an cuig cuigibh na h-Eirinn
 Nach robh làn dheth a luingeas bhan
 Agus biorlainean fo thighearnan.
 Chuir e teachdaireachd gu fìath Fàil
 A mhuireartach thighean dhathigh slàn
 Le bàr brìgh Eirinn uile,
 Eadar mhac rìgh agus rodhuine.
 Bheireadh mac Cumhail sud uile
 Do rìgh Lochluin gun aon bhuile
 Deich ceud sciath is claidheamh enoduich
 Deich ceud sleagh le crann-lùraich
 Deich ceud slabhraidh aintrin
 Deich ceud cù le coilear èil
 Deich ceud ubhal do 'n dearg òr
 Deich ceud saltar chaol-chath
 Deich ceud bratach mhin dath
 Deich ceud saoi nam b' eigin leis
 Deich ceud srian òir is diaghlaid.

Ged gheibheadh Rìgh Lochluin sud
 'S na bha do sheoid bhuaghach an Eirinn
 Mhionnaich e, nach pilleadh e shluagh
 Ach am bith Eirinn na tòr luath.
 Fear-labhairt a' chomhradh chiuin

Triath mhic Trathail, mhic Treinmhoir,
 B' fhearr na sirreadh o thuinn gu tuinn
 Ar faotainn uile, air aon bhonn.
 Sin dar labhair 'Carthi' nan gleann
 Ma ghabhas sibh comhairle Fhinn
 Bheirear ar sar air Flath
 'S bithidh sibh gu brath fo 'n Fheinn.
 Ghluais Iulain 's bu cheim laoiach
 Gach neach lean e taobh air thaobh
 Gu leagail Charthi o 'n àit
 'S cha b' àill le neach a shoghadh
 "Stad, Iulain mar a tha,"
 'S e labhair Mac Cumhail an àigh
 "Ge ole iomhaigh an fhir
 'S ro mbath lamh 's an iorghail."
 Ars' Oscar is e gabhail leo
 "Ge b' e long dhiu' as airde seol
 'S ma mhigh i fuil air a druim
 Na cha bhith urad na coluinn.
 Gluaisidh Fìli freagarach Fhinn
 Fear thagradh gu h-eolach
 'S a labhairt gu fìor-ghlic e
 Ris an Rìgh neo-ghraidhte.
 Ge beag leibhs' an Fheinn uile
 Na seachd cathan co-chalmunt
 Bheir sibh ar teann-leum troi' tom glas
 Na nì sibh uile air aimhleas.
 Breugach do bheachd Fhìli Fhinn
 Co chual do chomhairle chruaidh
 Ann tùs cath na mòr-shluagh
 'N àm glacadh cruaidh nan creach
 Is àm sathadh na sleaghan seirmneach
 So labhair gu feargach an Rìgh,
 Co math re trian na bheil sud
 Nì bheill dh'eainn (fhèinne) an Eirinn
 Trogar thugainn fearg an rìgh
 Làn do mheirg sa dh'ainrian.
 Nam b' ole dhuinn bhi air ar cinn
 Cha b' fhearr dhiubhs' thighean thugainn
 Rinn iad cro' mu ar (cromadh air?) magh
 Sluagh Rìgh Lochlainn m'ar timchioll
 'S cha b' àill leo gun bhith ann
 Ach ar sgrios uile air an aon bhall.
 B' iomadh 's a chro' mili-fear
 Dheanadh calg gun chomain

'S bu lionar claignean gu chur re làr
 Is coluinn air am maoladh.
 B' iomadh ann geur-lot sleagh
 Is gathan caol nimhneach
 B' iomadh laimh threun dor easamh
 O eirigh grèin gu cean fheasgair.
 Mharbh Òscar ann tithad an t shluaigh
 Ceud fhear ma cheud uair
 'S ceud eile do 'n phobuil aris
 Is e deanamh air Rìgh Lochlain.
 Agus ceud eile do mhacamh nam fear
 A bha thall air do Rìgh Lochluin
 Eadar na Saoithean ma seach
 Gu robh an Toscar gu crèach
 Ach na mharbhadh le dithean na sluagh
 Rìgh air meud onorachd.
 Dar chunaic iad gun thuit an Rìgh
 Aig meud am mir' 's an aire
 Leig le strathaibh gu sàil
 Bha chliar-chath air an ioman.
 Deich fichid mìl rìgh Lochluin do shluagh
 Air uchd cath Beinn Eaduin gu uair
 'S cha deachaidh aobhar arm as
 Ach aon mhìl gu loingeas
 An deigh làn loir do 'n àir
 Chithte gum bu chalp dha
 Gu rachadh tromh thualadh na sta (sleagh? stàil)
 Na corun tromh dhruim Oscair.
 Nan tarladh tu là sin
 Bhith air uchd cath Beinn Eaduin
 Cha chual thu leithid ghàir
 O bhas (a bha as) na Feinne re aon là.

(See Gillies, p. 250).

Dan Chuinn.

Co bu mhò an Conn no 'n Dearg mòr
 Oisein nam briathra ciuil
 Na 'm b' ionnan dealbh dha is dreach
 'S do 'n Dearg mhaiseach mhin mhorachdach.
 Bu mhò Conn gu mòr mòr
 Tighean thugainn bharaibh an t shluaigh,
 Taruing a luingeas a steach

An teamhair cuain & caolais
 Bha lann neimh ri leadradh chorp
 Air slios t eagal nam mòr ole
 Air claidheamh air scath seè
 Air an laoch iad gu ain reidh.
 Bha gruaigh cuire mar iuthar caoin
 Fo chaol mal' nan rosg mìn
 Falt ùr aghor ceard oir grinn
 Uais mhor aithreil éibhinn.
 Buaigh gach àit a robh thu riamh
 Air ghaisgeachd 's air mhòr ghnìomh,
 Bheireadh Conn mach gun sgios
 Le togail chreach is trom chis.
 Sheas air an tulaich fa n ar comhair
 Mili' curant gle mhor
 Leis an gaibht' a chleasachd gu hard
 Ann a baile na h iarmailte.
 Lainn neimh re leadradh chorp
 Lé calg feagalach na mor ole
 Le fuachd is faluin a rìnne e
 An deigh athair a dhiachadh.
 Ach bheirinnse mo bhriathar cinnte
 A Phadruic ge bu nàir re iunseadh
 Nach do ghabh sinn roimh uile
 Leithid dh' eagal roimh aon duine.
 Re faicinn dhuinn confhadh Chuinn
 Mar sruth mar gu treun tuinn
 Meud fuachd is fal an fhir dhuinn
 An deigh Athair adhichiont.
 Sin labhair Conan na muirn mòr
 Leigear mis' thuig a cheud doigh
 'S gu scarraim an ceann ud dhe
 Gu chasg dhuinn a chontuin.
 Beir a mholachd, a Chonain mhaoil,
 An onoir, c'uim' a gheibheadh tu choidh'
 Gun caisgeadh tu dhuinn Conn.
 Deir re Oscar na mor ghlonn
 Ach gluaisheadh Conan le mi-cheill
 'N aindeoin na Feinne gu lèir
 An coinneamh Chuinn bhuaghaich bhrais,
 Air car tuathal aimhleis.
 Dar chunnaic an laoch bu mhin dealbh
 Conan dol ann seilbh arm
 Thug e seangadh an ear
 'S ghabh e teicheadh gu Ailbhe.

Ach 's lionar scread agus meall
 Bha 'g eirigh suas air an droch ceann
 Air maoil Chonain gu reamhar
 'S na cuig caoil 's aon ceangal.
 Beannachd dh' an laimh a bhuin riut
 Deir Fionn flàth na Feinne
 Bu thuras gun crith (eirigh ?) dhuit
 A Chonain do mhi-chèille.
 Ach 'se chomhairle chinn' aig Fionn
 'S aig uaislibh fhearuibh Eirinn
 'S clainn na mear muirn (muirn ?
 Aig Cormac mac Art-enbh.
 'S e comhairle a chinnich dhoibh
 Fearghus mo bhrathair fein bu bhinn a ghloir
 Ach gluaisidh uain an cein
 Gu muirneach, aitreach, moralach.
 Air comhairle athar mar bu chòir
 Ghabhail sgeul Chuinn ro mhòir
 Mhic an Deirg dhimisich mhir
 Chuinn uasail a dheud ghil.
 Ghabhail sgeula thanaig o Fionn
 Ciod e gu d' thocair gu Eirinn ?
 Dh' innsin dhuit gu ceart
 Fhearghuis nam balt b' fhearr leat
 Eiric m' athar b' àill leam
 Uaibhse mhaithibh Fhinn Eirinn.
 No ceann Ghuill is dha mhic mearr
 Fhinn, Chrifin agus Carthi marchair
 Ceann chlanna na Muirn uile
 Dha air diachadh dhan aon duine
 Cormac mar Art enbh agus Fionn
 'S na bheil beo do fhearaibh Eirinn
 Eirinn o thuinn gu tuinn.
 Fhaighean dhomhs' fo 'n aon chuing
 No combrag cuid ceud 'ur sluagh
 Air mhoch mhaduinn a màrach,
 'S gu scarruin an cinn ri 'n cuirp.
 Dh' aindeoin Fhinn is Chormaic,
 Gluaiseadh oirn an cein
 Le Ferghus mo bhrathair fein
 Ris mu chlost sinn nan Fhiann uile
 Dh' eisdeachd re sgeul Fhearghuis.
 Sin labhair Fionn flath nan slogh
 Fhearghuis cia do sceul air an fhear mhòr
 Innis dhuinn gu beachd
 'S na ceil oirn an-iochd.

Is e sud mo sgeul air an fhear mhòr.
 Nach gach cumh gun cuig ceud ar slogh
 Gun chomhrag mear diamhalach
 No ceann Ghuill is dha mhic muirn
 Ceann chlanna nam Muirn uile
 Fhinn Chrifin 's a Chathri chòir
 Dha air dithachadh dha 'n aon duine
 Eirinn o thuinn gu tuinn
 Thoir dha fo 'n aon chuing
 No còmhrag cuig ceud ar sluagh
 Air mhoch mhaduinn màrach
 'S gu searradh e an cinn ri 'n cuirp
 Dh' aindeoin Fhinn is Cormaic
 Sin chuir sinn cuig ceud amach
 Gu muirneach, aithreach moralach
 Coimhead Chuinn bailceadh na sciath
 Si dol innt gu h ainreath (aimhreidh ?
 Mar sheobhag an ealt mhin-eoin
 'S mar tiuntain tu bar-bois
 'S lionar leath-laimh agus cas
 'S lionar coluinn a bha dha maoladh
 'S iad nan caigean (claigean ?) air a bhall
 'S cuig ceud eile nam bitheadh iad ann
 Bhitheadh iad marbh air an aon bhall.
 Sin ghluais na seachd-fichid fear mòr
 'N tu dhan dthanaig an iorghail
 Is thug e ruathar mar mhaol mhuilinn
 Sin thuit ar seachd fichead fear mòr
 Aobhar ar tuirse is ar-dubh-bhròin
 Leis an tug an Fhiann an gaire cruaidh
 Re faicinn diachadh (diòthachadh) a mhoir shluaigh
 Ach fhir dha d' thainig ar cobhair riamh
 Air ghaisgeachd is air mhor ghnìomh
 Mhial sgeul gach dail (sic)
 Is a phrionns' na teugbhail
 Nach faic thu Conn muigheachd ort
 Ga b' ann ceil an nàmhaid
 Nach buin' thu cheann gu fearail dheth
 Mar rinn dheth Athair roimh.
 Dheanains' dhuit Fhinn
 Rìgh Fian ain nan ceol binn
 Na cuirimid fuachd is fal air cul
 'S gu bitheamaid uile dh' aon rùn
 Sin chaidh Goll 's a chul' chruaidh
 Afianuis maithibh a mhòir shluaigh

Bu gheal dearg gnuis an fhir
 Sheall garg an tùs na h iorghail
 Ach shinn da churai' bu mhòr àgh
 'S chuir leo tulach air ball-chrith
 Le 'm beuman b' fhearail leinn
 'S an Fhiann uile 'g an coimhead
 Bha cith fal cnamh nan corp
 Bha cith binn nan armachd
 Bailceadh na sciath gu h ard
 Dol suas 's an iarmailt.
 Sè là na'aon trath deug
 Bha na laoich 's a ghairg
 Ach na mhuigheadh le Goll nam beum
 Conn mòr a chuir air eigin.
 'S an gair eibhinn thug an Fhiann
 Re faicinn Ghuill crodhuint
 An uachdar air Conn treun treorach
 Tunicadh Chonan a cas
 An deigh Chonan na mi-ghrais
 Seachd reath do Gholl an àigh
 Dha leitheas ach an robh e slan
 G' eisdeachd ceoil a dh oidhch 's a là
 Gu ma chruinn air Feinne as dheigh
 A Phadruic dho 'n innsin sgeul
 Tha m'anam an dail dhruidte
 'S ann teaghlach nan treun
 Is t aghaidh's ri neamh nan neul
 Far faighear gach mor sgeul

THE SAGE-POPE COLLECTION.

The following poems were copied by Mr Sage, of Kildonan, from MSS. written by the late Mr Pope, Min^r of Reay, who got them from Donald Mackay of Borgiebeg, in Strathnaver, & Murdoch Iverach, at Dirlet, in the county of Caithness.

Duan Chonloich.

Thainig thugainn dheth bar baobhuidh
Curaidh crodhant' Conlaoch
Le geasan mor e garbh glinn
O Dhunscathaich do Eirinn
Dh' fhainich Cuchullin re each* * dh' fhaoinich
Co chuireamaid dh' fhios an oluich (ogluich)
A dhfhaotainn beachd na sgeul dheth,
'S gu teachdair fhaighin uaith.
Ghluaistadh Coineal buaghach bras
Adh fhaotuinn sgeul o'n mhacan
Ge bu mhòr agads' spairn an laoich
Cheangaltadh Coineal le Conlaoch,
'm Fianuis na Feinne uile
Agus Rìgh nan curaidh co-raite.
Ceud d' ar sloigh gun ceangaltas leis
Bu deacair sgeul re innseadh
Ach Cuchullin nan sleagh slim
'Nuair chunnaic e cuimhreach Choineil
Gluaiseas e le neart treun lainn
A dh' fhaotuinn dheth na mhacan
Comhrag riumsa is eigin dhuit
No, do shlanuigh (sloinneadh ?) dhomh mar charaid

Gabh do raghuin do gach cuid
 Ach cha chuis dhuit mo chomhrag.
 Geasan thug mi o mo thigh
 Na faodainn sgeul thoirt do neach
 Ach nan tugainn do neach fo 'n ghrein
 B' ann dhuits' a ghnus aithreal.
 Ach bheireams' dhuits' mo bhoid 's mo bhriathar
 Ged a thoilte* mi mar chriathair * tolltadh ?
 Nach teantagh* mi gu teaghlach Fhinn * tionndaidh
 Gun do cheann no do lannan.
 Fhir agus fhir bhig
 Gun labhair thu is cha bu ghlic
 Cha buireal* dhuits' an Fhiann uile * b' uilear.
 'S na deanadh do shloinneadh re aon duine
 Ach nan tigeadh Fiannaibh Fàil
 So chuid bu laigh (lugha ?) dhiu' re ghràdh (sic)
 Chuireadh tu t' airm re làr
 Is b' eigin dhuit do shloinneadh.
 Ach thug sinn gus a chéile
 Na diachan* 's cha b' ann gu réiteil (?) (* deuchainn
 Macan sin gun d' fhuair e ghoin
 Agus an dalta sin do na chruaidh . . .
 Leig e uilin air an tom

 Olaich bhig ! ort fein do chron
 B' fhearr do shloinneadh a chianuidh
 Dean do shloinneadh gu trà
 'S na bithmid na 's faid 'n anmhian
 O coli (?) d' fhainich* leat mis * dh' aithnicheadh
 'Nuair chrathains' gu fuar fann
 'N t shleagh geur ort, a harlig
 'S mise Conlaoch mac Chuinn
 Oighre dligheach dun dealbhuin
 'S mi 'n run dh' fhag thu 's a bhroinn
 An Dunscathaich gu m' fhoghlum
 Seachd bliadhna deug dhomh 's an tir
 Foghlum gaisgeachd o mo mhathair
 (Guil do chomhrag 'nis le grain)
 Oeh an dan nach truaigh an turas
 Do mharbh mi thusa gun aon lochd
 'S truagh nach e mo bhàs a ghearr mi
 Mur do dhearg mi air do chaomh chorp
 Ach a Chonlaoich etnighe
 'S mairg dh' eirich air do shaoghal
 Nam biodh tu mairrium
 Cha bhithins' am aonar.

'S math do Gholl, 's math do Charaigh
 'S math do mhac Chalum chille
 'S math dhoibh uile
 Nach hann leo thuit mo mhacsa.
 Oir mharbhainus' ann an tarig *
 Ceud nan ceudan do dhaoine.
 Ach mi 'nis an deigh sar laoich
 Gun mhac dilis na gun bhrathair
 Agus gun Chonlaoch, thu is duilligh,
 Och an dàn mo lan truaigh !

SIR GEORGE MACKENZIE'S COLLECTION.

The following poems are copied from MSS. transmitted to the Highland Society by Sir George M^cKenzie, Bart. of Coull.

Duan air Dearmad dibh rinn Fionn.

Tha sgeul agam air mor Laoch
Gun do bhris Conan maol an corn
'S bhuail e Faothlan Mac Fhinn
Fior-mhullach a chinn a dhoirn.
Gun d' thug Faolan laimh siar
Ghlac e sgian air a crann
Ghonadh leis Mac Moirne maol
Sud dh' 'fhag an laoch gu fann
Dh' eirich Garradh an taobh thall
Dh' agairt air Faolan Mac Fhinn
'S thug e tharruing d'a laim ghlais
An sin bha air a chinn Caorall cas,
La dhomhsa bhi an Albhin-Ghuill
Sinn air ardanach Mhic Cumhail (sic)
Bho mo cheann chinnich an guth
dar dh' eirich Fionn ann an corruich
La chuir Padric a mhùr
Gun suim aig do nì air bith ach òl
Ghluais e do thigh Oisein mhic Fhinn
La 's ann leis bu Bhinn a ghlor
An dith mo bheatha sheannair shuairc
Thugad air chuairt thanaig mi
Innis uirsgeal domh air Fionn
Otha Chumhail gam beire' buaidh.
S mise dh' innseadh sin dhuits'
A Phatruic 's gille cruth
An cath is tinn 'thug an Fhian
La bha sinn riabh air a lorg.

Shailmse 's tiun 'thug na fir
 La ghineadh iad am Fheinne Fhinn.
 Am dearmad dibh rinn Fionn
 An albuinn re linn nan laoch
 Air bi do 'n Fheinn air druim dearg
 Gun d' cirich fearg is fraoch
 Thachair Mac Cumhail nan cuach
 Agus Rìgh Lochlin nan sluagh bu liuth
 Re cheile an am measg a chatha
 Bu mhoir an cath 'n an dithis
 Cuireadar an airm le lair
 'S feuchadar spairn an da laoch
 Clochan agus talamh trom
 Dh fhuasgail siad fo bhonn cois
 Chuir Fionn ceangal nan tri chaol
 Air an rìgh bu lionmhor float (phlod ?)
 Fear is dara leath na Fiann
 Dh'fhag sinn air an t sliabh fo dheas.
 Thachair Oscar agus Daol
 Taobh re taobh am easg an t sloigh
 Comhrag an da churaidh chaomh
 Mar gun doirteadh gaoth an cuan
 Mar cheo thaomadh an fhuill
 Bu naimhdeach guiomh nam fear
 S a bhaiteall bu mhor an guin
 'S gur mairg a tharladh 'n an car
 'S cha bu ghna leo sgiath re goill
 Bu chomhrag dà leomhan sin.
 Sin dar bhris Oscar àigh
 Caogad sgiath air Cormac cruinn
 Agus bhris Cormac cas
 Caogad lainn ghlais on s an chuimh
 Chuimhnich Oscar air a sgian
 An t airm bu mhiann leis an laoch ghlan
 'S chuir naoi guineadh dhi ann Daol
 B 'ann seal mun do chlaoidh e ghreis
 Thug e uaith sgian le h òir
 Chuir naoi goineadh goin 'n a chraos
 Ghlac Oscar a ris an sgian
 'S ann ghlac e i air laaran
 Mar gun sniota gad an Coill
 Mar sinn thug iad sgian as a hearluinn
 Thug Oscar gaisge beum buaghach
 Ghlac e cloch ruagh 'n a laimh
 An tur char leis an do mharbhadh Daol
 Sud a bheart a chlaoi a ghreis.

'G eiseachd ri gaoth nan gleann
 Ach an thraogh an abhuinn
 Thainig an curaiddh gun sgath
 Thug e spurr do na bharruin bhlair (sic)
 Nach do laol riabh an tatha.
 Tharruing e lann as a thruaill
 Dhicheagh* moran do 'n t sloigh * d'ithicheadh
 Mharbh e oirne sonan eagh (sic)
 Agus naonar mac an neagh (sic)
 Dar bha Saoull air South
 Chleachd mi aon laoch fhasda
 Cha do chleachd mi air meud mo ghlonn
 Ach aon bhuille roth na chuiridh
 Thug e dhiom sgiath s le a h oir
 Mu mo cheann dith rinn a bloidhean
 Mar bhiodh feabhas mo chlogaidh ghil
 Chaillin an ceann ga leanmhuin
 Thearruin e mo cheann re seal
 Maraon agus m' anam ionmhuin,
 Thionntaidhean e dachaidh gun Fhiabh

 Chair (chaidh) clann ronn is clann saoth
 'S am bratuichean taobh air thaobh
 Chaidh iad gu tulaich nam buadh
 Mu thiomchìol Oscair airm ruadh
 Chaidh clann Laghach nighean Fhinn
 'S am brataichean os an cionn
 Chaidh iad gu tulach nam buadh,
 Mu thiomchìol Oscair airm ruadh,
 Chaidh clanna Deirg nan lann
 'S am bratuichean nach robh mall
 Chaidh iad gu tulaich nam buadh
 Mu thiomchìol Oscair airm ruadh
 Cuigear mac Ailbhin ri Fionn
 Cuigear Bhear (fear? mhear?) bhan Eirinn
 B'e Cairreal Ceutfach na creach
 Agus Aurul euchdach na hiorghail
 Faolan 's raon mac Fhinn
 Agus Aodh crodha coitchionta
 Cuigear ud uille bho sheol
 Gu crothanda 's gu calma toirteil
 Mu thiomchìol Osaìr an aigh
 Gun easbnuidh sgiath na sgannan
 Cìod nis is fuireach dhuit
 Osaìr mhoir nach eisd na gluig
 Clann Mheacuìn Fhinn mu d' cheann
 'S maithibh clann mhic treun mhall.
 Cha teid mi bhualadh na Fiann
 No Oisein mor nan garbh sgiath

O nach 'eil iad so uile
 Na dhiobhalas* aon duine (i.e., dhìolas
 Cha robh m' athairs' fein
 Catha no comhrag 'na feim
 As nach d'thug e dhealbh chorp slàn
 Air ghealachas a leannan
 Agus a cholluin chaomh choire
 Mar aon agus anam iònmuin
 Deansa sud a mhic ghradhach
 Thur ghasda mhòir àluinn
 Thoir sith do dh Ioluinn nam flath
 La 's e guile is treis 's an Teamhar
 No bu chuimhne leat catha cnoc.
 No latha catha beinn eudainn,
 Bhiodh fuil Ghuill gu dhornaibh
 'N ti sheideadh na chup cornaibh
 'S ann thuit Cuoll nam fleagh
 Le laimh Iolainn euchdaich
 Cha b'e Iolainn mharbh 's a chath e
 Cha mharbhadh ceud deth leithid
 Co thionnailinn Dombuin uille
 Tochda mu chuill chrodha bhuilleach
 Chuir Fearghus an ceann a cheile
 Seachda cathan na gnà Feinne
 Fhuair e sith bhuan bhaubhach (sic)
 O Gholl crodha cruadalach.
 Sheall sinn teirthear a mach,
 O Dhun Chiuthaich gu h uaibhreach
 Bean an rìgh na coisin beud
 Aig mac chatha 's a choisin
 Sheall sinn teirthair suas
 Gu crìochan b'aille a snuadh
 Shuidhich sinn pubul sròil
 Ann an Riachd chuimhne chatha mhoir
 Thiontadh mac Nuamfhir a shluagh
 Fhuilleach faobhrach taobh ruadh
 Air thoireachd a mhnaoi gu mall
 Eamhur nighean rìgh na h Easbuilt
 Chuir Ciuthach theachdair uaith
 Gu Fionn M'Cumhail nan airm ruadh
 Ceann Oisein thoirt da na laimh
 'S ceann Oseair 'n ceud char.
 'S ceann Ghuill 's Chonan ma seach
 Fhaoin (fhaotainn?) uile do dh' aon fheachd
 Se tràthan an d' iarr e sud

Oscair 's a ghreug Laoimneach
 Air bith dhoibh bhi tochda bho cheile
 Ciuthach & Fionn na Feinne
 Labhair fear air a bhaoph (thaobh ?)
 Chi mi Oscair teathn (tighean ? teann ?)
 An ceann na seachda trà mar sin
 Thainig Oscair nan rosgan ghlan
 Gu fuathr faoithreanda nimhneach
 Gu cruadh coisgeara co chinnteach
 'S maith dhlustadh us sinn
 Thruph (sic) Chiuthach mhic an Nuamhfhir
 Gur mise mharbh do bhraithrean
 Agus cinnidh do shean mhathair
 Agus ga b' Chiuthach ainm gach fhir
 'S na thainig dhiubh air sàile soir
 Cha dreug dhiubh om' lainne
 Ach fuigheal faobh agus Bhrenan
 Muinntir Chiuthaich 's an dùin
 Tharug iad air chul Oscair
 Muinntir Oscair dail mo ghlac
 Chair (chaidh) iad sud air chùl chiuthaich
 Thog Oscair an lamh bheumnach lom
 Gu frasach as a ghuallain
 Chuir dheth Ciuthach an ceann
 Am fiadhnuis Fiann Eirion
 Beannachd a mhic air do laimh
 Beannachd rìgh nigh na neull (sic)
 Gu robh omhirdan is aubh (sic agh)
 Air laimh Oscair is connfhadh.
 Dar chunnaire Eamhur fhiall
 Ceann Chiuthaich air an t sliabh,
 Shileadh i na frasan fola
 Air na rosga rann ghlan
 Shileadh i na frasan deurach
 Air na Rosga aird aird gheurach.
 Air a bhas gus an deach an Fhiann
 Cha d' thug i ceum teicheadh riabh
 Ach nodag beag air an traigh
 Air an taobh siar do dhun gallan.

Laomain Mòr.

Thachair an Fhiann air uair àraid re Laomunn mòr Mac Nuambfhir is thug iad cath fiadhach re cheile air an tulach.

'S cianail sin a thulaich àrd
 Air bhàr gu facas uair
 An commun nach diultadh roimh neach
 Ged tha e nochd gun teach gun tuar
 Ort a bhiodh Laomun mòr
 Mac an Nuambfhir chlaoi' a ghreis
 Laoch chuir Alba fo chàin
 Le neart dh' a laimh 's a chleas
 Thugad dhise gu h umhal
 Dh' aindeoin a sluagh 's a rìgh
 Cruinneachd Alba 's a feoil
 A h airgiod, a h òr, 's a fion,
 Thainig Cairreall ort dhe nar Fheinn
 Mac rìgh Alba nan sgiath òir
 Cha bheag sud maoin dhe do mhuirn
 Bho 'n thulaich uaine 's geal uail
 Thainig mise ort cath nach tiom
 'S nach till ann iona'd cruadh
 Gun eagal faobhair no rinn
 Ge mòr air mo chinn a shluagh
 'S e liunn (leinn ?) thainig Faolan fial
 Caogad sgiath is claidheamh glas
 O theaghlaich Fhinn flath na Fiann
 Gu dùn Laomun na sniogha cas.
 Cath iongantach caom an uail
 Sgioba duimasach do dheagh shluagh
 Bha Diarmad is Caoilte cruadh
 Fo na bhratuich eucfalaich (euchdaich) airm ruadh
 Thainig clann Niaur chruaidh
 Clanna dheargadh luadh an rinn
 Naoi fichead sgiath gharg ann goil
 'S mharbhata ceud leis gach aon fhear,
 Thainig Clann Niaur dhuinn
 Thainig buighne nan ainm iuall
 Catha mòr gun chairdeas nan dhàil
 Le fraoch feirg is iomarbhaidh
 Thainig an Fhiann ghaolach gu mòr
 'S na ghlas sloigh bu mhòr neart
 Fian mharra harrum (fathram ?) nan tonn

Thainig iad 's bu trom am feachd.
 Thainig droing eile dhe nar Fheinne
 Is iad gabhail gèill gach fear
 Lom lan loingeas agus long
 Luireach agus lann is sleagh.
 Thainig trì chathan deth nar Fheinn
 Leis Gbiolla 's maith feum air thùs
 Laoch nach d' thug breathra do fhear
 Iulain mear mac Morna mòr
 Air bhi dhuinn bhi gaorraid o'n dùn
 Chunnaic sinn doire dluth is sleagh
 Aon chath fhuileach feardha mor
 Bu lionmhor an slòigh is fir
 Aon laoch fuileadh roimh air thòs
 Le'hearradh sìod agus sròil.
 Le luraich mhor iarsach ulaich
 Le sgabul treun bhreac bhuadhach
 'S le dha shleagh fhad chaol dhireach
 Sgian mhòr is or air a thearluin
 Air crios mac na mhoir mheinmein
 Be sud laoch feardha fuileach
 An toscair calma crotha builleach
 Odha Fhinn reubadh na cathan
 Deagh mhac uasal na h-ard flath
 'S ann beagan an deigh na shlighe
 Thainig Oscar nan airm nimhe
 Thainig an tarruin mhear mhearach
 Bratach Fhinn 's a threun teaghlach
 'S e thainig fo na gille ghreine
 Seachd cathan na gna Fheinne
 Thug sinn tarruing chleas chruadh
 Mu dhun Laomun anns an uair
 Ga nar Faothag ann iomairt chleas
 (sic) Cha dghuth dha mo threis bhi buan.
 B' e mo mhac Oscair nan cathan
 'S ann leis chosgadh an t saoidh
 'S e connfhadh Laomuìn nan cleas
 Chuir mòr ghonadh deas 'na thaobh.
 'S mi Oisein an deigh nam Fiann
 Dh' iomairichin sgiath ann catha garg
 Cha toir mi 'n duigh aig meud m 'uile
 Ceum an aghaidh uchd no aird
 Gur mi Oisein bochd mac Fhinn
 'S ann rium leagadh e rùn
 Ach an duigh ge beag mo rath
 'S mi an dara cath bha air thùs.

Dàn an Deirg.

Thainig an Dearg dana Treathal (Druibheil) air la araid asteach air chuan na Eirinn gu glacfadh Eirinn uile, is gu tabhairt fo chios gu h iomlan.

Innis caithream an fhir mhòir
Thainig thugaibh air ceud doigh
'N treun laoch tha làn do ghòil
B' e an Dearg dana mac Treathal
Fuidh aisgill na Fiann is gairbh ghòil
Thogar an Dearg mac Treathal
'N fhoir o thir nam fear fionn
Gu crìochan fuilleach fionn Eirinn
'N geall gaisgich an domhan torr
Bhuineadh an Dearg mac Treathal
Air mheud, air leud, 's air dhealbh 's air dhreach
Air chòmhnadh ceart, 's air chèatfuidh
Dithis laoch nìor chumtha ndhail (sic)
'G amharc chuan chobhar bhan
B' e Raoin rodach mac Fhinn
'S an Caoll crodhà mac Rifin
'N dithis bha fhorior (fair' air) chuan
'S ann thuit iad nan soirn suan
Cha do ghabh iad sgeul an fhir mhoir
Ach gun do e treuchd man ceart choir
Thug an laoch bu ghlaire dreach
Leum e crannuibh chraoslaich
Air a Phairc bhar a snaidh
Air an traidhach gheal ghainnich
Fhalt maoth buidhe mar òr cheard
Os cionn mhala mhin dealbh
Da dhearc shuil, ghorm ghlan
Os geal gnuis a mhilidh
Lann tana gu leadart chuirp
Aig an laoch nach gealtach an combrag
Da shleagh craimhe reamhar catha
An laimh mhic na h ard flattha
Briathra thug an laoch làn
Mun drachadh e air sail
Nach dreug e gun gheill thoirt leis
O gach Fiannuibh 's math dha fheabhas
Thoir sgeul dhuinn, fhir mhòir
Oir sinn tha fhorir a (fair' air o) chuan

Dà mhac rìgh sar mhough (?) sinn (sic)
 Dh' fhiannuibh slàn mhoughs Eirinn
 Tir o'n d thainig mi mi anois
 'S teare aon laoch dan bith m abhnais (sic)
 'S mi 'n Dearg o thir nam fear fionn
 'S mi 'g iarruidh ard' rioghachd Eirinn.
 Dha maith do ghaisgeachd, fhir
 'S ge mhor do bheachd dhe d' fheobhas
 B' iomadh ann Fianuibh Finn
 Laoch dh' fhag air do chomfhadh
 Com'nach feuchmaid re cheile
 'N ar fiabhruis anns an aimhreite
 Thun an Dearg a b' ailde dreach
 Thogair 'n Caoil crodha cathmhor
 Nochd iad lanna tanna
 'N corpuibh caomh crios-gheal
 Bhriseadh iad an earradh gabhaidh
 Air a cheil' anns an t eugbhoile
 Ghlac iad cuim a eheil'
 Anns an iorghail gu aimhreite
 Ach gun do cheangaladh leis an Dearg
 An Caol crodha 's na codhrannan (sic)
 Dh' eirich Raoine an aigne mhir
 'N deis 'n Caol crodha chriplain
 Mac Rìgh na Feinne gu sàr
 Chun an treunfhir chonbhail
 Nochd iad lanna tanna
 'N corpuibh caomh criosgheal
 Bhriseadh iad an earradh gabhaidh
 Air a cheil' anns an teugbhoile
 Ghlac iad cuim a cheil
 Anns an iorghail gu h aimhreite
 Cheangal e 's bu chruaidh an fheum
 Raoine rodach nan luath bheum
 Sgaoil do Chriplain a laoch luim
 'S tog sinne mu da thimchiol
 Gabh briathra dinn ma seach
 Nach tog sinn airm 'n ad aghaidh
 Dh' fhuasgail an curaidh an treas fiach
 Coimbhreabh¹ (sic) na n deas² treun laoch
 Ghabh e briathra dhiubh mar sin
 Nach tog iad airm 'n a aghaidh
 Ghluais e der an sin gu teach an rìgh

Gu tigh Chormaie mhoir theaghlaich
 B' iomadh fear ceann bheirt is sròil
 Bhiodh mu Chormac an ceud doigh
 Bu lionmhor curaidh gun sgàth
 'G amharc chuan a chobhrdha bhain
 'S maith 'n tigeadh duinne 'nall thairis
 Dh' iomairt chleas air Fionn Eirionn
 Ceud chuir teann ri leadurt
 An dearg dhe a mhuinntir
 'S dà cheud eile fuidh gnìoadh dha (sic)
 Chlaidht' leis an Dearg 'n aon là
 Uiread eile ged bhiodh iad ann
 Bhiodh an anam 's an aon bhall.
 Dar chunnaic an Rìgh teann rìgh
 Dichiol an Deirg a leadairt a mhuinntir
 Chuir e teachdair gu luath
 Gu mac Cumhail nam mòr shluagh.
 Mochthra latharn mharach
 Thainig mac Cumhail gu tromdha
 Le naoi mìle gaisgich glan
 Gun easbhuidh sgiath no sgannan (sic)
 Dheagh sluagh mhic Mhoirn nan creach
 Cuirm is poig an teach teann rìgh
 Ceud chuir Fionn leadairt
 An Dearg dhe mhuinntir
 'S dà cheud eile fuidh gnìoadh dha (sic)
 Chlaidht' leis an Dearg an aon là
 Uiread eile ged bhiodh iad ann
 Bhiodh an anam 's an aon bhall.
 Dar chunnaic Fionn nam Fian
 'N Dearg leadairt a mhuinntir
 Bhrosluich e chip catha
 An aghaidh mhic na h ard flath
 Seachd la agus seachd trath
 Gum bonmhuin (sic) mic agus mnà
 Dioladh nam fal gun sgath
 Air a churaidh le còmhnuadh
 Na leigt' suan no codal
 Do rìgh no 'n Dearg gruadh coire
 Ghlacluadh e Eirinn le bheachd
 Agus bhiodh 'n geill a luingeas.
 Greis air uirsgeul 'n an deighs'
 Trian gaisgeachd cha-n innis

THE MAC NICOL COLLECTION.

Of the 2819 lines of heroic poetry which formed the Mac Nicol Collection, Dr Cameron transcribed 1063. This is a very fortunate circumstance, inasmuch as it appears that the Mac Nicol MSS. are now lost, possibly beyond recovery. The following are the pieces which he has transcribed :—

An Ininn.....	106 lines.
Urnidh Ossian.....	146 „
Ossian agus Clerich (Manus)	188 „
Conn Mac an Deirg.....	188 „
Cath na 'n Seiseir.....	62 „
A Chios Chnaimh.....	66 „
Cath Bein Edin.....	112 „
Two Extracts, corrected forms, from
(1) Manus.....	68 „
(2) Ininn.....	22 „
Luidh Fhraoich.....	105 „

Dr Cameron published Mac Nicol's "Urnidh Oisín" in the Scottish Review of October, 1886. He has left corrections of Campbell's text in Leabhar Na Feinne for one poem only, viz., "Ossian and the Cleric" or "Manus." This we reproduce in full. ' Unfortunately Campbell's text is not very accurate, if considered literatim. It is easy to see his mistakes in the case of well known poems, but in the unique poem of "A Chios Chnaimh," as well as one or two more, we subjoin corrections of the most serious errors.
